SHORT TERM OF COURT EXPECTED

GRAND JURY IN SESSION THREE DAYS—COURT EXPECTED TO ADJOURN TODAY UNTIL NEXT THURSDAY.

Boone Circuit Court convened Monday with but few cases on docket, all of which were minor, and from all indications juries will be dismissed today to convene again next Thursday, April 20th, at which time the Florence Fair Grounds case will be heard.

The grand jury was in session only three days, and up to this writing only seven indictments had been returned. Sam and Bill Portwood were indicted on a breaking and entering charge and released on bail of $1,000 each. Jack, Sam and Jess Portwood were indicted on a misdemeanor charge and released on bail of $250.00 each. Jack and Sam Portwood and Joe Miller were also indicted on a second misdemeanor charge and bail was set at $100.00 each, and the third indictment against the same parties, bail was set at $250.00 each.

Filmore Hall was indicted on a charge of chicken stealing in the Constance neighborhood, to which Hall pleaded guilty and bail was set at $1,000.00. Ben Bokelo, Raymond Sams and Jessie Baker were also indicted on breach of the peace. A few other indictments are expected to be returned at this term, none however, of importance.

The grand jury was composed of the following men: Franklin Huey, foreman, Lewis Houston, A. H. Aylor, C. S. Riddell, Cecil Dickerson, Joe Ryan, John Delahunty, Lutz Bradford, R. L. Huey, M. G. Pope, A. J. Ogden, and Geo. Flynn. Petit Jury No. 1: J. T. Blackburn, Albert Galt, W. A. Brown, Nat Rogers, A. Stephens, C. A. Berkshire, Henry Sleet, O. R. Russ, Chas. R. Burris, Eldridge Carpenter, Ira Long and Arthur Gilpin. Petit Jury No. 2: Dolph Seebree, Ben Paddock, D. O. Hudson, C. P. Kinney, Lee Marshall, Walter Lee Sprague, M. L. Crutcher, James Gallenstein, G. K. Taylor, Will Morris, Arnold Alfred and R. C. Garrison.

The first two days of the session, Monday and Tuesday were spent in the case of the Smith vs. Ryle Ewbank, which went to the jury about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon and after about 45 minutes of deliberation the jury returned a verdict in favor of Smith for damages amounting to $1,000.00. The suit was brought following a motorcycle accident which occurred about a year ago on Highway 25 near Richmond, at which time Patrolman Smith was injured.

Fair Grounds Case

To Be Heard Thurs. Hon. Judge J. G. Vallandigham has set the case of the Northern Kentucky Fair vs. The Realty Corporation of Corporation of Thursday, April 20th (next week). All parties who purchased lots in the fair grounds are expected to be present for this hearing.

DIES FOLLOWING AUTO ACCIDENT

CAUSE OF DEATH INVESTIGATED BY KENTON COUNTY CORONER—HAD LIVED IN HEBRON ONLY TWO WEEKS.

James William Howard 49, Hebron, died enroute to Booth Hospital Thursday, after being ill only a short time.

Mr. Howard was involved in an automobile accident Wednesday night at Florence, but returned to his home Thursday morning. The only apparent mark on the victim was a cut on the forehead, Dr. Riffe, Kenton county coroner.

The victim's wife said her husband went to the barn on their farm on Lower River road, near Hebron, Thursday morning to attend to farm chores. A short time later, she said, he returned and complained of feeling ill.

She called a physician and was advised that Mr. Howard should be removed to a hospital. Attached at Booth Hospital reported Mrs. Howard and neighbors brought Mr. Howard to the hospital at 3:30 p. m. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard moved to the Hebron neighborhood from Versailles, only two weeks ago.

Two Robberies Reported While Grand Jury Is In Session

Since the grand jury has been in session this week, it seems that some people are taking advantage of the time to get what they want from the other person. Two robberies have been reported to Sheriff F. M. Walton since court convened Monday.

Thieves entered the meat house of Harold Crigler Monday night and took six cured hams that weighed between 18 and 25 pounds each. The thieves left no clues, and authorities say it will be very hard to trace cured meat.

Tuesday night a man entered the L. C. Rouse Service Station, located at the intersection of 25 and 42, Florence, but was frightened away before he obtained any loot. He was discovered by Guy Aylor, but before aid could be summoned he had made his getaway. He entered the station by breaking a glass window and in his haste left his hack saw and butcher knife behind. Fingerprints were found on the knife, but no definite clues have been found.

Rev. and Mrs. E. K. Kidwell were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Burton, of Florence.

TRACK MEET TO BE HELD APRIL 18

AT HEBRON HIGH SCHOOL GROUNDS—440 YARD RELAY WILL BE SPECIAL EVENT OF MEET.

Boone county schools will participate in the Boone County Conference track meet which will be held at the Hebron high school grounds Tuesday, April 18th, beginning at 1 o'clock P. M.

The track events will include: 100 yard dash, 200 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 800 yard dash, 1 mile run, 440 yard relay.

Field events include shot put, discus, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault. The 440 yard relay is the special event of the meet and will be the last of the program. The cup for this event is given by the County Board of Education and is held by the school winning it for that year. Hebron has won the cup for the last two years. Hebron also won the last year with Burlington second.

Marks that may be lowered this year are 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 relay and running broad jump.

It is doubtful if other records will be set due to bad weather, having kept the boys from practicing.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen entertained Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hore and daughter Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. McMullen and daughter Jessie from Newport and Dayton and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McMullen and son, Leslie Jr.

Business Men To Sponsor Dance

It has been announced this week that the Boone County Business Men's Club will sponsor an after Easter dance at the White Villa Clubhouse on Friday night, April 21st.

The main attraction will be the appearance of the Boone County Jambore boys and girls from WLW for the floor show. Dancing will be from 9:00 p. m. and admission will be 50 cents per person.

Alexander Martin

Alexander Martin, aged 62 years, passed away Saturday night at his home 621 Willow St., Elsmere, Ky., after a short illness. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucy Martin, one son Dalton Martin, two grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters.

Mr. Martin was a member of the Elsmere Baptist Church, a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the Junior Order, Kenton Council No. 25. The Junior Order held their impressive services Monday night at 8 o'clock. Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the Elsmere Baptist Church by the Rev. C. B. Cooks, pastor. Interment followed in Highland cemetery.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the arrangements.

BROWN MAKES FORMAL BOW

OVER STATION WHAS THURSDAY, APRIL 6—NINE POINT PROGRAM OUTLINED IN ANNOUNCEMENT.

Outlining a constructive nine-point program for Kentucky, Former Congressman John Young Brown, Lexington, Thursday formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in a radio address over WHAS, Louisville.

A former Speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives, Mr. Brown's formal announcement followed an enthusiastic endorsement given him March 24, by 107 county chairmen who last summer successfully managed the campaign of Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, and was made after he had received the support of a great number of other prominent in the affairs of the Democratic party throughout the State.

Declaring that he was submitting his proposals for reform in Kentucky government not as a means of platform to get into office, but as a chart of guidance and a pledge of procedure during the four years he is Governor, Mr. Brown said he favored $30 a month old age pensions.

"I pledge to our aged people to pay the full $30 per month and to further match the benefits provided in the Federal Social Security Act for the blind and for dependent children," the speaker declared. "For the next four years our aged citizens shall be given a balanced bid as a substitute for the balanced budget on which they have fasted for the last four years."

On the matter of education, the speaker stated he would recommend the maintenance of the $12 per capita for schools and that the amount be increased, if possible. He also stated that he would recommend the establishment of an emergency fund for the purpose of maintaining a minimum salary schedule for Kentucky teachers of not less than $75 per month.

"I shall completely divorce the boards of our institutions of higher learning from politics in the selection of personnel of the institutions," he asserted.

Saying that for many years Kentucky State employees literally have been slaves of the political system under which they have labored, the candidate stated he favored civil service for state employees. "I shall recommend to the Legislature a complete and progressive civil service system for all State employees, providing for the elimination of political pressure on State employees, their complete removal from politics and the abolition for all time to come the system of assessing State employees for political or private use," the former Speaker said.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williams, of near Hebron entertained Saturday and Sunday, Rev. Lawrence Steele of Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson and daughter, Mrs. Lew Williams, sister and nephew of Mrs. Williams and her daughter, Mrs. L. Kelly, husband and son Billie. Mrs. Kelly was a former reporter for the Boone County Recorder.

TAX INCREASE CONTEMPLATED

TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY TO BE INCREASED 15 PER CENT; LIVE STOCK 5 PER CENT.

County Judge N. E. Riddell has received notice from the State Tax Commission, Frankfort, stating that they are contemplating raising the assessment of tangible personal property 15 per cent or $14,250. The same notice stated that the live stock assessment would be increased 5 per cent or $30,418.

The Commission has set April 19 1939 at their office in Frankfort to hear any objection from any taxpayers in Boone County to the contemplated increase in assessment. County Judge N. E. Riddell, Tax Commissioner, Wilson Stephens, County Attorney Charles W. Riley and County Clerk C. D. Benson will appear before the Commission and protest the proposed increase. Any taxpayer in Boone County may also appear at this time and protest the increase.

MAKES FORMAL BOW

John Young Brown.

Local Boy Is State Utopia Club Champion

Wm. Moore, president of Boone County Utopia Club has been selected as the outstanding 1939 Utopia club member in Kentucky, according to J. W. Whitehouse, State Club Leader. He has been selected as one of two older boy and girl organization members to meet with two delegates each of the Farm Bureau, Farmers Union, Grange and Future Farmer Organizations in Washington, April 24th and 25th to study problems affecting Farm Youth.

Moore has been an outstanding club member. The past years he has conducted pasture improvement, dairy, farm accounts, small fruits, and hybrid corn projects. Recently he was elected secretary of the Boone County Hybrid Corn Growers Association. He is one of the two Utopians selected each year to receive gold medals for outstanding leadership and achievement.

SACKS READY FOR WOOL GROWERS

FIVE HUNDRED SACKS AVAILABLE TO MEMBERS IN VARIOUS PLACES IN COUNTY AT 35 CENTS EACH.

Wool sacks and string for Boone County Wool Pool members are available, according to H. E. White, chairman of the pool. Five hundred sacks and approximately 12,000 strings have been received and left at the following places for delivery to growers: G. L. Guley & Pettit, Burlington, Ky.; Hebron Bank, Hebron, Ky.; Hammond's feed store, Florence, Ky.; Luby's store, Walton, Ky.

Sacks are sold to growers for 35c each and strings at 4c each. When the member delivers his wool and the sack in good condition, he is reimbursed for the sack. Growers pay from 15 to 25 cents per pound for paper twine. If the wool sells at 30 cents per pound, the grower would make 5 to 10 cents on his paper twine used.

Wool producers are urged to use great care in tying up their fleeces. Only paper twine should be used. Binder twine becomes mixed in with the wool fibers, lowering its value and causes it to be sold at a lower price. Care should be used to tag all fleeces and, where possible, pull burs if there are not too many. By producing a higher quality wool, the pool is able to sell at a higher premium. Boone county pooled wool is rated as one of the best in the state.

Clore-Dameron

Miss Zelma Clore and Mr. Wallace Dameron, both of the Rabbit Hash neighborhood motored to Patriot, Ind., Saturday, where they were quickly married. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Clore, and the groom is the son of Mr. Jess Dameron. They will make their home with the bride's parents.

"Lena Rivers" will be given at the Petersburg school house Saturday, April 15th at 8:00 p. m. Here is your chance to see a good play. This entertainment is sponsored by the Bellevue Christian Church. It's a play the whole family will enjoy. Don't miss it Saturday night, April 15th at 8 p. m.

Elsmere Woman Loses Life In Blaze Caused From Lightning Bolt

Mrs. Anna Weichand, 80, died Monday night from burns, after the one-room house in which she lived was struck by lightning.

It was thought that the shock of the lightning bolt had dazed Mrs. Weichand, and she was unable to escape from the burning building.

She had been a residence of Elsmere only six weeks, having moved there from Roadside.

The remains were removed to the funeral home of Philip Tallaferrero for preparation.

Mrs. Ephraim Clore

Mrs. Ephraim Clore, 63, passed away at her in Grant, Sunday evening, after an illness of eight weeks.

Mrs. Clore was a native of Rising Sun, but had been a resident of Grant for many years. She was known and loved by all who had the pleasure of meeting her.

She is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. Chas. Theis, Rising Sun, Ind., one brother Harry Loring, of Elizabethtown, Ohio, and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the Bellevue Baptist Church, with Rev. Raymond Smith, pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Rising Sun cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine Hummel

Mrs. Katherine Hummel, aged 70 years, passed away Friday morning at her home 116 Hubert Ave., Erlanger, after a long illness. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

She is survived by her husband, Wm. P. Hummel; one son Armin Hummel; two daughters, Mrs. Irvin Corsey and Mrs. James Cahill; thirteen grandchildren; 6 sisters and two brothers. Mrs. Hummel had lived in Erlanger for 40 years.

Funeral was from the late residence with requiem high mass at St. Henry's Church on Monday at 9 o'clock. Interment following in Highland cemetery.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Former Boone Countian Pays Recorder Visit

B. D. Adams, of Crittenden was a brief caller at the Recorder office Friday. Mr. Adams stated that he placed an advertisement in our paper several weeks ago and after the paper was out on Thursday, he sold the sheep advertised on Monday to a Boone County man.

Mr. Adams is a native of Boone county, having been born and reared near Hathaway. He left this county forty-eight years ago, moving to Grant county, where he now resides.

Mr. Adams' many friends in Burlington were glad to see him again, and to see that he is enjoying the best of health.

EGG MARKET TOUR PLANNED

BY BOONE COUNTY POULTRYMEN MAY 4TH—CINCINNATI HOUSES TO BE VISITED, ACCORDING TO COUNTY AGENT.

Boone county poultrymen are planning a tour of the Cincinnati egg and poultry market on May 4th, according to H. E. Foraker, county agent. Plans for holding the tour were made at the annual winter poultry school held last January.

Wholesale Commission merchants, the Cincinnati Producers Exchange and the Cooperative Pure Milk Association egg grading plant will be visited on the tour. Both the poultry and marketing department field agents of the University of Kentucky will accompany poultrymen on the tour and lead in discussion on market outlook and market practices.

Poultrymen of Kenton and Campbell counties have been extended an invitation to take part in the tour. Everyone interested is invited to attend and take part in the meeting. Further details may be secured at the county agent's office in Burlington.

COURT OFFICIALS PRAISED IN LETTER FROM AUDITOR

Is One of Best Managed Counties in State, According to Auditor—Says Sound Business Methods Used by Officials

Officials of the Boone County officials were highly pleased with a letter received from Nat B. Sewell, Director of Post Audits, in which he praised the officials for the efficient manner in which the county's business had been conducted during the past year.

Boone County is one of the best county's in the state financially, which is largely due to the fact that county officials have used the taxpayers' money to the best advantage. Judge Riddell, who has been County Judge for the past thirty years has supervised the county's business and is probably responsible for the splendid financial condition the county now boasts.

Those who have served with Judge Riddell as members of the HIGHWAY ASS'N. TO VISIT CAPITAL

IN EFFORT TO HAVE NEW HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTED OR IMMEDIATE REPAIRS TO OLD U. S. 25.

At a meeting of U. S. Highway 25 Association of Northern Kentucky held at Dry Ridge Tuesday night of last week the organization decided to send a delegation, representing each town from Covington to Williamstown, inclusive to Frankfort to confer with State Highway Department officials.

An effort will be made by this group to have the department construct a new highway along the present U. S. Route 25, or immediately repair the present road from Florence to Williamstown.

The U. S. Highway Association of Northern Kentucky was formed following reports of a proposed new roadways from Williamstown to Covington. The reported plans for the road would take it from the present route, missing Boone County, Erlanger, Elsmere and several towns in Grant County.

The conference is for the purpose of setting forth the reasons for maintaining the present route. If no satisfaction is gained thru this method, the delegation then will urge immediate work to make the present road a "passable road." The next regular meeting of the association will be held in Williamstown May 3rd.

George R. Smith

George R. Smith, 64, passed away Thursday, April 6th at his home, Union, Boone County, after a few days' illness from pneumonia.

He leaves his widow Anna Newcomb Smith, four sons, 3 daughters 15 grandchildren, two great grandchildren and two sisters to mourn his going.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 2:00 p. m. at the Richmond Presbyterian church, with Rev. Roy Johnson, officiating. Interment was in the Richmond cemetery.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Rev. R. Lee James is the Scoutmaster and Robert Clore, E. M. Poston and Wilton Stephens compose the troop committee. Scouts Bobby Clore, Nelson Poston, Leland Ryle, Emil King, Calvin Kelly, Marvin Elalog, Ferd Clore and one other whose name we were unable to obtain will receive their membership certificates and pledged to abide by the scout oath and law.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Moore spent Sunday visiting in Warsaw.

fiscal court for the past year are Hubert White, Howard Huey and Everett Jones.

The letter follows: "Judge N. E. Riddell "Judge Boone County Court "Burlington, Kentucky.

"Dear Judge Riddell: "In checking over our office files of county audit reports, I find that we failed to send you a copy of our latest report upon Boone County, as is our custom. I am, therefore, enclosing herewith a copy for permanent file, either in your office or in that of the County Clerk. I trust that you and your associates may find this report of some interest and help in completing the work of your fiscal administration in the present year and in setting up your budget for the next fiscal year.

"When our examiner, Mr. J. L. Riehm, submitted his report upon Boone county for the last fiscal year, he wrote as follows: 'It is a short story as far as this county is concerned, as this report will show. It is one of the best managed counties in the State.'

"Since I fully agree with Mr. Riehm, I can think of nothing more appropriate to say than 'Keep up the good work.' Certainly, it must be gratifying and encouraging to all concerned to observe the progress of a county government of such high caliber. In this year to apply sound business principles in the conduct of its business and to keep its feet firmly upon the ground in matters of policy and practices that determine, or affect, the results of governmental operation, in this connection, I should be greatly pleased to see a good many other Kentucky counties follow the good example that has been set, and consistently maintained, by Boone County.

"Our Examiner has discussed in person with several of the county officials certain procedures in the keeping of budget records in which practical improvements can be, and should be, made. I sincerely trust that our next examination will show that these improvements have been accomplished.

"Please be assured that it is a pleasure again to commend you and your official associates for the very excellent work you have done and to thank you for the splendid co-operation that you have given this Department in its work. If you feel that we can be of assistance to your administration at any time, please do not hesitate to call upon us.

"With best wishes, I am Sincerely yours, Nat B. Sewell Director of Post Audits."

CONSTANCE MAN TAKEN FOR RIDE

THUGS IN NEWPORT SUNDAY—NO ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB HIM, MCGLOSSON REPORTED.

Paul McGlosson, well known Constance man was kidnapped by two men Sunday in Newport. The victim said he stopped his auto to observe a stop sign at the Newport end of the Veterans' Memorial Bridge when the two men approached the car. He said one of the men seized him about the neck and dragged him into the rear seat while the other climbed into the driver's seat and drove off.

After driving about the city for sometime, McGlosson said his captors stopped the auto at Seventh and Monmouth streets. Freeing himself, he jumped from the auto and ran into a restaurant to summon police. The thugs abandoned the automobile and fled.

He said he was threatened and choked by the men, but no attempt was made to rob him.

FREE SPEECH

Americans pride themselves upon their Bill of Rights which gives them the privilege of free speech. And there are but few Americans who do not exercise the privilege and many who abuse it. There was a recent meeting in New York and several other large cities, where pro-Nazi Germans gathered to instigate and excite class hatred. The meeting was held without objection of the public officials and there was slight interference by outside forces. There are many public-minded Americans who object to such a gathering. Of course we must remember that another Americanism is the right of assembly and to prevent it would be to play into alien hands. One cannot be surprised if citizens do make demonstrations against such a group, with such a purpose. America has been very lenient in allowing utterances against their government, but they will not take too much. They realize that each man has the right to state his opinions regarding national conditions, but will these Americans remain passive when a meeting tries to destroy a government where free speech is made possible? What to do in the matter of permitting such gatherings is a real problem for public officials to solve.

HOMES FOR ALL

It was just before the World War that we purchased reliable autos for less than $500. It had been predicted in about 1904 that such an inexpensive means of transportation would come to pass. You can well imagine the denials and the disbelief that such a rumor would cause among a doubting public. To think of an auto within the reach of most everyone—impossible! Experts agreed it could not be done but we did it.

Now in the Boone County who do not know or have not seen the prefabricated houses that are going up throughout the country? These houses are offered for rent at $10 and $15 a month. The various sections of the houses are built in a factory and are put together easily by unskilled labor in a few hours. We hear of a quantity production house built of glue and wood. Today, they build you a house while you wait. But copy if only one car was manufactured the price you would have to pay at a time. Why not put house production on a vast basis? There are skeptical minds, but we shall wait and see if the outcome is not most satisfactory. We may live to see the day when a small community will be built at one time.

WITH JUSTICE

We are apt to overlook real-life drama while we read of tales of adventure. The true story of a chief of a police force who had served eleven months in a penitentiary for embezzlement fifteen years before he served as a police officer, makes good reading. This man, after serving his prison sentence in one state, went to another to live. Here he won the respect of the citizens and eventually became chief of the police department. As such things go, one day the people were made aware of the previous record of their chief. In many communities this would have been the end of the story. But this city forgot the past record and remembered the present record of service, honesty and integrity of their chief. He was voted to continue in office. There are many cases of men beginning over again, of living a new life. They often need our help.

NIGHT WALKING

One of our states has introduced a piece of legislation requiring pedestrians to carry red reflectors when walking on the highways at night. There will be a problem in enforcing such a law but it is a step in controlling night traffic fatalities. There is usually an increased speed at night in zones carefully marked. It is difficult to see someone on the road dressed in dark clothes. Black pavements and bad weather conditions tend to give the pedestrian less of a chance during the dark hours. There are more drunken drivers at night and this is an important factor in traffic accidents as all our readers know. There are rules governing those riding bicycles at night and a pedestrian is harder to see than a cyclist.

OUR HEROES

Oh to be as popular as the wooden dummy named McCarthy! It is the famed Charlie who recently moved them down when he arrived by train in New York, with his mouth-piece Edgar Bergen. A headline, the nation's favorite radio artist, the love of young and old, this toast of the town has won all hearts. When you realize that Walt Disney has had some of his drawings hung in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, that a cartoon named after a wooden dummy hero with Charlie McCarthy and that a contented Ferdinand the Bull is coming into his own, you know that Americans are pleased with the simple and wholesome things. We rather like bowing to a man and a wooden dummy more than to a soldier. We would rather smell the flowers with Ferdinand than watch the marching feet.

RABBIT HASH

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

Most primary campaigns are built on promises, of future jobs, or retention of present jobs, or politicians and party workers who actually represent about 5 per cent of the votes in Kentucky, but because of their interest and activity, swing about 60 per cent of the voting strength.

There are two major factions in the Democratic Party, the Administration who deal out the State jobs and the anti-administration who shuffle the Federal jobs. Until the "New Deal" the State machine controlled elections, the State and Federal jobs were controlled by Federal job holders, and the Senators and Congressmen usually played with or were a part of the State machine. With the advent of the "New Deal" the picture was changed and the State and Federal jobs are close to equality, the Federal machine in a number of instances beating the State machine.

As we mentioned above, the employees and politicians, 5 per cent of the voting strength, swing about 60 per cent of the voters in the primary, the remaining 35 per cent are the balance of power. They are the larger percentage of the rural population and the small business men who are not influenced by machines and politicians, form their own opinions from what they see, hear and read, and are not so easily swayed by the politicians and machines.

In the coming primary, Keen Johnson is handicapped by being with the present administration which was soundly beaten in the last Senate race. He is counting on a large number of votes from outside this fold. As the Administration jobs are all filled at this time and he needs the support of these job holders, he can not afford to promise their jobs to those outside the fold to court their support. He has chosen the wisest of his dilemma and is making no promises.

To counter balance this handicap, he has the support of a large number of newspaper editors who go a long way in helping to swing the opinions of the above mentioned 35 per cent balance of power.

John V. Brown is considered by many to be a better campaigner and has the tempting prospect of all the State jobs to offer to his friends and supporters as well as the powerful "I" machine back of him, but many businessmen and farmers look askance when his name is mentioned, because of his connection with Labor Unions and the C. I. O.

These are the battle lines and the seige on Kentucky voters is about to begin.

Random Shots

Charles D. Amers opened his campaign for Governor last week with a brass band and a large crowd. He is gaining some strength.

Tyler Munford, publisher from Morganfield and State representative is going to handle the publicity for Johnson's campaign. It is rumored. It would be a wise choice.

William E. Porter, Judge Cooper, Judge Swope and Mayor Smith are all running for Governor on the Republican ticket. Their party seems to have a good chance in the election and should get together on a candidate.

PAUL ESTABLISHES CHURCHES
LESSON TEXT—Acts 14:1-7, 19-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and built thereon, but let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon. —1 Corinthians 3:10.

"Onward, Christian soldiers," says the well-known hymn, thus expressing the faith that Christianity is engaged in a relentless warfare against the world, the flesh, and the devil. Those who conceive of their relationship to the church as a convenient and comfortable social arrangement, with a bit of spiritual flavor but no responsibility, have none of the Spirit of Christ, or of His bondservant Paul, who are now studying. Phillips Brooks was right when he said, "If Christian faith does not culminate in the effort to make Christ known to all the world, that faith appears to me to be a thoroughly unreal and insignificant thing, destitute of power, and incapable of being convincingly proved to be true."

Paul and his co-workers pressing on from Cyprus to Antioch in Pisidia, to Iconium, to Lystra, and to Derbe. Joy and sorrow, fellowship and hatred, came and went, but the witness for Christ went on. Our lesson can best be considered as a study in contrasts.

I. Belief and Unbelief (vv. 1, 2). "I studied both of the Jews and the Greeks believed." What joy that must have brought to the preacher. "Unbelieving Jews" and Gentiles with "minds evil affected"—how are we now studying a result of Paul's heart. The same division prevails today. There are only two kinds of people in the world, the believer and the unbeliever.

II. Popularity and Persecution (vv. 3, 4). "The multitude was divided." Paul knew all about that, so does every faithful teacher and preacher of the gospel. Paul and Barnabas were made ready for the experience which they were to have at Lystra where the healing of the crippled man first brought them worship as gods, and then bitter persecution. The same experience is more appealing to the Christian worker than popularity, and possibly none is more treacherous. Let us labor to please God, not men, and when men give us the accolade let us like Paul urge them to "turn from these vanities to the living God" (v. 15).

III. Boldness and Caution (vv. 5, 6). The persecution at Iconium only made the messengers bold in their purpose to stay on (v. 3), giving testimony to God's grace. The Christian worker need not be afraid of the devices of evil men so long as God leads him to stand his ground. Christian testimony calls for courage. He must be ready to stand away from the place of safety and 6 we find the preachers fleeing to another city. Is their courage gone? No. They are exercising God-given judgment and caution. "Sometime we will have occasion to flee away your life for Jesus; but if it can be preserved without shrinking do it is better to flee than to die." A voluntary martyr is a suicide when he gives up the cause he is called to follow. He should ever accompany a trustful daring, and both are best learned in communion with Jesus" (Alexander MacLaren).

IV. Death and Life (vv. 19, 20). The persecution at Lystra culminated in the stoning of Paul and his being left for dead. Some believe that he really died and had the glorious experience recorded in 1 Corinthians 15:2-5 before he was raised by God from the dead. Be that as it may, God miraculously brought the dead or apparently dead man back to life and vigor, and on he went to the city of Derbe. Those of us who belong to Christ and serve Him should recognize that our very lives are in His blessed hand. Our purpose should be to glorify Him, whether by life or by death.

V. Advance and Return (vv. 21-23). The work of God is not completed by the pioneering forward thrust into the strongholds of Satan. That work is necessary, and just now men are desperately needed to do such work in heathen lands. Women shame the men by their willingness to go where missionary boards can only send men, who are all too often lacking.

On the other hand, there is no more important work than that of confirming and establishing new Christians in their faith. Paul and Barnabas were not making a retreat. They were courageously returning to the stoning and the hatred of the cities they had served in order to give counsel and encouragement to the believers. Note that they ordained elders, evidently consummating some form of church organization. Sometimes one becomes so tired of intricate church machinery that the tendency is to wish there were none at all, but here again we need to be balanced in our thinking and acting.

FOOT TEST

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

Now friends I am going to ask you to do something which I think will give you the answer to the trouble you are having with your feet.

No, you must do just as I say so you will understand what I mean when I say... Most All Weak Feet Roll Inward. Now, friends take off both shoes right now. Please stand up, both feet side by side about six to eight inches apart with the same amount of weight on each foot. Now, this is important! Relax all muscles in your feet and legs. About 7 out of 10 of you will find that your feet go down on the inside, some of them all the way down to the floor. You probably have one of the four stages of weak feet... first degree, about 1/4 way down; second degree, about 1/2 way down; and fourth degree, all the way down on what is commonly known as flat foot.

But, here's the important thing for you to remember, two important things in fact; when your feet roll inward and go down, you are shutting off the nerve and blood supply going into the bottom of your feet. The result is poor blood circulation which often lets chemical deposits or waste matter form at the joints of your feet and lower limbs.

Now, the second important thing is this, weak, inrolling feet also cramp nerves, then through nerve releases, some weaker part of the body is usually affected. Remember, when you cramp the nerves in your feet, you cause reflexes to be sent to some other part of the body that is more sensitive and has less resistance. Then old mother nature gives right back at you with backaches, headaches or something worse. If you are not sure about the condition of your feet, go where retained foot comfort specialists will make a thorough scientific analysis of your feet.—Adv.

TO CLEAN RUGS

It is best to send rugs to a cleaning establishment. But if you do it yourself see first if the dyes will run or fade. There are many good rug cleaners on the market. You can use a thick suds of a good soap if you prefer. Use a sponge or brush and apply with a circular motion. Keep lather thick using suds rather than water. Rinse several times with clean cloth and clear water. Over lap your strokes. Dry quickly.

RECORDS HELD CONFIDENTIAL

Women who have married since obtaining social security account numbers may correct the records of the federal agency to show their married names, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Covington, Kentucky field office of the Social Security Board. This local office has a form which is used to make these corrections. Employers are not advised of such changes, the purpose being merely to keep records of the social security board accurate and up to date, to expedite payment of future old-age insurance benefits.

Mr. Decker further stated that there are now 43,000,000 persons in the United States to whom social account numbers have been issued. It is estimated that more than 22,000 persons residing in the area served by the Covington, Kentucky field office are holders of these account numbers.

Many persons do not understand the difference between old-age insurance and old-age assistance plans, both of which are created under the Social Security Act. For this purpose, the Social Security Board has printed a pamphlet which explains what persons are eligible for old-age insurance, also the old-age assistance program now in operation in this state. Copies of this booklet may be had without cost by writing to Mr. Decker at his office in the Post Office Building in Covington, Kentucky.

CONSTANCE P-T. A.

The next meeting of the Constance P-T. A. will be held April 19th at 2 p. m. After the business session, refreshments will be served. Since this is the last meeting this year, let's have a large attendance.

On April 27th there will be a free entertainment at the school house followed by a baked ham supper sponsored by the P-T. A.

If women would stick to one style long enough, maybe men could get used to anything, even their hats as funny as they are.

Who knows most about Building cars?

Ford has built more than one-third of all the automobiles ever built in the world

THERE are more Ford cars in use today than any other make. And there are more Ford V-8s than any other 8-cylinder car.

The 1939 Ford V-8 represents the broadest experience in building cars any manufacturer ever had. You will find values in it far beyond what any other maker can put into a car at the low Ford price.

Ford performance, traditional for a generation, has reached new heights in the 1939 V-8.

And now Ford style leadership is equally outstanding. "The smartest cars on the road" is the way owners describe their new Fords. Smartest in action. Smartest in appearance. Leaders, as they deserve to be.

FORD V-8

APRIL IS FORD INVITATION MONTH! Your Ford dealer invites you to drive America's most modern low-priced car. Make a date for a new experience.

Look at these FORD FEATURES

• STYLE LEADERSHIP—The luxury car in the low-price field.

• V-TYPE 8 CYLINDER ENGINE—Eight cylinders give smoothness. Small cylinders give economy.

• HYDRAULIC BRAKES—Easy-acting—quick, smooth stops.

• TRIPLE-CUSHIONED COMFORT—New flexible roll-edge seat cushions, soft transverse springs, double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers.

• STABILIZED CHASSIS—No front-end bobbing or dipping. Level starts, level stops, level ride.

• SCIENTIFIC SOUNDPROOFING—Noises hushed for quiet ride.

• LOW PRICES—Advertised prices include many items of desirable equipment.

53 Tons Phosphate Ordered Last Tuesday

Fifty-three tons of 47 per cent superphosphate were ordered Tuesday for farmers cooperating in the AC program, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The phosphate will be used for improving grass and legume crops.

NOTICE

On April 25, 1939 the undersigned as Guardian of Robert Surface will file a settlement in the Boone County Court.

L. C. Beemon, Guardian.

Boone county farmers to date have received 158 tons and the Tuesday order brings the total to 211 tons ordered this spring. Last year farmers used 403 tons of phosphate on soil conserving crops. Because the supply is expected to be exhausted before many weeks, it is doubtful if this many tons will be used in 1939.

Farmers expecting to use phosphate under the AC program later in the year should leave their order at the county office at the earliest possible date. Orders received in the near future will, in all probability, be filled.

Third Session Of Scout Training To Be Held April 18

The third session of the Boy Scout Leadership training course will be held at the court house, Tuesday, April 18, 7:15 p. m. All local scouts and friends are invited and the instructor will be C. J. Tinklenberg, Scoutmaster of Grant.

Previous sessions have been well attended and this meeting will conclude the "Introduction to Scouting" course.

Drivers License Are Revoked For 30 Days Following Arrest

Doren Duncan, of Warsaw had his driver's license revoked for 30 days, fined $19.50 and given a 30-day probation jail sentence recently, after being tried in Judge Beall's court on a charge of reckless driving.

Duncan was arrested by patrolmen Carr and Winterberg in Galatin county.

HISTORY OF OLD KENTUCKY HOMES AND GARDENS PUBLISHED

Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson Thomas, wife of Justice Augustus Thomas of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, Frankfort, is author of what is said to be the most pretentious and beautifully illustrated volume of Kentuckiana ever turned out by the Standard Printing Co., Louisville.

"Old Kentucky Homes and Gardens," in the preparation of which Mrs. Thomas spent several years, is a 4 to volume of 216 pages and 177 illustrations of homes and gardens of unusual beauty and historic interest. The first edition of this work, limited to 250 numbered and signed copies, came off the Standard presses last week in a full cloth binding with decorative end paper and pictorial dust wrapper. Names of subscribers also are printed in this first edition.

The text, as well as illustrations, is typically arranged and covers the period from the entrance of the first pioneers through Cumberland Gap up to the present, and will prove of vital interest to all who love the traditions of Kentucky. The purpose of this work, it is stated, is to preserve for all time the beauty and artistry of famous Old Kentucky Homes and gardens.

D. B. G. Rose, of the Standard Printing Co., says of the author: "Her interesting background has already qualified her to gather together the material necessary for this work. Dr. William M. Patterson, the father of the author, was a Methodist missionary to Mexico and Venezuela, and a man of extraordinary culture. Mrs. Thomas spent much of her early life in Mexico, during its most colorful period, the last years of Porfirio Diaz. She possesses the rare faculty of being able to communicate to others with unusual fluency all the knowledge she has gained from her liberal studies. Her cultural background includes associations with diplomats and statesmen of many lands."

"And as the author of 'Old Kentucky Homes and Gardens,' Mrs. Thomas has made a valuable contribution to the archives of historical societies on colonial homes and gardens, and to the garden Clubs of America, on past and present gardens of the South."

CHANGING TIRES

Changing positions of tires each 5,000 miles increases the life of your four tires. Move both front tires to same positions on rear wheels and cross rear tires to front position. This equalizes wear from crowned roads and unevenly rotating wheels. Another plan is to reverse the running of the front tires direction before mounting them on the rear wheels.

INSPIRATIONAL

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. The entrance of such a person into a room is as if another candle had been lighted.

GRAYSON BOY STATE

4-H CORN CHAMPION

Producing 93 bushels of corn on an acre won for Brownie Bolton, 16-year-old Grayson county boy, the Kentucky 4-H club corn growing championship for 1938 and a place in the State's Junior Hall of Fame.

Having Super-Prolific corn was planted on good soil that had been treated with limestone, superphosphate and manure, and then 100 pounds of fertilizer was placed in the corn rows. The stalks grew 12 to 18 feet high, with two to seven ears per stalk.

Dry weather and storms damaged the crop; otherwise Brownie believes he would have produced 125 bushels on the acre. In 1937 Brownie produced 101 bushels on an acre, and was second in the state 4-H club corn growing contest.

Second place in the 1938 contest went to 13-year-old James O. Davis, of Bell county. His acre of Tennessee Red Cob yielded 79 bus.

H. G. Smith and Sons sold high-quality white-faced steers for a record price in Taylor county.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday
April 18, 19, 20—"Honolulu"

Blazing six-shooters, thundering hooves, a damsel in distress and a two-fisted western bent on revenge sums up briefly George O'Brien's newest RKO Radio outdoor drama, "Lawless Valley," to be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Friday and Saturday.

The story centers on the stormy experiences of O'Brien as a victimized young homesteader whose property is coveted by a rival rancher and his son. In order to gain it, the ruthless pair murder O'Brien's father, and contrive to have the young man sent to prison for robbing a stage-coach of $50,- 000, a crime they commit themselves.

Douglas comedy opus which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday, might have been subtitled, "Thunder Over America" so loud have been the laughs, cheers and bravos that have greeted its exhibition.

It is getting quite unnecessary in reviewing a Columbia comedy to state that that amazing studio has done it again.

The story, a sparkling screen adaptation by Gladys Lehman of Wilson Collison's riotous magazine story, concerns the slightly mad doings of Joan Blondell as a dime-novel detective with a "Cafe Society" complex. Of course there is always Melvyn Douglas, too.

If it's fun you want, folks—and who doesn't?—then the next stop is "Honolulu." That's the picture which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will offer at the Gayety Theatre April 18th, 19th and 20th.

Eleanor Powell gives you taps to top all musicals. Robert Young, George Burns and Gracie Allen are with her. The most famous of all Hawaiian native orchestras, Andy Tona's Islanders, gives authentically to the musical background of the hula numbers.

"Honolulu," friends is the gayesty island and earth and it's surrounded by water, naturally. But "Honolulu"—the picture—is even gayer and it's completely surrounded by music and dancing, comedy and beauty.

You'll see—and hear—Eleanor Powell in a spectacular imitation of Bill Robinson's famous stair dance. Gracie Allen sings the theme song, "Honolulu." Other song hits include "This Night Will Be My Souvenir" and "The Leader Doesn't Like Music," and the massed orchestra of real Hawailians gives you the island's traditional "Hymn to the Sun."

AT THE JAMES

WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, April 14th and 15th—"The Dawn Patrol," Errol Flynn, Basil Rathbone, David Niven. They roared into each blood-red dawn on fighting wings of glory. Gay, reckless, gallant, they fought, these eagles, for women they had never seen, and for the love they might never know.

Sunday, April 16th—"Tail Spin" with Alice Faye, Constance Bennett, Nancy Kelly, Chas. Farrell.
Smashing romantic melodrama of three women of the sky. Brave, young, beautiful. They take the gamble they can lose only once.
They seek love with their own kind, the men who race the skies.

Monday, April 17th—"Private Number," with Loretta Young and all star cast. Packed with mystery and thrills—be sure to see this picture.

Tuesday, April 18th—"Prairie

Justice" with Bob Baker, Dorothy Fay. He cleaned out a nest of bandits... and cracked every bad egg in it. It's smashing... pounding... lightning-Hoff drama.

Wednesday, April 19th—"One Third of a Nation" with Sylvia
Sidney, Lela Erickson, Myron Mc-Cormick. The true story of "Dead End" folks... where men fight for life... women pray for love... and kids learn how to break the law.

Thursday, April 20—"The Strange
Case of Dr. Meade," with Jack
Holt, Beverly Roberts, Noah Beery, Jr. Facing the fury of a thousand mountain furies... to save them against the odds. Mighty story of a doctor not too proud to fight.

When it comes to making a date with some girls, they are more concerned with what is in his car's garage than what is on his mind.

CIRCUIT COURT NOW IN SESSION

SEVERAL CASES TO BE HEARD TODAY—NORTH KENTUCKY FAIR GROUNDS CASE TO BE HEARD THURSDAY.

The April term of the Boone Circuit Court reconvened Wednesday morning after adjournment since last Thursday. Several cases were heard Wednesday, among which were the trial of Jack, Jess, and Sam Portwood and Joe Miller charged with petty larceny, and Joe Miller, Jess and Jack Portwood were tried on a charge of felony, the outcome of which we are unable to report, due to going to press Wednesday at noon.

The first case to be held this morning (Thursday) was a test case in which it was to be determined whether the town of Florence shall be permitted to annex a part of Sanders Drive.

The second case scheduled for Thursday was the North Kentucky Fair vs. Corinth Realty Co.

The cases mentioned above are the only ones on docket at the present, and if no further business comes before the court, the session will end either Thursday afternoon or Friday.

Thirty-Six Chickens Stolen From Lewis Riddle Sunday Night

Thieves entered the chicken house of Lewis Riddle, of the Burlington-Florence Pike, near Florence Sunday night and took approximately thirty-six White Rock and White Leghorn chickens. The theft was reported to Sheriff F. M. Walton, but no trace of the thieves has been found.

Corn Breeders Report Splendid Success In Sales

Boone county hybrid corn seed producers report splendid success in the sale of hybrid corn seed. The breeders, the past year, produced approximately 350 bushels of approved double crossed seed, to date practically all of this has been sold. A large amount was sold to growers in adjoining counties.

Charter members of the Boone County Hybrid Corn Breeders Association are E. C. Stephens, William Moore, H. Crigler and Lloyd Siekman. The association plans to grow 13 acres of hybrid seed in 1939. The varieties to be grown are U. S. 13, U. S. 44, Indiana 820, Indiana 845 and Kentucky No. 69.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cropper and daughter and Miss Geraldine Yelton spent last Thursday shopping in the city.

400 QUAIL ARE DISTRIBUTED

IN BOONE COUNTY BY FISH AND GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION—ALL SECTIONS RESTOCKED.

Four hundred quail were distributed in Boone County over the week-end by the Fish and Game Protective Association.

The birds arrived in Burlington Friday morning by truck and were divided among the precinct committee for distribution. Out of the 400 birds only thirty-nine were dead, according to officers in charge.

All sections of the county were restocked by this supply of quail, and it is thought that the county will be well supplied when the seasons opens in November of this year.

Committees from the various precincts studied their respective sections for proper planting of these birds, selecting farms which would furnish plenty of food, cover and water. Through this method of planting it is expected that benefits will be greater than ever before, and the bird supply will be materially increased.

Due to the heavy rains Friday many of the committees held their birds over until Saturday before releasing them. However, bird hunters stated that it was very doubtful that any of the birds would suffer injury from the rain, due to the fact that they were released near good cover.

Boone Man Broods 4700 Baby Chicks In Colony Brooder Houses

Grant Maddox, of near Florence, has 4700 baby chicks being brooded in colony brooder houses under the Kentucky Clean Chick program plan, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. This is the largest poultry enterprise in Boone county and one of the largest in Kentucky.

Maddox is one of the most successful commercial poultrymen in the State. He breeds, hatches and develops his laying stock carefully following the five-point clean chick program, namely: (1) Clean chicks, (2) clean brooding equipment, (3) clean ground, (4) balanced rations and (5) careful management. Plans of the Clean Chick Program in Poultry Leaflet No. 4 are available at the County Office.

Two Boone County Farms Sold This Week

John Delahunty, Florence realtor reported Monday that he had sold two farms this week.

The J. W. Howard farm, consisting of 147 acres, near Union, was sold to J. W. O'Hara, Covington. Mr. O'Hara is now occupying the farm.

The Dr. Crouch farm, consisting of 95 acres near Bullittsville, was sold to Taylor Powell, of Ludlow. He will move to his new property this week, Mr. Delahunty said.

We welcome these men into our county.

DISTRICT MEETING OF HOMEMAKERS

TO BE HELD IN NEWPORT NEXT WEEK—LOCAL WOMAN TO BE ON PROGRAM—REGISTRATION SET FOR 9:30 A. M.

The annual meeting of the Blue Grass District of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers will be held at Newport, Wednesday, April 26th. Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties will serve as hostesses for the convention.

The meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church, corner of 8th and York Sts., Newport, Ky. Registration starts at 9:30 a. m. (Central Time) and the program starts at 10:00 a. m.

Speakers will include Mrs. H. L. Crawford, Henderson county, president of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers; Mrs. Raymond Sayre, Ackworth, Iowa, president of the National Guild of Master Farm Homemakers; Dr. Roberta Ma of China, and the following Kentucky Homemakers: Mrs. Albert Schabell, Campbell county; Mrs. Earl Broadhouse, Garrard county; Mrs. T. L. Loyd, Mason county; Mrs. John Cox, Jr., Jessamine county; Mrs. Graham Young, Bourbon county; Mrs. Bluch Rich, Kibb county; Mrs. West Dye, Mason county; Mrs. Tom Doolin, Fayette county; Mrs. Everett Dye, Lincoln county; Mrs. Will Tribble, Madison county; Mrs. John Combs, Jessamine county; Mrs. Sam Sleet, Boone county and Mrs. W. A. Brennan, Clark county.

Music will be furnished by Homemakers from Bourbon and Garrard counties. Mrs. J. A. Stevens, Clark county, director of the district will preside.

This is the first time that Northern Kentucky has had the opportunity to serve as hostess for the district meeting, according to Mary Hood Gillespie, home demonstration agent.

Homemakers of Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties are making all arrangements for the meeting. Lunch will be served by three churches near the Baptist Church. Homemakers of Boone county who want luncheon reservations are asked to notify Miss Gillespie by Saturday, April 22nd.

Teachers To Hold Annual Picnic Sat.

Teachers from practically every school in Boone county will gather Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. at the Hebron high school for their annual picnic. According to D. H. Morris, Superintendent of Schools, the teachers of the county gather each year for a social get-together at which time games and lunch are enjoyed.

Miss Ethel Ryle spent Saturday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Williamson of Petersburg.

84 STUDENTS TO GRADUATE

FROM BOONE COUNTY SCHOOLS—COMMENCEMENT ACTIVITIES WILL BE HELD NEXT WEEK.

The commencement activities of five of the six schools will get under way next week in which 71 students will participate. The Walton-Verona school will not close until the latter part of May, although they have already made preparations for their closing school exercises.

Hebron leads all schools in the county this year with twenty-eight high school graduates. The New Haven school has their largest class for many years, numbering twelve. This brings the total graduates for this school to 71 in the last eight years.

Bellevue School Presents Program Thursday Night

"Over The Garden Wall," an operetta embracing 52 children is scheduled for 7:45 Thursday night at the Bellevue school house.

Much preparation and stage setting demands that this be the outstanding program of the year. The public is invited and the school needs your patronage.

The program will be prefaced by the local Boy Scouts in a demonstration of their achievements. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

Deufel Property To Be Sold At Auction Friday, April 21st

Walter D. Vest, Trustee in Bankruptcy, has ordered the real estate and personal property of John and Emma Deufel, at Richmond, Boone County, to be sold at auction tomorrow, Friday, April 21, at 10 a. m. central standard time. The sale will be conducted on the premises by the R. G. Kinnman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppin Building, Covington.

The land is divided into 11 tracts. Tract No. 1 has 102.67 acres and is known as the Deufel Nursery. Land is improved, and has a large residence, barn, etc. No. 2, on the Richmond-Beaver pike, has 98.75 acres, with barn and spring house. ERLANGER CLUB CENTER PLANNED BUILDING UNDER OPTION ON CRESCENT AVENUE—PARK TO BE USED FOR PLAYGROUND FOR CHILDREN.

The Erlanger Community Club announced Thursday last week it had taken a four-month option on a large house at 20 Crescent Ave., Erlanger, which it hopes can be purchased and made into a community center.

Plans were also revealed to use the park between Crescent avenue and the Southern Railroad, for softball diamonds and a 100 by 200-foot plot on Bartlett avenue for other outings.

The announcements were made at the club's quarterly meeting at Lloyd High School, with President R. C. McNay in charge.

A feature of the session was a talk on "Mark Twain" by Rev. R. C. Jarman, Cincinnati, and entertainment by two dancers from the Schuster-Marion School. Reports all committees were made for past three months' work.

Discussing the proposed community building, President McNay revealed the club does not have money at present to purchase the building. He said, however, that if all individuals and organizations in the city back the movement, the deal can be completed.

The plans outlined were that any organization could use the building for entertainment of any sort. A kitchen, dining room, recreation hall and other features would be arranged. Also proposed was a swimming pool, which could be located at the rear of the building.

The park, just across the street from this building, has been used for softball games, for many years. The Bartlett avenue site must be cleared when the weather permits, before it can be utilized.

$50.00 OFFERED IN CONTESTS

Twenty Blue Mold Tobacco Control Demonstrations

Twenty control demonstrations on Blue Mold in tobacco plant beds have been planned in four community programs of work, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The assistant county agent will personally conduct two demonstrations on beds in each of the four communities. Leaders will be supplied with plans to follow in the other eleven demonstrations.

Blue Mold in tobacco plant beds first appeared in the United States in 1921. The first serious outbreak occurred in 1931 in Florida and Georgia. The disease has gradually spread North until the past year and made its appearance in several communities in the county. The disease when it hits often destroys a large part of the plants.

The two control measures that will be followed this year include light seeding of plant beds and spraying of plants with Bordeaux mixture and copper oxide sprays.

PLANS MADE FOR 4-H SPRING RALLY

PROGRAM WILL INCLUDE CONTESTS FOR DEMONSTRATION TEAMS, CLOTHING JUDGING AND STYLE SHOW.

Four-H Club members are making plans for their annual Spring Rally to be held Saturday, May 13 at Burlington. The day's program will include contests for demonstration teams, clothing judging and style show. Four-H members' parents and friends will have a county-wide picnic at noon.

Four-H club leaders met at the courthouse Monday afternoon to discuss the demonstration team contests. The teams will be divided into two groups. The first composed of girls under thirteen years old. The second contest will be for girls thirteen years old or older. The grand champion team will be the older group will represent Boone county at the district contest in Williamstown.

All girls taking the clothing project are eligible to enter the Style show at Rally Day, according to Mary Hood Gillespie, home demonstration agent. Pins will be given to the girls in the blue ribbon group in each unit of clothing. The county championship style show costume will be selected from girls in the second, third, and fourth unit of clothing.

This is the first year that a clothing judging contest has been held at Rally Day. Girls enrolled in the second, third and fourth unit of clothing are eligible to enter this contest.

Four-H club members from the community clubs in the county will take party in the Rally Day program.

30 Baby Farms To Be Sold On Taylor-Mill Road

Rel C. Wayman, realtor, 623 Washington St., Covington, announces an auction sale of 30 baby farms, on the New Taylor Mill Concrete road, four miles from Latonia, Saturday, April 29, at 10 a. m.

These farms, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Summey, range in size from one-half an acre to five acres, all fronting on the Taylor Mill Concrete Road and Wolf Macadam Road. The farms are rich, rolling blue grass land, with about five acres of heavy woods. The land is said to be about as high as the 47th story of the Carew Tower in Cincinnati, and offers very desirable building sites. There will be free burrow, and made by the Tennessee Mountain, featuring Gene Ruppe and Frank Miller. A fat pig will be awarded.

The auctioneers will be Col. Rome Kinnman and R. M. Lucas.

OHIO RIVER TO REACH 58 FEET

CREST EXPECTED TODAY—RAINFALL AMOUNTS TO 5.02 INCHES FOR THREE-DAY PERIOD.

Heavy rains throughout the Ohio Valley have caused the Ohio River to rise rapidly and Tuesday night it was reported by Lockmaster Newman that the river had reached a depth of 55.7 feet at Dam 38, McVillie.

Mr. Newman reported that the rainfall for Friday was 42 of an inch, Saturday 1.40 inches and Sunday morning rainfall amounting to 3.20 inches, making a total of 5.02 inches for the three-day period.

The Ohio River is expected to reach a crest of 58 feet today, and will gradually recede.

Several roads in the county are blocked on account of high water, and it was reported Monday that the Hamilton school was closed due to flooded roads.

Little damage has been reported in Boone county due to high water. However the heavy rains have caused considerable damage to roads throughout the county.

According to a report of our Constance correspondent, the heavy rains caused a landslide on the property of W. B. Reeves, Constance, covering several valuable acres in the orchard. According to the report they were forced to vacate their home.

W. J. Tanner Visiting Friends In Boone Co.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner, of St. Petersburg, Fla., are spending a few days with Virginia Goodridge of Florence, and visiting among other friends and relatives throughout the county.

POULTRY TOUR DATE CHANGED

SPECIAL STUDY TO BE MADE ON HOW EGGS AND POULTRY ARE HANDLED WHEN PLACED ON THE MARKET.

The Boone county poultry marketing tour date has been changed to next Thursday, April 27th, according to H. R. Forkner county agent. The date has been changed so that Kenton and Campbell county poultrymen can take part in the all-day tour of the Cincinnati egg and poultry markets.

The schedule of the tour is as follows:

8:30 a. m. Central time—Meet at Sears-Roebuck Store in Covington.
10:00 a. m.—Eberle & Sons, Commission Firm, in Cincinnati.
11:00 a. m.—Peters Poultry Company.
12:00 noon to 1:00 p. m. Eastern time—Cooperative Pure Milk Association Egg Room.

The Poultry and Marketing Departments of the University of Kentucky are assisting in plans for the tour. Special study will be made on how eggs and poultry are handled when they reach the market and the channels they follow in reaching the consumer. Demonstration in egg grading and producing quality eggs that bring premium prices on the market will be seen. Plans have also been made for a visit to the killing rooms where poultry is dressed for retail trade.

Every poultryman and others interested in poultry marketing problems are invited to attend. The county agent's office in Burlington would be glad to know those who plan to attend.

help and that help is forthcoming, she gave a talk about Junior Week, is to be envied by the man who is merely termed as popular.

BE UNDER CONTROL

The constant chatter from foreign and home shores regarding the subject of rearmament and protection, is growing more pronounced week by week. There is about all sorts of expenditures for appropriations for army and navy. The talk and figures run into the billions of dollars. We are not condemning such a program where need of protection is clearly indicated. But often fear causes us to lose our heads. When you speak in terms of millions and billions, that is a lot of money in our way of thinking. And when you pursue the subject further you will realize that there is one place this money must come from—the taxpayer. There is no money of a super-dreadnaught, the largest of all warships, which would cost in the neighborhood of one hundred million dollars. That is a lot of money in any pocketbook. Let us bear in mind that sense and cents go hand in hand.

THE GERMAN YOUNG

In keeping abreast with new ideas of Herr Hitler, it is of interest to note his tactics in educating the young in Germany. From the earliest age the child walks and talks war. Every newborn boy whose father is a member of German Storm Troops is given a shining dagger. Father keeps the dagger until the boys are old enough to join the Hitler Youth Movement and can wear it. In schools the child is taught that 2 and 2 bombs make four. The first picture book is entitled, "Trust Not the Fox in His Green Nor the Jew in His Oath." Class hatred is encouraged. German education is based on Hitler's "Mein Kampf" which he has ordered that every child be taught. Children play with guns and are taught to shoot as soon as old enough to hold a rifle. We are old-fashioned here in Boone County. We still consider the 4-H Clubs are more our style!

BE POLITE

There has been all sorts of movements in Congress and some are good and some are bad. But some are rather silly. The fact that one of our recent meetings called forth a word of protest by a Senator when the word "kids" appeared in an official record. He asked that it might be struck out and tells that there is an active movement afoot to abolish the word "kids" when referring to children. It is a distasteful word to many and we can't say that we prefer it to "youngsters" or "tots." But have you ever noticed a man say "kids" when referring to his own children and there will be such love and affection ringing in his voice that it takes away any sound that would be disrespectful?

4-H NEWS

GRANT TRUE BLUE CLUB

The Grant True Blue club was brought to order by Robert McNeely on April 3rd. We had a very fine meeting. Mrs. McArthur, our very efficient leader, Mrs. Drake, our new assistant county agent, and Miss Gillaspie met with us. The unit I girls are getting along fine in their sewing and the unit II girls are just about through their work. Emma Mae Brady is going to start over in her work. We want to help her. There were 23 members present. July 12th we are going to have our picnic. Mary McArthur, Imogene Presser and Corrine Walton are getting up games for our picnic. Charles Newman, Harold Presser and Bill Tinklenberg are going. If they can get some cars to go on our picnic.

All members in units I and II were present. We just have one more meeting before school is out. One of our members dropped out. All of the members made reports on their project. Rally day is going to be held May 13, 1939. We are hoping to see all of the 4-H club members and their leaders. Betty Jean Ryle, Reporter.

PETERSBURG 4-H CLUB

The Petersburg 4-H community meeting was called to order by president, Frank Hitzfield. We had three leaders present. Mr. Earl Acre, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Lucille Bradburn. Each gave a talk. Mr. Drake, assistant county agent, gave us a talk. All members were present but two. Project captains gave reports on sewing, tobacco and poultry. We discussed about getting some demonstrations for spring rally. The meeting was closed by the pledge and a yell. Loretta May Surface, Reporter.

BURLINGTON 4-H CLUB

The Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Club held its fourth meeting, April 10th. Miss Lacy, one of the 4-H workers from the state was visiting, so

The Hebron 4-H club was called to order by president Billy Graves, Friday, April 7, 1939, followed by roll call and secretary's report. Mr. Forkner then called for a report from all the project captains. There were many of the projects that had started to working before this meeting. After a fine report from all project captains, Mr. Drake told us to begin thinking about demonstrations for the Spring Rally. The meeting then adjourned by repeating the club pledge. Raymond E. Witham, Reporter.

FOODS CLASS HOLD MEETING

TAYLORSFORD 4-H CLUB

The community 4-H club meeting was held April 4. They are planning to study about the birds and their nature. The 4-H club girls and boys are working hard to complete their work before 4-H spring rally and the fair. They elected the following project leaders: Mr. Vaughn Hemphill, poultry project leader; Mrs. Sadie Berry, foods leaders; and Mrs. Elizabeth Overhead, sewing leader.

NORBEH CHAMPIONS

Unit I of the Norbeh Champion Sewing group held their meeting March 28th in the school basement. There are nine members in the first unit: Lillian Hensley, Anna Mae Mullanix, Virginia Eggleston, Kathleen Goodridge, Bessie Wals, Norma McGlasson, Shirley Howard and Violet Edwards. We have completed our pot holders and aprons and some are working on their dresses. We are planning on having all things ready for the spring rally. Our leader is Mrs. Alberta Dickey. Virginia Eggleston, Reporter.

HAMILTON 4-H CLUB

The Hamilton 4-H club met last Thursday, April 6th. Miss Gillaspie presented us with our trophy that we won in the year 1938. We had 37 members present and five absent. The date for our 4-H tour was set as July 19th. Dorothy Shinkle, Reporter.

PAUL WINS RECOGNITION FOR GENTILE CHRISTIANS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:22-29; Galatians 2:14-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ—Galatians 2:16.

Persecution from outside was soon followed by what was even more serious—difficulty within the Church. If Satan cannot destroy God's work in one way, he can undermine it by the other plan. At the first council at Jerusalem (Acts 15) it had decided that "to the Gentiles also life, God granted repentance unto life," the question did not stay settled, for there were persistent Judaizing teachers who now contended that even though the Gentiles could be saved, they had to come into the Church by way of Judaism and first fulfill the Jewish rite of circumcision.

I. A Serious Difference of Opinion—Grace versus Law

The story of how this vital and fundamental question came up is found in the early verses of Acts 15. The entire future of the gospel ministry was in a sense dependent on the solution of this problem. Quick action is the only religious faith in the world that presents justification by grace as the way of redemption; all others follow (more or less) the path of salvation by works. The question now was: Shall works of the law be mingled with grace—can Jesus Christ alone save men, or is salvation through Jesus Christ plus something else? How was such a serious question to be settled? Should argument and strife be permitted to go on until the stronger party prevailed? Better judgment indicated the desirability of a compromise.

II. A Christian Method of Settlement—Council not Controversy

There may be times when it becomes the duty of the Christian worker to take an uncompromising stand for the truth of God and refuse to be moved, come what may. But certainly there should be no quarrel in dealing with differing interpretations of Scripture on the part of sincere and earnest Christian brethren. How much would be gained in the Church today if, instead of magnifying differences and quarrels, we had personal desires and ambitions to intervene, men were willing to sit down in the spirit of Christ around the tables of Christian council and brotherhood, and settle over and over again the Holy Spirit (see Acts 15:28).

The whole question was honestly and carefully considered by the second council at Jerusalem, with the result that there was a vindication of the preachers of God's grace. After presenting a plain disavowal of those who had troubled them and subverted their souls (what a serious thing it is to teach error concerning God's Word!), the council being of one accord, gave recognition to Paul and Barnabas as men who had "hazarded their lives for the name of the Lord Jesus" and were worthy of confidence and support.

No man should think more highly of himself than he ought. Humility is a Christian grace which will be a sinner saved by grace. But the Bible abounds with admonitions to honor one another, to recognize the laborer as being worthy of his hire, to give recognition to those who are over us in the Lord. The brethren at Jerusalem were thoughtful and courteous enough to go honor and encourage Paul and Barnabas. We could well follow their example in recognition of faithful servants of Christ in our own church or community.

III. A Momentous Decision—Salvation by Grace

The final decision of the council is sent not only by Paul and Barnabas, but also by a committee from Jerusalem, a gracious gesture of fellowship. Courtesy is not out of place in dealing with even the difficult things as controversies on Christian doctrine—in fact it should be most in place in such a situation.

As a matter of record (a wise procedure in such a case), a letter was sent which, after addressing the Gentiles as "brethren," reviewed the history of the matter and then, without mentioning circumcision, said: "The law of Moses need not be kept as a ground of salvation. They were saved by grace. But grace can never be the cloak of careless living, nor can liberty in Christ be interpreted as license to live in sin. We are set free in Christ, not that we may sin, but that we may 'go and sin no more.'"

Foot Health

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

There is a natural law constantly at work in the tissues of the human body. We must understand that bone, muscle and nerve consists of millions of ever changing tiny bodies called cells. These cells are held together with the tissue fluids and substances of the body.

Therefore bone, muscle and ligament respectively share the influence of this law, that constant tension causes wasting especially in the feet when the body weight which they carry about and support is not evenly distributed.

balanced throughout the twelve major bones of the foot framework.

If ligaments are stretched, due to long and careless standing especially those which bind the weight-supporting and key bones together, these ligaments finally yield in about the fifth or sixth year to strain and abuse, and pull away from the bone attachments.

The rest which the night affords is not enough to counteract continuous strain during the day.

This same law holds true of the muscles and tendon attachments of the feet which lift the body weight on the metatarsal heads or pivots. On the other hand, constant pressure causes wasting of tissue.

If the muscles do not hold the weight-bearing joints of feet in proper dovetailing and interlocking action, these joints become deformed, misshaped and deformed because of pressure of the body weight upon their point surfaces.

When we consider that we drive hundreds of tons of aggregate weight into the twelve major bones of each foot every day that we live it is easily understood why feet degenerate.

Can you be well with unhappy feet? Those headaches, those backaches, those leg pains may be caused by the shoes you are wearing.—Adv.

OUT WITH THE RUBBISH

Into the rubbish heap at the first opportunity should go all newspaper clippings saved long ago for a forgotten purpose, magazines, even dog-eared books and letters, suggest experts in home management at the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Houses and also people's minds can be cluttered by rubbish preserved sentimentally or carelessly from year to year. Everyone intends to use these things—but few ever do. After 10 years of work saving such things moving them around, trying not to get them soiled, etc., it may be advisable to take a good look and then discard them. Books and magazines may be given to schools and other institutions.

GREYHOUND

Above, at left, Marvin Million, Future Farmer member of the Berry chapter and some of his Western ewes; at right, James Cloe, another Berry F. F. A. member and some of his registered Southdown. James is a candidate for the "State Farmer" degree this year. In center picture F. F. A. members of the Berry chapter, preparing the evening feed for their ewes. The combined feed and hay rack is one of many made by members of this chapter in their farm shop work.

Thirty members of the F. F. A. chapter at Berry high school have co-operated with farmers in placing 600 high quality Western ewes and 41 purebred Southdown rams in the Berry section of Harrison county. In addition, a carload of extra-good Western ewe lambs have been secured and will be added to the breeding flocks this summer. Many of these ewes were bought by the young farmers in partnership with their fathers, while other ewes were placed with the farmers of the community.

Five of the Future Farmers own 45 head of high-quality registered Southdowns. These owners of Southdowns are James Cloe, James E. Hardin, and Billy Bedford. Eight members own high-quality grade ewes. The owners of grade ewes are: James Maddox, Cecil Maddox, James Cloe, Billy Hill, Billy Barnes, Marvin Million, Leon Cummins and Forest Millon.

Sheep rank first in importance among livestock enterprises in Harrison county, returning 25 per cent of the total cash sales from farm products to farmers of the county. The emphasis being placed on sheep by the Future Farmers of the Berry chapter is part of their plan to improve farm practices in this enterprise.

A survey made by the young farmers and their adviser, Curtis Sarsens, teacher of vocational agriculture at Berry high school, revealed that many farmers of the community were losing sheep because of parasites and many were failing to realize satisfactory profits because of poor practices.

The plan being carried out by the boys includes the crossing of purebred Southdown rams on high grade Western ewes, which have been found to be unusually free of parasites. All sheep are being drenched monthly during the grazing season and dipped twice a year.

Members of the F. F. A. chapter have helped farmers drench more than 3,000 sheep during the past year.

The Berry Future Farmers have co-operated with 10 adult farmers in building a modern dipping vat usually find some place in the issue to put something about either fishing or hunting and as a result of this widespread publication of Fish and Game news, the people in this state are becoming hunting and fishing conscious. The daily papers also use some material, but having their own sports writers, they compose their own material and edit their own fish and game columns. More people are observing the game and fish laws, more of our citizens are protecting the wildlife and cooperating with the Conservation Officers of the Division and more men and women are buying their hunting and fishing license as the result of this publicity of wildlife conservation thru the newspapers.

This Division gets out informational and educational material once every week on some phase of the conservation of wildlife and a number of the papers carry this news regularly as a game and fish column. Others, crowded for space, use articles which they think will be of local interest.

The hunters and fisherman and all others interested in the conservation of wildlife appreciate this information that they are able to get from their local papers and the Division of Game and Fish, through its director, Major James Brown, wishes to express appreciation for the full and hearty cooperation given by the press of Kentucky in the wildlife conservation program.

Let the child rest 15 to 20 minutes before meal time.

Don't coax the child to eat; it makes him worse. For your own sake, as well as his, pay as little attention to his not eating as possible—he will recover more quickly.

Children are astute observers; so try, as parents, not to have food dislikes. However, the "yum yum spinach" school doesn't fool anyone. Most parents aren't good actors.

A good general rule is to have part of everything composing the meal eaten before dessert is served. Have a simple dessert that is an integral part of the whole meal.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Klesner and son spent several days with her mother, Mrs. Alexander, of Covington.

for the use of co-operating farmers and Future Farmers. The ground for the vat and drainage pens was donated by Jonathan Booher, a farmer living near the school. Materials for the dipping vat and holding pens cost $109.60 and was built co-operatively by the farmers and Future Farmers. F. F. A. members worked 60 hours in building gates and constructing the vat. This work was done under the supervision of their teacher of vocational agriculture. Farmers co-operating in the plan are: Jonathan Booher, George Townsend, Ed McNeese, Robert Perkins, Kelly Earle, Mrs. Norma Berry, Mrs. Nell Blackburn, and Mrs. Emma Hutton. By dipping their sheep co-operatively the farmers and Future Farmers have been able to use the best dipping solution at a cost of one and one-half cents to three cents per head. Farmers who are non-members of the co-operative organization are allowed to dip their sheep at five cents per head.

Homemakers To Make Slip Covers

Home Improvement leaders of the twelve Homemakers clubs will start making slip covers at their next training class. The group will meet next Tuesday, April 25th 10:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. at the courthouse in Burlington.

Miss Ida Hagaman, Home Improvement Specialist, University of Kentucky, will direct the leaders in cutting slip cover for straight back chairs, rockers and overstuffed wing chairs. Instructions will be given on the sewing of the covers. Selection of materials for covers was discussed at the March meeting of local clubs, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, home demonstration agent.

Each homemaker in the county is planning to make a slip cover or boxed cushion.

LOCAL HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Burlington Homemakers' Club met on Thursday, April 6th at the courthouse, with twenty-two members present.

The morning session was devoted to business. The president, Mrs. Fannie Riley, presided. In the near future the club plans to sponsor an entertainment to raise funds to send the president to the state meeting next year.

Miss Gillaspie announced the date of the district meeting, April 26th, which is to be held in Newport. Most of our Homemakers plan to attend.

Mrs. Herbert Snyder, our new program chairman is getting her work started.

After lunch the leaders, Mrs. Lou Pope and Mrs. Hubert White gave the first lesson on "Slip Covers." Many interesting patterns were shown and color blending discussed.

Next month, members will answer roll call with quotation from a famous author.

Kentucky Congress Of Parents And Teachers To Meet In Covington

Mrs. C. A. Schroetter, Covington, Ky., President of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers has issued the annual call to Convention and has asked the membership of the Kentucky Congress to send accredited delegates and representatives to meet in Covington, May 1 and 2, 1939.

The Kentucky Congress membership is looking forward with keen anticipation to this particular convention because the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will hold its annual convention May 1, 2, 3, and 4, in Cincinnati, Ohio, with headquarters at the Netherland Plaza Hotel. The Kentucky Congress will establish its headquarters at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati but will hold all business sessions of the Congress at the First Presbyterian Church in Covington, Ky.

The Kentucky Congress will entertain the delegate body of the National Convention with a boat ride on the Ohio River, on Tuesday afternoon, May 2. The "Island Queen" has been chartered and four thousand guests are expected to take the trip.

GREEN RIDGE

We are very sorry to report those on the sick list not so well this week.

Mrs. Helen Acra and two children, Joy and Arlene and Mrs. Zelma Dameron spent Monday with their aunt, Mrs. Vida Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Readnow and little daughter Phyllis Coe spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Isaacs and family.

Mr. Harry Timm is spending several days this week in the city with his sister.

Little Bobby Black was removed to Christ Hospital here Tuesday for treatment. We hope he will be able to return home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Stephens and children were supper guests of her sister, Mrs. Hazel Williamson and family Saturday night.

This community was shocked last Tuesday morning when the news of Mrs. Dessie Ryle's passing was made known. Mrs. Ryle was always willing to lend a helping hand to those in need. She leaves to mourn her passing one son, Thaddeus, one daughter-in-law, one granddaughter and one grandson; two sisters, Mrs. Vida Stephens and Mrs. Bennie Clure and a host of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Bessie Ashcraft spent Monday with Mrs. Vida Stephens, who is very ill.

Mrs. Jennie Williamson spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Riggs, who is very ill at this writing.

Miss Gladys Isaacs spent Saturday night with her sister, Mrs. Hazel Viola Smith and husband.

The Ohio River is at the high stage again.

BIG BONE CHURCH NEWS
Rev. R. Lee James, of Burlington, will conduct a revival of two weeks, beginning May 15th at Big Bone Baptist Church. You are cordially invited to attend.

Lime Dealers Prepare To Supply Farmers Needs

Boone county limestone dealers have prepared to supply farmers with sufficient agricultural limestone to supply their 1939 needs, according to reports given H. R. Forkner, county agent. They advise that this important soil fertilizer is delivered farmers at a cheaper price than paid in most parts of the state, but due to the large quantities used, they do not plan to increase the price this year.

The 1939 prices quoted by most dealers are around $2.00 per ton for the crushed stone delivered to the farm in five ton lots. Most dealers will spread the stone for an additional fifty cents per ton. Pulverizer operators will crush a high quality agricultural stone on the farm at rates varying from 70c to 85 cents per ton, depending on the quantity and location of the stone.

Agricultural limestone dealers who have reported to the county office they are ready to supply the farmers' 1939 needs are: John W. Moore, Burlington, R. 1, Phone Hebron 133; W. J. Craig, Burlington, R. 2, Phone 685-X or 527; Stanley Graves, Hebron, Phone Hebron 341 and Charles Kraft, Ludlow, R. 2.

Pulverizer operators who have reported they will go anywhere in the county and are equipped to render efficient service are: Orville Kelly, Burlington, R. 2, Phone No. Burlington 682-X and Charles Kraft, Ludlow, R. 2.

8345 tons of pulverized agricultural limestone were used the past year. Limestone has given substantial increases in clover and grass yields and in many cases corn and other crops. Two tons per acre is a sufficient treatment for the average soil. The Agricultural Conservation Program pays $1.50 per ton for stone and $1.50 per hundred for 47 per cent phosphate used on the soil building allowance. Immediate use of both these fertilizers is important if the greatest benefits from the A. C. program are going to be received. Credit assignments are available at the county office for farmers who do not have ready cash to pay for stone purchased.

STATE RESTOCKED IN QUAIL FURRING PAST FEW WEEKS BY DEPT.

Approximately 18,000 Bob White quail have been released in the fields of Kentucky within the past two weeks by Game and Fish Clubs and under the supervision of Conservation Officers of the Division of Game and Fish.

Under the supervision of Paul Long, Advisory Commissioner for the Division of Game and Fish, from Shelbyville, Ky., the quail were banded by small metal bands bearing the name "Division of Game and Fish" and also carrying a number. As each pair of birds were released the numbers on the bands were recorded in a book. The record will also show exactly where the birds were released in the county.

Long stated that all hunters will be requested to bring in all bands taken from quail this fall and to report in what locality the birds were killed. This report, when compared with the record of release, will show where the birds were released and how far they traveled from that time until the time they were killed. Long said that this would be of great benefit in observing how far the birds travel and whether they were released in the proper food and cover. If quail do not have both food and cover, they will move to where both can be found.

SALE OF SCHOOL PROPERTY

The Boone County Board of Education will receive sealed bids on the old Burlington school until 10 o'clock a. m. May 3, 1939 at the office of the Superintendent of Schools.

Bids will be considered two ways: First, the building complete with a lot approximately 250x250 the Board reserving the blackboards and radiators.

Second, the building alone, to be wrecked and moved from the premises within a reasonable time, the Board reserving the blackboards and radiators.

The right is reserved by the Board of Education to reject any and all bids on either of the above offers.

D. H. NORRIS,
Superintendent.

Gaiety Theater News

Fri. and Saturday—"Charlie Chan in Honolulu."

Sun. and Mon.—Paris Honey-moon. Tues., Wed., Thursday and Friday April 25, 26, 27, 28—"Jesse James"

Saturday night the first episode of a new serial will be shown entitled "Flying G-Men." This serial has a very high rating, and prove very entertaining throughout.

Various cities, New York, Shanghai, Port Said, have been called at times "the melting pot" of the world.

But on one sound stage at 20th Century-Fox, during production of "Charlie Chan in Honolulu," was a group so cosmopolitan that its like could not be equalled in a week's search of any of the world's great seaports.

Curiously enough, this group represented the crew of an American steamship—the S. S. Susan B. Jennings, scene of much of the action in this picture.

With the passengers, as portrayed by Phyllis Brooks, Claire Dood, Richard Lane, George Zucco and others, they are all under suspicion of murder and Charlie Chan has quite a time sifting this motley array before discovering the real culprit.

It's to the principal of "Push-tainik"—land of roses and beautiful girls—that Bing Crosby takes us in his latest comedy offering, "Paris Honey-moon," which will be shown at the Gaiety Sunday and Monday.

After having taken us to walk to the wide, open spaces, West Coast race tracks, college camp and where not, in search of romance and melody, Bing finally goes abroad—as a young American millionaire in search of a quiet old castle where he and his bride-to-be can enjoy a peaceful honeymoon. He finds the castle, with the aid of Akim Tamiroff, mayor, factotum and operator of the sole slot machine in "Push-tainik," but he also finds Francisca Gaal, a peasant girl, whom he promptly proceeds to fall in love. See this picture, you'll like it.

Darryl F. Zanuck's production, "Jesse James," the 20th Century Fox Technicolor epic of the life and times of the most colorful outlaw who ever lived, comes to the Gaiety Tuesday, Wed., Thursday, and Friday, April 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th.

Romantic Tyronne Power has the title role, sharing stellar honors with Henry Fonda, Nancy Kelly and Randolph Scott.

The story depicts in thrilling terms the most colorful exploits of the man who invented train robberies and bank holdups, and does not neglect his romance with lovely girl who sacrificed a life of comfort to share his wild and reckless life.

Prominent in the supporting cast of the film, which Henry King directed from an original screen play by Associate Producer Nunnally Johnson are Henry Hull, Slim Summerville, J. Edward Bromberg, Brian Donlevy, John Carradine, Donald Meek, John Russell and Jane Darwell.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, April 19th and 20th—"Monolulu" with Eleanor Powell, Robert Young, Geo. Burns, Gracie Allen. Hawaiian Hula danced as never before... Yuletide and beauty... Burns and Allen comedy... Hawaiian music... romance in the tropics. Sights to open your eyes with wonder.

Sunday, April 23rd—"Wife, Husband and Friend," with Loretta Young, Warner Baxter. Delirious romance... sparkling wit... alluring music... slambang comedy... the fun is unrestrained. Wife hits high "C" husband, hits the roof. Wife hits husband, and the battle is on, with the girl friend trying every angle to make it a triangle. Also a special 3-reel comedy "Popeye" in Technicolor.

Monday, April 24th—"Peck's Bad Boy with the Circus" with Tommy Kelly, Ann Gillis, Edgar Kennedy, Spunky MacFarland. Lots of action and good entertainment... be sure to see Spunky in this circus picture.

Tuesday, April 25th—"Persons in Hiding" with Lynn Overman, Patricia Morison, J. Carrol Nash, Judith Barrett. She's the woman behind the killer behind the gun. She sold out the man she loved for a fur coat and a bottle of perfume. He got a life-time in Alcatraz for loving a woman with ice where her heart should be.

Wednesday, April 26th—"Star of Midnight" with William Powell, Ginger Rogers. The most fascinating detective who ever kept an audience gasping... and the most charming heart-throb who ever kept a detective guessing. A baffling drama that will hold you spellbound... while you revel in romance.

Thursday, April 27th—"Boy Trouble" with Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland. A comedy that everyone will enjoy. Be sure to see it.

RABBIT HASH

The river is rising rapidly again. This community was sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Dessie Ryle, which occurred at her home Tuesday, April 11th, after two weeks' illness. We extend sympathy to her son Thaddeus Ryle and family and two sisters, Mrs. Vida Stephens and Mrs. Bennie Clore and niece and nephew who so tenderly cared for her through her illness. She will be greatly missed by many friends neighbors for whom she always had a pleasant smile and a kind word.

Mr. Roy Ryle attended the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Wess, Christina last week in Indianapolis, Ind. We extend sympathy to his bereaved relatives and friends.

Mrs. Charly Riggs is improved at this writing. We hope she continues to improve.

Edwin Palmer, of Norwood, O., visited his mother, Mrs. Alice Palmer Sunday. She returned home with him for a visit.

Mrs. Pauline Loudon has been suffering with rheumatism the last few weeks.

Dr. G. Ryle and wife, of Georgetown, Dr. I. E. Carlyle and son-in-law of Sadalia, Ind., L. C. Craig and family of Lawrenceburg, Ind., Wm. Bodie and wife, of Patriot, Ind., were among those from a distance who attended the funeral of Mrs. Dessie Ryle last Thursday.

Mrs. Paul Acra visited Raymond Acra and wife, of Cincinnati, O., over the week-end.

Several folks visited Mrs. Vida Stephens the past week. She has been quite ill. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Walter Moore and wife visited their uncle, R. M. Wilson and wife Easter Sunday. Other friends also visited them.

HEBREW HOMEMAKERS MEET

Slip Covers was the lesson for the April 12th meeting of the Hebrew Homemakers' Club. The leaders, Mrs. George Casper and Mrs. Ed Conrad were very instructive as to how to make these slip covers.

Another special meeting for fixing Hong Kong seats will be Tuesday, April 18th in the school club room.

A planting of soybeans was given to Mrs. Roscoe Newland, who volunteered to raise them. Miss Mary Galloway, home demonstration agent told us the many uses of soybeans, especially roasted.

The district meeting this year will be in the First Baptist Church, Newport, Ky., April 26th. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Sayre, of Iowa.

Friday, April 14th, Dr. Willem Van De Walle of the University of Kentucky, met in Covington with Mrs. David Pope, Mrs. Frank Hossman and Mrs. Robert Bradford to give them further instruction in music for the club.

Mrs. Nell E. Nance extended an invitation for all members to meet at her summer camp near Flemingsburg, whenever possible.

The president, Mrs. Howard Acra appointed Mrs. Frank Wohrley for the exterior beautification committee.

For the A. C. W. W. program, Mrs. Ed Conrad gave a well prepared talk on Africans and their dress and ways of living. Through a friend who visited Africa, Mrs. Conrad was able to secure various kinds of material from Africa.

The next meeting is to be in the school club room and each member is to bring a dish of food for dinner.

Samples of Slip Covers were made following the Better Speech program, with Mrs. David Pope in charge.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

Last Thursday the members of the Petersburg Homemakers' Club met at the school house. Mrs. Stanley Bonta and Mrs. May Snyder acted as hostesses.

Quite a lot of business for the club was brought up. The most important business was making plans for the district meeting to be held in Newport, April 26th.

Mrs. O. S. Watts, leader of Better Speech gave the lesson.

Mrs. L. S. Chambers gave the Style lesson. Due to the fact we worked on Hong Kong Grass, this lesson was held over from last month.

After lunch Misses Edna Berkshires and Mary Recker gave the lesson Slip Covers, their uses, the materials used, the seams and how they were made.

Miss Joanna Gordon led the games. Mrs. L. S. Chambers and Miss Elizabeth Walton will act as hostesses next month, when we will work on slip covers.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother.

Dessie B. Ryle
We also thank Revs. Johnson and Kidwell for consoling words, Rev. Raymond Smith, Mrs. Scott, Miss Cason and Mrs. Brady for the song service; Dr. Love for his faithful endeavors and Steele and Dittz for the efficient manner in conducting the funeral.

Thaddeus Ryle and Family

Burlington Starts Training

Two teams from the Burlington Blue Ribbon club have already started training for the 4-H club demonstration team contest to be held in conjunction with the Spring Rally, May 13th, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. One team, consisting of Lee Roy McNeely and Harold Flick will demonstrate the proper construction of a plant bed while the other team, consisting of Hobart Willoughby and Calvin Kelly will show the proper way of teaching a calf to drink.

Many members from the other nine clubs of the county are also making definite plans for Rally Day in conjunction with the Spring Rally. All the teams from the farm project clubs of the county will compete at Burlington for the privilege of representing Boone county in the district contest to be held at Williamstown. The winner of the district event will represent Boone county in the county contest at Lexington, June 5th to 10th. Hence competition among these teams on May 13 is expected.

BEAVER LICK (Delayed)

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kite, Howe and Bobby Hood and Lee Kite were in Richmond, Ind. last week, where they attended the funeral of their relative, Everett Adams.

Mrs. William Brown and children Scotty and Wanda Lee Jones spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Jones, of Hathaway.

Mrs. Raymond Snow has returned to her home here, after a pleasant visit with relatives near Frankfort.

Glad to report Miss Etta Lewis Collins much improved in health and able to return to her duties at New Haven School.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slayback entertained Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Besterman and Joe, Jr., and Roma Jean.

Mrs. J. M. Jack, together with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carpenter and Mrs. Wendell Rouse motored to Greenville, O., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bertram over the week-end.

RABBIT HASH HOMEMAKERS

The Rabbit Hash Homemakers' Club met April 11th at the cream station for their regular all-day session. There were nine members and several visitors present.

The lesson for the day was "Making Slip Covers." Mrs. Opal Kelly gave the lesson.

Mrs. Minnette Stephens was appointed chairman for a Clean-up session and our club has selected as the most important subject to "make war on the rats."

We are urging as many of our members as can, to attend the State Convention in Newport on April 26th.

Our next meeting will be held the second Tuesday of May at the cream station. Our next three lessons will be devoted to Slip Covers.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The Constance Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. John Hemphill on April 5th for an all-day meeting. There were 19 members present as follows: Mrs. Geo. Kottmyer, Mrs. Elmer Peeno, Mrs. John Dolwick, Mrs. Henry Kottmyer, Mrs. Thomas Kenyon, Mrs. W. E. Zimmer, Mrs. Geo. Heist, Mrs. John Hemphill, Mrs. James Dye, Mrs. Adams Reeves, Mrs. Oliver Kottmyer, Mrs. Myrtle Reeves, Mrs. Alfred Dolwick, Mrs. Eliza Tunning, Mrs. Alice Tunning, Mrs. Lloyd Hankins, Mrs. Walter Sprague, Mrs. John Heist, Mrs. Carrie Riggs and three visitors, Mrs. Oscar Fugate, Mrs. John Fox and Mrs. Orion Erbaugh and our home demonstration agent, Mary Hood Gillespie was with us in the afternoon.

Our lesson for the day was slip covers. At the noon hour a buffet luncheon was served which was enjoyed very much by all. Our next meeting will be held at Mrs. Adam Reeves' on May 18th. The roll call for May is to be answered with "What you are going to make from your lesson slip covers."

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1939

NUMBER 48

SAM PORTWOOD IS SENTENCED

TO ONE YEAR IN PENITENTIARY ON CHARGE OF STOREHOUSE BREAKING - TRIAL HELD WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19.

Sam Portwood, charged with storehouse breaking was tried on Wednesday, April 19th in Judge Vallandingham's court and was sentenced to one year in the State Penitentiary. He was taken to Le Grange Monday morning to serve his sentence by Sheriff F. M. Walton and J. T. Williams.

The jury brought in a verdict acquitting Sam Portwood in the case of the Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Jack and Sam Portwood and Joe Miller and reported that they were unable to agree as to a verdict on the remaining two defendants. This was the indictment charging they broke into a corn crib on the John Garrison farm near Union.

After the report of the jury the court dismissed Sam Portwood on the charge in the above indictment and on motion of the Commonwealth Attorney continued the cases of Jess Portwood, Jack Portwood and Joe Miller and permitted them to go on a reconnaissance bond and ordered their appearance at the next term of the court. The latter case against Jess and Jack Portwood and Joe Miller being for petty larceny, for stealing a quantity of scrap iron from the farm of John Garrison.

Court adjourned Thursday afternoon.

1938 Tobacco Crop

Pays Boone Farmers

Boone county farmers sold approximately 1,890,953 pounds of burley tobacco under the 1938 AAA program for approximately $362,454.15, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Farmers raised a total of 2262 acres in 1938, received an average yield of 850 pounds per acre. They received an average of $19.10 per hundred pounds for the crop.

The above pounds sold and dollars received will be slightly higher in that a few warrants on sales have not been received to date. Actual sales reports are on file in the county office for the above amounts.

Good Attendance

Expected On Poultry Tour

A good delegation of poultrymen have made plans to attend the tri-county poultry marketing tour on this Thursday, April 27th, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Those attending will leave Burlington at 7:45 a. m. central time or Sears Roebuck store in Covington at 8:30 a. m. and will visit Eberle, Peters and French-Baumann plants in Cincinnati. Plans have been made to have transportation for all who do not want to go in their own cars.

SCHOOL IS DISCONTINUED

AT GARRISON-INSUFFICIENT ENROLLMENT SAID TO BE CAUSE-LAST ONE-ROOM WHITE SCHOOL IN COUNTY.

At the last meeting of the Boone County Board of Education it was decided to discontinue the Garrison one-room school, due to the fact that the enrollment was not sufficient to meet with state requirements.

According to law a school must maintain a census enrollment of fifty students, unless they are granted special permission from the Department of Education to operate with less.

The Garrison school has operated for a number of years with a very small enrollment and had the permission of the State Department. The census enrollment this year was 15, with an actual enrollment of eight students, who live in the district.

It was said by Supt. Norris, that most of the school's enrollment would be consolidated with the Hebron school next year, thus eliminating the last of our one-room schools.

Court Holds Florence Fair Ground Sales Good

Hon. J. G. Vallandingham, judge of the Boone Circuit Court, after a hearing in the matter of the case of the North Kentucky Fair Corp., vs. The Realty Corporation of Corinth, Ky., held that all of the sales held by A. D. Yelton, Master Commissioner of the Court in the fair grounds were good, with the exception of about 16 lots on which the Farmers Bank of Corinth, Ky., had a lien and were not properly before the court at the time judgment was rendered ordering the sales.

It is expected that a sale of these lots will be ordered in the fall.

The judgment of the court held that the order entered at the December 1938 term of the court was void in so far as same operated to set aside the Master Commissioner's sale in the case.

Constance School

Program Planned

Mr. R. V. Lents reports that plans for an extra good program is being made for Thursday evening at the local school. Special music has been planned. Everybody is cordially welcome. It is a free play.

Novelty Revue To Be Held By Walton Students May 5th

The annual Kiddie Novelty Revue will be presented this year on Friday evening, May 5th at the New James Theatre, Walton, by the pupils of Mrs. William Crouse.

Specialty dances, singing, instrumental selections, monologues and other features will be offered. Three amusing acts will be presented. The first is entitled "Barnyard Frolics," an act which will take you back to the good old days on the farm. The second act will be "A Night in Hawaii," which will introduce a romantic setting in the tropics. The third and last act, "A Fountain Festival," will conclude the performance.

The costumes, settings and stage properties have been carefully arranged. It is expected that a large crowd will witness this event. The performance will start promptly at 8:00 p. m. Admission 15 and 25c.

"Hobgoblin House"

Is Well Attended

The Senior class of the Burlington school are to be commended for the splendid play "Hobgoblin House" presented at the auditorium last Friday night. A record crowd was present to enjoy the entertainment.

Those who attended the mystery play, expressed themselves as highly pleased, commenting on the splendid, lightning and thunder effects.

Bob & Gene Nine Will

Open Season May 7th

The Bob & Gene baseball team will play their opening scheduled game this season Sunday, May 7th when they meet the Heidelberg boys at Crescent Springs.

In an exhibition game last Sunday, the local boys were defeated by a score of 8 to 6. Hobbs Ryan opened the game for Bob & Gene, and allowed only one hit in the first four innings. He was relieved by his brother Jay, in the fourth, who also showed good for the opening game. Many are expecting big things from the Kyle boys this year, and from all indications they will meet all expectations.

The Bob & Gene team will be composed entirely of Boone County boys, according to Mr. Eades, and they are looking forward to a good season this year. Another exhibition game will be played at the Crescent Park Sunday, April 30th, when Bob & Gene will meet the Greenline nine from Covington.

Old Age Assistance

Office In Florence

The Kentucky old age assistance office, the branch of which governs Boone County, is now located at the Florence Garage building, corner of Shelby St. and Dixie Highway.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, manager, states that she will be in her office on Wednesday and Saturday mornings to care for those desiring to secure old age assistance in Boone County.

COUNTY LICENSES ARE NECESSARY

FOR ALL PERSONS SELLING DISTILLED SPIRITS IN BOONE COUNTY—RULING EFFECTIVE JULY 1ST.

Beginning July 1, 1939, it will be necessary for all persons desiring to sell alcoholic beverages in Boone County to obtain a County license in order to do so, according to an announcement by County Judge N. E. Riddell, this week.

The license for selling beer will be $12.00, for selling distilled spirits and wines that retail by the glass $100.00 and for selling distilled spirits and wines for consumption off the premises $100.00.

All persons desiring to obtain their license can do so by applying at the County Clerk's office in the courthouse. It will be necessary for all persons to have their county license before they will be able to obtain state license.

WPA Officials To Be

Asked For Extension

Erlanger's Board of Trustees will ask WPA officials for an extension of time to raise approximately $5,000 needed to complete the $30,000 fund to be used for the town's unfinished sewer system.

The board disclosed in a meeting Wednesday night of last week that approximately $25,000 has been collected toward the fund, which is being held in the Community Bank, Erlanger. Most of the needed $5,000 balance has been pledged.

The $30,000, which, with the WPA allotment of $70,000, will be sufficient to complete the system, was due late Saturday, April 15. Funds are being raised by a $2 per foot assessment on property.

Work on the project stopped approximately two years ago after $137,000 had been spent. At that time funds had been depleted. City Attorney Ervin L. Bramlage was authorized by the board to prepare an ordinance by which the town may take advantage of a share in the state tax on cafes selling liquor.

34 Attend Utopia Meeting

Thirty-four attended the April Utopia Club meeting held at Burlington Thursday evening, April 26th. Wm. Moore, chairman of the small fruits project, rendered a splendid discussion on small fruits management. Mary Hood Gillespie instructed the girls on weaving. Plans were made to have Dr. T. P. Polk, field veterinarian of the University to speak at the next meeting. The next meeting of the club will be May 18th at 7:30 a. m.

Fishing Will Be

Permitted In May Below Lock And Dam

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, wishes to remind all anglers of the fact that they will be permitted to fish during the month of May "only" in any navigable stream in Kentucky and "only" with pole and line and not above the last lock and dam.

Taking fish in any manner from streams outside of the ones that have locks and dams will be unlawful during the month and anyone caught violating this particular section of the law is liable to a fine or jail sentence upon conviction.

Attention is again called to the fact that all persons, both men and women, 16 years of age or over, must possess a fishing license.

Woman's Auxiliary Asks For Magazine Donations

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Union Presbyterian Church, Union, Ky., asks all friends of the church to donate all their old magazines for the Auxiliary's May Magazine sale. These magazines will be sold, and the money realized will be used to further the social service work of the Auxiliary. If you have old magazines you would like to discard, won't you call Mrs. Joseph Huey, Union, Ky., and she will be that someone calls at your home for your contribution of old magazines.

Elbert S. Senour

Elbert S. Senour, a deacon in Erlanger Baptist Church, Erlanger died Monday at his home, 110 Hulbert Avenue, Erlanger, after an illness of three weeks. He was 72 years old.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fannie Senour; his daughter, Mrs. Etta Scheben; two grandchildren, Bert Scheben and Mrs. Dorothy Bolte; a brother, Will Senour, Lockland, O., and a sister, Mrs. Thomas Corbett.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Philip Tallaferro, funeral director, Erlanger.

Ten Car Loads

Phosphate Ordered

The tenth car load of phosphate to be used under the AC program was ordered Tuesday of this week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. This makes a total of 251 tons ordered to date.

While the supply is expected to be exhausted at an early date, county office is still taking applications.

GRANT MAN

ANNOUNCES

FOR REPRESENTATIVE—IS WELL KNOWN THROUGHOUT BOTH COUNTIES—WILL FULFILL ALL PROMISES.

John S. Juett, makes his official bow to the voters of Boone County in this issue of The Recorder. Mr. Juett is the son of the late Henry Juett, well-known Williamstown farmer.

Mr. Juett was born and reared in Grant county, and at the present time is one of the owners of the Half-Way House, Williamsburg.

He has been active during the past several years in the upbuilding of his town and county and has been a leader in the recent campaign for a new four-lane highway from Florence to Williamsburg.

Mr. Juett is a staunch democrat and he has been active in politics for several years.

In making his announcement this week, he makes the following statement:

"In announcing my candidacy for Representative from Boone and Grant counties, I would like to say that I do not intend to make a lot of promises which I cannot possibly fulfill. But, I will, if elected, do my best to serve the people of these counties and the state as a whole, to their best interests."

He will gladly cooperate with other Representatives from northern Kentucky in an effort to get some recognition for our part of the state.

"To you people who have troubles with roads and various other community problems, I will gladly do my best to assist you. I have been working for these things for several years and will continue to do so, but if elected may have a better opportunity to be of value."

John S. Juett."

Bible Week Planned

By Hebron Luther League

The members of the Luther League of the Hebron Lutheran Church are planning a Bible Week to begin May 8th through 13th.

The services will consist of twenty-minute reading on the Epistles by various boys of the Luther League and the girls will furnish special music.

Everyone is welcome and asked to bring their Bibles. A display of "Old Bibles" will also be shown.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dye and daughter of Clark County were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder.

FIRST PRIZE WON BY HEBRON GIRL

IN SPEAKING CONTEST SPONSORED BY BANKERS ASSOCIATION—BURLINGTON GIRL IS SECOND, NEW HAVEN, THIRD.

Virginia Lee Reimer, of Hebron was declared winner of first prize in the speaking contest, sponsored by the Bankers Association, held at Hebron Saturday, April 22nd. Second prize went to Miss Pauline Norris of Burlington and third to Dorothy Smith, of New Haven.

In order to create more interest in the contest bankers of Boone county offered $500.00 in cash to the winners of the county contest. The first prize was $25, second $15 and third $10.

Miss Reimer will represent the county in the district contest to be held in May. The winner of the district meet will compete in the contest at Lexington.

The bankers of the state are offering a $500.00 scholarship to any college of the winner's choice in the state contest which will be held in Lexington.

Judges of the Hebron contest were: Harry Nagel, banker from Ft. Thomas, vice president of the Fifth Third Union Trust Co., Cincinnati, O.; Russ Anderson, educator, Ft. Thomas, and Ervin L. Bramlage, lawyer, Erlanger.

We publish the winner's speech in full, as follows:

The subject of my discussion is: "The Value of the Bank to the Community."

Most of us have taken banking more or less for granted. Only as a people, a bank means a place to which you go in order to deposit or draw out money and once in a while to borrow money.

The bank has become such an integral part of the life of the community that the people seldom think of it as anything more than a place to which you go in order to deposit or draw out money and once in a while to borrow money. But just as we miss our paper or the morning mail so we would miss the bank were it taken out of the realm of our industrial and commercial life.

Basically speaking a bank does two things:

(1) It accepts deposits and makes collection on checks.

(2) It loans money, paying and receiving interest on these loans.

The bank keeps your money in a safe place. It offers you the protection of its vaults and assumes the entire risk, insuring your deposits up to $5,000.00. The bank keeps your money safe from theft and from fire.

All business men and patrons receive checks. These checks are no value in their original form. Before becoming usable they must be reduced to cash or a bank balance.

You can't cash the check, the bank forwards it to a place of payment and makes collections for you.

The depositor's cash, when deposited in a bank becomes commingled with the bank's own cash to form a single pool. The bank utilizes this cash pool for the purpose of making bank loans.

4-H Rally Day To Be Largest Ever Held

The annual 4-H club spring rally to be held at the Burlington school May 13, will be the largest ever, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. Thirteen teams representing the farm project clubs have already signified their intentions of entering the demonstration team contest. They will compete for the privilege of representing this county in the district contest at Williamstown. These teams are from but seven of the ten schools. Three clubs have not had their fourth series of meetings. Hamilton was forced to postpone their meeting because of high water and Walton and Verona each close later than the other schools.

These teams are arranging to demonstrate some good practices that may be carried out on many local farms.

The control of Blue Mold in tobacco beds will be demonstrated by a team from New Haven while a team from Florence will show what can be done to make roadside stands attractive. These and the many other demonstrations planned are sure to prove interesting to any who attend this annual event.

County Truck Wrecked

Near Duck Head Inn

One of the County's road trucks was damaged considerably Saturday when it was struck by a transfer truck owned by the Cincinnati and Louisville Transfer Co., Cincinnati.

According to the driver, Cecil Presser, the county truck was headed west on U. S. 42 and was in the act of turning from the main highway to a side road when the collision occurred. The damage to the truck has not been estimated as yet, as it had to be sent to Covington for a complete check-up. It was said that the front portion of the truck was damaged considerably.

Thieves Steal 72

Chickens From Eugene Randall

Thieves broke into the chicken house of Eugene Randall Friday night of last week and removed 72 chickens. Mr. Randall resides on the Burlington-Petersburg pike.

The thieves made their entrance to the chicken house by removing a window pane. The glass was taken to Cincinnati fingerprint specialists for examination. No fingerprints were found, Sheriff Walton said, due to the culprit wearing gloves.

BELLEVUE CHURCH TO RECEIVE GENERAL

HOUSECLEANING SAT.

Weather permitting, the members of the Bellevue Church of Christ will meet Saturday to clean the church for the summer months.

There will be need of some male help, so those concerned, come in your overalls, and confidentially it has been rumored that the women helping will prepare lunch for the workers that day.

BURLINGTON P. T. A.

The Burlington P. T. A. will continue its regular meeting thruout the summer months, even though school will be closed this week. The next meeting will be held at the schoolhouse on Tuesday night, May 2nd at 7:30 (slow time).

Mrs. Susie Stephens, Miss Zelma Lee Stephens and Wilton Stephens were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stephens.

Warsaw Girl Among

Four-H Club Group In Junior Hall Of Fame

Kentucky farm boys and girls who win state championships in 4-H club work are grouped in a Junior Hall of Fame. Among those honored this year was Miss Mary K. Ewbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryle Ewbank, of Warsaw.

Miss Ewbank won the state championship at the Louisville fair and carried off many awards in this locality and national contests with her prize sheep.

RIGHT-OF-WAY IS COMPLETED

FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE NEW PETERSBURG-BELLEVUE ROAD—DEEDS SUBMITTED TO COMMISSIONER.

The right-of-way for the construction of the new Petersburg-Bellevue road has been completed this week, and all deeds have been delivered to Highway Commissioner, O. M. Rogers to be submitted to the State Highway Department for its approval.

Although it has not been officially announced, it is said that this road will be constructed this year under the supervision of the State Department of Roads. This will be an extension to the chain of state roads contemplated for the northern part of Boone County, which will, when completed, connect all parts of the county with a state road leading from Covington to U. S. 42 via Ohio River.

Magistrate Howard Huey, of Petersburg, is responsible for obtaining the right-of-way deeds for this new road, being assisted by Chas. W. Riley, County Attorney. All deeds of right-of-way were delivered to O. M. Rogers in Covington Monday by Mr. Riley, and from Mr. Rogers they will be sent to the State Department for their approval.

This new road, when complete, will be of great benefit to all those living in this community, and will also greatly increase the valuation of all property lying on or near this road. Although the general course of the old road will be followed, a few changes will be made to eliminate curves and hills.

60-Minute Revival

Friday, April 28 marks the date for the monthly 60-minute revival at the Bellevue Church of Christ. An interesting program is being planned, which will consist of your favorite gospel hymns sung and played the way you like to hear them. Other hymns will be illustrated by chalk pictures.

The message will be brought by Hans Eason, of the Jerusalem Gospel way. Several have missed the opportunity of hearing and seeing these programs before, so mark April 28 as No. 1 on your must list.

Services were dismissed at the Bellevue Church of Christ April 16 and 23 in the evening due to unavoidable circumstances, but services will continue on regular schedule April 30 and the remainder of the summer with Sunday School beginning at 10:00 a. m. and evening services at 7:30 p. m.

$15,000 SAVED TAXPAYERS

FOLLOWING PROTEST OF LOCAL OFFICIALS MADE AT FRANKFORD BEFORE STATE TAX COMMISSION.

The State Tax Commission, Frankfort, Ky., Wednesday of last week, after hearing the delegation from this county, consisting of County Tax Commissioner Wilton Stephens, County Clerk C. D. Benson, Magistrate Hubert White and County Judge N. E. Riddell, decided that the proposed increase of 15 percent on Tangible personal property and 5 percent on live stock should not be made.

The action of the State Tax Commission, based on the protest made by the above named officials means the saving of approximately $15,000 to the taxpayers of Boone County. If the proposed increase had been made each and every taxpayer in the county would have had to pay additional taxes on those classes of property.

youngsters everything else but to carry a course in American criminal instruction, of apprehension, conviction and punishment, as well as to study the reasons for our large number of criminals. The background is one good reason why school children should study the subject, he says. This is one man's mind, and there are other opinions.

ON EDGE

There has appeared a notice back of the stage in London theaters which reads, "The nerves of an enormous number of people, especially women, have been reduced to a super-sensitive condition by the constant reminder of air raids. A loud report is now a physical strain which causes both pain and actual illness." This means that a stage murder must be committed quietly without the report of guns. The report of guns is a loud shout and screams, we do not know. But it does indicate that the British nervous system is keenly pitched. To have become so wrought up over these recent crises in Europe has affected the English to a great extent. Perhaps if we were so closely bound to the range of Hitler and Mussolini, we too would have a nasty taste of nervous indigestion.

SMOKED OUT

There are all kinds of cigars on the market, the kind that you buy and the kind that somebody doesn't want to give you. We have smelled all kinds in our day, some whose aroma is good and some that left us with a slight nausea. Smoke from cigars is often aggravating when there is too much of it and especially in closed rooms. When giving away your next Christmas cigars consider the recent accident caused when a man lost control of his auto and backed into a police car. Upon arrest it was found he was intoxicated with cigar smoke. Seems he hadn't smoked since the World War. On the day of the accident he had a toothache, drank a bottle of beer and smoked a cigar, which made him dizzy. The result was the accident and the arrest. The doctor who examined him said he was drunk on cigar smoke. Readers of this county may wonder if it might not have been the beer, and then there are others who can recall certain cigars that would make an entire army smoke drunk. But bear this incident in mind when you make out your Xmas shopping list next December.

PITY HIM

Pity the man who never makes a mistake. That man never learns. He goes through life entirely unaware of the remedy for a mistake. Henry Ford says he never has made a mistake, for any wrong thing he has done is the only way he could ever learn not to do it. This would lead us to believe that a mistake is a part of all education. A mistake is a necessary part of every day's instruction. But to repeat this same mistake over and over again, without learning to rectify and qualify, is the biggest mistake of all. Thank heavens we have not a man in Boone County who has never made a mistake. To decide what is to be done, to tell somebody to do it; to listen to reasons why it should not be done, why it should be done by somebody else, or why it should be done in a different way, and to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive.

AN EXECUTIVE HAS NOTHING TO DO

Probably it was on a day when he himself had so many perplexing problems that Stain Heins, sales manager of our Hartford division, read what F. C. Biene wrote for readers of the Advertising Age, to show them what a snap executives have. Mr. Biene says executives really have nothing to do, except: To decide what is to be done, to tell somebody to do it; to listen to reasons why it should not be done, why it should be done by somebody else, or why it should be done in a different way, and to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive.

To follow up to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has not been done; to inquire why it has not been done; to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it and did not do it.

To follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly; to point out how it should have been done; to conclude that as long as it has been done it may as well be left as it is; to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly; to reflect that the person at fault has a wife and seven children, and that certainly no other executive in the world would put up with him for a moment; and that, in all probability, any successor would be just as bad or worse.

To consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done had he done it himself in the first place, to reflect that if he had done it himself he would have been able to do it right in twenty minutes, but that as things turned out he himself spent two days trying to find out why it was that it had taken somebody else three weeks to do it wrong; but to realize that such an idea would strike at the very foundation of the belief of all employees that an executive has nothing to do.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:30; 16:14-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia.—Acts 16:10.

Guidance is the moment by moment need of every man and woman, boy and girl. The whole of life calls for decisions, many of which look like decisions by every method, from reading the palm, looking at the stars, or consulting the spirits, to these smug enterprises which pose as spiritual and religious. But the only guidance that does not honor the name of Christ nor recognize Him as Redeemer and Lord.

One of the glories of the Christian faith is that the believer is indwelt by the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit Himself, who is ready and willing to give divine guidance in every detail of life from the smallest to the greatest.

We study today the coming of the gospel into Europe, and that means through our forefathers to America. We consider what from our viewpoint was a crucial point in the history of the Church. Thanks be to God that His servant Paul was in that hour obedient to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Observe that the gospel came to Europe in the will of the Lord when all of our efforts seem to be thwarted as when they prosper. Let us not forget it.

I. By Providential Hindrance (15: 36; 16:4-8).

Not only the steps, but also the stops of a good man are ordered of the Lord. That is not an easy lesson to learn. When we are in the will of the Lord when all of our efforts seem to be thwarted as when they prosper. Let us not forget it.

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a following of his in the cities where he had already preached. This was a good plan and had God's blessing (see v. 9). And so he came to the "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed.

II. By Divine Guidance (16:9, 10). The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by compelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and a man may know what is the will of God.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they come to regard them as the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity itself much harm. The three things already mentioned should never be taken as the teaching of the Spirit, (2) the teaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14).

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). It is one thing to have a vision, it is another thing to be obedient to that vision (Acts 26:19). There are some who talk much of their consecration to God, but who give little evidence of it. The little girl was right (though her grammar was wrong) when she said, "It's better to walk your talk than to talk your walk."

IV. Through a Responsive Heart (vv. 14, 15).

God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had prepared heart (v. 14). Space forbids much reference to this godly, successful business woman and house-mother, but we do note that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and the world of the earth. Have we done likewise?

WOMAN No. 1—

Here's a Woman:—(Not old)—that cannot do all the things she would like to do. Why? Her feet hurt. Long before the day is over, her legs ache and draw. Early in the afternoon her back begins to ache—then her head aches. When the day is over, she is a physical and nervous wreck, glad to be in bed. Now maybe after a night's sleep (if she gets a night's sleep) she hopes the day will bring her some body and foot comfort.

THE SECOND WOMAN—About the same age—used to suffer day after day like the first woman. Someone told her that feet out of balance and not properly supported sometimes cause leg pains—back aches and followed by headaches and general nervousness.

BUT SHE INVESTIGATED and found that these things can be corrected. After wearing surgical shoes, the foot pains disappeared—Corns and Callouses vanished—no more leg pains—no more back aches—no more headaches—and the world seemed bright again. Just like being born all over again.

IF YOU are suffering—don't put up with it another day—investigate today—Your feet may be causing all your trouble.—Adv.

Friends of Rev. Ebraugh surprised him Sunday with a beautiful birthday present. The songs that were sung were "Onward Christian Soldiers," "We Think of Thee as Christian," and "Bringing in the Sheaves."

We found these friends, Oh such good friends, They've loved us 'ere we knew it, We've drawn our hearts with cords of love, And bound them closely to us, And round our hearts will closely twine, Those ties which naught can sever; Our heart, our strength are theirs to help in work, Forever and forever.

Kentucky Politics

By Tyler Munford
Louisville, Ky., April 26.—The political peep of Louisville, nerve center of the current Democratic gubernatorial fight in Kentucky, was temporarily disturbed last week by the untimely death of Patrick J. Welsh, a lovable Irishman who, 10 days earlier, had been named to succeed Judge Shackelford Miller, Jr., as chairman of the Jefferson County Democratic Executive Committee.

Mr. Welsh won the post with the backing of Mayor Joseph Scholtz and five of the eight members of the committee. Three days after his death the committee named Thomas Burke as his successor, thus giving the Louisville mayor his second successive victory in the fight to control Democratic affairs in this metropolitan area.

While Keen Johnson-for-Governor strategists remained aloof from any interference in the Louisville contest for party control, they were never-the-less slated over developments that resulted in the election of Mr. Burke. They were in the saddle following the election of the late Mr. Welsh, and expressed complete accord with the Welsh policy of neutrality by the Louisville organization in the gubernatorial primary. Immediately after his election, Mr. Burke pledged a similar policy of neutrality.

In view of last year's open endorsement of Senator Barkley and the resultant Jefferson County majority for the Senator, Keen Johnson's advisors, without a doubt, have good reason to be elated over the organization's new policy here in Louisville. It is no secret that leaders of the Tom Rhea faction were confident of securing the open and unqualified endorsement of their candidate by the Louisville group. Actually, the based much of their hope for a Brown victory upon receiving the support of the strong Jefferson County organization. So the policy of neutrality can be accurately analyzed as a major break for Keen Johnson. It's not too far fetched to assume that the outcome of the Jefferson County fight for control of the local party organization will have a definite, if not decisive effect upon the outcome of the gubernatorial primary.

Democratic leaders outside of Jefferson County have been much concerned over the Louisville situation, and the psychology of the Louisville neutrality policy is likely to have a very definite effect in favor of the Keen Johnson candidate, as it is generally accepted that the Richmond publisher possesses far more personal appeal with the rank and file of organization Democrats in Louisville than his opponent. Certainly, it does not take a political analyst to discern a trend approaching overwhelming sentiment for Keen Johnson in Jefferson county.

This situation is partly due to the fact that Keen Johnson has never meddled in Democratic affairs here. Another and important angle is the well known fact that leaders of Louisville's now apparently united Republican party believe their chances for victory in local races here this November would be enhanced by the nomination of Mr. Brown. Many Louisville Democratic leaders, while uncommitted in the big race, are known to be thinking along the same lines. Their first interest is in the local races, but they immediately recognize the benefits that will accrue to the Louisville organization from a state ticket headed by a strong, steady, capable and well liked leader.

If state newspapers can be accepted as reflecting public sentiment in their localities, there is a decided trend in Kentucky against any new legislative program calling for increased and additional taxes, an unbalanced budget or an increase in the state debt.

Commenting on new expenditures advocated by one of the announced candidates for governor, J. H. Moore, of the Fulton Daily Leader, observes that "I have enough cussedness in me to wonder where the money is coming from and who is going to pay it."

Discussing the Brown platform, the Falmouth Outlook says, "The taxpayers of the Commonwealth are wondering where he is going to get all of this money for increased charity unless he expects to increase taxes."

The Carlisle Mercury points out that "With Mr. Brown as governor, Kentuckians could reasonably expect to see the state debt again mount."

"The Covington Times-Star suggests that 'When candidates say they propose to do this or that, citizens will be asking what they propose to use for money in the process.'"

In a recent speech on education, Mr. Brown pledged support of "Whatever appropriation is necessary to pay a minimum teacher salary of $75 a month." He did not indicate from where he expected to get the money to provide such an appropriation, but he did assert that on a basis of a full year, teachers draw salaries ranging from $6.75 to $8.75 a week while a minor under union wage scale earns $5.60 a day.

It's difficult to gather from the Brown statement whether he thinks teachers should be paid $5.60 a day or whether minors are overpaid as compared with teachers. It might be that minor has in mind a unionization program for Kentucky teachers with possible C. I. O. affiliation.

18,000 Acres Of Land Under Agreement Camp SCS-5 Walton

Owners of more than 18,000 acres of land in the Falmouth project area are under agreement with Camp SCS-5, Ky. Walton, Kentucky, of the Soil Conservation Service to replant their farms and establish erosion control practices, according to Ward T. Darnell, Camp Superintendent.

"Replanting of farms under cooperative agreement will result in wiser land use, the reduction of erosion losses and preservation of the land for future generations," Mr. Darnell said. Cooperative agreements are limited to the project area of Camp SCS-5-Ky., Walton, Kentucky.

Analysis of the cooperative agreements now in effect shows that the percentage of crop land in the replanted farms has been increased from 41.1 to 32.3 percent; permanent hay areas increased from 7.1 to 10.7 percent; pasture increased from 36.9 percent to 49 percent; and woodland and wildlife areas increase from 1.4 to 2.8 percent.

After the farms have been replanted tillage practices that will control erosion are established on the 32.3 percent of the farms remaining in cropland. In the Falmouth project area the cropland acreage amounts to 6900 acres. "These erosion control practices, which are based on research supplemented by practical application, vary in accordance with the individual problems presented by each farm," Mr. Darnell said.

Erosion control practices are found to be unnecessary on only 5 percent of the cropland, Mr. Darnell explained. The remaining 95 percent of the cropland is cultivated on the contour, which is plowing and tilling with the natural curve of the land instead of up and down slope. Strip cropping, or alternating strips of crops and meadow in rotation, is practiced on about 65 percent of the cropland.

Announcing the appointment of The TRI-COUNTY NATURAL GAS CO. as distributor of SHELLANE COOKING GAS

Shell has over thirty-three thousand oil wells such as these. They insure a continuous and unlimited supply of pure, natural gas and crude oil from which Shellane is made.

Here in these towers and tanks, Shellane is refined—made safe and clean-burning. A part of one of the large modern refineries in which millions of dollars have been invested to produce Shellane and other Shell products.

After the pressure regulators have been tested to prevent waste, the cylinders are then filled with Shellane. Here you see the filling line and scales. This assures you of full measure in each cylinder of Shellane.

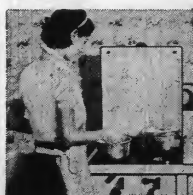

Each cylinder must be tested for perfect condition before it is allowed to leave the refinery. Here you see the "water bath," through which each cylinder must pass to be inspected for leaks. Another safeguard against waste.

In this one room you see over 1500 cylinders of Shellane, showing the tremendous supply of this pure, natural gas that is kept on hand. Shellane users need have no fear of exhausted resources or "discontinued service."

When Shellane is installed at your home, two cylinders are placed in some inconspicuous place outside the house and covered with a neat canopy. Through concealed copper tubes, the gas is then piped directly to your range, refrigerator, or water heater. When one cylinder is exhausted, we replace it promptly upon your order.

With a modern gas range, the housewife can perform all the miracles of modern cookery. No more over-switching... testing... or fear of failure. The kitchen is always cool and clean.

With Shellane, you can have an automatic water heater at small cost. This makes it possible for you to have hot water on the instant for dish washing... shaving... bathing... for laundry work. No more waiting around while the water heats.

This beautiful automatic refrigerator operates on Shellane. It has no moving parts to get out of order—an important feature to anyone anxious to avoid repairs. It also guarantees continuous performance and permanently silent operation.

YOU NO LONGER need to live in the city to enjoy the advantages of city gas service. For every home—no matter where it may be—can now have the same advantages with Shellane.

Shellane is a pure, natural gas just like the gas you get in the city. At the refinery, it is compressed into cylinders and shipped to us. We then deliver these cylinders to your home as needed and pipe the gas directly to your kitchen from outside the house.

This means that there's no longer a reason for any woman to waste her strength on hours of back-breaking labor... scrubbing... scouring... carrying coal... chopping wood. For Shellane puts an end to kitchen drudgery... banishes dirt and ashes. In fact, it doesn't even stain your pots and pans!

Shellane makes cooking fun... lets you discover the delights of modern menus. And you can have automatic hot water and automatic refrigeration, too. All at the cost of just a few cents a day! Come in and let us demonstrate the real economy of Shellane.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

No. 6 of a series

ONE INCOME THAT'S INCREASED MIGHTILY SINCE 1932!

KENTUCKY'S INCOME FROM BEER TAXES
IN 1938 $1,013,316.74

IN 1932 (last year before repeal) BEER'S TAXES WERE PRACTICALLY NOTHING!

BEER helps even those who do not drink it! To the tune of a million dollars a day nationwide, beer tax revenue reaches back into every community, to help pay for relief, for public works, for education...and to lift a burden that would otherwise rest directly on the taxpayers.

To this, add a million new jobs made by beer. And a million dollar farm market.

How can we keep these benefits...for you and for us? Brewers of America realize this depends on keeping beer retailing as wholesome as beer itself. They want to help public officials in every possible way. They cannot enforce laws. But they can—and will—cooperate!

May we send you a booklet telling of their unusual self-regulation program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

BEER...a beverage of moderation

UNITED BREWERS INDUSTRIAL FOUNDATION

played by Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford and Mary Howard, and the man in the case enacted by Alan Marshal.

One of the most sensational trials week after week filmed forms the background for the dramatic highlight of the picture which tells the story of four girls who enter upon nursing careers with four different reasons, only to be won over by the single purpose of service to humanity when the dreaded "disaster call" puts them face to face with suffering human beings.

Specifically, the story deals with a girl who decides to become a nurse as a means to a profitable marriage and what happens to her to make her a heroine rather than a selfish little schemer.

Mickey Roney is the attraction coming the Gayety Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 2, 3, and 4th in his first solo starring vehicle, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," successor to "Tom Sawyer." The new picture tells the story of a Mississippi River boy and his adventures, dramatic, comical and pathetic, while seeking to aid a runaway slave to escape to a free state in the days before the Civil War.

Much of the picture was filmed on the Sacramento River, serving for the Mississippi, where the raft trip of Huck and the runaway slave, the invasion of the swindlers "The King" and "The Duke" and the race of a river steamer to save the slave from a lynch mob, were staged.

Mickey plays the title role, with the rascally but comical "King" played by Walter Connolly and his fellow crook by William Frawley. Lynn Carver and Jo Ann Sayers play the heroines whom Huck saves by exposing the crooks, Jim the slave is played by Rex Ingram, noted Negro actor who played "De Lawd" in "Green Pastures," and Elizabeth Risdon is seen as the Widow Douglas, the boy's benefactress.

Class night will be Thursday night; school play Friday night and commencement exercises Saturday of this week.

There was no Sunday night service at Big Bone Baptist Church, April 23, due to the fact that Rev. R. A. Johnson delivered the baccalaureate services to the graduates at New Haven school.

Miss Alberta Seebree was the week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Ivaree Huff.

Mr. George Pitcher still remains seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hamilton and daughter were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton. Omer Shinkle called on Mr. J. L. Pitcher Saturday.

Robert Johnson was the guest of Anna Marie Huff Sunday.

Mrs. Bertha Huff, Mrs. Ivaree Huff and Alberta Seebree called on the Ewalt sisters Saturday afternoon.

Alberta Seebree was the guest of Clara Mae Hamilton Thursday night and Friday.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, April 28th and 29—"Huckleberry Finn," with Mickey Roney, Walter Connolly, Wm. Frawley, Lynn Carver, with every team... with every laugh... just as Mark Twain wrote it. Mickey Roney is Huck Finn... America's impish, beloved boy. No wonder, this immortal drama of life on the Mississippi... a magic blend of laughter and thrills... was chosen as your Mickey's first starring triumph.

Sunday, April 30—"Paris Honey-Sunday," with Bing Crosby, Frankie Davis, Akin Tamiroff, Shirley Ross. It's Bing's best. An hilarious honeymoon with love, laughs and four Crosby hit songs.

Monday, May 1—"King Kong," with King Kong, Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong, Bruce Cabot. The apellike monster from the prehistoric world... here... today... now... terrible, maddened, wild... rushing over rooftops... kidnapping a beautiful girl... wrecking autos, breaking walls... amazing.

Tuesday, May 2—"West of the Santa Fe," with Charlie Starrett, Iris Meredith, sons of the Pioneers. A thrill-streaked, song-sundered saga of the rugged Indian West. A female outlaw plays a lone hand as rhythms ring and thrills thunder.

Wednesday, April 27—"Cafe Society," with Madeleine Carroll, Fred MacMurray, Shirley Ross. She's queen of the deb... too rich, too gay, too high-tan. He's just a plain guy, and glamour's his poison. It's the screen's first story of that spectacular, new '400' of the night club.

Thursday, May 4—"Burn 'Em Up O'Connor," with Dennis O'Keefe, Cecilia Parker, Nat Pendleton, Harry Carey. You'll gasp... you'll howl... you'll thrill. Murder at 139 miles an hour. It's romance with speed to burn. It's fun... it's exciting. A demon on wheels, but a pretty girl had him stopped.

FIRST PRIZE

that home mortgages are the best of all investments. Banks make loans to schools in order to meet the payroll for teachers and other employees until taxes are paid. Teachers would sometimes have to wait two and three months if it were not for these loans. School buildings are often erected by the sale of bonds. The bank buys the bonds from the school board and resells them to individuals. My school and four others in the county were erected by loans made by the bank.

Likewise, banks loan money to city and state governments. Recently the city of Newport, Ky., borrowed $90,000 from the Newport National Bank to meet current obligations and payrolls. The loan was to be retired when the June taxes were collected.

Suppose the operation of the government had to cease for five or six months until June taxes were paid. Men would be out of employment, could not meet their obligations. Business in general would be retarded.

Banks make loans to boys and girls to further their education. I personally know of students and teachers in my school who were helped through college and others through a business college by loans granted by the banks.

Money is loaned to build up or establish business. Business men can hire money for a price and use that money to a profit. The business man who has learned how to use his bank in his lending facilities has learned one of the secrets of business success. Daniel Webster observed that credit has done more, a thousand times, to enrich the nations than all the mines in the world.

You might say if bank credit has done so much why don't banks lend more money? Banks have three major obligations. First to the depositors. The money is not the bank's. It is the depositor's.

Secondly to the community. Banks owe their existence to the people of the community. When a bank closes its doors it not only brings distress and hardships to the people but it paralyzes the business of the community.

Thirdly, to the stockholders. So with these responsibilities the banks cannot make credit too cheap.

Banks have taken on various activities that tie into banking operation but are outside the fundamental concept of banking. These activities may be called "good will activities."

One of the most important of these is the giving of advice and counsel. Banks are in a position to study and know marks in general.

Banks keep valuables and securities for people for a small fee. In our bank a safety vault can be rented for $1.00 per year.

Some banks have a trust department. They administer estates and serve as guardians of minor heirs.

Banks give credit information and write letters of credit.

In summarizing—banks are department stores of finance; able under one roof to do for a man anything and everything that he may need.

They provide places for the safe-keeping and growth of savings. They permit people to make and receive payments without carrying or sending money from place to place.

They make loans that are needed for starting business and industry of many kinds, for owning homes and for other personal and family wants.

They give advice about the production and exchange of goods and services and so have a large influence in the business of the nation.

So the everyday life of all of us, whether we have bank accounts or not is tied up and influenced in many ways with the service of banks and bankers.

VERONA

Rev. C. E. Brown filled his regular appointment Sunday and was entertained in the Jesse Sturgeon home. Flossie Locke was baptised at Walton Baptist Church Sunday evening with two candidates at Walton and Rev. C. E. Brown preached the baptismal service at Walton Sunday night.

Mrs. Lou Myers, of Covington, formerly of Verona, attended church Sunday and was entertained in the John Myers home.

Mrs. Emma Alexander entertained her sister, Mrs. Forest Chapman and husband and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dawson Sunday.

Mrs. Chapman is slowly recovering from a recent operation.

Mrs. C. C. Kennedy is very ill at this writing. Mr. A. T. Hunt's family was able to be at church Sunday. First time all have been here at one time since Christmas.

Archie Stephens and Lillian Harris, daughter of J. A. Harris. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

The weatherman told us there was a partial eclipse of the sun one day last week, but it looks like it has been an eclipse most of April up until Saturday.

The C. C. C. boys were planting trees in our community Saturday.

Our P-T. A. met Thursday and elected the same officers for next year.

Anything is possible. Some day you will find a wife who thinks her husband is as brilliant a man as he thinks he is.

BANDITS ROB LOCAL GARAGE

AT POINT OF MACHINE GUN—ELSMERE CAFE ROBBED OF $30 BY SAME PAIR DRIVING TENNESSEE CAR.

Two bandits, one armed with a machine gun held up an attendant at Martin's Garage, Florence early Friday morning, taking $8 from a cash register.

The bandits then drove to Butch's Cafe, 1 1/2 miles north of Martin's on Dixie Highway where they robbed the proprietor, Buford Meredith of approximately $30 and lined twenty customers against the wall, relieving them of their money. Women patrons of the cafe were not molested, according to reports.

In both of the robberies the bandits cut the telephone wires. Eddins, an employee of Martin's garage found another telephone and notified Covington police, who called Kenton county police.

The thugs were driving a light colored sedan, bearing Tennessee license, it was reported. They were sighted in Cincinnati by patrolmen who attempted to stop them on a charge of speeding but were outdistanced.

A report was received by Kenton county police Monday, stating that two men answering the description of the bandits who robbed the Florence garage and Elsmere Cafe, had been captured in Wheeling, W. Va. Photographs and fingerprints will be sent to Kenton county by Wheeling officials.

From descriptions already received from G-men there, Chief Langley of Kenton county believes that the two perpetrators Friday's foray along the Dixie Highway.

The men with a woman companion were arrested Monday by Wheeling police, after a rooftop recognized the auto in which they were riding as one used in a Washington, Pa., filling station holdup.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents said they are wanted for 11 bank and postoffice robberies in Texas and Missouri and for 100 separate crimes.

Geo. B. Black

Geo. B. Black, 72, died suddenly while at work, Thursday, April 27 at 1 p. m. He had time to utter only a few words, stating that he had a pain in his heart.

The body was removed to Chambers and Grubbs' Funeral Home for preparation, and later removed to the home of his son Ed Black.

Services were conducted Saturday April 29 at 2 p. m. at Hughes Chapel by Rev. E. M. Baldwin, in the presence of his many relatives, neighbors and friends.

He leaves two sons, Ed and William Black; four grandchildren; three brothers; four sisters; and a number of nephews and nieces to mourn his passing.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

A charge of 35 cents for sacks and 1/2 cent each for strings is made. The member is reimbursed for the sack when his clip is delivered.

7-Pound Bass Taken At Walton Reservoir

By Ward T. Darnell

The largest catch reported this season, was made Tuesday afternoon at the Walton reservoir, when Ward T. Darnell, superintendent of the Walton CCC camp, landed a seven-pound large mouth bass.

The fish must have been old "King Solomon" as the fisherman call a large bass in that lake. However we are of the opinion that there are many more in the lake equally as large if not larger.

The large bass was taken on a Heddon spinner.

Mrs. Charity B. Riggs

Mrs. Charity Bailey Riggs, passed away early Sunday morning in her home, following a brief illness, at the age of 72 years.

She leaves two sons, Leonard Riggs and Colin Riggs; 1 grandchild; two sisters, and a number of relatives and friends to mourn her passing.

Funeral services were conducted from the East Bend Methodist Church on Tuesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. Roy Johnson in the presence of her many loved ones and neighbors. Burial was in East Bend cemetery.

Chambers and Grubbs, Walton funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

GO-TO-SUNDAY SCHOOL-DAY

SUNDAY, MAY 7—EVERYONE IN BOONE COUNTY URGED TO ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL OF CHOICE.

Everyone in Boone County is urged to attend the Sunday School of his choice on Go-to-Sunday-School-Day, Sunday, May 7, 1939.

January, 1914, the Executive Committee of the Kentucky Sunday School Association decided that some method should be adopted which would make growth of the Sunday School more rapid.

It was determined that one Sunday in the year be designated Go-to-Sunday-School-Day in Kentucky. May 3, 1914 was set as the first date with the announced goal: "Wanted One Million in Sunday School on May 3, 1914." While the million was not reached, there was an increase from 215,000 to 650,000, and on Go-to-Sunday-School-Day in 1915 the million in attendance was reached.

A request was made of Governor James B. McCreary to issue a proclamation inviting all citizens and all visitors in the State to be in Sunday School of their choice on that day. This was the first time any Governor had ever issued such a proclamation. At a later date President Woodrow Wilson was asked for some expression that could be used and he sent the following: "The Sunday School lesson of today will be the code of morals of tomorrow. Too much attention cannot be given to the splendid work done by the Sunday School teachers."

The objectives of this day are: 1. To help every Sunday School in Kentucky.

2. To impress upon the community the value of the Sunday School; the fact that it is for all ages.

3. To impress upon the church a larger sense of its opportunity and responsibility in the Sunday School.

4. To see that each individual in Kentucky receives at least one invitation to attend Sunday School.

5. To stimulate all Sunday Schools to greater activity.

6. To unite the Sunday School people of the State in this definite program of building together God's Kingdom.

Will YOU join the Sunday School workers of the State in this definite program of "Building Together God's Kingdom?"

The above article was furnished us by J. Russell Cross, minister of the Union Presbyterian Church.

Big Bone Will Open Baseball Season Sun

The Big Bone baseball club will open the season Sunday, May 7th, at the Big Bone park, when they meet the Ludlow News Club.

This is the first game of the season for the Big Bone boys, and this game will give the fans an idea of what to expect from their boys this season.

COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED

WHEN 110 HOMEMAKERS ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING HELD IN NEWPORT WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26.

Homemakers from fourteen counties attended the annual Blue Grass District Federation meeting Wednesday, April 26th in Newport. One hundred ten homemakers represented Boone county at the meeting. Speakers on the program were Mrs. E. L. Crafton, Henderson county, president of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, Mrs. Sarah Holmes, assistant dean of women, University of Kentucky and Dr. Roberta Ma. China.

Campbell, Kenton and Boone counties served as hostesses to the six hundred homemakers. The meeting was held in the First Baptist Church of Newport. Lunch was served by three neighboring churches, St. Paul's, Methodist church and Congregational church.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. A. Stevens, Director of the Bluegrass District. Community singing was led by Mrs. H. C. Robinson, of Fayette county. Mrs. Albert Schabell, president of the Campbell county homemakers welcomed the guests to the northern part of the state. The business meeting followed with Mrs. Earl Broadus, Garrard county, reading the minutes. The following committee chairmen gave reports: Citizenship, Mrs. T. L. Loyd, Mason county; Publicity, Mrs. John Cox, Jr., Jessamine county and Speaker Bureau, Mrs. Graham Young, Bourbon county. Dr. Roberta Ma. China, gave a report of conditions in China.

Mrs. Bluch Rich, of Kenton county, led a panel discussion on "What a Homemaker can do to make Rural Life Satisfying." The following homemakers took part on the panel discussion: Mrs. West Dye, Mason county; Mrs. Tom Dulin, Fayette county; Mrs. Everette Dye, Lincoln county; Mrs. Will Tribble, Madison county; Mrs. John Combs, Jessamine county; Mrs. Sam Steel, Boone county and Mrs. W. A. Brewer, Clark county.

A vocal duet by Garrard county homemakers was the first on the afternoon program. Mrs. H. L. Crafton spoke on "Foundations."

"The Homemaker in a Changing World" was the subject of Mrs. Raymond Sayre's discussion. The meeting was adjourned after community singing.

The following counties were represented at the meeting: Boone, Bourbon, Boyle, Campbell, Clark, Fayette, Garrard, Jessamine, Kenton, Lincoln, Madison, Mason and Southern Madison and Rockcastle counties.

Union Farmer Injured By Runaway Team

James Bristow, 76, Union farmer, was seriously injured Tuesday, when a team of horses ran away while being unhitched.

Mr. Bristow suffered a broken vertebra and a broken rib. His condition was reported as not serious.

Following the accident he was removed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, for treatment.

BOB & GENE NINE SUFFER DEFEAT

AT HANDS OF GREEN LINE TEAM SUNDAY BY SCORE OF 6 TO 3—TEAM IS COMPOSED OF BOONE COUNTY BOYS.

Bob and Gene's aggregation lost Sunday to the strong Green Line team by a score of 6 to 3. "Hoots" Ryle, opening pitcher for Bob & Gene allowed two hits and one run. Relieved by Elmo Steffens in the fifth inning, who gave four hits and five runs to the opposing team.

The regular line-up of Bob and Gene's held the Green Line team to two runs to their three until the seventh inning. Substitute players were then put in the game for a work out and the Green Line team staged a rally and forged ahead to win by three runs.

The outstanding feat of the day was a sensational catch made in left field by McClure, of Verona, a very promising young player.

Mr. Eads, manager of Bob and Gene's, predicts that he will have another championship team again this year, made up of Boone county boys, who are all looking good on the diamond.

May 7th will be opening day for the league. Bob and Gene will play Heidelberg at the Crescent Springs ball park. The ceremonies of the opening will be speeches by Judge Goodenough, Wm. Werner, Sheriff Walton, Jake Williams. The game will be called at 3:00 p. m. (fast time).

Bob and Gene's team consists of Seebre, Boyd Mahan, Bucky Rogers, McClure, Cliff Stevens, Bink Shinkle, outfielders; Ralph Bradburn, "Shake" Ryle, Don Kirkpatrick, Bob Williamson, Joe Cahill, Alvin Clure, Gil Bosher, Jimmy Graham, pitcher; Rogers, Fitch, Hoots Ryle, Elmo Steffens and Walter Schaeffer; catchers, Bob Dennison and Rags Ryle.

Prominent Bellevue Man Passes Away Sat.

Ephraim Henry Clure, son of the late Perry and Cynthia Kelly Clure was born at Bellevue, Ky., on May 12, 1875, and departed this life on April 29, 1939 at the age of 63 years.

He was united in marriage to Jeanette Loring, of Rising Sun, Ind., on January 22, 1902, who preceded him to the grave just three weeks ago.

He united with the Bellevue Baptist Church in November 1910, and had served faithfully as deacon for the past seven years, never failing in his duty.

He leaves to mourn his passing, three sisters, Mrs. J. J. Maurer, Mrs. Andy Cook and Mrs. T. W. Rice; one half-sister, Mrs. A. S. Burcham; and two half brothers, Stanley and Wallace Clure, with a host of other relatives and friends.

He was well known throughout the county, where he was born and reared, and will long be remembered for his happy, jovial disposition.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Ray Smith and Rev. D. B. Eastep, of Latonia.

Palbearers were the six brother deacons, and the nieces carried the beautiful floral offerings. The remains were laid to rest by the side of his wife in the Rising Sun cemetery.

Elmer Lee Abdon

Elmer Lee Abdon, age 11 years, passed away Saturday morning, after an illness of only a few days. He had complained with his head, and was removed to the hospital Friday where he died.

The remains were conveyed to Chambers and Grubbs Funeral Home for preparation and afterwards taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Abdon, of Hathaway, where the body laid in state until Monday afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Big Bone Baptist church, at 2:00 p. m. by Rev. Roy Johnson, assisted by Bro. Smith, in the presence of a host of relatives and friends. Burial was in Big Bone cemetery.

He is survived by his father, mother, two brothers, one sister, grandparents and many others to mourn his going.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of arrangements.

Revival Services To Be Held At Local Baptist Church

Revival services will be held at the Burlington Baptist Church May 7-14 with services each evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. R. Lee James, pastor, will bring the messages, and Mr. Clyde Evans, will lead the singing.

Mr. Evans died for several years under George Mader-Mack, of Cincinnati. He has been soloist in several of the greater Cincinnati churches and at present is director of music at the Elsmere Baptist Church.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Townsend Club Is Organized In Boone

Meeting Wednesday night of last week at Burlington, citizens elected to form a Townsend club, under the direction of Edward Hawes, Covington, assisted by State Townsend Legionnaire Director Thomas A. Read.

The following officers were elected at the meeting: President, I. M. Eddins; vice president, A. A. King; secretary, G. E. Clifton and H. E. White, treasurer.

The newly organized club will meet each week at the courthouse in Burlington.

FLORENCE LADY NAMED CHM'N.

OF BOOTH MEMORIAL HOSPITAL—ANNUAL MAINTENANCE APPEAL WORKERS BEING RECRUITED.

The Wm. Booth Memorial Hospital is this week having their annual maintenance appeal. In this connection, James C. Layne, of Florence, has accepted the Chairmanship of Boone county and will be assisted by Mr. Lee Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ransler of Walton have been asked to head the committee in that community and other persons are being recruited throughout the county.

In a report released today by the Wm. Booth Memorial Hospital it showed that patients received 22,014 days care during the past fiscal year. Of this number $509 days, or 38 per cent of all care was given in the hospital. Of 2,770 days care, or 33 per cent were part-pay which the recipient paid from $1.00 per day or some other portion of their bills. The balance of 6235 days, or 28 per cent were paid.

The hospital at this time is seeking $25,000 to help carry the large amount of charity work done by the institution. Because of the fact that the hospital works on a 24-hour day, its overhead is naturally large. This is in line with the situation of a similar nature. No patient is ever turned away because of lack of funds, and in no case refused because they are poor.

Mr. Henderson G. Highower, General Chairman of the Advisory Board, stated the work at the hospital has been increasing each month with the charity work climbing at a slightly faster pace than that of the pay patients. He stated that many of the departments are for the good of the patient, yet adequate charges cannot be made to cover the cost of these services.

Mr. Highower further pointed out that a few years back the average stay of a patient in the hospital was 35 days. Today medical science has reduced that to 11 days. The Laboratory has contributed much to the shortening of the patient's stay at the hospital. It is a proven fact that tests and examinations made for the doctor by the laboratory enables him to establish firmly the correct diagnosis, and that, of course, is the essential factor to guide him in his treatment. The laboratory has eliminated the "hit or miss" diagnosis by the sure methods of science. However, the important point is that the patient gains thereby and this is the important consideration of the Hospital.

Booth Hospital reports that 5110 laboratory examinations were made during the past year.

FIRE DESTROYS HEBRON BARN

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $950.00—PARTIALLY COVERED BY INSURANCE IN FARMERS' MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn of Roscoe Newland, located between Hebron and Constance last Thursday morning. The blaze had gained considerable headway before the fire was discovered.

Carpenters constructing a house near the barn were the first to discover the blaze, according to Earl Aylor, of the Hebron fire department. A short time before the blaze was discovered, one of the carpenters had gone to the barn for lumber which was stored there.

The Hebron fire department was called, but the blaze had gained so much headway, it was impossible to save the structure. The Newland home, located approximately 75 feet from the barn was not damaged by the blaze, which was partly due to the efforts of the Hebron fire department.

The barn was insured in the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company for $500.00. The loss was estimated at $950.00.

Considerable lumber, farm machinery, four tons of hay and other small items were destroyed in the blaze.

Mr. F. H. Rouse, secretary of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., stated that this was the only loss reported in the company for the month of April.

Bellevue Pastor To Celebrate Eighth Anniversary Sunday

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

FLY BY NIGHTS

WHENEVER Jeff Peters, the engaging hero in the book of O. Henry stories called "The Gentle Grafter," went into a new town and spread his samples of corn cure, ink remover, etc., out in front of him, he always took one precaution. He made note of how soon the next train left.

He had to. Jeff never knew what minute he'd have to fold up his kit and hot-foot it for the station, with policemen and angry customers in close pursuit.

He was that kind of business man. We call them "fly by nights." They still infest our cities and towns, but you never saw one of them advertise or build a lasting success.

The man who advertises for your patronage shows that he has foresight and courage. He wants to establish goodwill and to remain in business, and the best way for him to do these things is to send down roots and advertise so that you may come to him whenever you need what he sells.

Jeff Peters stands for the futile parasite, hanging around the fringe of respectable society, dashing in and taking whatever he can, giving nothing in return, ready to flee at can razz a team, just listen to some woman tell a gentleman of the diamond how to improve himself and the game. You should hear it.

There is much joy in all villages with their various caseys coming to bat and America throws off the fear of guns for the pleasure of bats and balls. Let us get out the pep from the moth balls and back up the local boys. It is going to be a good season, so let's play ball!

THEY SUGGEST

Bless science, we will get it yet! They inform us that the world is yearning for a genius to discover a process of extracting honey and sugar from flowers instead of leaving it to the bees. We are in need of a process to extract milk and butterfat from cows. They suggest we can use an auto that will skim over snow drifts and ride waves. The need of collecting and storing electricity from lightning and a power axe for chopping down trees, are a couple of ideas that have been suggested.

The idea of a fabricated seat for farm machines, instead of the metal ones which are not so pleasant on cold and wet days, isn't such a bad idea. What next?

THROW IT AWAY
You have heard of the Chicago dentist who attached dollar bills to weights and dropped them from his office window into the street. You see he was working on the principle that prosperity could be coaxed back into being if folks would throw money away. It is a sucker bait. Now suppose we can't afford to cast ten dollar bills from office windows, and if we could there would be some kind soul in Boone County who would see that we were put in the proper institution.

Most folks have been reared with the saving for a rainy day in mind, and the idea of courting prosperity by spending widely, hasn't proved its worth to us.

NO BACKGROUND?
Whenever you hear someone boast of their pet's pedigree and its fancy forebears, you sort of feel sorry for the mutt that just grew up, for no reason. But consider the English non-pedigree cow who has beaten the world's milk yield for twenty-nine days short of a year. The amount was 38,648 pounds of milk. And no pedigree!

This cow, a little red one named "Cherry," is between eight and nine years old. She has had five calves and the owner of Cherry hopes one of the new babies will live to break a record. And then someone will pop up with a song of pedigree and Cherry will feel called upon to produce ancestors from the Mayflower, and spoil the thing.

THE AMERICAN MERCHANT
The American merchant has given the American people the best retail service in the world. A typical well-town store in this country, dealing in food, hardware, drugs, dry goods or anything else, offers a far wider selection of goods, of a far better quality, than a typical store in any other land. This goes for single-unit as well as multiple-unit merchandising.

Equally important, first-class service hasn't involved high price. In the typical store, costs have been cut to the bone. Centralized buying has reduced handling and distributing expenses. Big turnover has made it possible to earn a satisfactory gross profit at a very small unit profit. The result, from the consumer's point of view, is more goods for less money, and a higher standard of living for the family.

Economists, consumer groups,

Charles B. Roth

A business organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, and in Washington the government has an elaborate Bureau of Standards.

You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing power, every day of every year.

Under a free competitive system, every merchant tries to outdo the merchant next door. He lowers prices when he can. When that is impractical, he offers additional services. He increases his advertising, and better his displays.

And a whole community profits. So does the merchant himself, who finds more and more customers entering his door—and taking more and more goods away with them when they leave.

Of late years we have had a legislative epidemic of laws which in one way or another curb competition, force merchandising costs to rise, and thus tend to reduce the general standard of living. But recently enthusiasm for such laws seems to have considerably cooled.

Most of us have come to realize that no one wins in the long run when we put laws in the path of progress in any field.

MATS FOR BEAUTY
Make mats from monk's cloth in a natural shade for pottery dishes. Cut cloth to size, fringe edges and overcast them in colored yarns. To make a daintier mat, cut from flowered percales and dress up with rickrack trimming. For delicate china, dainty swiss mats in pastel shades make attractive ones.

PAUL WORKS A HARD FIELD

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1, 4, 11. 1 Cor. 13:1-3.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."—Philippians 4:13.

"Sissy!" That one word uttered with the depth of scorn of which only a school boy is capable, is enough to ruin the happiness of the one toward whom it is directed. The writer of these notes has a many son of eight years of age who is a perfect little fellow, with a heart, but one great fear, namely, that he may do something that will mark him as a "sissy." It is a commendable thing that boys should be afraid of being called "sissies," for they are properly instructed in home and church so that they know that real manly courage does not mean being a ruffian or an ungovernable person.

One could wish that more of that spirit were evident in the Christian Church. We really have all too many professed believers who are "soft"—afraid of the hard blows of life. These people tell young folk both by word and deed that Christianity is a religion for the soft-hearted and sentimental, when as a matter of fact it calls for all the red-blooded vitality of the strongest man and woman. Here is a place for the boy or girl, man or woman who has a backbone and the spirit of the pioneer. It is a great and glorious battle in which we are engaged. Paul knew it and lived it. In the progress of his ministry we find him at Athens (Acts 17), where a brilliant appeal to the philosophers of that place brought little result. From thence he comes to Corinth, one of the greatest and most wicked cities of the day. Here he meets a difficult task.

I. Human Inability (Acts 18:1, 4-8).
To call a man a "Corinthian" was to label him as a drunkard and a libertine. The town was really tough and Paul walked right into that impossible situation to preach the gospel. He naturally first went to the Jews in the synagogue, but when he preached Christ they made short work of putting him out. Rather he should say he very definitely separated himself from them. Consider the graphic picture in verse 6. But he didn't go far, he meets a difficult task. Paul was in the house next door, where God had a believer all prepared to receive him. The preacher of the truth must have, but he does not run away from God's appointed place.

Opposition was evidently keen, and as Paul came and went the leaders in the synagogue would probably meet him and make known their plans to destroy him. This, added to the opposition of the wicked city, was enough to discourage any man. He had some results (v. 8), but on the whole he had to struggle with the heartbreak of an impossible task. But the hour of man's extremity is the time of God's opportunity. There comes

II. Divine Encouragement (Acts 18:9-11).
God never tries His people beyond their ability to bear. It is not always given to His servants to have the assurance of success which came to Paul, but in all probability they do not face such staggering discouragement. In any case, those who have walked in the valley as well as on the mountain top with the Lord testify that He gives strength in the hour of weakness to all those who trust Him.

Paul was assured that no bodily harm would come to him and that he was not to think that he was alone, for there were many of God's people even in that wicked city. Safety and fellowship were thus assured, and none too soon, for almost at once a bitter persecution broke out against him. Read verses 12-17. Note that the assurance of God's protecting care does not mean that we shall escape trials and sorrows, but that we are to be kept in the midst of them.

III. The Secret of Victory (1 Cor. 2:15).
Looking back on his ministry in Corinth, Paul writes of the secret of his successful work there. This is a passage that every teacher and preacher of God's Word should prayerfully ponder. Eloquence, human wisdom and self-confidence may be the basis of success in the things of the world, but not in the ministry of the gospel. How well we know that the most carefully reasoned and well-phrased message may be utterly flat and powerless, while the stumbling utterance from a heart full of the love and grace of God "becomes a fire, and a searching and a burning, because the Holy Spirit catches it up and bears it upon the inner consciousness of men" (Morgan). The man who preaches without this aid, and trembles with the sacredness of his task, his own unworthiness, and an appreciation of the power of God, may be eloquent and learned, but he will accomplish little for God.

Kentucky Politics

BY TYLER MUNFORD

Louisville, May 3.—With Colonel Matt Winn's Kentucky Derby scheduled for Saturday, King Horse this week is stealing the limelight from the state political arena. Louisville's hotels are already packed to capacity and Derby visitors are arriving in the Kentucky metropolis by the thousands. Even politicians are forgetting campaign problems as the Derby Day spirit invades the headquarters of both camps. So from now until Monday, politics are likely to be buried in the midnight oil trying to figure whether to invest their two bucks on Technician, El Chico, Steel Heels or some other flying knight of the turf scheduled to go down in the Elmgrove classic.

In keeping with the Derby season, Wilmer G. Mason, the Cincinnati Enquirer's Kentucky political commentator, lists the following "form" on the two principal contenders in this summer's gubernatorial derby:

"Ken Johnson—Favorite, but carrying top weight.

"John Y. Brown—In new hands; superior mudder."

Louisville Politics Quiet After Scholtz Victory

Mayor Scholtz's complete victory of last week in the fight to reorganize party machinery in Louisville left the situation here quiet. While the organization has adopted a neutral policy in the gubernatorial race, this does not preclude party leaders affiliated with the group from assisting the candidate of their choice, and without question most of them are Johnson-minded.

Brown Camp Seeks Farm Man for Manager

Aside from the Louisville development, the only major happening of the past week was the effort of the Brown-Rhea camp to secure the services of a prominent farm organization leader as state campaign manager.

Politicians here say that the strategy was the result of Brown's known weakness in farming sections throughout Kentucky—a weakness generally attributed to his affiliation with the John L. Lewis C. I. O. organization. In Kentucky, agriculture and labor do not see eye to eye, and in the mind of the average farmer the C. I. O. is looked upon with grave concern because of its potential invasion of the farming industry.

Regardless of arguments for organization, it is extremely doubtful if Kentucky farmers are ready for unionization. Already on the Pacific coast and in neighboring Old Mexico farm unions have made their appearance with the result that organization there is a major problem in the agricultural setup.

This column hears that the farm leader approached with the managerness proposal turned down the offer. Another angle on the Brown Rhea quest for a manager is said to be the immediate necessity of securing a state chairman to act as a "front" for the organization.

Under the present arrangement, Thomas S. Rhea, the Russellville Gray Fox, is both the man-behind-the-scenes and also the "front." A smart manipulator and organizer, Tom Rhea is the prima donna in the camp of the Lexington attorney. Another familiar figure who spends much time in Brown headquarters is the veteran Dr. Milton Board, who gained political prominence years ago in his legislative fight to rip the State Board of Health. These two veterans know all the political answers, but apparently the crying need of the Brown headquarters is a "front" who hails from without the realm of practical politics.

Courier-Journal Asks "Where's the Money?"

In a recent editorial, Kentucky's powerful and influential newspaper, the Louisville Courier-Journal, reflects what apparently is the attitude of responsible Kentucky citizens on the subject of increased pensions, a higher school per capita and other social improvements.

The Courier-Journal says in part as follows:

"Mr. Brown asserts that he is 100 per cent in favor of the great social aims and accomplishments of our great leader, President Roosevelt." Well, so is this newspaper. It has, indeed, striven with all its might for New Deal objectives. It thinks $30 a month pensions would be fine, and so would be a $750,000 fund for teacher retirement, and minimum pay for teachers of $75 monthly. But where's the money?

"That is the nub of the question, and the Courier-Journal does not believe that the taxpaying public is going to be content with any such generality (again quoting Mr. Brown) as: 'We'll get the money where the money is.'

"In the circumstances, this phrase has to be peripatetic, in that it scurries hither and yon and get nowhere."

While directed at Mr. Brown's platform, what the Courier-Journal says is applicable to all candidates for the gubernatorial nomination. Promises of huge expenditures without provision for additional revenue to take care of them are as worthless as a piece of Confederate currency after Sherman's march to the sea.

Chandler-Hopkins Meet At Keenland Track

Two prominent figures in last year's Kentucky senatorial battle, Governor Albert B. Chandler and Harry Hopkins, met accidentally at the Keenland race track near Lexington Thursday afternoon.

"Happy" greeted the ex-W. P. A. head with a smile, and a brisk conversation followed about horse racing and fishing.

Following the 1935 senatorial primary, Hopkins was under fire by a Senate investigating committee for activity of his department in the Kentucky fight.

ITALIAN RYE GRASS

G. D. Hieronymus, Kentucky Master Farmer, last fall seeded the first Italian rye grass to be tried in Lee county. County Agent T. H. Jones reported that on April 1 it was 6 to 8 inches high. Two Beattyville merchants sold 10,500 pounds of rye grass seed, and Mr. Jones predicts a big acreage will be sowed next fall.

Though Sherman thought war was one thing, there are a good many nations that think they can't get along without one.

GLASGOW MAN CATCHES 70-POUND STURGEON ON CUMBERLAND RIVER

Frankfort, Ky., May 3.—(When bigger fish are caught I will catch them," said John Nelson, Glasgow's noted cave explorer, as he returned recently from Lock No. 21, on Cumberland River where he landed a 70-pound sturgeon. Mr. Nelson, with the aid of his son, Owen, landed the monster by the gills on an unbaited throw line. The cast had been made only ten minutes prior. Eggs that practically filled a 3 gallon bucket were taken from the fish.

The sturgeon was 5 feet and 3 inches long and is a rare species for that section of the state. This fish thrives mostly in the sea and enters rivers to spawn. They are the largest member of the sucker family and have elongated body covered with tough skin. Their flesh is eaten; their roe is made into caviar and their bladder into isinglass.

Minor E. Clark, biologist for the Division of Game and Fish, in making an identification of the fish from a photo, stated:

"It is impossible to make a definite identification of the fish from a picture of this sort since only a few of the most important characters can be seen with certainty. It is my belief that this fish is a very old red sturgeon (Acipenser rubicundus). This belief is based on the shape of the body and head, the apparent scutes or bony plates on the back, and the position of the dorsal fin.

"I cannot tell whether the fish is naked, scaled, or has bony plates. Besides this row of scutes there should be two others on either side of the body. As the sturgeon varies much with age, the scutes become smoother or largerly absorbed and the snout shorter. This species does not have the shovel-shaped snout in the young, however, as does the more common sturgeon and the pectoral pincule is short and roundish instead of long and flattened."

PUBLIC TO INSPECT SOIL IMPROVEMENTS

How use of phosphate fertilizers and limestone improve soil fertility and increase crop yields will be studied by the public in meeting the week of May 21 at the test fields which the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station maintains over the state. Effects of crop rotation also will be noted.

Meetings are scheduled to be held at the Greenville field, May 23; Campbellsville, May 24; Fariston, May 25, and Berea, May 26. At all fields, wheat, clover and grasses will be seen growing on land treated with fertilizers and on untreated land. At Campbellsville and Greenville, good bluegrass sod has been produced, in preparation for growing tobacco.

Other tests at these fields compare the various phosphate fertilizers, including the Tennessee Valley Authority triple-superphosphate.

RABBIT HASH HOMEMAKERS

The Rabbit Hash Homemakers will hold their regular all day monthly meeting at the cream station Tuesday, May 9th. Subject of the day will be "Slip Covers."

WOULD PRESERVE CHEAP EGGS FOR USE NEXT WINTER

Eggs are so cheap on farms in Kentucky this spring that J. E. Humphrey of the State College of Agriculture at Lexington is urging housewives to preserve them for use next fall and winter when they may be worth twice as much or even more.

Waterglass solution is the common method of preserving eggs for home use. One quart of waterglass is sufficient for 15 to 18 dozen eggs. To make the solution, boil and cool nine quarts of water. Then mix the quart of waterglass with the nine quarts of water in stone jars, crocks or galvanized vessels that have been sterilized with boiling water.

Pour the containers half-full and add more liquid, if necessary, when the eggs are in the solution. The solution should cover the top layer of eggs to a depth of at least two inches.

Use only fresh eggs with sound shells, says Mr. Humphrey. The eggs may be placed in the solution as they are gathered, with the little end down. A plate or cover may be placed over the eggs to prevent the coming to the surface. Cover the vessel to prevent undue evaporation and store in a cool place. Examine the vessels occasionally and add more water if necessary. In the event that eggs preserved by this method are used for boiling, a pin hole should be made in the large end.

OFFERS SUGGESTIONS ON SHEARING SHEEP

Sheep shearing is best done after cold weather is over and warm days have caused the flow of oil known as yolk which puts the wool in proper condition for shearing, says a statement by Richard C. Miller of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. If shearing is delayed too long, the wool becomes dead and dull. Shearing should not be done when the wool is wet, as damp fleeces do not keep well.

A clean place for shearing is important, since dirt or other foreign material lowers the value of the fleeces. Shearing may be done on clean floor, tarpaulin or grass sod. Sweep the floor of objectionable material after shearing each sheep.

Tags and filthy locks should be removed before the fleece is rolled and tied. Roll the fleece flesh side out, starting at the breech part and proceeding toward the neck. Tie with paper twine, using only enough twine to hold the fleece intact, which is about 8 1/2 feet to the average fleece.

Wool should be packed in standard sized burlap sacks, 7 1/2 feet by 40 inches, made especially for this purpose. Ewe, wether, ram, lamb and black, burry, seedy, taggy and dead wool should be packed separately.

Rough handling of sheep in shearing is unnecessary and unwarranted, and only adds to the difficulties of shearing, and may result in injury to the animals. Caution is also necessary to avoid cutting tests, which might make ewes unprofitable as breeders.

The saleslady who should be demoted to the basement store "is the very latest thing," and "everybody is wearing one." A tree setting campaign resulted in planting 23,000 locust and 500 poplar trees in Butler county.

H. S. CLEVELAND WILL RECEIVE PRESENT FROM U. S. GOVERNMENT

To culminate four years' successful service as manager of the Kentucky State Fair—during which period the fair has made an exceptional record for increased service to the state and a continuing attendance—Manager H. S. Cleveland will receive an unexpected present this year from the United States Government, for the Federal Writers Project of the W. P. A. has just announced that it is preparing a one hundred page book on Kentucky Fairs in general and the State Fair in particular. The book will be off the presses in time for distribution at the 1939 State Fair.

Naturally the Government in Washington did not realize there was a personal tribute in the offering when the Writers Project was authorized to make a report on the "Fair Movement in Kentucky." However, Mr. Cleveland, has been symbolic of the State Fair since his appointment as manager shortly before the 1936 renewal and he has also been so active in county fair work that the book cannot help but be a tribute to his four year stewardship.

The original idea of the book was sponsored by Dean Thomas D. Cooper, of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. After its approval by Henry G. Alsberg, National Director of the Writers Project, the work of accumulating materials and supervising the edition was entrusted to Doctor U. R. Bell, who is State Director for Kentucky.

At the present time the files of newspapers and other historical records are being combed to determine the original date of the first fair ever held in Kentucky. According to tradition, this fair was held in the Blue Grass in 1816, but it is believed that earlier fairs have been formally organized and staged.

Fair records now in Mr. Cleveland's possession do not date back beyond 1897, when the Kentucky State Fair was first held in Louisville. Although some of the records were damaged during the 1937 flood, it is shown that the fair was held regularly for almost a half century thereafter in various parts of the State.

Louisville entertained the State Fair in 1902, and in 1906 was made the permanent location. Originally, the event was staged at Churchill Downs Track, but in 1908 the state acquired large properties in the Western section of the city, and the official permanent State Fair grounds with several of the present buildings, were dedicated in 1908.

Mr. Cleveland's staff is already busily engaged in preparing for the 1939 "stream lined edition" of the Kentucky State Fair. At the present time a new forty-four stall horse barn is being erected, an absolute necessity since the great annual Kentucky horse show has for the last several years overcrowded facilities.

The new horse barn will also replace one on the fair grounds—a development urgently needed because the beef and dairy shows during the past few years has strained the resources of the Fair Grounds.

Another instance of the tremendous growth of the State Fair is the fact that the sheep and swine barns built less than five years ago, and then considered adequate for almost any future need, have been outgrown since 1937. At last year's fair it was necessary to build temporary pens for over-floors in both barns.

Several other departments in the State Fair have grown so rapidly under Mr. Cleveland's administration that they deserve special mention. The Women's Department has attracted so many entries in 1938, '37, and '36 that it has become a miniature fair in itself. And the boys' and girls' clubs' exhibits, which are now housed under separate roof, are beginning to match the excellence of the senior section. In line with the new rapid growth of homemakers' clubs in the State of Kentucky, Mr. Cleveland is this year opening a new department to permit various county clubs to compete for prizes.

Mr. Cleveland is also concerned over the imminent shortage of facilities for entertaining the 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America with adequate house for the poultry and live stock exhibited by these organizations. Last year, more than 100 members of the younger generation in the 4-H and F. F. A. organizations participated in events.

Another increasingly important development under Manager Cleveland, which has been a service not only to farmers of Kentucky, but also to the manufacturers has been the farm machinery exhibit and its tremendous growth increase in the past few years. Exhibit space for farm machinery used to be donated to manufacturers but the space is now sold and has become an important part of the State Fair revenue.

The way some radio audiences applaud for some programs, the only way we can account for it is because they were admitted without charge.

KENTUCKY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

The Falmouth people will host to Young People from the entire state when the State Christian Endeavor Convention opens on Friday evening, May 19th, in the First Christian Church of which Rev. W. H. Punderburk is pastor. The session will be presided over by Rev. Albert Williams of Booneville, Ky., the State President of the Kentucky Christian Endeavor Union.

Plans have been completed and there is an array of fine leadership. Ernest S. Marks, General Secretary of the International Society of Christian Endeavor with special work in the Michigan Union, will be on hand to give expert advice on principles of Christian Endeavor and methods of work. Rev. Bruce McCullough, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Clinton, Iowa, and one of the most popular of last year's convention-leaders will speak several times. Dr. Stephen J. Corey, President of the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., will give the opening address. Dr. Frederick A. Wallis will give the banquet address on Saturday night.

One of the features for this year will be two conference hours for denomination groups for the purpose of emphasizing denominational programs and showing how they can be correlated with the Christian Endeavor organization. Dr. W. B. Sullivan of Huntington, W. Va., will lead the Presbyterian U. S. conferences; Dr. F. Campbell Symonds the Presbyterian, U. S. A. conferences; and Dr. C. C. Bobbitt, of Lexington, Ky., the Disciples of Christ Conferences.

Separate sessions will be held on Saturday for Junior and Intermediate boys and girls. For detailed information write Miss Virginia Lowery, 122 Sult Ave., Louisville, Ky. Registration should be sent to Miss Marion Colbert, Falmouth, Kentucky.

THE GARDEN

THE VINE CROPS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

The vine crops comprise cucumbers, squashes, cantaloupes and watermelons. Because they resemble each other throughout they can well be discussed together.

In their fertility requirements, all are just medium, about that needed for 30-bushel corn. Gardens that have been given 10 tons of manure and 300 pounds of superphosphate will grow them as well. If commercial fertilizer is to be depended upon, it should be 4-12-4, 500 pounds per acre.

Watermelons, squashes and other running squashes as well as the larger cantaloupes should be spaced in "hills" spaced in squares, two plants each, of from 10 feet to 6 feet, but the others are best raised in continuous rows, 3 feet apart for bush squash and cucumbers and 4 to 5 feet for cantaloupes. With a final stand of 18 inches, manure may be put under the seed or not, but the roots soon reach the soil beyond.

The average time for starting all the vine crops is May 1 to May 15. As for varieties to use, the choice is legion, but these are generally adapted in Kentucky as suitable.

Cucumbers for slicing, any white spine; for pickling, any black spine; or for both, the dual purpose Long Green.

Squashes—As "cymbalings," White Bush (patty-pan) or Garden Summer Straightneck, excellent cymbaling is Acorn, which when mature, makes a superior squash for winter storing. For baking, Green Cushaw is most popular, in late summer and for winter, but Kitchenette, or any of the "Marrow" types, or Essex Hybrid excel. For winter storing, under conditions Cushaw might fail to keep, any of the Hubbard types are suggested as having "character" and flavor no other squashes have. Of cantaloupes, the netted gem sorts still continue the most popular, but Honey Ball, containing Casaba "blood" is coming to the fore. For later cantaloupes, Tip Top cannot be beat except possibly by Bender's Surprise, somewhat more uniform than its Tip Top parent.

Of watermelons, Stone Mountain is best, in this writer's opinion, though Kleckley and Dixie Queen and Thurmond's Grey have their protagonists. Growers whose watermelons succumb to the wilt disease, carried in the soil, will be glad to learn that wilt-resistant strains of both Stone Mountain and Kleckley may be had at the larger seed houses.

The two main insect pests are plant lice and the striped cucumber beetle doing a slight damage. The control of these insects is detailed in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 309.

A disease common to all vine crops is blight, which causes the leaves to blacken and drop off. Its control is effected by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, described in this column, and in Circular No. 309.

A serious disease of watermelons, but attacking none of the other vine crops, is wilt, described above where watermelon varieties were named.

HEBRON 4-H CLUB MEETING

The 4-H club meeting was called to order by the president, Billy Graves, April 18, 1939. Roll call secretary report by L. C. Hossman. Mr. Drake then told us about Sears, Roebuck Co., going to sponsor a picture show at Burlington, Ky., June 22. The club having the most present will receive a cash award. Let's all be present and win for Hebron.

Mr. Drake gave literature to all members that were to give demonstrations at the Spring Rally. The club adjourned by repeating the club pledge.

LOCAL OFFICE RANKS HIGH

IN SALE OF SAVINGS BONDS
—TWENTY-FOURTH POSITION
WON BY BURLINGTON POST-OFFICE.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced today that the total sales of Savings Bonds thru March 31, 1939, aggregated in maturity value, more than $2,437,108,850, and that purchases have been made by approximately 1,564,608 investors. The total represents average purchases of $1,937.925 for each business day since March 1, 1935, when these bonds were first placed on sale. Deducting bonds redeemed, the maturity value of Savings Bonds outstanding on March 31, 1939 was approximately $2,206,008,900.

The total maturity value of purchases for the calendar year 1938 was $707,291,650, an average purchase for each business day of last year of $2,334,300.

The attached tabulations show for the year 1938 the cash purchases in the forty cities, towns and villages which led the nation in purchases for last year in their respective post office classifications.

There is also shown for the year the first, second, third and fourth class offices in each state which led in the total cash amount of bonds purchased.

Direct-by-mail and post office purchases from Chicago, Illinois, give that city the lead for the Nation and for the first class post offices. Chicago's cash purchases for the period were $3,813,900.

Calumet, Michigan, leads the second class post offices, with a cash purchase of $219,918.75. Horse Cave, Kentucky, leads all third class post offices, having a cash purchase of $65,868.75.

The fourth class post offices are led once again by Plemonts, Texas. This town led its class in 1937 with a cash purchase of $58,500, and this year it tops its class with the extraordinary amount of $99,637.50.

Approximately 22,000 post offices throughout the country sell United States Savings Bonds. Regional reports as to annual purchases at each of these offices and mail order purchases originating in their respective territories are being forwarded to the postmasters concerned.

Burlington office ranked twenty-fourth in the list of third class post offices in Kentucky.

The total cash purchases in Kentucky from January 1, 1938 through December 31, 1938 was $8,138,382.50 a per capita sale for Kentucky of $3.11.

Miss Sarah Belle Wilson of Walton and Mr. Hubert Waller, of LaGrange were united in marriage several months ago, according to an announcement last week.

The groom was a former resident of Florence, having been employed at the Florence Garage, but for the past several months has been employed as a guard at the state penitentiary, LaGrange where the happy young couple will make their home.

Crume-Worthington

Announcement was made last week of the marriage of Miss Polly Crume and Mr. John Worthington both of Florence.

Miss Crume is the attractive daughter of Rev. T. C. Crume, of Highway 42, and the groom is the son of Frank Worthington of the same address.

Mr. Worthington will operate the filling station located at Dixie View Nurseries on Highway 42.

The Recorder joins in wishing this young couple many years of success and happiness.

Tobacco Plant

Schedule Adopted

Plans for the 1939 Blue Mold and leaf diseases in plant bed control demonstrations have been worked out and are being submitted to growers this week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

The plan briefly, is as follows: Bordeaux mixture treatment, 3-4-50 strength at the rate of 25 gallons per 100 linear feet of a nine foot bed. Apply when plants have four leaves. Apply second treatment two weeks later.

Cuprode treatment — Apply when Blue Mold appears in plant beds in Central Kentucky.

This plan should aid growers in producing higher quality plants that should improve both the yield and quality of crop produced.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that all dogs found on my farm from the time of the publication of this notice thereafter will be killed. It is the policy of the farm to keep it free of dogs.

Losses Light In Sheep Protective Association

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association to date has insured flocks of 100 farmers owning in excess of 5000 old sheep. Totals losses have been limited to 7 members and 25 sheep valued at $148.00. The largest single loss was the flock of Howard Kelly of Florence the past week, when 15 lambs were killed and 35 head injured.

Despite the light loss by members to date the losses to non-members has been unusually heavy the past three weeks. Most of the recent losses have been in spring lambs.

Sixteen Attend Poultry Tour In Cincinnati

Sixteen attended the tour of the Cincinnati poultry market on April 27th, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Principal places visited on the tour included the Eberle Commission and Storage Co., Peters Poultry Co. and the Cooperative Pure Milk Association Egg Buying Plant.

Those attending reported the tour very much worthwhile and many helpful points for market improvement were studied.

Miller Addresses

Sheep Growers

Mr. R. C. Miller, Sheep Field Agent of the College of Agriculture, addressed sheep raisers in a meeting at Burlington last Monday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. He advised growers to cooperate in dog law enforcement, market lamb improvement and parasite control.

Northwestern range breeding ewes crossed on purebred rams were recommended as foundation stock for market lamb improvement. He advised that thousands of so called northwestern range ewes sold in the state last year were south Texas ewes, not desirable for our conditions. A five-point program including the following points were recommended for parasite control.

1. Start healthy stock.
2. Pasture rotation.
3. Test flock for worms once per month from May thru October.
4. Treat all lambs on farm after June 15th that are at least 8 weeks old.
5. Avoid bringing diseased sheep on farm thru purchase of rams, etc.

Homemakers Have Training Classes On Slip Covers

Home Improvement leaders of the Boone county homemakers have attended two training classes during the last week. Miss Ida C. Hagman, Home Improvement Specialist, University of Kentucky led the two lessons on blocking and making slip covers. Leaders from each of the twelve clubs in the county attended the classes according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, home demonstration agent.

Miss Hagman demonstrated how to make slip covers and cushions for overstuffed furniture, straight back kitchen chairs and rocking chairs. Leaders made the various type covers during the two days.

Mrs. George Casper, county project chairman of Home Improvement, reported that homemakers were interested in the slip cover lessons. She reported that everyone who attended the April meetings learned how to make the three most practical types of seam finishes for covers. Mrs. Casper asked that every homemaker make some type of slip cover, based cushion or channel cushion during the lessons in May and June.

How Foot Troubles Affect The Whole Body

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at Peoples' Foot Comfort
9th and Madison Ave., Cov., Ky.

Unless one is, or has been, a sufferer from foot troubles, it is rather hard for him to understand the far reaching effects which such conditions produce. In our schools days, we received at least a superficial education in physiology which included the nervous system.

It may be compared with an intricate and comprehensive electric system. Messages are instantly transmitted from one part of the system to every other part. So it is with the human nervous network that reaches every part of the body.

It is a demonstrated fact that the pains produced by foot troubles can and do travel to and seriously affect other parts of the body far removed from the feet. Sometime ago a Chicago School had occasion to serve a man who had both ARCH and EYE trouble. While no one suspected that there was any connection between the two, it developed that when his foot troubles were relieved his eyes showed a marked improvement. Headaches are almost invariably traced to the stomach, eyes, liver or some other part of the body. The feet can and do produce the same condition. No one suffering from intense foot pain can conceal it from his or her facial expression.

MATTRESS DON'T

Do not hang a mattress over your clothesline in order to air it. This may cause the filling to separate. Air the mattress flat in the sunshine and be sure and turn so each side is well-aired.

JARRING CONTROLS

CURCULIO OF FRUIT
Curculio, already found on plums, peaches and cherries in Western Kentucky, may be controlled by jarring them out of the trees, says P. O. Ritcher of the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. Long before sprays were invented, growers controlled curculios by daily jarring of the trees, and he suggests that owners of only a few trees who do not wish to spray continue this method.

Spraying with arsenate of lead kills many adult curculios when applied soon after peach shuck-fall land again two weeks later. Some growers spray without regard to the presence of curculios. Others practice jarring to see if the pest is present, before spraying and this is what more growers should do, says Ritcher.

Jarring is done by spreading a canvas or sheet under the tree and then striking limbs several blows with a padded mallet or end of a 2 by 4 well padded. The adult curculios fall on the sheet, and then should be destroyed. Jarring is best done early in the morning before the curculios become active.

Early in the season jarring should be done on plum or peach trees at the edge of the orchard. This makes it possible to follow the movements of the pest and to know whether they are abundant enough to warrant spraying. When jarring indicates curculios are present generally, spraying should start in the part of the orchard in which they were found first. This spray consists of two pounds of arsenate of lead and 6 pounds of lime to 100 gallons of water. Commercial growers should refer to the Experiment Station spray schedule.

IN YOUR GARDENING

In gardening, rub your hands with lotion, being sure to have plenty around and under the nails. The dirt will not go into your pores and there will not be so much grime to remove. Putting soap under your nails will help to absorb some of the dirt.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Saturday—"Ride a Crooked Mile."
Sun. and Mon.—"Fast and Loose."
Tuesday—"Boy Trouble."
Wed. and Thursday, May 10 and 11—"Idiot's Delight."

There's one man in Hollywood who's glad to be bad! He's Lynne Overman, who, after wisecracking his way through dozens of pictures, is cast as a "menace" for the first time in the new picture, "Ride a Crooked Mile" which will have its first local showing at the Gayety Theatre on Friday and Saturday. His role is that of "Okla. Hunk," a hardboiled, tough-as-nails inmate of Leavenworth prison in this story of a Co-sack who runs afoul of the United States government while practicing old-world banditry in Kansas.

Ten thousand books from several of Southern California's finest libraries were insured for $100,000 during the four weeks that "Fast and Loose," Robert Montgomery's and Rosalind Russell's newest, co-starring vehicle, which will be on the screen at the Gayety Sunday and Monday. The books, rented from private libraries, line the walls of the huge library set in "Fast and Loose" and seem with mystery throughout the story.

George Archambaud, who showed his penchant for domestic comedy in the recent "Thanks for the Memory," was the man assigned by Paramount to direct the new Charlie Ruggles-Mary Boland picture, "Boy Trouble," which will have its first local showing Tuesday of next week at the Gayety. The story, by Laura and S. J. Perelman, revolves about the experiences of a typical American couple who absent-mindedly adopt two obstreperous boys.

Clark Gable and his six blonde dancing gummies became the champion gum chewers of Hollywood during the filming of "Idiot's Delight," which co-stars Norma Shearer and Gable, and will be shown at the Gayety Wednesday and Thursday, May 10-11. Director Clarence Brown had them chewing gum throughout the picture for purposes of characterization. Prop man Lew Colley furnish Gable, Virginia Dale, Bernadine Hayes, Lorraine Krueger, Virginia Gray, Paula Stone and Joan Marsh with fourteen packs each morning, two apiece.

Mrs. Florence Smith Celebrates 83rd Birthday Anniversary
Sunday, April 30th, Rev. W. M. Smith and wife entertained at their home in honor of his mother, Mrs. Florence Smith. The event was a surprise for her and given to celebrate her 83rd birthday, which will be May 8th.

Mrs. Smith has five sons and three daughters, all of whom were present excepting Rev. G. N. Smith, George and Mrs. Dolph Seebree. Grandchildren and great grandchildren number thirty-four, and seventeen came to help make this day a happy one for their grandmother.

At the noon hour the host and hostess invited the guests into the spacious dining room where the table was laden with delicious food that had been so carefully planned as part of the surprise for the day. Bro. Will offered prayer with well chosen words that were very fitting for this blessed occasion.

After everyone had eaten of the dainty delicacies, the remainder of the day was spent in renewing relationships. When leaving all wished Mrs. Smith many more birthdays and the hope that she may still retain her usual good health and continue to enjoy life with all the good things she is always so thankful for.

The following were present: Mrs. Florence Smith, R. R. Smith, Mrs. J. M. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Butler and son, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Sullivan and son, Mr. and Mrs. R. Holbrook and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smith, Walton and Mary Belle Smith, Wm. and Edna Smith, Wendell Smith and Louise Rice, Frances and Bernice Seebree, Jas. Wilson and Lindy Seebree, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walton and daughter.

The Grant Homemakers' Club met Thursday, April 28th at Mrs. Bernice Seebree's home. There were a few members present.

The lesson for the day was "Slip Covers." It was given by Mrs. R. S. Hensley and Mrs. Franklin C. R. Miss Gillespie gave a talk on "Exterior Beautification."

The next lesson will be held at Mrs. Bernice Seebree's home. The lesson will be a continuation of the lesson on Slip Covers.

It is really tough on the movies. Heroes pop up and are forgotten before they have a chance to film their story.

CMTC Reservations Being Held By County Chairman Rufus Tanner

Reservations for Boone County youth to attend, at Government expense, the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, this summer are being held by Mr. Rufus Tanner, Box 137, Florence, Ky., CMTC County Chairman who said today interested young men or their parents should communicate with him without delay if they desire to take advantage of the opportunity. Mr. Tanner stated that many counties had heavily over subscribed their allotments and that he could not predict just how soon Boone County's quota would be transferred to another county.

Mr. Tanner stated that last summer 667 young Kentuckians between the ages of 17 and 24 took the training and of that number 532 had already applied for further training this summer. This fact, he said, established conclusively that the youth of the county find the life beneficial both physically and mentally.

Attendance at a CMT Camp entails absolutely no obligation for future military service and Uncle Sam pays the bill for all necessary expenses, including car fare to and from camp. The experience is essentially character building and the youth after 30 days of active outdoor life invariably returns home with a stronger body and a clearer understanding of his rights and obligations as a citizen," Mr. Tanner explained.

There is no guard-house in a CMT Camp, Mr. Tanner continued. Discipline is obtained by discussing derelictions of rules or orders with the young trainees pointing out the necessity of having discipline for the good of the whole camp.

The schedule of training includes military drills or exercises in the morning with athletics in the afternoon. Every sport appealing to young America is available on the broad athletic fields. Recreational opportunities also are afforded by moving pictures, entertainments, band concerts, and amateur theatricals alternating with boxing and wrestling.

Throughout Kentucky more than 1100 youths already have filed applications. Mr. Tanner is anxious that every eligible youth should take advantage of the opportunity. But unless applications are made soon he cannot assure any young man of being accepted as his reservations will be transferred to another county.

SALES IN STORES

YIELD $153.122 IN HIDDEN TAXES

Families shopping in Boone County pay an estimated $153,122 in hidden taxes annually on their retail purchases alone, a survey by the National Consumers Tax Commission showed today.

This burden, the report stated, is paid as a concealed part of the cost of food, clothing, fuel, medicine and other daily purchases. The taxes, it added, are those levied against producer, manufacturer, shipper and distributor which necessarily are passed on to the consumers.

The commission is a non-political organization conducting an educational crusade against "unnecessary taxes that penalize the consumer." NCTC study groups in 100 Kentucky communities are headed by Mrs. J. E. Warren, of Mayfield, state director.

"Every-day shoppers, whether they know it or not, carry a major share of the local, state and national tax burden," the report stated. "Taxes now are equal to nearly 25 per cent of the national income and about two-thirds of the burden is paid in hidden taxes that increase the cost of even the necessities of life."

The report, which said study groups in more than 4,000 communities are active in the non-political crusade, pointed out that the local hidden tax figure concerns retail sales only and does include many other taxes, hidden and direct, that families here have to pay.

The tax figure was compiled from NCTC sales estimates based on last available U. S. Bureau of the Census figures, which placed 1935 sales in the county stores at $92,000. Government estimates of total sales in the county last year approximate the total in the 1935 study, the NCTC said.

New Feature To Be Carried In Recorder

For the benefit of both its readers and its advertisers, The Recorder contracted this week for a series of articles prepared by Charles B. Roth, noted advertising and merchandising advocate, who has become universally popular through the good business logic and business building principles he has prepared in recent years.

Mr. Roth's subject is entitled, "Truth About Advertising," and will appear weekly in The Recorder depicting a different phase each week of the town's business enterprise.

Business people throughout the country who are regular readers and followers of Mr. Roth's doctrine, have benefited greatly from the past 100-day facts outlined in his articles.

The Recorder, always augmenting the retailer's activities in Boone County, offers "Truth About Advertising" as another beneficial feature toward a greater mercantile depicting a different phase each week of the town's business enterprise.

Read Mr. Roth's article on page 2 this week and watch for subsequent ones. You'll both enjoy and profit by it.

MOTION PICTURE PROJECTOR GIVEN STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

Frankfort, Ky.—Safety educational work of the Kentucky Highway Patrol in charge of Major W. H. Hansen will be augmented in the future by the use of a motion picture projector which has been donated to the patrol by the staff by the Kentucky Association of Insurance Agents, capitol stock company fire and casualty agents organization. Presentation of the equipment was made today at patrol headquarters here and a demonstration was given before the insurance association's executive committee and safety committee.

The educational activities of the patrol in the past have been restricted to verbal messages before school and civic groups throughout the state.

"As the state director of safety, it is my firm belief," Major Hansen stated following the presentation, "that this projector and sound equipment will be the means of presenting to the youth of Kentucky visual education and safety which will go far in creating a greater 'safety consciousness' throughout the state and materially assist in the actual reduction of motor vehicle accidents." The safety division has long desired such equipment but appropriations were not available.

Officials of the Kentucky Association of Insurance Agents gathered from many points throughout the state to participate in the presentation. Included in the group, T. Whitely Winchester, associated president; James J. Hackworth, Shelbyville; Martin W. Boedeker, Louisville; George T. Massey, Jr., Elizabethtown; G. R. Reed, Columbia; Galen J. White, Jackson; C. W. Noel, Covington; and Miss Mary Vance, Lexington.

Any school group or civic organization desiring to hold safety meetings and see the safety pictures are urged by Major Hansen to address his department in Frankfort and arrangements will be gladly made.

NEW HAVEN BOOSTERS MEET

Our meeting was called to order by the president. The roll was called and the minutes were read. We have our committees planning for our tour which will be in July.

We have two demonstration teams which are to be at Burlington on May 13, to represent the Agricultural group.

We played game games and the meeting closed.

ROAD WORK TO BE DELAYED

AS RESULT OF SUIT AS TO LOCATION OF HAMILTON PRECINCT ROAD—$12,500 BOND FUND TO BE SPENT.

At a meeting of the Boone Fiscal Court at the courthouse Tuesday of last week, several citizens from Hamilton precinct were present, insisting that the court spend the bond fund of $12,500.00 on the road from Big Bone Lick easterly to the Beaver line.

At the meeting of the fiscal court prior to the above date, a large group of citizens from this district appeared and requested the court to spend that money on the improvement of the road from Big Bone Church to Normansville, and any sum remaining should be spent in improving the road from the Gunpowder bridge to Big Bone Lick.

Each delegation was claiming that the road they represented was the main road in the Hamilton precinct and upon which the bond money should be spent. In order to determine the question of which is the main road in the Hamilton precinct, the court decided to spend the money on that section of the road from the Church to Normansville and any sum remaining to be spent on the road from Gunpowder bridge to Big Bone Lick in order to settle the question. It is understood that a suit will be brought contesting the order of the fiscal court, naming the church road as the one upon which this money should be spent.

This procedure will delay the beginning of work on this road until the courts have decided the question and if it should be taken to the Court of Appeals it is said that the time required for such action will be approximately two years.

Burlington Boy Wins Orator Medal

Elmore Ryle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle, Burlington, a sophomore at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, speaking on the subject of "What Do You Think?" won first place in the annual Regent's Medal oratorical contest staged at Eastern last week. Ryle was victorious over William C. Steele, last year's medal winner, and several other contestants.

Ryle has taken an active part in many extra-curricular activities at Eastern during the past two years. He rated among the top group at the annual Southern Intercollegiate debate meet held at Lexington several weeks ago. He debated both the affirmative and negative sides of his forensic club.

Besides these activities Ryle is a member of Alpha Zeta Kappa, Young People's Christian Association, World Affairs Club and Canterbury Club. He was a graduate of Burlington High School class of 1936.

Mrs. Maggie McBee and daughter, of Mt. Zion, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McBee and son.

NAMED CAMPAIGN CHAIRMAN

Frederick A. Wallis

WALLIS NAMED BROWN CHM.

HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN CIVIC AND BUSINESS AFFAIRS, NATIONALLY AND IN KENTUCKY—IS WELL KNOWN IN STATE.

Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, recent head of the State Welfare Department, and for many years a leader in State and National affairs of the Democratic Party, Monday was appointed State Campaign Chairman for John Young Brown, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

After accepting the Chairmanship, Commissioner Wallis, who was finance chairman of the successful campaign of Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and managed the campaign of Senator M. M. Logan, and who was also finance chairman of both the campaigns of President Roosevelt, stated he thought Mr. Brown's nomination and election was to the best interest of Kentucky.

The chairman long has taken an active and leading part in civic and business affairs, both nationally and in his native Kentucky. He was campaign chairman for the mayoralty race of John F. Hyland of New York City, police commissioner of greater New York, U. S. Commissioner of Immigration under both President Wilson and President Harding, Commissioner of Correction of greater New York, and ranking elder of the Presbyterian Church, Chairman of the Kentucky State Parks Association, a member of the Executive Board, and a trustee of Centre College, and is President of the Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival.

During his career he has received countless honors and he makes his home on his 2,400-acre farm in the heart of Kentucky's Bluegrass near Paris. Former Mayor Hyland of New York characterized him as "The man who does things."

R. L. VINCENT ENTERS RACE

FOR COMMONWEALTH ATTORNEY—SERVED AS COUNTY ATTORNEY OF GRANT COUNTY TWO TERMS.

R. L. Vincent, prominent Williamstown attorney, officially announces his candidacy for Commonwealth Attorney of the 15th Judicial District in this issue of The Recorder.

At the present time he is the only candidate to announce for the office. It has been rumored that a Carroll county man will make the race.

Mr. Vincent makes the following announcement:

To the Citizens of Boone County: I hereby announce as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney for the 15th Judicial District composed of Boone, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant and Owen counties, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary to be held August 5, 1939.

I am a graduate of the State College at Bowling Green, Kentucky, where I worked my way through that school by doing various kinds of work. I served seven years as principal of some of the best high schools in the State, two years being at Mason, Ky., and two years at Campbellsville, Ky. I was admitted to the Bar in 1927, and was elected and served two terms as County Attorney of Grant county, winning the last nomination by more than 900 majority.

I am a member of the Williamstown Baptist Church, the Williamstown Masonic Lodge, the Grant County Farm Bureau and the Williamstown Rotary Club. I am married and have three children.

If nominated and elected, as I believe I will be, I will discharge the duties of the office fairly and impartially and to the best of my ability.

The District is a large one, being composed of five good counties, however, I am planning to make an effort to see you personally before the primary, but whether I see you or not, I will appreciate any assistance you may give me. Trusting that I may have your support and influence.

I am, Yours truly, R. L. VINCENT.

KEEN JOHNSON TO MAKE FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT

"Keen" Johnson will formally announce his candidacy for Governor over WHAS, Wednesday, 8:45 to 7:00 p. m. May 17th. Speech will be rebroadcast May 18th at 1:15 p. m.

Prominent Walton Man Succumbs Tues.

Thomas Cook, 24, Walton passed away Tuesday morning in the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Chapman, Locust St.

The remains were removed to Chambers & Grubbs funeral home for preparation, then removed to the home.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon, May 11th at 2 p. m. at the Walton Baptist Church of which he was a member, by his pastor Rev. C. J. Alford. Interment will be in the Walton cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucille Chapman Cook; one son, Thomas, Jr.; one half brother, Frank Violett and his mother, Mrs. Emma Cook.

Chambers and Grubbs are in charge of funeral arrangements.

County Judge Leaves For Texas Vacation

Judge N. E. Riddell left Tuesday night for Texas, where he will spend several weeks visiting relatives. It is understood that the Judge will pass part of his time angling for members of the flinty tribe while there.

About this time each year friends of the Judge receive cards showing some of the large fish, being taken by fishermen in Texas waters. Be careful Judge, they grow big down there.

Judge N. E. Riddell attended the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Revival Services To Be Held At Petersburg May 15-26

Revival services will begin at the Petersburg Christian Church Monday evening, May 15th at 7:30. Rev. Jas. N. Faulconer, Winchester, Ky., will be the guest speaker, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Noble Lucas.

Rev. Faulconer is well known in Boone County, having conducted a successful revival in Bullittsville Christian Church last fall. He also delivered the commencement address for Hebrons High School last month.

Mr. Faulconer holds a Bachelor of Divinity degree from the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., and is a chaplain in the Reserve Army Corps. For thirteen years he was pastor of the First Christian Church, Jackson, Miss., the largest congregation of the Christian Church in that state.

The meeting will continue each evening through May 26th. The public is cordially invited to all services.

Baby Farms To Be Sold In Greenwood Heights Thursday, May 16

Ten baby farms, consisting of one to five acres, located in beautiful Greenwood Heights (Stevenson Road, Erlanger), will be sold at Auction next Thursday, May 18, at 2:30 p. m., on the premises.

"This is a rare opportunity to buy at your own price a beautiful building, site, including acreage, near a thriving city, and within 15 minutes of Cincinnati, in a cosmopolitan area of one million people," announces the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppel Building, Covington, which has contracted to sell the farms regardless of price or weather.

All the farms front on a good highway. They are practically virgin soil, and are very favorably located for gardening or chicken ranches. Attractive terms will be given.

Honor Thy Mother

An Englishman was rather astounded by the observance of so many "special days" and asked why we set aside these occasions if not purely for mercenary reasons. Our reply was that it seemed to be the American way. We admit being a sentimental people and are rather proud of it, even though it may be bad taste to make a public demonstration of private feelings. But we cannot be censured when the idea is purely of respectful salutation. It is true that the event has been commercialized, and we regret it, but there are those of us who will permit this to spoil the deeper meaning.

The Ten Commandments have been broken by most of us. They have been thought of as old-fashioned and overtaken by a more streamlined civilization. But one of these will never be denied by man, "Honor thy Father and Thy Mother." The worst of us, who will heedlessly break and scorn the other commandments, cling to this family creed and evince their devotion for the family. This is indeed, the American way.

Boggs Farm Near Union To Be Sold At Auction

The Rudy K. Boggs farm, on Union and Big Bone pike, one mile west of Union, Ky., will be sold at auction Saturday, May 13th, at 1 p. m., the sale being conducted by Rel C. Wayman, 623 Washington St., Covington.

The farm consists of 116 acres, and will be sold in four tracts—56 acres with buildings, and three 20-acre tracts, unimproved. The land is in bluegrass and lespedeza, and is level to rolling.

Included in the sale will be a modern 10-room Colonial house, with two baths, gas, hot water and rustic rock porches and walks—a very attractive home in a very desirable location. There is a large barn, double garage, meat house, tool shed, corn crib, two chicken houses, and various kinds of trees. The farm is well-fenced, and there is abundant water.

The personal property includes porch furniture, and kitchen, dining room, living room and bedroom furniture and various other articles.

There will be music by the Tennessee Mountaineers, and a fat pig will be given free.

Marie Louise Parson

Marie Louise Parson, 37, passed away Wednesday, May 3, in the home of her nephew, Geo. Glore, on Beaver and Big Bone Road.

The remains were removed to Chambers & Grubbs Funeral Home for preparation and laid in State there until Friday, May 5th, then conveyed to Hughes Chapel, where funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. by Bro. D. E. Bedinger in the presence of her relatives and friends. Interment was in Hughes Chapel cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Rice and son Virgil attended the graduation of James Vice at the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville last week.

SEVERAL ITEMS OMITTED DUE TO LATE ADVERTISING ORDERS. This week it is necessary for us to omit several items of community news, due to heavy order of advertising, which arrived in our office late. However these items will be carried in next week's issue of The Recorder. If your item does not appear this week, look in next week's issue.

Rev. Smith Will Hold Series Of Services

Rev. Raymond Smith, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church announced this week that a series of services will be conducted at the Bellevue church from May 14-21.

Subjects will be as follows: Sunday—"The Wiles of the Devil."

Monday—"How Bad Men are Made Good."

Tuesday—"The Lost Books of the Bible—Are There Any?"

Wednesday—"The One Word that Damns Souls to An Endless Hell."

Thursday—"Prophecies in the Bible About Aeroplanes, Automobiles, and Dust Storms."

Friday—"The World's Greatest Detective."

Saturday—"God's Greatest Message for the Greatest of Sinners."

Sunday—"The Great Salvation of God and Suppose You Neglect It."

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Tallest Man In World Will Appear At Luhn & Stevie Store

Robert Wadlow, reputed to be the tallest man in the world, will make a personal appearance at the Luhn & Stevie Shoe Store, 34 First St., on Saturday, May 13, from 2 to 3:30 p. m. It required almost three years' endeavor to book this notable attraction. E. J. Bayer, manager of the shoe store, stated to a representative of The Recorder, and then it was made possible solely because Luhn & Stevie features Peters Shoes exclusively.

This giant man measures eight feet and eight and one-half inches tall in his stocking feet, and weighs 491 pounds. He is 21 years old, and required a 37-size shoe, specially made by the Peters Shoe Co. The public is invited to come to see him and to talk to him.

Robert Wadlow is from Alton, Ill. At birth he was normal in every way, weighing eight and one-half pounds. At the age of six months he weighed 30 pounds and gave evidence of abnormal physical growth. It is believed by men of science that Wadlow will eventually reach the unbelievable height of 10 feet. Each of his shoes is 19 inches long and weighs four pounds.

TOWNSEND CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED AT GRANT

A meeting is called for Friday night of this week at Bellevue, to form a Townsend Club, under the direction of Edward Hawes, Covington, with Judge Harvey Smith, as its principal speaker. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Townsend Club of Burlington will meet Thursday night at 7:30 in the courthouse for a business session. All members are requested to be present.

Townsend Club To Be Organized At Union

A meeting will be conducted Friday, May 12th at Union, Ky., for the purpose of organizing a Townsend Club. It is to be the opening of the opening plenary for Bob & Gene, with Denison on the receiving end. Ryle was relieved in the fifth by Elmo Steffen and "Rags" Ryle was placed on the receiving end.

L. J. Dooley, of Covington will be the speaker for the evening.

Kinman Awarded Large Sale Contract

Col. R. G. Kinman, of the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppel Bldg., Covington, informs The Recorder that he was recently awarded the largest sales contract his company has ever had.

The contract calls for the sale at auction of the large Hartweg estate, Fort Thomas, Ky., appraised at more than $100,000. The sale will include residences, lots and acreage, was reported three days—May 25 and June 1 and 8.

NEGRO DIES IN AUTO CRASH

EARLY SATURDAY MORNING—WANTED IN CINCINNATI FOR SNATCHING PURSES AND STEALING CAR.

Ezel Burger, 30, colored, of Cincinnati was killed, early Saturday morning when the car in which he was riding, sideswiped a north-bound truck on the Dixie Highway near Richwood.

Burger was accompanied by two other negroes, one of whom was injured in the crash and was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where it was reported he was suffering from internal injuries and chin cuts. The third man was captured at Walton by Town Marshal Brugh and turned over to Cincinnati authorities.

The auto driven by the men was said to have been the property of William Portwood and had been stolen Friday night. The negroes were allegedly fleeing from Cincinnati, after having snatched purses from three Cincinnati women Friday night, when the accident occurred.

County Offices To Close Saturday Noon

According to an order issued last Friday by Judge N. E. Riddell, all county offices will be closed on each Saturday at noon from May 13th, 1939 to September 1, 1939.

The order following: "It is hereby ordered by the court that the County offices will be closed at 12 o'clock noon Saturday, May 13, 1939 and will continue to be closed each Saturday thereafter at 12 o'clock noon until September 1, 1939."

Fish And Game Meeting Called For Friday Night

The Boone County Fish and Game Association will hold a meeting at the courthouse, Burlington, Friday night, May 12th. Important matters will be discussed at this meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Robert Watson Black

Robert W. Black passed away Sunday morning at 4 a. m. following an illness from bronchial pneumonia and chronic myelogenous leukemia at the age of 13 years, 4 months and 8 days. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Black of Lower East Bend.

He leaves one sister Velma Lee Black, his parents, and many relatives and friends to mourn his going.

Funeral services were conducted from the East Bend Church on Tuesday, May 9th at 2 p. m., by Rev. Roy Johnson, in the presence of his loved ones and neighbors. Burial was in East Bend cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

BOB & GENE NINE TROUNCED SUN.

BY STRONG GREEN LINE CREW FOUR TEAMWORK SAID TO BE CAUSE OF ONE-SIDED SCORE.

The Bob & Gene nine were severely trounced Sunday by the powerful Greenline team by a one-sided score of 7 to 1.

"Hoos" Ryle was the opening pitcher for Bob & Gene, with Denison on the receiving end. Ryle was relieved in the fifth by Elmo Steffen and "Rags" Ryle was placed on the receiving end.

According to Robert Eads, manager of Bob & Gene's nine, the cause of the one-sided score was partly due to bad teamwork, due to the fact that the team has been unable to practice together.

Carlings will furnish the opposition for Bob & Gene Sunday, May 14th at Greencreek Springs park. The game will be called at 3:00 fast time. Mr. Eads stated that the boys will be out there Sunday for a game on the win side of the board.

The battery for Bob & Gene will be composed of "Hoos" Ryle, Elmo Steffen, "Rags" Ryle and Denison.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

HIGH PRESSURE SALESMANSHIP

A SALESMAN, 10 years ago unscrupulous but successful, came in to see me today with his troubles. He no longer makes sales. I asked him what he thought was the matter.

"That's just it," said he. "I don't know. I give 'em the works—but they don't buy."

This man is a salesman of the old school—a worshipper at the shrine of high pressure salesmanship. His methods no longer make sales. He thinks he's losing his grip.

That is not the trouble. The truth is that high-pressure salesmanship is out, is dead, is obsolete, is without power to make sales in these days of greater education.

People haven't changed, but they have become better educated in the higher education of taking care of themselves and their money. The process which brought about this education is newspaper advertising.

It used to be possible for a glib talker to take almost anything out to sell, no matter how worthless or inferior, and by sheer high-pressure selling to "clean up." But not now.

Even the lowliest buyer knows that certain claims are untrue, and that the price asked for certain in the country, but there were foaled this last year the smallest number in six years!

The mule is given the highest rating in the value of all farm animals, with $118. The horse is valued at $84 and the cow at $76. The hog has an average of $11, sheep at $5 and the chicken of 70 cents. You can be as stubborn as a mule and feel superior in monetary worth. Long live the mule.

GET ON YOUR HORSE

There has been a praiseworthy increase of interest in spring and summer community clean-up campaigns, which are designed to beautify our towns and cities, raise the values of both business and residential property, and reduce the hazards of that dread destroyer, fire.

An announcement from the National Board of Fire Underwriters says that fire chiefs from many sections of the country have announced plans for radio broadcasts this season, and are also widely using the self-inspection blanks issued free by the National Board, which makes it possible for anyone to go through his home or place of business, locate fire hazards, and easily eliminate them.

Communities which have not yet planned activities of this nature should, as the saying goes, "get on their horse." And where towns are too small to have fire departments, local officials, civic organizations and individuals can get together and take the lead. A clean-up campaign doesn't require any great expense or expenditure of time. It does involve making repairs to houses and buildings, painting structures where needed, razing fire-traps if any exist, keeping grass and weeds cut short on empty lots and fields, etc. In many a case, an intensive week or so of work of this sort, once real public interest is aroused, will eliminate literally thousands of fire hazards, large and small, and go a long way toward making a major disaster in the town impossible.

Further, these campaigns are a fine stimulant for local business when sell paint, lumber and other materials used. They arouse pride in the community and cause many a lasting resolution by citizens to always keep their property in good order and appearance. The spring clean-up, in brief, helps to make the towns of America beautiful and safe.

PAUL EVANGELIZES
A PROVINCE

LESSON TEXT: Acts 19:1, 8-10; 20:17-21; Ephesians 2:1-12.
Ephesians 2:1-12.—But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.—Ephesians 2:12.

The Christian Church (that great organization which outwardly represents in the world the mystical organism which is the true Church) seems of the "sealed," if we may borrow a word from the automobilist. Just like a well-designed and carefully built machine which has "gone" on the road.

Perhaps the lesson for today may serve to stir up some of us to the responsibility of the Church, and particularly of its individual members, for an aggressive testimony for Christ. Certainly Paul knew nothing of the defeatism which seems to have laid its paralyzing hand on present-day Christianity.

Our lesson finds him again making the rounds of the churches he had earlier been used to establish. He knew of their dangers, the tendencies to backslide, the need of new life in the daily conversion of others, and he went about that business with the flaming zeal of an evangelist, and always with the vigor of the heavenly host before him. Let us learn of Paul.

I. The Evangelist—Fearless and Tireless (Acts 19:1, 8-10).

At Ephesus Paul did the work of an evangelist with such a passion for souls and such power from God that he was called "the mighty one." He testified (Acts 19:26) that "not alone at Ephesus but almost throughout all Asia this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people" from their heathen worship. He met great opposition both in the synagogue (v. 9) and from the worshippers of Diana (Acts 19:23-41). But he stood firm and he won. He spent for him "great doer and effectual" (I. Cor. 16:9), and we read that many believed and showed their faith by destroying the books of heathenism which were in their homes (Acts 19:19).

Are the days of such evangelism gone? Since only the power of God can explain what was accomplished by Paul, the answer would depend on the question, "Has the power and purpose of God changed? Obviously the answer is "No." God is the same, and when we are ready to meet His spiritual requirements, we are ready to do His work. Am I ready? Are you ready?

II. The Pastor—Lover of Souls (Acts 20:17-21).

Having completed his journey through Macedonia and Achaia, Paul is hurrying back to Jerusalem, and not having time to stop at Ephesus he sends for the elders to meet him at Miletus, the nearest seaport. He recalls to them the experiences which he has passed through, tells them of the bonds and afflictions which await him, but above all he wants to admonish and encourage them to go on for Christ. As a pastor who has been true to God and faithful in his ministry, he is able to point to his own walk and work among them as an example, doing this in all humility. Pastor, shall we ask ourselves if we could do the same, or would we need to blush in shame over our failures?

Especially noteworthy is Paul's reference to having gone from house to house as well as teaching publicly. The work of the pulpit or from the teacher's desk loses much of its savor and usefulness if not backed up by personal contact. Some men who preach well, excuse themselves from pastoral work on the ground that they are really preachers, not pastors. Others love to do pastoral work but do not apply themselves to the work of the study, and so they say their calling is that of a pastor rather than a preacher. Brethren, let us face that matter honestly and perhaps we shall find that we are simply taking the line of least resistance. Paul had none of that spirit. He preached with all zeal and power, but he also went from house to house, "serving the Lord with all humility of mind and with many tears."

III. Fellow Citizen in God's Household (Eph. 2:12-22).
The evangelist and pastor here reminds his Ephesian converts that they have entered a goodly fellowship—"the household of God"—and have become "fellow citizens with the saints."

Some folk are called "joiners" because they like to join every possible society, organization, lodge, or what not. Well, here is the supreme fellowship of all, which knows no barrier of race, creed, social position, age, sex, or nationality, and which brings us into fellowship with the eternal God Himself. You may "join" if by faith you will take the Lord Jesus Christ as your personal Saviour and thus enter into eternal life. Will you join God's people now?

Weak Feet Affect Body

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at
AT PEOPLES' FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you clamp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Also when you clamp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished, muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

Tobacco PlantBeds Treated With Bordeaux Mixture

Nine plant beds were treated in demonstrations with Bordeaux.

mixture, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The Bordeaux treatment is for the control of wild fire, angular leaf spot and other plant bed diseases. These beds will be treated in two weeks and followed with later treatments with cuprocidate if Blue Mold makes its appearance in the communities.

Twenty demonstrations in plant bed diseases and Blue Mold Control were planned in four community programs of work. Because of limited time the county agent's office was able to personally supervise only two demonstrations in each community. These demonstrations include Albert Parker and James G. Pennington, Walton; T. J. Carr and John Worthington, Verona; S. B. Sleet, Beaver; Frank Seebree and D. E. Ogden, Hamilton, and Chas. W. White and John Burns, Petersburg. Leaders in addition who are assisting in the program are Elmer Elliston, Stanley Pooks, Will Waller, Hiram English, Wilbur Florence, Allen Morris and J. W. Feldhaus.

Recommendations for plant bed treatment are available at the county agent's office.

Parking Lot Completed

This week the management of the Gayety Theatre announce the opening of a free parking lot next to the theatre building for the convenience of all movie fans. The lot will accommodate a large number of cars and will entirely eliminate the necessity of patrons having to park a great distance from the theatre. The lot is well lighted by several large flood lights, that not only afford light for patrons but also adds greater safety to cars during the show. The management invites all patrons to use this free parking lot at all times.

VERONA WINS FIRST GAME OF SEASON

The Verona baseball team opened their season at the Verona ball park last Sunday when they defeated the Brayville nine by a score of 16 to 6.

By the splendid pitching of McClure, the visitors were unable to score until late in the game.

Chapman scored the first home run of the season in the fourth inning, with another in the same inning by Cluser.

Verona fans will again see the boys in action next Sunday at the Verona park. A complete review of the games will be found in this paper each week.

We have reached the stage where a man is judged socially by whether he calls it "perspiration," or just refers to it as "sweat."

YOU CAN COOK IN COMFORT with SHELLANE and a UNIVERSAL GAS RANGE

All the Advantages of City Gas Service are yours with SHELLANE

A pure, natural gas. Shellane is delivered to your home as needed and piped to your kitchen range from outside the house. It makes it possible for you to have a really modern kitchen... automatic hot water... automatic refrigeration. Yet the cost is just a few cents a day.

★ The Universal Gas Range makes it possible for the Homemaker to prepare meals in comfort. It eliminates excess heat, steam and humidity... The Super Insulated Precision Oven not only promotes greater fuel economy, but also keeps the heat in the oven, out of the kitchen. Equally as great a contributor to kitchen comfort is the Simmer-Save Burner with its controlled boiling heat. The Simmer-Save Burner retains the steam within the cooking vessel—no excess steam means elimination of high humidity with resultant cooler, more comfortable kitchen. The Simmer-Save gives just the right amount of measured heat to satisfactorily complete the cooking job—no excess heat—no pot watching... The Universal, with its advanced devices will prove a revelation in cooking comfort as well as cooking convenience.

Super Insulated Oven
The Precision Oven is super insulated for greater kitchen comfort, as well as greater fuel economy.

Oven Flame Heat Control
Automatically controls any desired oven temperature. No guesswork—no oven peaking—no failure.

Simmer-Save Burner
With its controlled boiling heat, it eliminates excess heat and humidity—it does away with pot watching.

Gayety Theater News

Friday and Saturday, May 12th and 13th—"The Little Princess," in technicolor, with Shirley Temple. Richard Greene, Anita Louise. A great classic, comes to life in glorious technicolor, with all its laughter, tears, stirring moments and tender moods. Everything that entertainment can be. Celebrating Shirley Temple's selection as the world's No. 1 star for the fourth consecutive year.

The delightful story is based on the gay and adventurous pranks of Bill Peck, a noted fiction character created by George W. Peck a generation ago. Ten-year-old Tommy Kelly, the freckle-faced fun-loving star of "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," gave another splendid characterization in the title lead of "Peck's Bad Boy." Ann Gillis, in another important role, gives a notable performance as the young bareback rider with the circus. Edgar Kennedy, and Spunky MacFarland, Billy Gilbert, Benita Hume and Louise Beavers round out the cast.

An emerald brooch, worth only $300, was insured against loss by 20th Century-Fox for $15,000! The brooch appears frequently in the musical comedy version of "The Three Musketeers," starring Don Ameche and The Ritz Brothers, at the Gayety Sunday and Monday, and its disappearance would have necessitated the re-shooting of many costly scenes. The reason why they didn't have a duplicate made was that the insurance turned out to be cheaper.

Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., currently starring in RKO Radio's "Gunga Din," are seen as a trio of sergeants in the British army whose fast friendship involves them in dangerous complications. The background of this picture is the story of Rudyard Kipling's immortal ballad is northwestern India in the 1890's. The story revolves around an uprising of thugs, fanatics who murder according to religious rites, and depicts how the three soldiers and a native water carrier help to crush the revolt. Joan Fontaine, Eduardo Clandini and Sam Jaffe head the supporting cast. The picture will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 16, 17, 18.

Friday and Saturday, May 12th and 13th—"The Little Princess," in technicolor, with Shirley Temple. Richard Greene, Anita Louise. A great classic, comes to life in glorious technicolor, with all its laughter, tears, stirring moments and tender moods. Everything that entertainment can be. Celebrating Shirley Temple's selection as the world's No. 1 star for the fourth consecutive year.

Sunday, May 14th—"Gunga Din," Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Joan Fontaine. Out of Kipling's heroic odyssey roars the greatest adventure drama ever filmed. Taped to the rolling thunder of red drumfire in the mystic mountains of India. The screen's big adventure... With three fighting, loving, swaggering sons of the British battalions... No gayer blades when romance beckons... No tougher hides when battle seethes.

Monday, May 15th—"Within the Law," Ruth Hussey, Tom Neal and Paul Kelly. See the life... the loves of the "Ladies of the Big House." See how "Ladies of the Big House" taught her how to a strange, dramatic revenge for three bitter prison years... and why she failed when love came along.

Tuesday, May 16th—"They Made Me a Criminal," John Garfield, Dead End Kids, Claude Rains, Ann Sheridan. Wanted... doomed to live forever. The anguished story of a man's living death. The six "Angels with Dirty Faces" (Dead End Kids) who taught him how to launch again.

Wednesday, May 17th—"Society Lawyer," Virginia Bruce, Walter Pidgeon, Leo Carrillo. Everyone will like this picture... the acting is good and the comedy follows your interest from start to finish.

Thursday, May 18th—"Smashing the Spy Ring," Ralph Bellamy, Fay Wray, Regis Toomey, Ann Doran. See America strike back at her most ruthless foe... the spy. Your secret enemy stops at nothing to sap a nation's powerful defense.

350 ATTEND 4-H SPRING RALLY

HELD AT BURLINGTON LAST SATURDAY—MOST SUCCESSFUL RALLY EVER HELD ACCORDING TO H. R. FORKNER.

Three hundred fifty 4-H members, leaders, parents and visitors attended the annual 4-H spring rally held at Burlington last Saturday, May 13th. The rally was the most successful ever held, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Prof. D. H. Norris, chairman of the 4-H and Utopia club council, presided at the morning meeting devoted to 4-H planning discussion and to group singing and games. The afternoon program was devoted to the girls' style show, clothing judging, home practice and farm practice demonstration team contests.

Leroy McNeely and Harold Plick of the Burlington "Blue Ribbon" 4-H club scored first place in the farm practice contest on their demonstration, "Proper Preparation Tobacco Plant Beds." Raymond Witham of Petersburg also won a blue ribbon signifying superior work on his demonstration, "The Clean Chick Program." Demonstration teams rating red ribbons in the contest included David King and Marvin Pennington of Walton, demonstrating uses of the electric fence. Dick Stevens, Lawrence Rose and Marvin Lister of the selection "Road Side Markets."

In the home practice demonstration of girls 13 or over, Burlington won the grand champion with their demonstration "Table Service and Etiquette." The team was composed of Jo Ann Yelton and Mildred Lizer.

Taylorport also placed in the blue ribbon group with the demonstration "How to Use Make-up." The team was composed of Betty Goodridge and Emma Sprague. The following teams placed in the red ribbon group: Taylorport with their demonstration of "Buying Hoses." The team was composed of Peggy Morehead and Nelda Sprague; Walton, with their demonstration of "How Birds Help the Farmer." The team was composed of Mildred King and Louise McKinney, and Hamilton with their demonstration "Closet and Accessories." The team was composed of Billy Wilson and Dorothy Lee Shinkle.

The junior home practice demonstration composed of girls under 13 were as follows:

Blue Ribbon group: New Haven — Mary Kathryn Shields and Betty Jo Parker demonstration "Plain and French Suits."

New Haven—Wanda Pennington demonstration "Making Bound Buttonholes."

Taylorport—June Morehead and Lavinia Humphrey, demonstration "Belts from Wooden Buttons."

Florence—Bernice Schreiner and Audrey Marksberry, demonstration "Making of Salads."

Red Ribbon group: Hebron—Janet Feldhaus and Louella Hume, demonstration, "Fear Salad."

Frank—Mary Imogene Presser and Anna L. McArthur, demonstration, "Packing a Suitcase for Camp."

Walton—Laura Whitson and Jean Pennington, demonstration, "Sewing on Buttons."

Taylorport—Betty Goodridge and Fay Humphrey, demonstration.

Walton—Helen Stamper and Mary Louise McCubbin, demonstration, "Handkerchiefs."

The winners of the clothing judging contest were, first Mildred King, Gertrude Burdine and third Ardelle Tupman.

Winners in the Style Show Revue were as follows: Blue ribbon winners in the first unit were, Mary Hope Chipman, Verona; Violet Edwards, Hebron; Lavinia Humphrey, Taylorport.

Red ribbon winners in the first unit were as follows: Bessie Ford, Walton; Laura Whitson, Walton; Loretta Ryle, Hamilton.

JOHNSON MAKES FORMAL BOW

IN RADIO SPEECH WEDNESDAY OVER STATION WHAS—IS WAR VETERAN AND NEWSPAPER MAN.

A plea for unity among all Kentuckians and a pledge of unstinted service and untiring activity to a program designed to improve and create a Kentucky with a better and more understanding attitude in its dealing with and for its people, marked the formal announcement Wednesday night of Keen Johnson, Richmond editor, for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Johnson announced his candidacy from his newspaper office in Richmond, a publication he has edited and served as co-publisher for 12 years. His announcement was carried on the air by Station WHAS.

A thumbnail sketch of Keen Johnson, follows: The story of a newspaperman, a World War veteran and a public spirited citizen interested in community and state public service is contained in the career of Lieutenant-Governor Keen Johnson, one of the most attractive candidates ever to declare for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Kentucky.

Though only 43 years old, Lieutenant-Governor Johnson has been crowded into the short period of years since he reached manhood enough activity for several persons. Son of a Methodist minister, he was born at Brandon's Chapel, in Lyon County, January 12, 1896.

His parents were the Rev. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Mattie Holloway Johnson.

He received his early education in the public schools of Western Kentucky where his father filled a number of pulpits. In 1914, he graduated from Vanderbilt Training School, a boy's preparatory institution, at Elkton, of the World War in 1917. Keen enrolled in the first officers' training camp at Ft. Riley, Kansas, May 5, 1917. Here he was commissioned a second lieutenant and assigned to duty with the 354th Infantry, 89th Division, going overseas where he saw active service in France.

He was discharged from the Army in October 1919, as a first lieutenant.

Leaving the Army he embarked on his first newspaper venture, acquiring The Mirror, a weekly newspaper, in Elizabethtown, which he edited and published for more than a year. He then enrolled at the University of Kentucky, where he continued his studies until his graduation in 1922. While a student at the University he worked as a reporter on the staff of the Lexington Herald. Upon graduation from the University he became editor and co-publisher of the Anderson News, Lawrenceburg, where he remained from 1922 until 1925, when he went to Richmond to become editor and co-publisher of the Richmond Daily Register, a newspaper connection he has continued ever since.

In 1932 he was elected secretary of the Kentucky State Democratic Central and Executive Committee and was reelected to this post in 1936. His present term as secretary of the Democratic party's governing body in the State will expire in 1940.

In 1935 he became a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor and, after winning the party nomination in the primaries, was swept into office by a majority of more than 100,000 votes.

He is a past president of the Kentucky Press Association and past president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association. He is a member of the American Legion, the Post Office, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and as Lieutenant-Governor, is chairman of the Kentucky Disabled Service Men's Board. He is also a past president of the Kentucky Conference of Social Work. He is a member of the Masonic Order, the Junior Order of American Mechanics and the Elks.

He was married, in 1917, to Miss Eunice Nichols, of Missouri. They have one child, a daughter, Judy, 12 years old.

BOONE YOUTH ENDS OWN LIFE

WITH .22 CALIBER REVOLVER—WAS SON OF E. B. ELLIOTT OF IDELEWILD—MOTIVE BEING SOUGHT FOR ACT.

Authorities of Cincinnati were seeking a motive last week in the death of Randolph Elliott, 22-year-old filling station attendant, who committed suicide last week in his trailer, parked in the rear of a filling station where he worked at 4450 Reading Road, Cincinnati.

The body of young Elliott was found Tuesday night on a cot in the trailer. A .22 caliber revolver was clutched in his right hand. The body was found by James Wathen, 1527 Section road, another attendant.

The youth was a son of E. B. Elliott, prominent Idlewild farmer. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Elliott; one sister and two brothers.

Funeral services were conducted at the Bullittsville Baptist Church at 2 o'clock Friday, with interment in the Bullittsville cemetery.

Philip Talafiero, Erlanger funeral director was in charge of arrangements.

James W. Roberts Succumbs Thursday

Funeral services were held at the Richmond Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m. Sunday for James Woodford Roberts, 59, of Verona.

Mr. Roberts was a prominent Verona farmer and was also a director of the Verona Bank.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Ella Roberts. Burial was in the Richmond cemetery, with J. L. Hamilton, Verona funeral director in charge.

Mrs. Rose Robinson

Mrs. Rose O'Hara Robinson, of Florence, passed away Monday at Booth Hospital, Covington, following an illness of several days.

Mrs. Robinson was 61 years old. She was a former resident of Galt, Ky.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ann Walsh, Florence and Mrs. Gayle M. Denny, Lexington; a son, Harry L. Robinson, Chattanooga, Tenn., and a grandson, Robert Earl Robinson, Ludlow.

Services were conducted at the Tharp and Smith funeral home, Florence, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Interment was in Highland cemetery.

Tharp and Smith were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Hybrid Corn Demonstrations Being Conducted

Two hybrid corn test plots are being planted this week, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. The purpose of these plots is to check which of our leading hybrids are the best for Boone county. H. L. Crigler of Hebron and Eugene Schwense of Hamilton will conduct the demonstrations.

These men, cooperating in the project, are planting six kinds of hybrids along with two open pollinated varieties. The checks will be run in triplicate to insure accuracy. Corn will be harvested from the standing stalk at the close of the season.

Moisture tests will be run in order to be able to compute yields accurately. The hybrids being used are Ind. 845, Ind. 820, U. S. 44, U. S. 13, Ky. 69 and Ky. 72. Pride of Saline and Reineke Yellow Dent will be the open pollinated varieties used. Both of these men will be glad to have anyone interested visit these plots during the summer.

Bellevue Church To Hold All-Day Meeting At Kite-Purdy Grove

The Christian Church of Bellevue will hold an all-day meeting at the Kite Purdy Grove, May 21. The regular Sunday School service will be held at the grove starting at 10:30 a. m.

An old fashioned basket dinner will be served at the noon hour. There will be services after the noon. Bring your basket dinner and come.

STRAWBERRY PROSPECTS GOOD FOR THIS YEAR

John Klopp, prominent farmer in the Petersburg neighborhood reports a heavy strawberry bloom and a splendid prospect for a good crop.

Corn planting has progressed rapidly the past two weeks with favorable planting weather. Garden prospects vary over the county. Many growers report some losses from early plantings but prospects as a whole are favorable. A good rain is needed in most sections.

Sheep shearing is expected to begin by the latter part of the week with many farmers preferring to wait until warmer weather. A good many farmers have already sheared in central Kentucky. Grass should be used to produce good, clean fleeces tied with paper twine.

Farmers report tobacco plants beds treated with Bordeaux mixture are doing good.

Cool dry weather the past week has checked the rapid growth of early pasture and hay crops.

Five Townsend Meetings Scheduled For This Week

Townsend Club meetings will be held at Union, Petersburg, Verona, Bellevue and Burlington this week in Boone County. On Thursday night, May 18th at 7:30 slow time, Mr. Thomas A. Read and Mr. Joseph Healy and Mr. H. A. Quigley will speak at Verona. On the same evening at the same time, Mr. Dawson P. Todd and Mr. Paul Elkins will speak at Bellevue.

Members are urged to attend the meeting of club at the court house on Burlington Thursday night at 7:30.

On Friday night, Albert J. Hovekamp will speak at Union at 7:30 (slow time). Mr. Mr. Joseph Healy and Mr. Thomas A. Read will speak at Petersburg Friday night at 7:30, slow time.

Constance Nine Drops Opening Home Game

The Constance Hill Toppers lost their first home baseball game of the season Sunday at the hands of the strong Erlanger Merchants' team. The ground was rough and loosely played. The diamond will be put in good shape this week.

The Constance boys are playing independent ball and will be glad to book a game with any amateurs. Write to Selvin Vahlsing, Constance, Ky., for a game.

Burlington Revival Brings 15 Additions

The Burlington Baptist Church closed a seven-day revival May 14, which was said to be one of the most successful held here in several years. Rev. R. Lee James, conducted the services, and brought an interesting message each night. Clyde Evans, of Elsmere led the singing.

During the meeting fifteen new members were added, 11 by letter and four by baptism, as follows: Mrs. Effie Clifton, Elmer Horton, Mr. Arrowwood, Alvin Clore, Mrs. Mary Clore, Mr. L. L. Tucker, Raymond Tucker, Ruth Tucker, Mrs. Myrtle Atha, Wilma Atha, Russell Lee Horton, Goldie Frances Horton and Emil King.

Baptismal services will be held next Sunday afternoon, May 21 at 2:30 p. m. (central standard time) at the Florence Baptist church.

Mrs. Rose O'Hara Robinson, of Florence, passed away Monday at Booth Hospital, Covington, following an illness of several days.

Mrs. Robinson was 61 years old. She was a former resident of Galt, Ky.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ann Walsh, Florence and Mrs. Gayle M. Denny, Lexington; a son, Harry L. Robinson, Chattanooga, Tenn., and a grandson, Robert Earl Robinson, Ludlow.

Services were conducted at the Tharp and Smith funeral home, Florence, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Interment was in Highland cemetery.

Tharp and Smith were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Hybrid Corn Demonstrations Being Conducted

Two hybrid corn test plots are being planted this week, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. The purpose of these plots is to check which of our leading hybrids are the best for Boone county. H. L. Crigler of Hebron and Eugene Schwense of Hamilton will conduct the demonstrations.

These men, cooperating in the project, are planting six kinds of hybrids along with two open pollinated varieties. The checks will be run in triplicate to insure accuracy. Corn will be harvested from the standing stalk at the close of the season.

Moisture tests will be run in order to be able to compute yields accurately. The hybrids being used are Ind. 845, Ind. 820, U. S. 44, U. S. 13, Ky. 69 and Ky. 72. Pride of Saline and Reineke Yellow Dent will be the open pollinated varieties used. Both of these men will be glad to have anyone interested visit these plots during the summer.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

BUT IT'S JUST AS GOOD

YOU have had the experience, haven't you, of going into some store and asking for an advertised brand of goods, only to have the clerk hand you another brand and inform you, "But it's just as good."

Sometimes, to your regret, you bought the "just as good" item but sometimes you walked out of the store and searched until you found the merchandise you had asked for in the first place. When you got it you were satisfied.

You had confidence in the advertised goods, because you read the honest pronouncements of the advertiser what you might expect his product to do for you. This gave you assurance. You bought because you had confidence.

Charles Roth

But when that clerk palmed off something different to you, you had misgivings, you had doubts, you had fears, you had lack of confidence. Maybe they were not. It doesn't matter. The fact remains that advertising had invested the advertiser's goods with a confidence which made you buying a pleasant in place of a fearful duty.

Usually, but not always, these "just as good" goods are not as

USE CONTROL

With all plant life peeping up its head at a warmer sun, with the air turned balmy and kind to shoots and sprouts making headway into full growth, people in this section begin to concentrate on the protection of this new life from insects which follow, as the night the day. These pests destroy hundreds of millions of dollars in crops, every year. No section of the country is free from them. The government spends many millions of dollars warring against insects and if man did not win in this fight, it would mean that the world would starve to death. The spraying or dusting by plane and ground is very effective and used in all parts of the land. Every grower, be he on a large scale or a gardener with a small bed in a city lot, must guard against some kind of plant infection.

The types of poison which are used to combat these pests are numerous and each year laboratories prove more effective means of destroying them. Before you get the summer approach with its toll of infected crops and plants, get literature and help from the Department of Agriculture. Better be safe and soon than sorry when you reap, and harvest.

CITY PRIDE

We have been doing a lot of cleaning about the house. Everyone likes to live in surroundings that are neat and clean, though there is a lot of work to keep it this way. It is good to have the clean windows and curtains, polished furniture and floor, and bright scrubbed and painted surfaces. What about the town you live in? The homes in some other community may shine in cleanliness but can we say the same for local yards and streets, vacant lots and alleyways? Civic pride calls for a spring cleaning of all areas that are unsightly spots. Improve the appearance of this town. Auto drivers would appreciate improved streets, pedestrians would welcome improved sidewalks. There is always something to be done to make this a more attractive home-town. Let us leave a pleasant remembrance in the minds of those folks who will be stopping here and driving through during the coming summer months.

IN THE AIR

The circus is on its way to again delight the hearts of young Americans. Comes the sound of the callopes. The bare-back riders and clowns have emerged from winter quarters and are careening under the big top. The chariot racers and trapeze artists are the youth of the land. Sawdust gets in your shoes when you are young. But the munching of peanuts to the tune of brass bands and the ring-master's whistle, is relished by oldsters too. We are glad that we live where it is a circus parade that plays an important measure in the lives of our young. We are grateful that the band, the sound of hoofs, the braid and plumes, the cheers, are for a circus. Thanks, America.

There was a man who remarked that he wondered if good looking women ever ran for public offices.

Business may be picking up, but the factories that make cotton stocking still aren't getting a big rush.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 35:5-10; Ephesians 5:18-20; 1:14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Do not drink wine nor strong drink, nor any such thing, as the Lord your God has commanded.

A home is more than a house, and yet people live as though it were not true. They build attractive houses, fill them with comfortable furnishings, and think they have a home, no matter how they may live. God is forgotten, pleasure becomes the chief object in life, and money is desired because it buys pleasure.

Intoxicants are freely used both outside and inside the home, apparently with no thought of their destructive influence.

Alcohol burned in a stove produces heat, in an engine it produces power, in a man it produces disgrace and disease, and in the home it produces sorrow, suffering, and ultimately destruction. Why should the innocent and the instructions of their America supply submit to the devastation of this juggernaut, the liquor traffic? What are you doing about it?

The lesson for today presents three factors which make for happiness in the home.

I. Loyalty to Family Standards (Jer. 35:5-10).

When the traditional standards of a family are good and right in the sight of God, they afford a worthy rallying point for the younger generation. The Rechabites were obedient to the instructions of their forefathers. The prophet had foretold them to a test (not a temptation), for he did not expect them to be obedient to the instructions of their forefathers. They were surrounded by the unaccustomed luxury and temptations of the city, and now the prophet tries to lead them to a test of their loyalty to their forefathers. They were to be thought of as old-fashioned or queer, for they knew that the customs of their fathers were good (see Jer. 35:10).

To depend on that which is good and noble in the past of our people or family, is a sign neither of weakness nor ignorance, but rather of wisdom. When the standards of a family standards will your boy and mine look back to? What of the little baby who lay in his buggy while the young mother helped her husband to drink wine? (Trink v. 18).

In the store window which he then went in and bought? When I see such things my heart burns within me against this wickedness which destroys all of the finest in men and in their homes.

II. Accuracy in Daily Living (Eph. 5:15-21).

"The Greek word rendered 'circumstances' (v. 15) may be more closely and simply rendered 'accuracy.' The thought given is that of painstaking attention to details, under a sense of their importance; a remembrance not only in general but in particular of the duties of the Christian's walk" (Moule).

Every phrase in this section of our lesson is overflowing with meaning, but we cannot here refer to them all. Note the temperance application. The man who walks accurately will be "wise" (v. 15) and will be filled with the Spirit" (v. 18).

The inaccurate walker is a "fool" (v. 15), and one of his follies may be in being "drunk with wine" (v. 18). But there is far more in this phrase than the Lord's help. For more the will of God and therefore redeem the time. They cultivate that delightful spiritual exercise of home religion known as hymn singing. Have you tried that lately? Gather the family or friends around the organ or piano. Turn off the ever-present radio for a few minutes. Open the old hymn book and sing. Don't overlook thankfulness in verse 20, and then try that golden recipe.

III. Unity in the Home (Eph. 6:1-4).

A united family is obviously impossible where one member does more gives his time and money and very life to booze. You know and I know that it just does not work. Think of the havoc thus wrought not only in the lives of the parents, but particularly in the lives and characters of the children.

Let Christ reign in the home and there will be unity. Children will realize that it is right to obey their godly parents. They will honor and cherish father and mother, and God will reward them for it (vv. 2, 3; also Exod. 20:12). But what is more, fathers will be wise enough not to provoke their children to wrath. Much of the trouble in our homes is caused by disobedient children, but sometimes I think even more so it is caused by unwise parents. The children need nurture and admonition, but that can be done in kindness and with constructive results if we seek the Lord's help. For more mother, let me plead with you that you permit no interest in business, social life, or even church work to come between you and your fellowship with your children. That is your biggest job and your greatest opportunity.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

Commonwealth of Kentucky

Boone Circuit Court.

O. S. Watts, admr., et al., Plaintiff versus

Henry Snyder Watts, et al., Defendant

NOTICE OF SALE

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court rendered at the April Term thereof 1939 in the above cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House Door in Burlington, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, the 5th day of June 1939 at One O'clock P. M., or thereabout (being County Court Day), upon a credit of 6 and 12 months, the following described property to-wit:

Said real estate ordered sold is described as follows:

Being in Boone County, Kentucky, near Bullittsville and bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stone ten (10) feet south-east of a large post at north side of the Bullittsville and the end of a water gate on the Francesville road; thence with the line of A. W. Corn across said road N. 39½ E. 325-100 chains; N.

48½ E. 347-100 chains to a stone near a water gap; thence crossing the branch S. 51½ E. 26 links to a post; thence with the line of said A. W. Corn N. 59½ E. 798-100 chains to a stone; thence S. 40 E. 11 4-100 chains to a stone; thence with the line of the remaining tract of the H. J. Casey tract of land S. 46 W. 11 92-100 chains to a stone; thence N. 51½ W. 1334-100 chains to the beginning, containing 17 acres.

Being the same property conveyed to William C. Watts by deed of Myrtle Conner and Joel C. Clore, dated September 28, 1909, and recorded in Ded Book No. 51, page 10 of the Boone County Court Records.

For the purchase price, the purchaser must execute bond, with approved surety bearing legal interest from the day of sale, until paid, and having the force and effect of a judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

A. D. Yelton, Master Commissioner Boone C. C.

RUPTURE

SHIELD EXPERT HERE AGAIN

E. J. Meinhardt, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be in Cincinnati, Ohio, at the Gibson Hotel, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, May 22nd, 23rd, and 24th, from 1:00 P. M. to 5:00 P. M. and 7:00 P. M. to 8:00 P. M. daily. Please note dates and hours carefully.

MR. MEINHARDT says: The new Shield, which he recently invented, is a tremendous improvement, usually affecting immediate results. Its strengthens the weakened muscles of the Opening—retaining the Rupture in 10 days on the average case, regardless of the size or location and no matter how hard you work or strain. It is waterproof, quickly removable and has no leg straps or cumbersome arrangements. (Positively no surgery or caustic burning injection treatments used) Mr. Meinhardt has been coming here for 15 years.

Rupture (Hernia) can cause backache, constipation, nervousness, weakness, stomach pains—sometimes resulting in serious conditions.

Men having large Ruptures which have returned after surgical operations are also invited. When all others fail—see MEINHARDT. He will be pleased to demonstrate to you privately without charge. Beware of imitators. (Only men invited.) White only.

Feet And The Law Of Tissue

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at
AT PEOPLES' FOOT COMFORT (SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

There is a natural law constantly at work in the tissues of the human body. We must understand that bone, muscle and nerve consist of millions of ever changing tiny bodies called cells. These cells are held together with the tissue fluids and substances of the body.

Therefore bone, muscle and ligament respectively share the influence of this law, that constant tension causes wasting especially in the feet when the body weight which they carry about and support is not evenly distributed and balances throughout the twelve major bones of the foot framework.

If ligaments are stretched, due to long and careless standing especially those which bind the weight-supporting and key bones together, these ligaments finally yield in about the fifth or sixth year to strain and abuse, and pull away from the bone attachments.

The rest which the night affords is not enough to counteract continuous strain during the day.

This same law holds true of the muscles and tendon attachments of the feet which lift the body weight on the metatarsal heads or pivots. On the other hand, constant pressure causes wasting of tissue.

If the muscles do not hold the weight bearing joints of feet in proper dovetailing and interlocking action, these joints become deformed, misshaped and deformed because of the pressure of the body weight upon their point surfaces.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Western Jamboree"
Sunday and Mon.—"Tallspin"
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 23, 24, 25—"Little Princess"

Frank Darien, screen character player, made his movie debut in 1914, but had to leave films because they were too rough on him. Frank played in the Mack Sennett comedies and the slapstick comedy took its toll. Darien, however, returned to the screen after a successful stage career, and will appear in "Western Jamboree," Republic musical western with Gene Autry and Smiley Burnett at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday.

In an attempt to define what quality it is that makes the productions of Director Roy Del Ruth so outstanding, those who have seen "Tall Spin," the 20th Century Fox production which will be at the Gayety Theatre Sunday and Monday, are convinced that his genius lies in his ability to capture the beauty of flying figures or forms.

It was Del Ruth who directed, Sonja Henie in her most recent film success "My Lucky Star." Whether it be Miss Henie soaring through the air in graceful maneuvers, or racing planes hurtling through space with reckless abandon, the director never fails to transform the action to the screen with the maximum in breath-taking thrills.

"Tall Spin," the story of three women who fly, stars Alice Faye, Constance Bennett and Nancy Kelly.

For the first time in her career audiences are going to have the opportunity of meeting Shirley Temple face to face when she appears in "The Little Princess," the No. 1 star's first technicolor production at the Gayety Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 23, 24 and 25th.

It was in answer to thousands of requests that, Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief of 20th Century Fox decided to cast the dimpled star in "The Little Princess," and the studio's foremost talent was enlisted to actually put the story on celluloid. The addition of Technicolor entailed tremendous extra costs and created new problems in lighting, costuming and set decoration.

No star has ever appeared before the Technicolor cameras without benefit of makeup and the color experts insisted that even Shirley would be no exception. After making three tests of the star, one with makeup, one with a powder makeup and one without any makeup whatever, it was found that Shirley looked best in her natural coloring. And so, in "The Little Princess," the dimpled star appears just as she is in real life.

STOCK OF MERCHANDISE TO BE OFFERED AT LOW PRICES

Kate Noonan, 1322 Greenup St., Covington, having purchased the stock of the Lillian Lichtwadt store, Newport, has moved the stock to her store at the above address, where it will be sold at very low prices.

The Noonan store is a very old institution, and has gained an enviable reputation for reliability and low prices. An advertisement in this issue of the Recorder mentions a few of the many items now on sale.

AT THE JAMES

WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, May 19th and 20th—"Dark Victory." Bette Davis, George Brent, Humphrey Bogart. In her darkest hour of despair she won a victory few men ever know. One of the blazing fires of her genius, the screen's most gifted actress has created a gallery of unforgettable women, in the greatest picture of a woman's love that the world has yet seen.

Sunday, May 21st—"Love Affair." Irene Dunne, Charles Boyer. She kissed him—heaven laughed. She loved him—life bloomed. But his goal was "marry rich," and his past—a hundred hearts from the social register. They fought in a war without rules—in a romance as gloriously great, so stirringly beautiful that you'll remember it for many a day to come.

Monday, May 22nd—"The Kid From Texas." Dennis O'Keefe, and Florence Rice. The cowboys and the heiress. The smiling buckaroo who stampedes the social register as he lassoes an heiress. It's thrilling... it's funny... it's romantic.

Tuesday, May 23rd—"Off the Record." Fay O'Brien, Joan Blondell, Bobby Jordan. It's married life in the roar when Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell adopt a dirty-faced angel on their honeymoon.

Some honeymoon with a "Dead End" kid as a stowaway.

Wednesday, May 24th—"Sergeant Madden." Wallace Beery, Tom Brown, Alan Curtis, Lorraine Johnson. Beery's back in "Big House" thrills. Father vs. Son in Underworld war. Drama as killer's father silences his heart to lead 20,000 police in grim man hunt. Will his finger freeze on his trigger? Will he be able to shoot his son, who was the beginning and end of all his dreams?

Thursday, May 25th—"Next Time I Marry." James Ellison, Victor McLaglen, Chester Morris. Plenty of comedy, thrills and action.

Buy a Thrift book of show tickets and save 1/2 price on same. Only 200 books for sale at this extra low admission price. $10.00 book costs only $5.00. $2.00 book costs only $2.50. Thrift book coupon tickets are good on all shows.

IN MEMORY

Of Bobbie Black, who passed away May 7, 1939.

My dear Bob, your chair in one home tonight, Dear Bob how we miss you. But he has filled his heavenly chair with his heavenly Father that is so dear; The Lord had gathered so dear is blooming in heaven up there. I extend my deepest sympathy to the bereaved father, mother and sister, relatives and friends.

ROBERT WATSON BLACK
Robert Watson Black, son of Henry and the late Emma Black was born Dec. 29, 1925, departed this life May 7, 1939, being 13 years 4 months, 8 days old. He united with the Big Bone Baptist Church 3 years ago, when he gave his little heart to Jesus and always remained true to him in every way.

He was dearly loved by everyone and always had a sweet smile and a kind word for everyone that knew him.

Little Bobby was ill for 3 years. He was tenderly cared for by his loving stepmother Ethel Black and his father who done everything that human hands and heart could do to prolong this little life. But God so sweetly came down and took Bobby to heaven to be with his little sister Henrietta Rose Black and loved ones who have gone on before.

His mother preceded him to the grave 13 years ago.

He leaves to mourn his passing his beloved stepmother, Mrs. Ethel Black; one sister, Velma Lea Black; two granddaughters, 10 uncles, 6 aunts and a host of other relatives and friends.

Bobby, you are gone, but not forgotten. You will always linger in our hearts. But we know that God is Justice And in Heaven we shall meet, No, never more to part.

His Father and Mother.

OBITUARY

Elmer Lee Abdon, eldest son of Cathryn and Wilbur Abdon, was born July 18, 1898 and departed this life April 29, 1939, age 40 years 9 months and 11 days.

Elmer Lee was an honor student of his class at New Haven school and was dearly loved by his classmates and teachers. He was ever thoughtful of his younger brother and sister and had a ready smile for everyone.

He leaves to mourn his passing a loving father and mother, one sister Wilma June, two brothers Eugene and Owen, his grandparents and a host of relatives and friends.

Sleep on dear child, take your rest. We miss you most, who loved you best; It leaves a shadow which darkens our place.

And also a vacant chair. Days of sadness will come over us. Secret tears will often flow; 'Tis sad to part with one so young and dear, But God knoweth best.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking each and everyone who assisted us in any way during the illness and death of our dear son and brother, Elmer Lee Abdon.

Especially do we wish to thank Bro. Johnson and Bro. Smith for their comforting words; Mrs. Presser, Mrs. Aylor, Bros. Smith and Johnson for the beautiful songs; the schoolmates who acted as pallbearers and flower girls; the donors of the beautiful flowers, and Chambers and Grubbs for their efficient manner in conducting the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Abdon and Children

BICYCLE SHOP OPENED

AT 16 EAST FIFTH STREET, COVINGTON

George Maher recently opened the Dixie Cycle Shop at 16 East Fifth St., Covington. New and rebuilt bicycles and accessories will be sold, and a repair department will be maintained.

The proprietor was formerly known as "Cyclone Maher," because of his great speed as a cyclist. Old-timers will recall that he was frequently in the newspaper headlines because of his breaking records, before large crowds in bicycle races in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, about 25 years ago.

Mr. Maher is very much interested in promoting safety in "biking."

ELSMERE MAN DIES IN CRASH

CAR CRASHES THROUGH RAILING OF C. & O. BRIDGE, FALLING 45 FEET TO FRONT STREET.

Arthur E. Sothard, 65, Elsmere, plunged to death Saturday morning when his automobile crashed through a railing on the C. & O. Bridge, falling 45 feet to Front Street, Cincinnati.

Mr. Sothard was an employee of the B. & O. Railroad, Cincinnati, and was on his way to work when the accident occurred.

Police expressed the possibility that Mr. Sothard suffered a heart attack and may have been dead before the accident, as the car was weaving perilously on the north section of the bridge before the crash.

Skid marks on the bridge showed the auto had swerved to the west side of the span and careened 24 feet before veering to the right, where it leaped the curbing, tore down a portion of the railing and dropped to the street.

Surviving him are his widow, a brother, Thomas Sothard; and three sisters, Mrs. Theodore Simms, Miss Bertha Mitts and Mrs. Parth. Mr. Sothard had been a resident of Elsmere for thirty-five years. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Philip Tallafiero, Erlanger.

Anna E. Kirtley

Miss Anna E. Kirtley, former teacher of English literature at Judson College, Marion, Ala., and sister of Rev. James S. Kirtley, retired minister, died Thursday at her home, 124 Home St., Erlanger, after a brief illness.

Miss Kirtley had been a member of the faculty at Marion College for more than 40 years when she retired four years ago. She and Rev. Mr. Kirtley were contributors to religious column entitled, "Here's Something For Today," which has been published in Saturday editions of The Cincinnati Enquirer. She held an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Marion College.

Funeral services were conducted at 10:30 Monday morning at the Erlanger Baptist Church, of which she was a member, with Rev. R. D. Martin officiating. Interment was in the Bullittsburg cemetery. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Philip Tallafiero, Erlanger funeral director.

The Y. W. C. A. Girls of Union Baptist Church will give an ice cream and strawberry supper on the church lawn Friday evening, May 26th at 7 p. m. central standard time for the building fund of the church.

Ice cream, strawberries and cake will be served. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

DANCE PLANS ARE COMPLETED

BY YOUNG DEMOCRATIC CLUB
TEN-ACT FLOOR SHOW WILL BE FEATURE OF PROGRAM AT ZIMMER GARDENS.

Plans have been completed for the Young Men's Democratic Dance which will be given Saturday night, May 27th, at Zimmer Gardens, old Florence Fair Ground, Florence, Ky.

The entertainment committee has spent considerable time in selection of the music and floor show, and it is expected that the dance will prove to be one of the best and most entertaining ever sponsored by this organization.

Music will be furnished by Jack Jackson's Pullman Porters, said to be one of the best colored orchestras in Greater Cincinnati.

A special ten-act floor show will be given that will surpass anything staged in this section for some time, according to the committee. Dances given by the club are always well patronized, and this will be no exception, and those who desire to attend are requested to make reservations at once, by calling Ben Zimmer, proprietor of Zimmer Gardens, or O. R. Russ, of Limburg.

Hours will be from 9:00 to 1:00.

Erlanger Board Of Trustees Discuss City Sewer Project

The Erlanger Board of Trustees at a meeting Wednesday night, reported that more than 80 per cent of the city's $30,000 share of the municipal sewer system has been paid by property owners.

Efforts will be made during the next two weeks to collect the remaining amount, it was said. A Works Progress Administration grant has been approved and all needed is the agreement of State WPA Administrator, G. H. Goodman.

Former Burlington Teacher Named New Buffalo Club President

C. G. Lamb, a former teacher in the Burlington school, now principal of the Fourth District School, Covington, was elected president of the Buffalo Club, northern Kentucky school men's organization, at the final meeting of the year Wednesday night of last week at the Dixie Heights High School.

Mr. Lamb served as vice president of the club during the past year. He also is president of the Northern Kentucky Officials' Association, a group composed of school men and others interested in sports officiating.

Mr. Lamb succeeds Joe Austin, Highlands High School.

First Tobacco Setting Reported Last Monday

The rains over the week-end started the first setting of tobacco on Monday of this week. William Hill of near Idlewild and Ed Easton of near Burlington were two growers who were reported setting tobacco on Monday morning.

The rains were reported a big help to the hay and grass crops. Omer Cleek of Walton reports 375 western breeding ewes sheared approximately 8 pounds of wool per head. Mr. Cleek plans to supply Boone County farmers with several hundred head of approved Black Faced Western breeding ewes this year. Prospective purchasers are urged to buy early.

The wool crop is reported as light in weight this year. The Boone County ACP committee met Wednesday, May 31st, at 2:00 p. m. to adjust the 1940 farm yields on farms with commercial wheat yields. Farmers with special problems might meet with the committee at 1:00 p. m. on that date.

The county livestock tour of the Cincinnati Markets and packing plants will be held June 9th. Grapes should have two Bordeaux sprays before bloom to control rot in the mature fruit. Secure spray schedules at the county offices.

WARNING ISSUE BY FRANK B. DECKER, JR.

Social security account numbers should not be used as identification for cashing checks or for other purposes except to identify a worker in establishing his wage credits for old-age insurance.

This statement was made today by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security Board field office in Covington. Commenting on the danger of accepting a social security card as a positive identification Mr. Decker said:

"Recently merchants have informed us that have cashed checks presented by persons who offered social security cards and in some cases automobile operator or other licenses as identification. In some instances the checks were found to be worthless and efforts to trace the persons presenting them failed."

"The fact that a man has an account number card is not positive proof that this card contains his real name. Persons who are asked to accept such identification should request further proof that the individual is actually the person named on the card. In some instances lost cards have been used by the finder in improper and fraudulent schemes."

Constance Nine Win Second In Row

The Constance Hill Toppers won over the fast Erlanger Bankers baseball team Sunday on the Constance field, the score being 9 to 4. B. Goodridge was on the mound for Constance, with Norris Riddell working behind the plate. Shearer was on the mound for Erlanger and J. Johnson was on the receiving end.

F. F. A. Softball Season Opens Here

The first softball game of the season was played between the Hebron Chapter of the F. F. A. and the Simon-Kenton Chapter at Independence on May 17.

The game was a close one as the score was tied 7 to 7 in the seventh inning. The teams decided to play out the tie in the 18th inning. Simon-Kenton scored, winning the game 8 to 7.

Outstanding performance was marked up for the Hebron boys when they made two double plays. On the afternoon of May 30th, the Simon-Kenton Chapter will play the Hebron Chapter on their own territory at the school.

All softball fans should see this game.

Burlington Townsend Club To Meet Saturday

The Burlington Townsend Club will meet at the Courthouse in Burlington Saturday night, May 27 at 7:30. President Edin announced this week. All members are urged to attend as this will be a business session, Mr. Edin said.

At a meeting held in Union Friday night, forty-five members were enrolled. Omer L. Black was named president, R. Smith, vice president, Eunice Baskett, treasurer and Miss M. L. Smith, secretary.

The new club will hold meetings each Friday night.

Local Friends See Voshell In Action

Ralph Maurer, William Jarrell, Donald Kirk and James Ogden spent the past week-end in Richmond as guests of Leslie Voshell and Elmore Ryle, students of Eastern State College. While there they witnessed a double header between Eastern and Western State in which Voshell, Maroon third baseman, cracked out a pair of long home runs and several other hits.

Voshell will try out with the Louisville Colonels of the American Association, shortly after he receives his A. B. degree from Eastern next week.

Both Voshell and Ryle have ranked high scholastically during the past year at Eastern.

738 NEW ACP FORMS SIGNED

BY BOONE COUNTY FARMERS—
JUNE 1ST IS LAST DAY FOR FARMERS TO SIGN FOR THIS YEAR.

Seven hundred thirty-eight new 1939 ACP 315 forms have been signed today, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The 315 forms are the farmer's request to be included in this year's program and at the present time is required before June 1st if the farm is to be eligible for benefit payments.

The county association is very anxious that every farmer have an opportunity to cooperate and for that reason has notified all farmers who have not signed the form to do so as soon as possible. The plan for a series of night meetings the latter part of this week for those who could not attend during the day. The signing of the form is a simple expression that the farmer wishes to cooperate and in no way obligates the farmer to any crop acreage that he may put out or seedings that he may make. The contact with the committeeman at the time the form is signed gives the farmer an opportunity to have the 1939 program explained as to how it affects his particular farm and has what benefit payments are available. The explanation of this form is thus a most important contact so far as the farmer is concerned.

The analysis of the county office records shows that 738 farms have signed today. 26 have expressed intentions not to participate and 532 have not been contacted. While a farmer may feel that he may not be able to cooperate in the program this year it is to his distinct advantage to have the sign-up forms explained. Those who can not attend the local community meetings may contact the county office any day this week.

CARROLL MAN ANNOUNCES

AS CANDIDATE FOR COMMONWEALTH ATTORNEY—SECOND TO ENTER RACE—IS WORLD WAR VETERAN.

Judge R. L. Hardin, of Carrollton, makes his formal bow to the voters of Boone County. He is seeking the office of Commonwealth Attorney of this district. Mr. Hardin is the second candidate to announce for this office.

Judge Hardin makes the following announcement:

To the Democratic voters of Boone County:

Having announced myself as a candidate for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney for the 15th Judicial District, composed of Boone, Gallatin, Owen, Grant and Carroll, I deem it proper that the people of Boone County are entitled to know something of one who seeks their vote.

Shortly after the outbreak of the World War I enlisted in the Army and served with the American Expeditionary Force in France and with the Army of Occupation in Germany until the later part of 1919, after which time I was returned home and discharged. In 1921, the people of Carroll County elected me to the office of County Judge which office I held until January, 1938, since which time I have engaged in the private practice of law at Carrollton, Kentucky. I have been engaged in the practice of law for eleven years having been admitted to the bar in 1928.

I am married and have three children, an son and two daughters. I am a member of the American Legion.

My qualifications consist of youth, good health and ambition and my future to a great extent will depend upon my success in the conduct of my affairs. My health, education and future hopes are and will be an incentive for my best efforts, and I will at all times be appreciative of any confidence you may place in me, and if nominated and elected to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, I assure you that I will serve you to the best of my ability and in a manner that will promote the best interests of the people of our district.

Due to the size of the district and the fact that the knowledge of a few people in your County, I may not be able to see each of you and personally solicit your support, but it is my intention to see and talk to as many of you as possible between now and the August primary and I assure you that my consideration you may give me will be appreciated.

Respectfully,

(Judge) R. L. Hardin.

Erlanger Building Lots To Be Sold Saturday

Thirteen very desirable building lots in Sugar Grove Subdivision, Erlanger, will be sold at auction Saturday, May 27th, 2 p. m. by the R. G. Kinnaman Realty Auction Co., 408 Copping Bldg., Covington. The sale will take place on the premises, "rain or shine."

Col. Kinnaman states this sale offers an excellent opportunity for builders to purchase a group of lots for the construction of homes. Individual buyers will also be interested in these lots, which are located in a subdivision with all modern improvements, and within two squares of the business center of Erlanger, in a well developed residential section.

Free cash presents will be awarded at the sale.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

JUST WHAT IS GOOD WILL?

A FEW months ago, according to that beguiling writer, Bruce Barton, a large factory caught fire. It burned to the ground. Sirens shrieked. Crowds milled. Firemen fought the flames. Newspaper reporters scurried here and there after stories. Consideration reigned. Amid all this confusion the most serene man in sight was the president of the factory, the man who should have been the most excited. Alighting from his car, he strolled over to where that which he had spent years in building was becoming a total loss. He was calm, at ease, undisturbed.

A newspaper man spied him, asked him why he was so more concerned. He explained that the loss was fully covered by insurance and that, besides, the most valuable asset of the business hadn't even been touched by the fire.

"To what asset do you refer, Mr. Burlingame?"

"To our good will," he said. "We can build a new factory—now we'll have to. We can buy new machinery—better machinery than was in the old plant. As long as the good will of a business is intact, nothing else matters," he concluded.

He was right. The world imporbattle was not in vain. We do not take away from this belief.

It is our duty as American citizens in Boone County and every other community, to guard the living young, to keep these bodies whole and strong. To give to this country's youth the conviction that this nation is to be honored and respected and if necessary, fought for. But must prove to this youth that the cause for which lives have been lost in the past, is a just cause. That to lay down one's life is a valiant deed but that the fight must be worth the sacrifice. We honor the dead, we must protect the living.

GONE MODERN

Those of us in this country who like to rough it a bit when we take our vacations, who like to get away from the modern and be primitive for a few weeks, don't think much of the idea of Eskimo living outboard motors on their kayaks. It just doesn't seem right. Of course we don't blame them for choosing radios, flashlights, canned goods and spectacles, but it spoils the sound of backwoods and raw. You liked to think of the Eskimo as the last to go streamlined. Perhaps he is, and we don't blame him. We wouldn't want to do without our own luxuries and modern conveniences. Yet it seemed more appropriate for an Eskimo to paddle his kayak rather than running it along with a chug and a sputter. So goes life, and probably some good fishing!

THEY NEED YOUR HELP

As we type these words, thousands of school house doors have closed and are closing for another vacation of summer. The youth of America takes up its work and play. Many a student has been handed a long reminder of a completion of a high school or college education. It is not up to any of us oldsters to dim the pleasure and satisfaction of the day by giving an address of pessimism, or tell of lack of jobs and the shortage of opportunities. The note of gray should not creep in to mar the achievement. We perhaps play too harshly upon the words, due to our own discovery that the world is not waiting with open arms to welcome the young with opportunity and success vying for first place. But American youth does not graduate unaware of national affairs and laboring conditions. The boy and girl are able to discern the situation and being so are more able to meet it at the onset. There will come to them the chance, these youngsters will recognize it. Opportunity often takes a long time knocking and very frequently its knock is but a small rapping. Let us pay more heed to the small voices.

The diploma is fresh and crisp, it crackles and its ribbon is shiny and new. So is determination and hope when it beats in the breast of those who take steps forward to goals and desires. Who of us will not give out the helping hand if it is within our means to do so? We are all with him in this parade. The graduate marches on and we are all with him in this parade. Being in it longer has made us wiser and more able to give helpful advice and encouragement to those who are just now falling into step.

tant thing a business man has is the good will of his customers. Every business which has that is successful; every business which does not have it fails.

Good will is not a mysterious quality like genius. It is a simple, commonsense matter depending upon doing simple, commonsense things.

The first of these consists of giving good value and service, that the business may win and hold friends. The second consists of making the fact that the business is the kind which wins and holds friends known to its customers, by telling them of its ideals and its services and its merchandise.

This telling process is called advertising. Whenever a manufacturer or a merchant advertises in the newspaper he informs you that he is a business man whom you would pay, you to patronize him. He makes public the fact that he wants good will and that he realizes the only way he can keep it is by living up to his promises.

You as a customer get more for your money when you patronize a concern with good will. Good will is proof that the concern has done something to warrant the friendship and confidence of its customers. You see, good will doesn't just happen. It is created—by good goods, by good service, by good advertising.

PLANTING TIME

May is the month of planting time. More farm crops are planted during this month than any other one. To get the true feeling of spring, watch the gardeners and their seed packets. See the lovers of the gladioli get busy. May is their month! Much of God's good earth is turned into rows of potatoes, corn and the popular soybean. The city gardener is determining to make the most of his small plot. Those who can find no more room than for a few rows of vegetables can still supply his table with fresh vegetables grown in his own garden. These taste the best. You can spend one dollar in garden seed and have a return of ten dollars in table food, and this is a good investment. It is also good exercise. Let's get garden conscious. Have the children do a bit of planting for most youngsters like to watch plants grow. Give them a garden to call their very own and watch the onion sets and radish seeds appear. Make this summer a garden one.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Spanish Lima Beans—¾ cup bacon diced, 1 cup dried lima beans, 2 onions cut fine, 1 can tomato puree, 2 bay leaves, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika. Soak beans overnight. Cook two hours. Fry bacon then add onions. Cook together until browned. Add puree, bay leaves, seasonings and flour. Cook a few minutes before adding beans (drained). Serve piping hot.

SEWING SNAPS

Do not sew snaps on ties frocks without sewing them first to a piece of silk tape. Then put the tape along the place you desire the snaps. This will keep snaps from cutting into the fine material when the frock is ironed.

PAUL THINKS IN WORLD TERMS

LESSON TEXT—Romans 1:1-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.—Romans 1:16.

"I see chaos . . . only one thing will stop this coming chaos . . . a sweeping reformation. . . . We have such a reawakening of religious forces we shall have a depression within the next 10 years that will make the last one look like a Christmas Eve program." So wrote a prominent business advisor recently, as quoted in the Practical Commentary. His view is shared by others not only in business but in government. But because these leaders, some of whom until recently were presenting glowing pictures of the beautiful fellowship of the peoples of the earth in a modernistic faith which is far from the gospel, are now either silent or prophets of despair. Faithful witnesses for God have long seen the approach of this day, and like prophets of old have warned the people to turn to God. God still lives. The good news of the gospel has lost none of its redeeming power. The Light of the world is nearer than ever in the darkness. Now is the time to preach.

I. The Gospel (vv. 1-6).
Paul knew himself as the bond-slave of Jesus Christ, recognizing that he had been set apart by God for the exalted purpose of preaching the gospel. The word itself means "good news," that is, any good news that because there is but one bit of good news in the world entitled to a place of supremacy, it has come to mean the good news of the grace of God in Christ Jesus.

Note the three points made by Paul. First, it is "the gospel of God," good news from God. "Humanly speaking, from every reasonable standpoint, God can have only one message for fallen, rebellious men—a message of judgment and death. If there is to be good news from God, then God Himself must undertake to change the relationship between man and Himself so that He will be able to bestow His richest blessings upon men. This is the good news, that God is undertaking to make the most of his judgment and doom that man deserves" (Wilbur M. Smith).

Then observe that this salvation was prophesied beforehand (v. 2). This gospel we have is not some new message, but it is the good news of the foundation of the world (Eph. 1:4; Rev. 13:8). And in verse 3 we read that the good news is "concerning His Son." He is the only Savior and unless it is concerning Him that we are to speak, the news is not good news.

II. The Gospel for the Whole World (vv. 7-15).

Religious cults flourish only where conditions prosper them. "Buddhism," we are told, succeeds best in warm climates. Mohammedanism flourishes among people of low culture. The gospel of Christ breaks through all barriers of geography, climate and race, and has proved itself to be equally adapted to men of "all nations" (LeRoy M. Lowell).

Paul was called to preach to Greek and barbarian, to Jew and Gentile, to the wise and to the unwise, to every living soul. What is more, he regarded himself as a debtor to them, and that is the spirit that brings forth a sacrificial determination to make Christ known to the ends of the earth. Let us recognize that we too are in debt to the whole world because we have the gospel that men need. Then in Christ's name let us redouble our efforts, and women pay our debt. Perhaps some who would not wait overnight to pay the grocer for what he has delivered, have never felt the slightest compunction about standing in debt to all men for the preaching of the gospel.

III. The Gospel for the World's Salvation (vv. 16, 17).

Paul was not ashamed to take the gospel into the very heart of that ancient world, the magnificent city of Rome. Had he come with some new philosophy of life which had no power to transform men, he might well have been ashamed, but he knew that what he had would meet the deepest needs of humanity for deliverance from sin and sorrow and eternal death. He knew that the need of the "up and out" was the same as that of the "down and out" nameless, the redemptive grace of God—the gospel which is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth" (v. 16).

Why should we who follow Christ be so timid when Paul could be so bold? Certainly we should not speak to men about this good news in an apologetic, "hope-you-won't-mind" attitude. Men need Christ. We know Christ will meet every need. Let us not be ashamed to tell them about Him in the home, in the church, in the office, on the street, in America, in China, in Africa, yes, even to the very ends of the earth.

FOOT TEST

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at FOOT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison, Covington

Now, friends, I am going to ask you to do something which I think will give you the answer to the trouble you are having with your feet.

No, you must do just as I say, so you will understand what is meant when I say... Most all weak feet roll inward. Now friends take off both shoes right now. Please stand up, both feet side by side about six to eight inches apart with the same amount of weight on each foot. Now, this is important! Relax all muscles in your feet and legs. About 7 out of 10 of you will find that your feet roll inward.

In other words, your feet go down on the inside, some of them all the way down to the floor. You probably have one of the four stages of weak feet... first degree, about 1/4 of the way down; second degree, 1/2 of the way down; third degree, 3/4 of the way down; and 4th degree, all the way down or what is commonly known as flat foot.

But, here's the important thing for you to remember, two important things in fact; when your feet roll inward and go down, you are shutting off the nerve and blood supply going into the bottom of your feet. The result is poor circulation which often lets chemical deposits or waste matter form at the joints of your feet and lower limbs.

Now, the second important thing is this, weak, inrolling feet also cramp nerves, then through nerve relaxes, some weaker part of the body is usually affected. Remember, when you cramp the nerves in your feet, you cause reflexes to be sent to some other part of the body that is more sensitive and has less resistance. Then old mother nature comes right back at you with back aches, headaches or something worse. Adv.

KENTUCKY HELPS

4-H CLUB RECORD

Kentucky, with 41,087 club members in 1938, helped to raise the national 4-H club enrollment for that year to a record-breaking total of 1,288,029. There now are 4-H clubs in all of the 120 counties in Kentucky, with farm boys and girls from 10 to 18 raising livestock, growing crops, fruit and vegetables, canning, preserving, baking, making clothes and performing other work that gives them a practical education and often returns a financial profit. Approximately 16 percent of all students in the University of Kentucky, and 45 percent of the students in the College of Agriculture, are former 4-H club members. A large number also are students in other institutions of higher education in the state.

PARAGRAPHS

The real farm problem is how to put farm surplus into the farm pocketbook.

Loyalty is a fine thing and we admire every man who sticks to it, but better be sure you are picking out the right thing to stick to.

RABBIT HASH

Rain is needed badly here.

Rev. Kidwell preached at the M. E. Church Sunday. He and his wife and Mrs. Gant and Chas. Dolph and wife took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bode.

Mrs. Vida Stephens and Mrs. Lustenberger does not improve very rapidly. Little Estelle Ryle is on the sick list.

Jack Acra had the misfortune to get his finger badly injured last week.

Wm. Delph and family called on Mr. F. L. Scott and wife Friday. Mr. Scott is suffering from several fractured ribs. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

W. Gore and Jno. Louden purchased some hogs of Geo. Sullivan Monday.

Mrs. Bessie VanNess Gant, of Illinois is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lou VanNess and Joe VanNess here.

Mrs. Della Wingate Hawn, of Connersville, Ind., visited her brother Eugene Wingate and wife and Jack Wingate Sunday. Kathryn Acra spent Sunday there.

Dona Jean Acra spent last week with her aunt Mrs. Adah Ryle and family.

Mrs. Minnie Stephens called on several of her neighbors Thursday afternoon.

Web Louden and wife, of Rising Sun, and Mr. Mike Bailey spent Sunday with Jno. Louden and family.

Wallace Dameron and wife returned home Saturday, after a week's stay in Indiana, visiting relatives.

Thad Ryle and wife spent Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Vida Stephens and husband.

THE GARDEN

SWEETPOTATOES

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

A few sweetpotatoes, here and there, may already be set, but in the main, their setting time does not come until after May 10, to extend until June 1.

Many too many gardeners and farmers fail to explore the possibilities of this crop because of a misconception that sweetpotatoes are a "poor land" crop. This has arisen from the fact that if land that would make tall corn is used, only huge tops and long strings result, and only a few usable potatoes. The cause of this trouble lies in that the soil is too good for sweetpotatoes, but rather in that the fertility is not balanced to suit the crop.

Sweetpotatoes need all three food elements, nitrogen, phosphorus and potash just as do other vegetables, but whereas a fair amount of nitrogen is needed by cucumbers, tomatoes or corn to produce stalk and vine, to bring surface, sweetpotatoes need to have their nitrogen overbalanced with phosphorus and particularly potash, to keep top-growth in check.

A good start towards preparing sweetpotato land is to use 30-bushel corn land or even 40-bushel land. It should be broken deeply, as much as possible, so that adequate moisture reservoir is provided. For, contrary to the belief that because sweetpotatoes are customarily raised in ridges they are not moisture-loving, they must have quite as much water as white potatoes to make comparable crops. Forty-bushel corn land by itself would have too much nitrogen and too little phosphorus and potash in comparison, so, complete fertilizer must be used in conjunction. From demonstrations on various types and conditions of soil it appears that the best general sweetpotato fertilizer is 2-8-8 or 2-8-10.

The placement of fertilizer for sweetpotatoes is unique. Whereas sweetpotato roots become quite extensive if need be, many worthless "strings" result. However, these strings may be transformed into usable sweets if fertility is placed so as to keep them within bounds. Thus, the fertilizer is applied in a "ribbon" running under the ridge, and in this wise. First, the land is marked off as the rows are to be, the fertilizer is sown in a narrow strip down the marks, and the ridges are made over them. Accordingly, when the plants are set, the fertilizer lies just below their root tips, to which it should be made. This depends on the nature of the soil; the more sandy, the less ridge is desirable, and, for that matter, necessary, for the only object in making a ridge at all is to make possible the digging whole of the tubers. In fact, level culture results in maximum crop.

Generally, the rows are 3 feet apart and the plants, 15 inches in the rows. About 10,000 plants are needed for an acre, and 4 bushels of seed should have been bedded to produce enough slips by June 1.

As for varieties, Nancy Hall still stands supreme; but its popularity is becoming seriously threatened by Porto Rico, the showy, red sort. No insects of consequence attack sweetpotatoes except just after setting, the black fleabeetle, but its control is easily effected by spraying with Bordeaux mixture.

100,000 ACRES TO GROW HYBRID CORN

W. C. Johnston of the Kentucky College of Agriculture estimates that 100,000 acres will be planted to hybrid corn in Kentucky this spring. Most of the seed produced in the state has been sold, and farmers are buying hybrid seed in other states. He expects enough seed will be produced this year to supply the needs of Kentucky corn growers in 1940. Hybrid corn has been yielding 10 to 20 per cent better than common kinds. Its use enables farmers to increase production, or to produce their needs on less land, thereby releasing less productive land for seeding to hay and grass.

TOBACCO GROWING

SUBJECT OF STUDY

An agricultural improvement program outlined by County Agent S. Bell in Anderson county features tobacco management, beginning with plant beds and continuing through marketing. Management demonstrations will be given in every community. Among goals set up in the county are: Winter cover crops for all cultivated land; farmers to earn 95 percent of their soil-building payments; increased use of limestone and phosphate; increased growing of alfalfa; demonstrations of Italian rye grass; larger acreage of hybrid corn; a long-time program to control soil erosion.

NOTICE

On June 5, 1939 the undersigned as Committee for Robert Koons will file a settlement in the Boone County Court.

The farm home water system serving kitchen, bathroom and laundry should provide 30 to 40 gallons of water per person per day. Sewage disposal should be had through a carefully constructed septic tank.

Whipping cream cake: Mix and stir 1 1/2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon of salt. Whip cup of cream, add 2 eggs and beat lightly. Flavor with teaspoon of vanilla. Add cup of sugar gradually, beating constantly. Fold dry ingredients into cream mixture, and make in layers or cup cakes in moderate oven.

Dry mash for chicks: 70 pounds of yellow corn meal, 25 pounds of shorts or middlings, 10 pounds of meat scrap and a pound of salt. If milk is fed, use 2 pounds of steamed bone meal instead of meat scrap.

Vegetables do better on deeply plowed soil. Some professional gardeners plow 14 inches deep, but 10 inches is a good depth. A loose soil is needed to grow shapely root vegetables and potatoes. To have quality, vegetables must grow quickly.

Young trees set last year will grow better if the soil is cultivated about them for at least two feet. This will keep down weeds and grass, which absorb much moisture. Keep this area stirred until mid-summer and then apply mulch.

Vegetables do better on deeply plowed soil. Some professional gardeners plow 14 inches deep, but 10 inches is a good depth. A loose soil is needed to grow shapely root vegetables and potatoes. To have quality, vegetables must grow quickly.

Young trees set last year will grow better if the soil is cultivated about them for at least two feet. This will keep down weeds and grass, which absorb much moisture. Keep this area stirred until mid-summer and then apply mulch.

The farm home water system serving kitchen, bathroom and laundry should provide 30 to 40 gallons of water per person per day. Sewage disposal should be had through a carefully constructed septic tank.

Whipping cream cake: Mix and stir 1 1/2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon of salt. Whip cup of cream, add 2 eggs and beat lightly. Flavor with teaspoon of vanilla. Add cup of sugar gradually, beating constantly. Fold dry ingredients into cream mixture, and make in layers or cup cakes in moderate oven.

Dry mash for chicks: 70 pounds of yellow corn meal, 25 pounds of shorts or middlings, 10 pounds of meat scrap and a pound of salt. If milk is fed, use 2 pounds of steamed bone meal instead of meat scrap.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Pacific Liner."
Sun. & Mon.—"Arizona Wildcat."
Tuesday—"Great Man Votes."
Wednesday and Thursday, May 31 and June 1—"Little Women."

A stormy romance that flowers in the shadow of a man's tyranny on board an ill-fated steamship, is depicted in striking fashion in RKO Radio's "Pacific Liner." Victor McLaglen and Chester Morris are co-starred in the exciting drama.

The gripping story concerns the conflict between a ship's doctor and a hard-driving chief engineer who rules the stokehold with a hand of steel. The efforts of the physician and nurse-sweetheart to halt the spread of a dread malady among the engine-room crew in spite of the engineer's antagonism, lead to the dramatic complications of the plot.

Law and disorder come to the West with Jane Withers and Leo Carrillo in "The Arizona Wildcat." 20th Century-Fox's uproarious comedy which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday.

This is the type of picture Jane's admirers have been waiting to see her in and, judging from the her in.

Everything one could ask in the line of action has found its way into "The Arizona Wildcat." A faster-paced film than has been seen in a long time. There is a moment's let-down from beginning to end and every time you blink your eyes something happens.

Said to give the famous actor his finest role in years, "The Great Man Votes" presents John Barrymore as a broken-down wreck of a once famous scholar who, thru the love and resourcefulness of his two children, again becomes a "great man."

Peter Holden and Virginia Weidler have the roles of the two youngsters, and Luis Alberni, Donaid MacBride, Katharine Alexander, Granville Bates and J. M. Kerrigan are prominently cast in this unusual offering. Garson Kanin directed the Cliff Reid production for RKO Radio.

Unfaded by the years and untouched by the revolutionary trends in motion picture production since its original release, "Little Women" will be shown at the Gayety Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, May 31 and June 1. The performance of Katharine Hepburn as Jo and that of twenty other leading artists in amazingly authenticated atmosphere still give the whole production a sense of being the original book brought to life, with all its characters loving, sorrowing and re-creating just as they do within the aged pages.

For beauty and sheer homely power, for naturalness and intrinsic merit in the lessons of life, for all-round entertained qualities, as well as for its picture of a noble American era, "Little Women" wins a lasting place in the hearts of the film fans.

SECOND FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOCIATION MOVE INTO NEW OFFICES

The Second Federal Savings & Loan Association, formerly located at 533 Madison Avenue, Covington, recently moved into its new offices located at 536 Madison Avenue on the east side of the street just north of Sixth.

Lisle Kays, president of the association, pointed out that prior to the occupancy of the new quarters the association had used offices jointly with another business firm, and while this arrangement had been made in the interest of economy, the growth of the association had been such that it was justified in having its own new offices, in keeping with its present large volume of business. Kays pointed out that the association had on its books over $1,000,000 in mortgage loans.

The new offices are located in a fireproof building recently completed by the association. The structure is a modern two-story building with the entrance lobby extending through the height of two floors, with stairway to the second floor accessible from the lobby. An unusual feature of the building is the extensive use of glass brick and aluminum on the exterior, creating the impression of a thoroughly modern design admirably adapted to the purpose for which it was built.

The Second Federal was organized in November, 1934 to provide facilities for thrift savings accounts and mortgage loans on home.

The officers of the association are Lisle Kays, president; William F. Burke, vice president; Frank Richards, vice president; R. L. Kalper, secretary, and F. D. Jaynes, treasurer.

SUMMER BLANKETS

Put away the heavy wool blankets used during winter and use the lighter weight cotton blankets for summer. The wool blankets are more expensive and by storing them during warm months they will last longer. Lighter weight ones are easier laundered, very inexpensive and are a more comfortable weight when nights are warm.

Baseball is 100 years old this year. And there will continue to be a lot of decisions which will smell that old.

BIG LAMB DAY CELEBRATION AT LOUISVILLE JUNE 1

A general invitation is being extended farmers and city folk alike to attend the celebration of the coming of the June lamb market at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville, commencing 12 o'clock noon, Thursday, June 1st.

Co-operating in the most elaborate program of its kind ever planned at the premier lamb market of the South, are the Louisville Board of Trade and the Trade Relations Department of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times. Included in the events of the day will be the awarding of $400 in cash prizes, lamb-grading and lamb meat-cutting demonstrations, a half-hour radio program broadcast by remote control over WEAS from the lamb pens at the Yards and addresses of welcome by Hon. Joseph D. Scholtz, Mayor of Louisville, E. J. O'Brien, Jr., president of the Louisville Board of Trade and T. W. Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times.

In addition to the usual active demand by Louisville packing houses, buyers from all the large national packers will be on hand that day and throughout the entire lamb season aggressively competing for the finest Spring lambs available for shipment to the large consuming market of the North and East. Informal discussions will be held on the radio program with representatives from Armour, Cudahy, Swift & Wilson who will point out the type and quality of market lamb in greatest demand by the packers and most profitable to the farmer. The radio program over station WHAS will be broadcast from 3:15 to 3:45 p. m.

Cash Awards offered

The following cash awards, totaling $400, will be offered contestants:

Ten awards of $100 each to owners of the ten best statements, of fifty words or less, commencing "I believe the best way to produce lambs is..." Competing statements must be turned in to the Secretary of the Program Committee at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville not later than 12 o'clock noon, Thursday, June 1st.

Ten awards of $200 each to the family attempting June Lamb Day and coming the greatest number of family miles. Four awards of $200 each to operators of trucks bringing the largest number of lambs. Lambs must be delivered in good condition. Any truck which brings dead or crippled lambs will not be permitted to participate in this contest.

Four awards of $100 each to operators of trucks coming the greatest distance. To participate in this contest, truck operators must register origin point of lambs with stockyard receiving clerk when making delivery.

Two awards of $300 each to the consignors of the two carload shipments of lambs coming the greatest distance by railroad.

In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded and the decisions of the judges shall be final. Only those trucks and lambs which are received at the Bourbon Stock Yards not later than 12 o'clock noon, Thursday, June 1st, 1939, will be permitted to participate in these contests.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present at Louisville's big Lamb Day demonstration at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville on the first day of June.

GRANT HOMEMAKERS

The Grant Homemakers' Club met Thursday, May 18th, with Mrs. Bertha Rice for their regular monthly meeting.

Miss Gillaspie gave a talk on plans for the summer months. Marian Rogers gave us our lesson on "Better Speech." We also had a review of our lessons on "Food."

The major project for the day was a lesson on "Silp Covers," which was a continuation of the last lesson. It was given by Mrs. Franklin Clure and Mrs. R. S. Henley.

After the business meeting, the club adjourned wishing Miss Gillaspie "bon voyage" as she sails for England.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Rogers on Thursday, June 15. At that time we will have the last of our lessons on "Silp Covers." Everyone interested is urged to be present. Visitors are always welcome.

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1939

YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB SENDS LETTER TO HIGHWAY DEPT. OFFICIALS

REQUESTING THAT U. S. HIGHWAY 25 BE RETAINED IN THIS COUNTY AND MODERN TYPE CONSTRUCTION.

Last week, A. D. Yelton, secretary of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County, directed a letter to each of the following named men and on the part of the club urged that U. S. Highway 25 be retained in Boone County as near its present location as possible and follow the modern practice in road building. The men to whom the letter was directed are Hon. Robert Humphreys, State Highway Commissioner, Hon. O. M. Rogers, Advisory Commissioner and Hon. T. H. Cutler, State Highway Engineer.

The letter follows: Commissioner T. H. Cutler, Frankfort, Ky. Hon. O. M. Rogers, Frankfort, Ky. Hon. Robert Humphreys, Frankfort, Ky. Hon. T. H. Cutler, State Highway Engineer, Frankfort, Ky.

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County, Kentucky, is, as its name implies, composed of Democrats, but, as its name might imply, it is not organized solely for the purpose of partisan politics, but has for its object the improvement of Boone County along economic, financial, political and governmental lines in every manner and form that would be beneficial to the County as a component unit of the State at large. The members of this club are scattered throughout the County and some naturally along the eastern border near the present location of U. S. Highway No. 25, and those residing in the more remote portions of the County have, of course, access to the public press and have been made conscious through the medium of the press of a contemplated change in U. S. Highway No. 25, the contemplated change being to remove U. S. Highway No. 25 from its present location eastward several miles and enter the City of Covington through Sandfortown.

At a meeting of this Club recently held a resolution was passed instructing me as Secretary to write you a letter on behalf of the Club and suggest that before this contemplated change should be carried into effect, that due consideration be given to the advantages of maintaining U. S. Highway No. 25 along its present alignment, making only such changes as may be necessitated by engineering requirements growing out of higher standards existing at the time of the construction of the present U. S. Highway No. 25.

From an economic standpoint we would regret to see Boone County lose this road and for that reason urge upon you careful consideration of its removal. Some of the members of this Club are likewise members of U. S. 25 Highway Association of Northern Kentucky and through them this Club has been advised that that Association has suggested to you the advantages of the retention of the Highway at or near its present location, and for that reason we do not undertake to cite any reason why it should remain as it is now located. We trust that you will give this communication due consideration.

Very truly yours,
Young Men's Democratic Club
Of Boone County

REGISTRATION DATE CHANGED

FINAL DATE IS SET FOR JUNE 6 COUNTY CLERK, C. D. BENSON ANNOUNCES—VOTERS URGED HAVE CARDS CORRECTED.

C. D. Benson announced this week that the last day to register has been changed from June 5th to June 6th, and registration will be absolutely closed on that day.

Any person who has moved into the county, anyone who has removed from one precinct to another, or any person who has become 21 years of age since the last election or who will become of age before the next general election, November 7, 1939 is required to register with the County Clerk. Mr. Benson stated that if a voter failed to change his registration card, he would be unable to vote and urged that all changing their precincts should register before June 6th.

Local Girl Elected President Of Y. W. C. A.

Miss Evelyn Conrad, who is attending Eastern Teachers College, Richmond, has recently been honored by being elected president of the Y. W. C. A.

On June 12, Miss Conrad will leave for Blue Ridge, North Carolina to attend the southwesterly Y. W. C. A. conference.

Miss Conrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Conrad, of Burlington, is majoring in Home Economics.

FLORENCE MASS MEETING CALLED

FOR THURSDAY NIGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM—FUNDS FOR SEWER SYSTEM TO BE DISCUSSED.

A mass meeting will be held at the Florence School auditorium Thursday night, June 8th at 8:00 p. m., according to Mabel G. Sayre, Town Clerk, of Florence.

All citizens of Florence are urged to attend this meeting as plans will be discussed in regard to paying the Town's portion of the new sewer system.

The town received a grant from the WPA of $181,000 early in April for construction of a sanitary sewer system. The grant is to be used for construction of a disposal plant with sludge bed and sprinkling filter; placing filter sand and rock; excavating; shoring; laying sewer lines and fittings; building manholes; installing drain tile and performing incidental and appurtenant work.

The grant made by the WPA specifies that the city obtain all right-of-ways and title to the property on which the disposal plant will be located.

Fishing Season Opens Thursday June 1st

Anglers have been impatiently straining at the leash (closed season) on all fishing in public waters of Kentucky during the month of May with the exception of hand pole fishing in rivers under lock and dam and in private ponds) which was released on Wednesday at midnight, May 31.

According to reports received by the Division of Game and Fish, every available boat on Herrington Lake has been rented for the opening day and in all other sections preparations of like proportion are under way.

During the month of May which has been closed to most of the fishing, thousands upon thousands of game fish and the rough fish, too, have spawned and produced millions of little fish which will be the nucleus for next year's fishing. Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, calls attention to the fact that all persons, both men and women, 18 years of age or older, must possess a fishing license.

Florence Bungalow To Be Sold At Auction Saturday June 10

The beautiful 4-room modern bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Carpenter, located on Dorotha Ave. Florence, will be offered at auction Saturday, June 10th at 3:00 p. m. This property is practically new and is an ideal home for some small family.

The R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., of Covington will be in charge of the sale.

Large Crowd Attends Democratic Dance Sat.

A very large crowd attended the dance Saturday night given by the Young Men's Democratic Club at Zimmer Gardens, Florence. Those present expressed themselves as being well entertained. The tented floor show was said to be far above the average, and the music furnished by Jack Jackson's Pullman Porters was splendid.

Erlanger Youth Dies On Covington Street

William T. Clutterbuck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Clutterbuck Sr., of Erlanger, collapsed Sunday afternoon on the street at Pike and Short Main Sts., Covington and died shortly after being removed to Booth Hospital.

Clutterbuck, who was 19, had been suffering from a heart ailment and had been in the care of a physician for several years. He is survived by his parents, and a sister, Suzanne.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Philip Tallafiero, Erlanger.

Mabel Gibson

Mabel Gibson, 26, wife of Randolph Gibson, passed away Monday, May 29th in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mann, near Independence.

She is survived by her father and mother, husband, one daughter, Mary Jane, one sister, Harley Stephenson and a number of other relatives.

Funeral services will be conducted today, Thursday, June 1st, at the Independence Baptist church. Chambers and Grubbs are in charge of funeral arrangements.

Lafayette Horton

Lafayette Horton, 80, passed away Sunday at his home in Covington. Mr. Horton was a native of this county, having resided at Big Bone.

He is survived by a son, William Horton, of Covington; a daughter, Mrs. Nettie Riggs, Covington; two sisters, Dovie Stephenson and Sallie Riggs, both of Big Bone and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at the Allison & Rose Funeral Home at 1:30 p. m. Interment was in Big Bone cemetery.

Charles B. Allen, Sr.

Charles B. Allen, a native of Florence, who resided in Covington, died Saturday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mr. Allen is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Sidney Cotner, Covington, and Mrs. I. Newton Fox of Los Angeles; a son, Charles Jr., of Covington; a sister, Mrs. Emma B. Moore, Kansas City, and a granddaughter.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a. m., with burial in St. Mary cemetery.

WOOL SIGN-UP CLOSES JUNE 3

POOL HAS NEVER BEEN OUT-SOLD ON THE DATE OF SALE—ONE TO THREE CENTS HIGHER PRICE PAID MEMBERS.

The Boone County Wool Pool sign-up for the 1939 crop will close on Saturday, June 3rd, according to H. E. White, president. "It is the latest date growers may list their number of fleeces in order that the secretary must compile the sign-up and notify buyers not later than June 6th. The buyers will make their best bids only when they know exactly how many fleeces they are to receive and that they are buying only pooled wool."

The Boone County Pool has never been out-sold on the date of sale. The pool practically always receives from one to three cents more per pound than could otherwise be received. The organization is a distinct advantage to the buyer in that he receives a large quantity at a minimum expense and handling charge and a distinct advantage to the seller in that he receives a better price, delivers his wool at one of three convenient points in the county in cooperation with fellow growers and in turn receives cash payment as soon as his clip is weighed.

The Boone County Pool is one of the oldest and most successful pools in the state. The fact that approximately 90 percent of farmers sell their wool cooperatively thru this organization shows the effective service the organization is rendering.

Thos. Kennady

Thomas Kennady, of near Walton passed away Monday, May 29. Mr. Kennady was well known thruout the county.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lizzie Duncan, of Burlington and Maggie Kennady.

Funeral services were conducted at the Richmond cemetery by his pastor, Rev. J. Cross, Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Chambers and Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

KARL P. BOTTS SUCCEUMBS SUN.

WAS BORN AND REARED IN BOONE COUNTY—SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY AT RADEL FUNERAL HOME.

Karl P. Botts, 41, passed away early Sunday morning at Speers Hospital, following two major operations.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Botts, of Burlington, and was born and reared in the Petersburg community. He was well known throughout the county and was loved and respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Botts had been a resident of Newport and Covington for the past twelve years, having been employed as an assistant embalmer by the John Radel Funeral Home, during this time.

He was a member of Newport Lodge of Masons and the Christian Church, of Petersburg.

Besides his parents he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Mae Beagle Botts, a registered nurse, and a sister, Mrs. D. R. Blythe, of Burlington.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the John Radel Funeral Home, Newport, with Rev. Kramer officiating. Interment was in Highland cemetery.

Mrs. Harriet Willoughby

Mrs. Harriet Willoughby, 59, passed away Saturday at her home in Verona. She had been a resident of Verona only two years, having moved there from Covington.

She is survived by her husband, Herman Willoughby, seven daughters, Mrs. Olga Penick, Mrs. Stella Apple and Mrs. Mary Blackely, all of Verona; Mrs. Margaret Page, Mrs. Edward Bailey and Mrs. Clyde Freeman, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Helen Markersby, Verona; and a son, William Willoughby, of Ludlow.

Services were conducted Monday at 2 p. m. with interment in Linden Grove cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of J. L. Hamilton, Verona.

Another Victory Is Scored By Bob & Gene

Another victory was scored by Bob and Gene's Sunday against Summe and Raterman at the Crescent Springs ball park when they defeated the visitors by a score of 6 to 3.

It appears as though the Bob & Gene nine are off on the right foot now and are really clicking. Elmo Steffens pitching for Bob & Gene allowed four hits and Nelsmeyer for Sumner allowed 12 hits. Dale Williamson, Bradburn and Sebre collected a single and a triple each.

Next Sunday Bob & Gene will play Pepsi-Cola at the Crescent Springs park. This game should be very interesting for Boone County fans, as Roy James, of Petersburg is the manager of the Pepsi-Cola team. Batteries for Bob & Gene will be "Hoots" Ryle, pitcher, Rags Ryle catcher, Elmo Steffen pitcher, and Bob Dennison, catcher.

HEBRON MAN TO REPRESENT STATE

AT NATIONAL HOLSTEIN CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN NEW YORK CITY JUNE 6—EACH STATE TO BE REPRESENTED.

When the Holstein-Friesian Association of America convenes at the Hotel New Yorker in New York City for Open Forum Day June 6 which precedes the 54th Annual Convention opening June 7, the State of Kentucky will be represented by Hubert Conner, of Hebron. Every state in the Union and the District of Columbia have elected delegates to this Convention. Each state elects one delegate and is entitled to additional delegates in proportion to the number of active Holstein-Friesian breeders within the state. The delegates were elected from a nominating list by mail vote.

"Open Forum Day" permits delegates, officials of the Holstein-Friesian Association, breeders and interested breeders to bring up for full and open discussion any problems relating to the welfare of the Black and White cattle in this country. All Holstein breeders are invited and urged to take part in these discussions. Professor Frank B. Morrison of Cornell University, who recently returned from a World tour during which he observed dairy cattle feeding methods, will discuss "What is New in Dairy Cattle Feeding." Another discussion is scheduled for "Open Forum Day" is "Inheritance of Color Patterns in Holstein-Friesian Cattle" by Lester O. Gilmore of the University of Minnesota. Professor Stanley J. Brownell of New York will lead this discussion. When the Convention officially convenes on June 7, all matters of official business will be transacted by the delegate convention and officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Thursday, June 8, has been set aside for informal inspection, by all Holstein enthusiasts, of the New York World's Fair featuring The Dairy World of Tomorrow in which 30 of Canada's and our own great producing Holstein cows are assisting in the teaching of a practical lesson intended to create a more favorable position for dairy products in the diets of the 40,000,000 people who will see this greatest of all dairy demonstrations.

In addition to the regular Convention Program and the New York World's Fair, all delegates, members and friends, will have an opportunity to visit several large breeding establishments in the East including Mark Keeney's famous Overbrook Dairy at Cedar Grove, New Jersey, and Mrs. W. S. Kellogg's beautiful Osbornedale Farm at Derby, Connecticut.

Dr. J. W. Bartlett of the New Jersey Agricultural College extends an invitation to all Holstein breeders to visit the New Jersey Experimental Farm at Beemerville, near Sussex, New Jersey. Open house will be held at the Experiment Station during Convention week and visitors will be given an opportunity to study the high percent fat Holstein herd which is being developed at the Station.

CONSTANCE LADIES' AID TO GIVE STRAWBERRY SOCIAL SATURDAY, JUNE 3

The Ladies' Aid of the Constance Church will give a strawberry social at the church Saturday, June 3rd, beginning at 6:00. Menu: strawberries, ice cream, cake, ham sandwiches.

Judge Riddell Reports Fishing Fine In Texas

In a card received from Judge N. E. Riddell, who is spending several weeks in Texas, he stated that fishing was fine there. He reports that while trolling the other day a fish struck breaking a line which was a 50-pound test. This sounds very good to us. They must grow big out there.

This week we received a picture of the Judge and two fish, one weighing 35 pounds and the other a 15-pound Mackerel caught by him. He writes that it required nearly an hour to bring the 35-pounder to gaff.

The Judge said that most fishermen caught the large ones about fifteen miles out in the Gulf.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Huey, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huey and son and Mr. and Mrs. George Porter and son were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Rouse.

BLUE MOLD HITS TOBACCO BEDS

IN BOONE COUNTY—FIRST RED TO BE AFFECTED IS ON FARM OF O. K. POWERS, NEAR VERONA.

Blue mold made its first reported appearance in Boone county tobacco beds on Monday of this week according to H. E. Friesner, county agent. The first affected bed was found on the farm of O. K. Powers of near Verona. Plans were immediately made to begin spraying nine control demonstration beds in an effort to work out an effective control plan for local growers.

Blue mold appeared in Boone county two years ago but made its first destructive attack in a few places in the season of last year. The disease usually attacks the tobacco plants just about the time they are ready to set. The first affected plants show a downward cupping of the tips of the leaves. Almost overnight a bluish or grayish mold develops on the lower sides of the leaves. The leaves turn dead green or slightly yellow and later appear scalded and have a characteristic odor of decay.

Bloat Kills Number Livestock In County

A number of farmers report that white clover has killed livestock for them the past few days. The clover crop in most sections is one of the heaviest in years. Bloat often kills quickly in many instances in a few minutes. Cattle and sheep are most often affected but practically all classes of livestock are subject.

A few simple aids for livestock running on white clover fields are: Some dry feeds in the morning often helps.

Watch animals closely and keep the individual animals most susceptible to bloat in fields free from clover or in a dry lot.

For animals that are bloated, tie a stick in the animal's mouth by running a string over the head so that it is fastened similar to a bit in a mule's mouth, then walk the animal around until relieved.

For cattle give 6 ounces of mineral oil.

Mix one pound of baking soda with two pounds of salt and keep before the animals as a prevention. As a last resort—

Give half ounce of formaldehyde in one quart of water as a drench.

For a trocar inserted through the left flank into the paunch, if necessary.

One often must act quickly if bloat hits. If time permits, the help of a veterinarian may be profitable and important.

"Oh! Susanna," "Sweet Genevieve," "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," put on "Dem Golden Slippers," and "Gilt Around Little Chillum," "Plot down 'The Swanee River'" to "My Old Kentucky Home" June 6th, "Way Down in Dixie," at Burlington, Ky. More exciting than "De Camp Town Races."

WILL BE LOCATED ON MAIN STREET OPPOSITE POST OFFICE—WILL BE MODERN IN EVERY DETAIL.

Plans have been completed by the editor for the construction of a new two-story building to house The Recorder, and construction work is now in progress. The new building will be located on Main street, just opposite the postoffice between the banks of Harold Conner and Justin Dolph.

The new building will be of concrete construction with brick veneer front, designed specially for a printing plant. Measurements of the building are 100 feet in length, and thirty-one feet in width, which is approximately twice as large as the building now occupied by The Recorder.

The downstairs will be used for the printing plant, composed of front office, stock room, composing room, press room, stereotyping room and furnace room, while the upstairs will be occupied by the editor and his wife.

It is expected that the new building will be completed before October and will house the plant during the winter months.

During the winter months we have added many pieces of new machinery to the plant, and at the present time the building we now occupy is far too small to take care of two new presses which were purchased recently from a Cincinnati firm. These presses will be installed as soon as the building is completed.

With the completion of this new structure we feel that we will have one of the best equipped and most modern weekly papers in Kentucky.

The first edition of The Recorder was published sixty-four years ago, this week. The founder, Will Riddell operated this plant until his death twenty years ago. Since that time the paper has been edited and published by Judge N. E. Riddell, R. E. Berkshire, E. A. Skillman, Maurer and Stephens, and at the present by A. E. Stephens.

The Recorder, under the present management has made an effort to improve our paper from week to week, giving all the county and local news possible. We have been aided materially by our many correspondents throughout the county and by the citizens as a whole.

We appreciate the cooperation given us during the past and hope that we may serve you more efficiently in the future.

BURLINGTON P.-T. A. TO MEET

The Burlington P.-T. A. will meet at the school auditorium on Tuesday, June 13th at 7:30. This change is due to the play being presented on the regular meeting date. All members are urged to be present.

CAMP ERNST TO OPEN JULY 2ND

BOYS WILL OCCUPY CAMP JULY 2 TO 24 AND GIRLS FROM JULY 23 TO AUGUST 6—CAMP IS POPULAR IN THIS SECTION.

Camp Ernest, operated by the Covington Y. M. C. A., and located near Burlington, on Gunpowder Creek, will open the 1939 season July 2nd and will last for six weeks. The camp will be open to all boys and girls over eight years of age in northern Kentucky and surrounding communities.

The boys will occupy the camp from July 2 to July 23 and the girls from July 23 to August 6th. A week for young women has been provided from August 6th to August 13.

The camp will be under the direction of Charles Freeman, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The camp has been very popular during the past few years, and many youngsters from Boone county have enjoyed spending their outing at this camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bethel and family had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall and family, of Covington, were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Sule Stephens.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

MEMORY COURSE IN 1,000 LESSONS

THE German psychologist, Ebbinghaus, a careful, scholarly observer of the workings of the human mind, has said that we forget 90 per cent of what we learn within 24 hours. From your own experience you know that what he says is true.

The business man, noting this, understands why he must advertise, not occasionally nor sporadically, but all the time. It's the only way he can be of the greatest service to his customers.

His advertising reminds us of him and of the things he sells, and though we may forget him and those things a long time, every advertisement he publishes renews the impression and creates a recognition of his business.

His problem is to find the most economical way of reminding us that it is to our advantage to trade with him.

He discovers soon that nothing is so economical a medium for this purpose as the newspaper. There he advertises. We read. Both he and ourselves benefit by his repeated advertising.

He benefits in the obvious way, by winning us as steady customers. We benefit equally obvious

UNHERALDED SERVICE

It's probably only human to do a good deal of kicking at our commercial institutions, particularly those which involve "big money." But this kicking shouldn't be allowed to obscure our view of the services they render us.

Banks, for instance, probably come in for about as much unheralded abuse as any business.

The banks—which are simply the repositories of money belonging to millions of people, most of them of very moderate means—provided the financial blood that built this country. And they are still providing the financial blood that is further developing this country today.

No banker wants to refuse an application for a loan. He knows that loans make the mare go so far as banking is concerned, and that the more sound loans he makes, the stronger his community and his bank will grow. Bankers refuse some loans because they have to—because their first thought must always be for the safety of the money entrusted to their care.

In every community in this country the banks are helping today, as in the past, in financing homes, factories and merchants. Banking's service to America isn't often heralded—but it is second to none.

IS IT FREEDOM?

The man, acquitted for the mercy-killing of his 16-year-old imbecile son, is planning upon adopting a child to take the place of this other boy whom he loved so much. The jury freed him of the charge and the father who faced his life's life is ready to face the world, a "freeman."

We do not know, here in Boone county whether society is appeased with this decision. There has always been talk on the right and wrong of "mercy killings." There are many cases when it has seemed justifiable and humane, but we pray we may never be faced with such a decision. There are some who say there should be a law where physicians could control and give the relief. There are others who feel that those mentally unfit who are a danger to society, should be put out of the way. It is a momentous question and one perhaps never to be considered officially. But this released father who has been forgiven by law, for this act, and who is planning upon beginning a new life, is he a free man? The heart will be heavy though the mind is convinced of justice and of doing right. A sorrowful memory will never free him, perhaps.

UNFIT TO DRIVE

When you came close to having that auto accident last winter, and called the other driver "crazy" you might have hit the nail on the head. In Detroit, Michigan, they examined 467 motorists who were arrested for breaking traffic laws. 190 of these cases were serious mental cases, seven found insane, 40 on the verge of insanity, 48 feeble-minded and 97 judged to be mentally dangerous on the highway. Folks in Boone county wonder why licenses were issued to these, in the first place. It would appear to be negligence on the part of someone, or a laxity in traffic laws. This proves that there are many unfit drivers who should not be permitted the responsibility of handling a car. We

PAUL PLEADS HIS OWN CASE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:20-24; 24:10-18; 25:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.—Acts 21:1.

"They say. What do they say? Let them say." So reads the inscription on a doorway of one of the great schools of England. What does it mean? It bespeaks the confidence of a life lived so nobly that the base tongue out by wicked and slanderous tongues may be faced without fear, in fact, ignored.

The best defense against the attacks of men is the testimony of a good life. Paul had lived such a life, and consequently when the hour came for him to speak in his own defense, he needed but to point to the record. It is significant that the charges did not deny the facts. They could only cry out, throw off their garments and throw dust in the air while they shouted, "Away with such a fellow from the earth!" (Acts 22:24). They did not deny, manufacture accusations against him, but even the heathen officials knew enough to throw these out of court. The accused was shown by wicked men when they run up against the consistent testimony of a true Christian life is one of the strongest of testimonies to the genuineness of faith.

At first glance the portions assigned for our lesson seem somewhat unrelated though taken from the same general narrative. A little study reveals a surprising unity.

I. A Matter of Conviction (21:40-22:4).

Many men and women have no real convictions. They are Republicans or Democrats because their fathers were, and often they have not the remotest idea of what it all means. They are members of a certain denomination because they were brought up in it, and have little knowledge of what it means and no definite convictions relative to them.

Paul was a Christian because of strong personal convictions of the deep reality of what he believed and a tradition which made him a bitter persecutor of the followers of Christ, and it was a personal experience of the regenerating grace of God in his heart which made him a true Christian.

Hillsides May Be Farmed
If Crop Pattern Fits Slope

Continued cultivation up and down the slope has brought near ruin to the Kentucky field shown above. Down-rushing waters are cutting gullies—the last stages of erosion. The hill-side field on the farm below—owned by Lee Flynn of Dry Ridge, Pendleton county—is safe. In cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service-COC Camp at Walton, Mr. Flynn has adopted contour strip cropping. Timothy and bluegrass strips between the corn strips catch soil wash from the cultivated land. Note that the strips are on the contour—they run across the natural slope of the land.

How Would You Like To Read 500 Newspapers Each Week?

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER
AMONG THOSE READ REGULARLY BY CENTRAL PRESS
CLIPPING SERVICE.

"All I know is what I read in the newspapers," Will Rogers used to say, but even his desire to keep up with the news would have flinched at the task started over 25 years ago by the Central Press Clipping Service of Indianapolis, Indiana.

To constantly increase our force of readers in performing our business of reading newspapers for other people—but they enjoy searching for clippings on thousands of subjects that comprise the needs of our clients," says H. W. Drago, proprietor and manager of the service. "There are many more newspapers in the field now than when we started in business, and most of them are larger editions, but we are doing an even better job of reading today than ever before. Try to visualize reading about two tons of newspapers each month. Yes! It's some job!"

"Many people ask us what, on earth our clients find of interest in so many local newspapers. They fail to understand how hundreds of political and fraternal organizations want to know what is going on in every section of the country; how manufacturers and sales organizations are vitally interested in learning of fires, births, new building projects, etc., which are reported only in local newspapers."

The Central Press Clipping Service reads practically all the newspapers published each week in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Tennessee. This reading covers an important and compact group of states. It includes about twenty-five per cent of all the newspapers published in the entire United States. Clippings from those papers on a given subject provide a very accurate cross-section of the country to show what a fourth of the people in the United States have read on that subject because that percentage of the citizens of the entire country live in this seven-state area—and the newspaper reading done by practically everybody is limited to their own home town papers.

'18.9 Cents of U. S. Farm Dollar Goes for Taxes, Interest and Wages to Hired Help

Spend Only 2½ Cents
For Fertilizer.

FARMERS spend almost eight cents as much annually for wages to hired help, taxes and interest charges as they do for the purchase of fertilizer to replenish their soil, according to a bulletin prepared by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics on average farm expenditures for the nine year period from 1929 through 1937.

"An average of 18.96 cents of every dollar farm income yearly goes for wages, taxes and interest," said the report, "whereas only 2½ cents goes for fertilizer."

Profits on Farms Determined by Expenditures; Yield Per Acre Influences Cost of Production

EVERY expenditure the average farmer makes has a direct or indirect bearing on how profitably he is operating his land, whether it is a new tractor, a truck, seed for his crops or fertilizer to replenish his land. Farmers generally recognize that the yield per acre of crops is the most important factor influencing the cost of production. Higher yields mean lower production costs. Thus farmers are becoming increasingly aware that the use of fertilizers is the most profitable means of increasing their crop yields per acre.

"Gasoline, kerosene and oil for the operation of autos, tractors and trucks accounts for 5.18 cents of the farm dollar, or twice as much as goes for fertilizer. Feed for livestock and seed for crops accounts for 6.22 cents. Containers for produce, spray material and twine cost 1.38 cents, while other current expenditures for farm operation take 2.48 cents.

"Expenditures on such capital items as machinery, tractors and repairs call for 3.57 cents out of the annual farm dollar; autos and trucks account for 2.59 cents and farm buildings and repairs on buildings for 2.05 cents. The value of farm commodities actually consumed on the farm amounts to 15.17 cents.

"This leaves an average of 39.85 cents of spendable income out of every farm dollar for the purchase of clothing, for education, insurance, doctors' bills, recreation, etc."

"Of all the annual purchases a farmer makes, he gets more for his money in buying fertilizer than from practically any other commodity. Farm records in the Middle West show that every dollar spent for fertilizer results in an average increased value of crops amounting to three and a half dollars as well as returning to the soil valuable mineral elements. Yet the price of fertilizer is lower than practically any commodity the farmer buys."

VERONA

The Light Bearers Sunday School class met at the home of Mrs. Nell Hunt on Wednesday, May 24th for an all-day meeting. After a delicious dinner and an enjoyable social hour, the class assembled for the program and business meeting. The program follows: Class songs; those present; devotionals, Mrs. Johnson; Motherhood, Nell Hunt; A Place I'd Like to Live In, Rose Hamilton; The End of the Trail, Pearl Lamm; Lead Kindly Light, a poem written by an invalid for his blind friend, Alpha Locke. After recognition of visitors, Mrs. Maude Johnson, Pierola Cannady, Mabel Kinman and Imogene White gave a very touching exhibition to Good Will and Harmony.

Verona school closed May 19th. Mrs. Cecil Thorpe is making an extended visit with her brother and other relatives.

The Elliston sale was well attended Saturday afternoon and all articles brought very good prices. Several old friends from out of town were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Powers spent Sunday, May 14th (Mother's Day) in Richmond, Ky., visiting their son, George Robert, who is attending school there.

Mrs. Clyde Chapman and Mr. George C. Cannady are improving after being ill for some time.

SPRAY INFORMATION FOR FRUIT GROWERS

The establishment of a spray information service for fruit growers is announced by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington. Growers of apples, peaches, strawberries and other large and small fruits will be kept informed of the appearance of insects and diseases and told how they may be controlled.

They will keep abreast with the coming of insects and diseases, the Experiment Station has established insectaries at Lexington, Princeton, Henderson, Louisville and Paducah, and observers will report the appearance of pests and diseases to Dr. D. Armstrong, horticulturist at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton. He in turn will prescribe the necessary sprays and pass on such information to county farm agents for the benefit of fruit producers.

PARAGRAPHS

Have you noticed that mothers figure on what they would get themselves if they had the money? When they get the money they spend it on the children.

And now they tell us that one-half of the population of the U. S. is crazy. What we want to know is, which half and then figure out which side we are on!

The idea of buying, in a large quantity and saving money is good sense. Most men are sorry it can't be applied to half-cuts.

These "peeping petticoats" may be the latest wrinkle in fashion, but most every home has had a woman whose undershirt has shown from time to time when it wasn't.

There are many Boone county girls who know what it is to be called popular. How many of them know what it means to be embarrassed?

When a man starts teaching his wife to drive the car, keeping control of his temper is as important as keeping control of the car.

A diet is not so bad after all. Think of that freedom you feel when you go off of it.

Bag Limit Set At 15 On Striped Bass

Attention is called to the fact that there is a daily bag limit on striped bass in Kentucky and reports have been received at Division of Game and Fish headquarters here that many fishermen are violating this particular phase of the law.

Up until last year there was no limit on the number of striped bass that could be caught in one day but with the passage of the new Game and Fish laws, by the Kentucky Legislature in January 1938, a limit of 15 striped bass in one day or a total possession limit of 30 at any time was inducted and became effective last May.

Strict enforcement of the bag limits on all species of fish will be carried out by the Conservation Officers and any one caught violating this particular section of the law will be arrested, Major Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated.

ADVOCATE PLANNED BUYING FOR WOMEN

Are you the type of person who suddenly decides she needs, say a lovely new beige sports suit with one of those ducky hats to match, and then rushes to town to buy it? In other words, a person who says in effect: I want a new sports suit, ergo, I ought to buy it. According to home management specialists at the University of Kentucky home economics department, this kind of buyer is likely to be perpetually in debt, worried, and with generally mis-managed finances.

It is better to plan expenditures; that is, to decide definitely every year and even every season exactly how much money can reasonably be spent for clothing. After savings, insurance, education and other needs are taken care of, a certain amount should still be left for clothes if planning is done properly. Spend just that amount and no more.

Not only will planning expenditures in advance—taking into consideration one's whole wardrobe for the year or several years—pay in loss of worry, it should result also in better clothes.

There is no substitute for personal responsibility in paying one's debts, facing seriously the end-results of buying or not buying.

And, for the woman who would be smartly dressed, there is no substitute for planning the wardrobe in advance.

Have you ever stopped to think that perhaps the reason some fellows in this county talk in their sleep is because it is the only chance they get to express their opinion?

It is funny, the older some girls grow, the more it costs boys for candy.

The fellow who makes the biggest holler because the doctor is late in coming, is usually the one who makes the doctor wait the longest in paying his bill.

Advice usually doesn't have a price attached to it. And lots of advice is usually worth just that much.

FLORENCE

The many friends of Mrs. Emma Cleek are glad to welcome her back to her home on Dixie Highway after several months' stay with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. McCabe and husband of Beaver Lick, Ky. The Recorder and many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Yealey, are glad to hear of the announcement of the opening of a new lunch room and confectionery at Florence. They are both life-long residents of Florence and well known in this community. We are always glad to welcome any new business here and wish them much success in their new venture.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eubanks, of Crescent Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Elby Dringeburg, of Burlington pike spent a pleasant evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. William Markesbery.

Miss Dorothy Nell Kendall and Mrs. Fanny Utz spent Wednesday in Cincinnati, shopping. Elmer Carpenter, wife and son of Mr. Zion Road spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Carpenter and wife.

James Cason and wife and his father Sterling Cason moved Saturday to a flat vacated by James Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Rouse entertained over the week-end their two grandchildren Miss Janet Rouse and Galen Rouse, of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Northcutt purchased the John Benham property in Florence and will soon move there, where they will make their home. We are glad to welcome them into our midst.

Winfield Myers and family have rented the Howard Kelly property on Burlington Pike and will spend the summer there.

Mr. Jim Smith, of near Union purchased the property where Martin Brothers live on Saturday. The property is known as the John Benham property.

Chas. Fulton and wife spent the week-end at Greensburg, Ind., guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fraim, of Virginia arrived here Friday to spend a few months at their beautiful home they recently purchased of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Jones on Shelby St.

Miss Florence Walker, of Louisville, enjoyed a delightful visit here with friends the past week.

Harold Beemon, of South Bend, Ind., enjoyed a few days' visit last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonzo Beemon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Benham and daughter Frances have moved from Virginia to the home of her parents, J. P. Tanner and wife, where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Grant has as guest last week his cousin Mrs. L. Stephens, of Covington.

Mr. E. T. Sine and daughters are planning to move to Covington soon.

Geo. Baker, son of Harvey Baker is ill at his home on Dixie Highway.

Mrs. Mary Tanner, of Price Pike is visiting her sister, Mrs. Eva Osborn and husband.

Dan Houston is recovering from an attack of mumps.

Miss Mary Yealey, of Walton is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. A. M. Yealey.

This community was saddened Friday afternoon by the death of Miss Peggy Jane Riley, student of Holmes High School, Covington, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert D. Riley, druggist, of Covington. She passed away at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, Friday evening, after a brief illness.

Besides her parents, she leaves a sister, Miss Virginia Riley. We extend sympathy to her family from this community. She had many friends here. She will be greatly missed by her friends, relatives and neighbors and in her school. She always had a pleasant smile and had a wonderful disposition. Services were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Swetnam Funeral Home, by Rev. T. C. Sleete, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, in Highland cemetery.

Mrs. Ossman and daughter were called to Covington last week on account of the death of her niece Miss Peggy Jane Riley.

Mr. Henry Smith and Mr. Osmann spent several days last week in Ohio, traveling for a rug firm.

The many friends here of Mrs. Ben Paddock regret to learn of her serious illness at her home in Hebron.

The Luther League of Hopeful Lutheran Church will give an ice cream festival at the church on Wednesday, June 7th from 7:00 to 9:30 p. m. There will be homemade ice cream, cake and strawberries. Price 25c. All are cordially invited to attend and enjoy the evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes Stephens, of St. Petersburg, Fla., arrived here last Friday to spend the summer with relatives and friends in Boone county.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernice Chipman, of Dayton, O., are enjoying a delightful visit here, guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chipman and her father Frederick Haskell, all of the Dixie Highway.

The many friends and relatives of Mr. Thomas Corbin will be pleased to learn, he is convalescing and is able to return to his home in Hamilton, O., after being a patient in a Hamilton Hospital for the past two months, suffering from a broken leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garnett and daughter Miss Helen, of Huntington Ave., Latonia spent the week-end with Mrs. Garnett's brother, Mr. Ernest Horton and family, of Hopeful.

Mr. Gene Sine, of Florence and Mr. Wm. Sine, of West Carrollton, Ohio, spent last Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Mollie Burlew, of Butler, Ky.

The many friends of Mrs. P. O. Griffin will be pleased to learn she is convalescing nicely, after being a patient in St. Elizabeth Hospital, and returned to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Tanner and Mr. Tanner of Dixie Highway.

Mrs. Ossman and daughter, of Gunpowder spent several days last week with her uncle Spencer Smith of Florence.

Fertilizer Attachment Got Empty

HERE'S what happens when fertilizer is omitted from one row of corn at planting time while it is being applied to the next row, says a bulletin of the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. The fertilizer attachment on the planter became empty on one side. So the row on the right was unfertilized, while the row on the left received an application of 150 pounds of fertilizer. In the above photograph taken the middle of the growing season the corn on the right was 1 1/2 feet shorter and not tassled like the corn in the row alongside of it. And at harvest time the row on the right yielded a much smaller crop than the fertilized neighbor which had the benefit of plant food.

FOREIGN NATIONS USE MORE FERTILIZER THAN UNITED STATES

CHICAGO—Nations of Europe use from two to a half to twenty times as much chemical plant food per acre as does the United States for fertilizing crop land and plowable pasture.

"The average for the United States is five pounds per acre," says the report based on international statistics compiled for 1938. "Holland uses 99 pounds of chemical plant food per acre, Belgium 80, and Germany 67. Then come Denmark with 40, Norway with 29, and Sweden with 22 pounds. France uses 25 pounds per acre, Italy 17 and Great Britain 12."

"The rate of consumption in this country is, however, considerably higher than it is in Poland and Hungary which use respectively three and one pounds per acre."

"Soil conservation has been a necessity in Europe for centuries because of the large populations and the relatively small acreage of tillable farm land."

"In the United States millions of acres of farm land have been ruined because of erosion or depletion by cropping. If the nation's greatest resource—the soil—is to be conserved, an ever-increasing program of soil improvement and fertilization must be followed."

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Saturday—"Tom Sawyer Detective"
Sun. and Mon.—"St. Louis Blues"
Tue.—"Robin Hood of El Dorado"
Wed. and Thursday, June 7th & 8th—"Pygmalion."

Some of Mark Twain's most lovable characters—"Tom Sawyer," "Huckleberry Finn," "Jeff Rutledge," "Aunt Sally," "Uncle Silas," "Sheriff Shamus" and a dozen others—live again on the screen in the new Paramount comedy-drama "Tom Sawyer, Detective," which will be shown at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday. Based on the immortal Twain novels, "Tom Sawyer, Detective" deals with the efforts of "Tom" and "Huck" to save "Uncle Silas" from being hanged for a murder he did not commit and their single-handed round-up of two Mississippi River sharpshooters. Two of Paramount's boy actors, Billy Cook and Donald O'Connor, are cast as "Tom" and "Huck," respectively, while some of the famous growing-up characters of the story are played by Phillip Warren, Janet Waldo, Elisabeth Risdorn and Porter Hall.

Dorothy Lamour's vow to the effect that she would never again appear on the screen in her famous sarong is broken, even though in only one or two scenes, in her new picture, "St. Louis Blues," a story satirizing the star's own climb to fame as a portrayer of torrid South Seas sirens. Cast as a celebrated entertained who for publicity reasons never appears in public except in costume, Miss Lamour runs away from her tyrannical manager and gets a job as singer on a Mississippi showboat. Her romance with the boat's owner, Lloyd Nolan, receives a rough jolt when he too, visualizes her as a South Sea Islander and orders her back into the hated sarong! This will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday.

Warner Baxter is starred in "Robin Hood of El Dorado," the spectacular new outdoor feature, which comes to the Gayety Theatre Tuesday. This sensational new production is expected to herald the return to the screen of such epochal photoplays as "The Conquest of Paradise," "The Sign of the Cross" and others which marked the last days of silent pictures. Filmed largely in the historic "mother lode" country of the California mountains, the picture tells of the adventures of a life of Coquelin Murietta, dashing good-bad man of the days of '49.

Flash Eight out of nine New York critics vote "Pygmalion" one of the "10 best of the year." He took her off the city streets as an experiment in his educational research. He made a lady of her when the time came for the experiment to end, she had the last word. Bernard Shaw's play is the new movie sensation. This picture will be shown at the Gayety Wednesday and Thursday, June 7 and 8th.

KENTUCKY GIRLS IN HONOR FRATERNITY

Home economics students pledged during 1938-39 to Phi Upsilon Omicron, national professional home economics fraternity, at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, include: Jane Ellen Allen, Hinton, W. Va.; Janet Ferguson, Lexington; Mary Louise Graddy, Lexington; Marjorie Haydon, Nicholasville; Helen Horlacher, Lexington; Byrd Kendall, Cincinnati; Agnes Messersmith, Lexington; Beatrice Monk, East Springfield, N. Y.; Betty Jeanne Mulberry, Sadieville; Nettie Lee Riggs, Bromley; Eva Lillian Rowe, Lexington; Jennie Mae Trigg, Louisville; Edna Lynne Wayne, Clinton; Mary Frances Kells, Williams-town; Marian Miller, Campbellsville; Anna Louise Kelley, Lexington; Anna Louise Elsey, Lexington, and Virginia Robertson, Elizaville.

High scholarship, soundness of approach in solving problems within the home economics field, leadership and character are among the requirements for membership. These young women are expected to be among those who will in the future build a finer family life in America.

A national survey was made to find the divorce rate among Phi Upsilon Omicron members who had been graduated 10 years. Among the entire membership in colleges throughout the land, at that time only one divorce had taken place. This is particularly striking when it is considered that on an average one marriage in six now ends in divorce in this country.

WHY BLUEGRASS GROWS IN CENTRAL KENTUCKY

Bluegrass and other grasses and legumes thrive so well in Central Kentucky that about three-fourths of the plowable land is kept in grass for pasture and hay. In one of the counties only 12.5 acres in 100 acres of the plowable land was in corn and tobacco in 1934, nearly all of the remainder being in pasture and hay crops. The county is noted for its livestock and its tobacco.

"Why does this condition exist?" asks Prof. George Roberts of the Agricultural Experiment Station. It is because the soil is suitable for the growth of grass and legumes. Its climate and soil moisture conditions are no better than in most other parts of the state. What is this soil's peculiar condition? It is the content of phosphorus and calcium. True, most of the land needs moderate liming, and liming is widely practiced. But the content of phosphorus is far above that of those parts of the state outside the Bluegrass area. Because of the content of calcium and phosphorus, the soils of the Bluegrass area grow good legumes that supply nitrogen that is so necessary for vigorous grass.

When soils in other parts of the state are moderately limed and liberally treated with phosphate, they will produce a good growth of legumes. Grasses seeded with the legumes in the right amounts and in the right way will thrive, as has been well demonstrated, in various parts of the state.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO HAVE LAMB SHOW

Four-H club lambs from a dozen or more central counties will be shown and sold at the Producers' Stock Yards in Lexington June 3. Cash prizes totaling about $250 will be distributed among the winners, and the lambs will be sold following the show. Rings will include single lambs, pens of 15 lambs, and record books. Eight hundred to 1,000 lambs are expected to be shown, according to entries at the College of Agriculture.

AT THE JAMES

WALTON, KY.

"The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," with Don Ameche, Loretta Young, Henry Fonda, Friday and Saturday, June 2nd and 3rd. Another immortal character joins the motion picture galaxy of the great... At the side of the woman who loved him and gave him greatness. The dramatic romance of one who dreamed and struggled, loved and achieved. Simple, human, inspiring... A magnificent motion picture pays homage to this genius and to a woman's devotion.

"Zenobia," with Oliver Hardy, Harry Langdon, Billie Burke, Alice Brady, Sunday, June 4th. Call her fickle... call her unfair... Yet try to deny her innocent stare. She's just a bit naughty... just a bit nice. Part of her sweetness... the rest of her spice. She'll have you in stitches... head in a whirl. You'll say she's no lady, but, oh—what a girl!

"Chasing Danger," with Preston Foster, Lynn Bari, Wally Vernon, Monday, June 5th. While the world sits on a powder keg... they chase a dame. These camera daredevils roar in where brave men fear to tread... Matching wits with spies and lips with sirens... in a battle just as hot as action, laughs and red-blooded thrills.

"Viva Villa," with Wallace Beery and all star cast, Tuesday, June 6. This picture is a re-issue depicting the revolution in Old Mexico.

"Women in the Wind," with Kay Francis, William Gargan, Victor Jory, Wednesday, June 7th. A smile for fate... a wink at death... a kiss for the devil. That's the reckless motto of the Dawn Patrol women. They do the things other women dream of. They dream of the love other women have.

"The Three Musketeers," with Don Ameche, Ritz Brothers, Blinnie Barnes, George Stuart, Thursday, June 8th. Ringing with song and sword play. Riotous with fun and horseplay. Don Ameche as a singing, loving, fighting D'Artagnan, and the Ritz Brothers, phony musketeers meet at home with a carving knife than a sword.

INTERNSHIPS FOR WOMEN STUDENTS

Dietetic internships again have been awarded to young women to be graduated in June from the University of Kentucky. Kentucky home economics department and who have specialized in nutrition courses. Miss Virginia Robertson, Elizaville, and Mary Jane Braly, Madisonville, both have internships to Christ Hospital in Cincinnati. Miss Robertson, previous year graduates in home economics at Kentucky have received appointments at Johns Hopkins and Iowa universities and other institutions.

Scholarships to continue studies in home economics in the graduate field have been granted Grace Silverman, New York City, and Anna Louise Kelley, Lexington by the University of Kentucky.

Among graduates in agriculture to receive appointments is Campbell E. Miller, Lexington, who has been given an assistantship in landscape architecture by Massachusetts State College. Paul Barnett, Bagdad, and Robert Rudd Hanson have been given assistantships at the University of Kentucky. Barnett is studying poultry breeding, while Rudd will specialize in marketing.

CULLING BOOSTS DAIRYING PROFITS

Culling producers is tending to boost profits, says Bill Jefferson, Dairy Herd Improvement Association. One concern sent eight cows to the butcher. Their record last year was $35.78 over feed cost. Sixteen cows retained in the herd averaged $86.26 over feed cost. The low producers, says Tester Paul Robinson, averaged 29 percent of the feed used in the herd and produced 17 percent of the profit. The 16 better cows consumed 71 percent of the feed and produced 83 percent of the profit. It would require 28 of the poor producers to return much profit as the 16-cow group made; or, it would take nearly four cows of the low-producing kind to equal one of the better class.

FARMERS INSPECT PROCESSING PLANTS

Farmers of Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties recently visited packing, poultry and dairy plants in Cincinnati, where they saw grading, selling and processing of livestock, poultry and dairy products. They also heard explanation of the procedure followed in receiving stock at the yards, and in putting out market news and price quotations. Handling of eggs and poultry, including government grading, and pasteurization and bottling of milk and the manufacture of butter, but these were interesting features of the tour.

IN DARNING IT Always darn your stocking on the bias. They will not break out into holes, according to the bias stretches with the stocking.

BLAME OLD BEDS FOR SPREAD OF BLUE MOLD

The use of old tobacco plant beds is blamed by experts at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station for the spread of blue mold. Early outbreaks of the disease in both Tennessee and Kentucky were always in plant beds that were used last year, according to Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Experiment Station.

The future of the blue mold disease is in the hands of tobacco growers, says Dr. Valleau. If even a few growers in each county persist in using old plant bed sites year after year, he believes trouble from blue mold may be expected. The blue mold fungus produces seed-like bodies in the leaves killed by the disease, and these seeds or spores start the disease the next year if the same bed site is used again. Burning or steaming cannot be relied upon to destroy the bluish mold spore in an old bed site. If every grower in each of Tennessee and Kentucky would use a new bed site each year he would not only protect his own tobacco from an early attack of blue mold, but also would protect the beds of his neighbors, declares Dr. Valleau.

900 BOYS, GIRLS TO JUNIOR WEEK

The 19th annual Junior Week will be held June 5-10 at the University of Kentucky, with approximately 900 4-H club members from 110 counties expected to be in attendance, according to J. W. Whitehouse, state leader. The theme of the week will be "Taking the university to the farm," and boys will spend time on the Experiment Station farm, and at the animal pathology, dairy, farm engineering and other departments. They will hear talks on these subjects and on wild life by experts such as Dr. Vernon Bailey of the U. S. Biological Survey.

Girls will have a style revue, demonstrations in baking, canning, cooking, and hear talks on rural electrification, how to use psychology in everyday life, home furnishings, child care and similar subjects. Eliminations contests to decide upon teams to represent their counties at demonstrations have been held in 12 districts.

Nightly vespers services will be held, when ministers of local churches will speak briefly on religion in life. Various recreation features have been planned, including a reading of Maxwell Anderson's book, "Star Wagon," by Mrs. George Edwin Smith of the university English department. An excursion will be made to the state capital one afternoon. Boys and girls will be greeted by Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the university, and Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture. Percy Adair, president of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs, will preside at several sessions.

Prize Of $5.00 Offered By Walton Waterworks

A prize of $5.00 is offered to any fisherman who lands a large cat which was released in the Walton Reservoir recently. The cat fish will weigh approximately six pounds, and has been marked. The Walton Reservoir has recently been stocked with several hundred channel cats ranging from 15 inches in length to six pounds.

PAINT IT!

You can paint canvas very successfully. If the chairs and hammocks need fixing a bit, give the canvas seats and backs two coats of paint. The effect will please you and the yard and porch will be grateful.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us at the time of our recent bereavement over the death of our son.

Ralph Elliott
Especially want to thank Rev. Leo Drake for his words of comfort, the singers, the donors of the beautiful floral offerings, and Philip Taliaferro for his thoughtful and efficient service.

CONSTANCE HOMEMAKERS

The Constance Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Adam Reeves for an all day meeting May 16th. There were 17 members and our home demonstration agent present and our home demonstration agent.

Our business meeting was held in the morning and in the afternoon we had a lesson on "Slip Covers." Mrs. Nora Hankins made a cover for a bed-room rocker and Mrs. Carrie Reeves made a cover for a chair under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Dye, Mrs. Virgie Kottmyer and Miss Gillespie.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Zimmer, all day, June 7th. Our roll call for June is to be answered with "What are we going to take to display at the tea given sometime in September."

EATING IS EXCITING ADVENTURE DECLARES WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

Eating should be an exciting adventure, not a tedious chore, asserts William Allen White, distinguished editor of the Emporia Gazette and author of a Puritan in Babylon, in the current Rotarian Magazine. Despite a career chock-full of journalistic and political activities, he has noted the gastronomic interests of his contemporaries, even serving as the chairman of the menu committee of the Rotarian in Emporia, Kansas. "The average man off the street sits down before his food and eats it like a dog, generally not knowing what he is eating, which is my idea of a culinary mistake. For food always should be an adventure, and a wide variety of range is a sign of wide culture," declares America's Number 1 country editor. Any man who eats luncheons ranging from rice and curry to rare beefsteak and fresh mushrooms, he believes, will be just a little more civilized for having varied his diet.

Yet the average American business or professional man kicks like a bay steer the minute he is exposed to new food—even before he tastes it, laments the sage of Emporia. "The man of course, from fool women trying to doll up food—like landscaping! I mean the kind of women who put party ruffles on mutton chops and lay silly red strips of pimento across salad and make their ice cream melted their napery. Really good food doesn't need beauty-parlor treatment."

"I never knew a woman-chasing man whose wife was a good and adventurous cook," says White, remarking that there is something in the proverb that says that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Men—both as husbands and luncheon-club members—will eat and like beefsteak in brown gravy with onions, green peppers, and carrots in it. They will learn to enjoy a New England dinner with corned beef, tongue, pigs' feet, and a fat frankfurter garnished with boiled turnips, potatoes, carrots and onions. Commenting on his duties as a menu committee chairman in his own service club, White concludes, "It's a great life if you don't weaken, and I have not weakened so far. I'm gradually edging up to onion soup for some cold winter day!"

FACTS FAVOR FORD

1 The 1939 Ford V-8 is a beautiful, modern motor car. Its 85-horsepower engine gives you economical, well-balanced performance over the entire speed range—and the 60-horsepower engine is even more economical.

2 The structural strength of the Ford car—frame, bracing, axles, body—makes not only for safety, but durability and long life.

3 Ford hydraulic brakes are exceptionally large and strong in proportion to car weight.

4 The Ford car is stabilized for comfortable riding. Its springbase, the distance between front and rear suspension, is 123 inches. Seats are toward the center, perfectly balanced. The car does not bob or dip and can have very little sway.

These four points—power, strength, safety, comfort—are by far the most important essentials in any motor car. They form the basic value of your investment.

With this solid foundation to build on, the Ford V-8 has been made beautiful, spacious, easy to drive. It is richly upholstered and has all the modern features which add to the luxury and pleasure of motoring.

You can see these things when you take a trial drive, but do not forget that the main value is in the things you do not readily see—quality of materials, precision of manufacture, fundamental engineering.

WOLFE COUNTY MAN IS HELD

UNDER $1,000 BOND—CHARGED WITH STEALING GUNS AND FISHING TACKLE FROM BEN FERRY TANNER.

Chester Phillips, of Campton, Wolfe county, was returned here Thursday of last week by Sheriff F. M. Walton, charged with stealing guns and fishing tackle from a building owned by Ben Ferry Tanner, of Union.

Phillips entered the building of Mr. Tanner several weeks ago removing a rifle, shotgun and fishing tackle, valued at approximately $225.00. He pawned the loot at the B. & B. Finance Co., Cincinnati then returned to Wolfe county.

A warrant was issued by acting Judge Carroll Cropper and sent to Wolfe county where he was arrested by officials there.

Phillips pleaded guilty in an examining trial held Friday in Judge Cropper's court, and his bond was set at $1,000, which he was unable to raise. He is being held in the county jail for next regular session of the grand jury which will be held in August.

Sheriff Walton stated that practically all of the stolen articles were found at the Finance Co., where they were pawned.

Five tracts of land were sold Monday at the courthouse door by Master Commissioner, A. D. Yelton. The sales were as follows:

Fed. Land Bank vs. E. M. Lucas $6,000.00 to the Fed. Land Bank, known as the Dave Elam Farm.

The Will Watts place near Bullittsville sold for $570.00 to W. E. Jones. The Walton Advertiser building sold for $555.00 and the lots on Center St., in Walton for $400.00, both being purchased by Clara R. Best. An undivided one-fifth interest in the Kennedy farm on the Verona and Crittenden road sold for $500.00 to John C. Kannady. The house and lot in Verona which was sold in the case of John Farrell, admr. vs. Nick Farrell & Co. sold for $300.00 and was bid in by John Code. The farm sold in the same suit brought $2000.00 and was purchased by Nick Farrell.

In a previous sale of the Master Commissioner on May 27th in the John Beath estate suit, the property sold, on the premises, as follows:

The home place to B. E. Northcutt for $2000.00. The house near Dr. Castleman's property was purchased by J. J. Smith for $1500.00. The property in Elmore on May street sold for $555.00 to John Breeden and the Locust Street property in Erlanger was sold to Bessie Haley for $1075.00.

Livestock Marketing Tour Held Today, June 8

The Boone county livestock marketing tour planned in the county program of work last winter will be held this Thursday, June 8th, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The tour will include a study of the Cincinnati livestock market and packing plants and is 100 percent in educational nature in the attempt to show producers what classes of livestock bring the top of the market in price, and why they bring a better price.

A large number of farmers have taken part in these tours in the past. All have reported the discussions and observations made on the tour have been a big help in preparing livestock to bring a better price on the market.

Everyone interested in livestock marketing is invited to attend. The meeting place will be the Producers' Cooperative Livestock Commission office in the Cincinnati Livestock Marketing Exchange Building at the Stock Yards on Spring Grove Avenue, Cincinnati at 8:15 a. m. central time. Several cars will leave the county office at 7:15 a. m. and those who do not have a way to go are invited to be present at this time.

Three Boone Countians Receive Diplomas From Eastern State College

Three Boone County representatives were among the one hundred and six graduates to receive a diploma at the thirty-second annual commencement exercises at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, Richmond, on Wednesday morning, May 31st in the Hiram Brock Auditorium. Miss Virginia Pauline Jones, of Beaver Lick, Mr. John Earl Robinson, of Walton and Mr. Leslie Wilson Voshell, of Burlington, were among the eighty-three seniors to receive the B. S. degree.

Wildlife Conservation Projects Are Increasing

Scout troops, Future Farmers of America, 4-H Clubs, and other youth organizations are increasingly adopting wildlife conservation projects as part of their regular activities. This is evident from the increased number of requests for information and assistance which are received by the Division of Game and Fish, Major James Brown, Director, stated today.

While the Division dedicates with the idea that it is useful to work with the "older heads" as is so frequently claimed by farmers, sportsmen, and others, yet there is no doubt concerning the tremendous benefits which are and will continue to be brought about through the continued efforts of young boys and girls.

"Heretofore there has been much conservation talk but little actual restoration of suitable wildlife habitats. One of the main requirements of any program designed to preserve the game and fish and other forms of wildlife is a well planned educational program, but this in itself will not suffice. To stop the downward trend of wildlife numbers, it will be necessary for actual field improvements to supplement conservation education and the protection afforded by game protectors and legal restriction.

Housewarming Given Mr. And Mrs. Dolwick

A large crowd of relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dolwick and daughter Doty surprised them last Friday evening with a housewarming.

The happy young couple received many useful gifts. At a late hour refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolwick have recently occupied a home in the Pleasant neighborhood.

BOB & GENE WINS FOURTH VICTORY

BY DEFEATING PEPSI-COLA NINE SUNDAY AT CRESCENT SPRINGS—ONLY TWO HITS GATHERED BY VISITORS.

Bob & Gene chalked up their fourth consecutive victory Sunday when they downed the strong Pepsi-Cola nine by a score of 8 to 0 at the Crescent Springs ball park.

Steffen on the mound for Bob & Gene allowed only two hits, and had a total of 11 strike-outs to his credit at the close of the game. The visiting pitcher allowed 11 hits and eight runs.

A. Seebree and R. Bradburn lead the attack for the locals with Seebree connecting for a triple and a single and Bradburn with a double and a single. Dale Williamson made the most spectacular catch of the day when he caught a fly ball in a beautiful running catch. However, the umpire did not see the play and the runner was given a hit.

Decoration Day, the North Bend Bombers of Indiana visited the Crescent Springs park and were turned back by a count of 6 to 2. "Hoots" Ryle on the mound for Bob & Gene allowed only six hits, which were well scattered. Bob & Gene will play Cold Springs Sunday at the Crescent Springs park. "Hoots" Ryle will be the twirler for the locals.

The Recorder joins his many friends in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Tourist Camps, And Places Of Amusement Under Social Security

Persons who plan to operate summer hotels, tourist camps, resorts or amusement parks must take certain steps to comply with the Social Security Act, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Covington, Kentucky Field Office of the Old-Age Insurance Bureau.

"Hotels, tourist camps, summer resorts and amusement parks are included in types of business which are covered by the Social Security Act," Mr. Decker said.

"Every person who employs one or more workers in business of this character should apply for an employer's identification number. Most workers in such enterprises come under the old-age insurance program, and, therefore, deductions from their wages should be made and paid, together with the employer's taxes, to the United States Collector of Internal Revenue.

"Such employers will save time and trouble by asking their workers to allow their social security numbers at the time these persons are hired. These numbers and the amount of covered wages earned by such employees must be reported to the revenue collector at the time these wages are paid," he added.

There is no age limit on the down side, so far as old-age insurance is concerned. Minors are covered under the old-age insurance system just the same as adults, if they serve in employment which is covered under the Social Security Act.

Commenting on this subject Mr. Decker said, "Several employers recently have told us they did not know that minors are covered under the Social Security Act. This is untrue. We make no distinction as to age on the down side of the scale. Workers who reach age 65 no longer are covered under old-age insurance, but young folks who serve in commerce or industry are covered and should present their social security cards to their employers when taking up new jobs."

The Covington, Kentucky Field Office has a booklet which explains employer's duties under the Social Security Act. It will be sent to anyone requesting it, together with other literature explaining the various phases of the social security program are operated.

J. D. Lucas, of Florence was a business caller here Saturday.

TOBACCO BILL VETOED MONDAY

BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT—TELLS HOUSE EXPORT BAN WOULD STIMULATE BOOT-LEG ACTIVITY.

President Roosevelt vetoed Monday a bill designed to prevent the export, except for experimental purposes, of any tobacco seed or plants.

Mr. Roosevelt asserted in a message to the House, "it would appear to be virtually impossible to effect sufficient control over the export of small quantities of seed required."

"The imposition of a ban on export," he added, "would be likely to stimulate the production of an unworkable bootleg activity."

The President said, too, that small quantities of seeds exported for bona fide experimental purposes in a few years would produce enough seed to sustain a large commercial tobacco production.

Since seed of American tobacco plants could be produced in foreign countries, the President said it was not believed a ban on exportation "could have any material effect upon the production of American types of tobacco in foreign countries, and consequently, on the competition encountered by American tobacco from foreign tobacco of similar types in world markets."

Asserting the bill would "constitute an undesirable precedent," the President pointed out American agriculture had benefited materially through introduction of seeds and plants from foreign countries.

Representative Thomas G. Burch, Democrat, Virginia, who joined with Representative John H. Kerr, Democrat, North Carolina in promoting the legislation, expressed the view that the President acted on "bad advice."

Proponents of the bill claimed it would go far toward stopping foreign production of United States type tobacco, which competes with this nation's exports.

Royalty Will Arrive In Washington Today

WOKY listeners will be treated to a series of NBC broadcasts giving first-hand descriptions of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States—an historic event which they first British sovereigns ever to visit the land which Great Britain lost as a result of the American Revolution.

The colorful scene at the Union Station in Washington on Thursday, June 8, as President Roosevelt welcomes the royal visitors to the nation's capital, will be described over WOKY from 11 to 11:30 p. m. Presentation of the cabinet, military and naval chiefs of the United States to their majesties also will be described by NBC announcers.

On Friday, June 9, the royal couple's departure from the Union Station will be broadcast over NBC-WOKY from 11:15 to 11:30 p. m., as they entrain for Red Bank, N. J. There they will board a destroyer for the remainder of the trip to New York.

Misses Jane Youell and Naomi Johnson, of Walton, called on friends here Monday afternoon.

Large Catch Reported By Hebron Men At Dix Dam

Chas. W. Riley reported Monday that Earl Aylor, Leroy McGlasson and Mr. Riley's son spent a few days at Dix River last week.

Thirty-seven bass and several pan fish made up the catch for the four. Mr. Riley returned home after one day, while the others remained two and three days.

All delegates attend the event on scholarship trips awarded thru the cooperation of local business organizations.

BOONE CO. ROAD PLANS APPROVED

BY STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION—PLANS ARE FORWARDED TO FEDERAL GOVERNMENT FOR FINAL APPROVAL.

Plans and specifications have been approved for the construction of a high type road from Petersburg to Bellevue, according to an announcement made by Chas. W. Riley, County Attorney Monday.

The plans were submitted to the State Highway Department recently and have been approved by the State. They have been sent to Chicago for final approval by the federal government. According to the government, the federal government will furnish $50,000 toward constructing this strip of road.

The new highway will be of great value to the citizens who reside along its course and to the county as a whole. It is understood that a new bridge will be constructed to span Woolper, and that the road would be built above the high water mark.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF SUCCESS

WE OFTEN say when we discuss various things we acquire that it isn't the original cost that counts. It is the upkeep. This is particularly true of success.

The fact is that there is a responsibility of success which failure or mediocrity never knows. The man who is successful, who achieves in whatever line he may enter, has an obligation and a responsibility which requires that he continue to do his very best.

Especially is this true of business. To achieve brief success of a business isn't hard. To build a lasting success requires close application and a fine sense of the obligation which success implies and demands.

If advertising served no other purpose than to create the obligation of success it would perform a useful social and economic act, for advertising holds up this obligation as a standard of success and demands that it be observed constantly.

Whenever a manufacturer or a merchant begins to advertise he sets self-imposed standards on himself. By these standards he judges himself. By these standards do others judge him. By these standards do they also classify him.

He has an obligation to live up to every day thereafter.

If he hadn't advertised, he could give good quality one day and poor quality the next and get by with it. But when he comes out boldly in print and advertising, the die is cast and he must forever live up to the highest ideals.

Surely men have thought that they could contrive this law. By putting quality and good value into a product and then by advertising it, they have succeeded in a short time in building up a big business. And then came temptation.

"Why maintain all this quality?" they ask themselves. The public will never know. Why not cut the quality and continue the advertising and clean up? They have tried. But the public does know quality, is quick to perceive deception, and abandons the man or product which attempts to substitute inferiority for honest merchandise.

There is no quicker way to ruin a business than to set up a standard and then violate it. There is no better way to build a business than to set up a standard and then live up to it.

Advertising is the great setter of standards in American business life, and advertised goods set the standards by which you spend your income, confident of getting your money's worth every day.

The man who advertises has assumed this responsibility for success. You'd rather deal with a responsible man, wouldn't you?

IMPROVED ROADS

In Ohio, the farmer and the road builder are working on common ground as this state prepares to build five miles of roads constructed of a type of pavement called "soil cement".

They have been experimenting for two years to see if mixing cement with native soil, rather than higher priced sand and gravel, might work. This is to be used for secondary roads and if laboratory tests are right, will work successfully. One of the pleas of the rural mail carriers is for the improvement of America's 1,000,000 miles of water-born dirt roads. Perhaps if this attempt in Ohio is satisfactory, there will be increased building of "farm to market" roads. Anyone who lives in Boone County can tell you of many dirt roads here that are in need of repair and surfacing.

JUNK THEM

There is a police judge who has worked out a system for punishing traffic violators and reckless and intoxicated motorists. He finds that junking has been the most effective way of removing more than 500 dangerous and dilapidated cars from the streets and highways. It also cuts down in law violation. The policy of junking these cars, when drivers are found to be using such cars, is a safeguard to other motorists. It is step forward in our battle for traffic safety. There are few of these old dilapidated models worth more than $10 or $15 and a junk dealer will pay about that much for them. With summer upon us and increased auto taking to the roads it is best to do a bit of checking up, before out!

SAND PILES:

A sand pile placed in a shady spot where the dog is in the habit of lying will overcome his tendency to dig around the shrubs and trees for a cool place to lie on a hot day. He will dig in the sand pile.

Accumulations of discarded material—whether old clothes, furniture or magazines in closets, basements and attic constitute one of the worst hazards. Old rags are most dangerous of all, as they are subject to spontaneous combustion.

If you use wood for fuel, pile it neatly. And never mix rags or paper with wood or coal. Spontaneous heating may result. The whole heating system should be inspected carefully, and it's wise to hire an expert for this job.

Oil burners should be installed with extreme care, and in accord with standard regulations. That is also true of gas appliances. No gas appliance should be used which lacks a thermostat for cutting off the supply in case the pilot light goes out.

If your work room, as many are, is littered and disorderly, you're simply asking for a fire. Keep it neat.

This doesn't exhaust necessary instructions by a long shot—but it shows you where to start. And it's a good idea to do it today.

BODYGUARD

An authority on insurance recently said: "Life insurance is sending money on ahead so it will be there when you get there!"

That puts the case in a nutshell. Every life insurance policy, as Calvin Coolidge once philosophized, "is a declaration of independence." It is the individual's economic bodyguard against the vicissitudes of the indeterminate future.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL SOLVES CHURCH PROBLEMS

LESSON TEXT—1 Corinthians 1:1-3, 10, 11; 4:14-21; 1 Thessalonians 5:12-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ.
—Philippians 1:27.

Victory over the destructive powers of sickness is achieved by an orderly attack of the problem. The doctor first makes a study of the patient, observing not only the outward symptoms, but the general condition of the body. He proceeds to isolate and identify the forces which are causing the disease, and then he is ready to apply his curative remedies and procedures.

The Church is sick today even as it was in Paul's day. We are in need of the sound advice and the effective example of "Doctor Paul" and therefore do well to apply to ourselves and to our churches the lesson of today. As we do this honestly we may find in ourselves that which is making our own church weak and ineffective. Let us apply the lesson of today to the process of healing may be a painful one.

I. The Condition.

What's wrong with the Church? The excerpts from the letters of Paul which make up our lesson reveal three fundamental difficulties which exist in essentially the same form today.

1. False Teachers (Gal. 3). This passage is a part of our lesson although not included in the printed portion. It tells us of Paul's masterly dealing with false teachers. Erroneous teaching and the substitution of the philosophies of men for the Word of God are responsible for much of the trouble in the Church. It is decidedly not a matter of indifference what your pastor teaches, what your Sunday School lesson helps teach, and what your Sunday School teachers present to their classes.

2. Divisions (1 Cor. 1:10). Sometimes these occur over doctrine, sometimes over church procedure, but all too often over the most insignificant things. Frequently they are the result of personal likes and dislikes. Cliques and little closed groups have no place in the Church. Man-worship is a wreck of the worship of God in the Church.

3. Contentions (1 Cor. 1:11). For some unexplainable reason the people who love a fight seem to want to do their fighting in the Church.

II. The Cause.

The internal troubles of the Church cannot be blamed on its testimony or on its responsibility in the world, and certainly not on its Lord. The real cause of the Church's problems will be found in men and women who are not living as they should.

1. The Contentious (1 Cor. 1:11). These are the fighters.

2. The Divided (1 Cor. 4:18). They have an exaggerated idea of their own importance.

3. The Disorderly (1 Thess. 4:14). Unruly and erratic folk trouble the Church.

4. The Faint-Hearted (1 Thess. 5:14, R. V.). Timid and uncertain individuals limit and hinder God's work.

5. The Weak (1 Thess. 5:14). They are feeble in spiritual insight and power.

III. The Cure.

Diagnosis and location of the cause of a disease is practically useless unless a course of treatment is carried out. Consider the steps in the treatment of the sickness of the Church, then apply the remedy.

1. Remember that it is a "church of God" (1 Cor. 1:2).

2. Recall and follow the true teaching of God's Word (1 Cor. 4:17).

3. Receive grace and peace from the Father and the Son (1 Cor. 1:3).

4. Recognize those appointed by the Lord to be over the church as leaders and teachers (1 Thess. 5:12-16).

5. Be ashamed of ungodly, misbehavior (1 Cor. 4:14).

6. Deal plainly with sin and disorder (1 Cor. 4:21). The knife of the surgeon may cause pain but it is often the way to healing.

7. Warn those who are unruly (1 Thess. 5:14). The word of spiritual admonition is too often lacking in the church.

8. Comfort and encourage the faint-hearted (1 Thess. 5:14). Unregenerate men have no patience with such folk, but God does. A note of encouragement needs to be stressed in these trying days.

9. Be patient toward all men (1 Thess. 5:15). If you feel that you must be impatient, be impatient with your own faults. Patience is a Christian virtue which has almost been lost in the dizzy, high-pressure age in which we live. Let us cultivate it both in the church and in the hearts of believers.

Great Fortune
To be reconciled unto God, to possess God's favor and friendship, to be at peace with God, is the greatest fortune, bliss and happiness a human being can find on earth.

Weak Feet Affect Body

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison, Covington

When feet are permitted to protrude forwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair, chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints.

Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Also when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as inflammation proves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

John A. Brown opened his campaign for Governor last week at Morgantown and the gathering of the political elite was an omen of the other side, with indications that a bitterly fought close contest will be the result. Senator Barkley, as Frederic Wallis so aptly said, stopped his work on National affairs of Government to come down and endorse John for Governor. John made a strong speech before a large crowd and the battle is on. The legal minds around Frankfort are (and this is inside information) forecasting that the Wage Hour law is unconstitutional, and that if it is questioned in court it will be ruled that way. If this happens the job holders of the Wage Hour Administration will be out of work, and right at election time, too.

Hetch Lackey of Paducah and Ralph Gilbert of Shelbyville announced for Lieutenant Governor making five now in the race for that place with the possibility that two more may announce.

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd head of the Old Age Assistance division of the Department of Welfare, announced for Superintendent of Public Instruction last week. He is from Providence, a graduate of Western Teachers and Vanderbilt and a former instructor at Morehead Teachers College, a young man who will make a strong candidate.

Although the tolls on State bridges have been greatly reduced the revenue from them has not fallen in proportion because of increased traffic at the lower rates.

That the State is in a sound condition financially, was shown last week, when $3,125,000 of refunding bridge bonds were sold for $3,135,906 or $10,906 above face value, the bonds carry an interest of one and three-fourths per cent.

That a happy solution to the County debt situation, is a 3 percent tax on partial mutual betting, was brought again to the public, with editorials in newspapers taken from facts given in this column, because it is a serious situation and the solution is easy we again give you these facts.

There are 93 counties which have debts and 29 of those have defaulted their bonds.

A 3 percent tax on betting at race tracks would soon pay off these debts and get the counties on a sound financial footing. The tax on betting is the easiest form of taxation as the winners at the races don't object and the losers don't care.

A number of the States have this tax and Kentucky should assess it as business and the farmer cannot be burdened further.

Men of the Mounted

A DESERTER'S STORY

HE CAME out of the Athabaskan night, and made himself at home by my campfire. Living up to the unwritten, yet strictly followed law of the northland trails, food was graciously offered. I could see at a glance that my wilderness guest was no ordinary person. He was neither settler nor trapper, and as we became better acquainted it occurred to me that this rugged, handsome, clean-cut chap had been keeping his chin up and his shoulders back most of his life. Personal questions, of course, were entirely out of order, so I waited for him to reveal himself. He did not, but he also occurred to me that my guest might be a Man of the Mounted doing a bit of checking up in that district, and before I could stop myself I had opened the gate, so to speak, and much to my amazement he walked right in.

"If you're from the Royal Mounted," I began, "I might be able to help you in whatever you're doing hereabouts." Across the small campfire his gray eyes caught mine. He stared steadily, but not rudely, for a full minute without batting an eye.

"You're a very observing chap, aren't you?" he smiled, "and the astonishing thing is, you're quite right. The truth is, I'm a deserter from the Royal Mounted, and I hate myself for chucking it up."

"A deserter," I exclaimed in astonishment. There was a story behind this, and I set out to get it.

"What happened? Lose a prisoner? Go on a spree, or something?"

"Nothing like that, my friend. Don't touch liquor. Didn't lose any prisoner. Clean record and six years' service. I'm only one of a few dozen that have deserted this last while, so you'll likely meet others who will tell you a story like mine."

"Well . . . I'm sure interested, and will keep your secret if you feel that you simply must tell your troubles to someone."

"Well, I've been trying to do my duty under a madman, a sergeant-major who lived to make life miserable for himself and everyone else. For instance, our full dress uniform, as you know, is a costly and showy affair. This sergeant-major would order us in full dress uniform, then this madman would set us at chopping wood, digging ditches and sewers, carrying horses, cleaning out the stables, and all sorts of chores that were supposed to be done in overalls or old clothing. Then, when we were all grimy and dirt and our dress uniforms just about ruined, this idiot would line us up and call us the loudest, dirtiest, filthiest and laziest bunch of scoundrels he ever seen. It was all so pointless and humiliating, and maddening."

"He usually wore those highly polished field boots. He'd call a man to clean them until you could see your face in them. Then he would put them on, go out to the mudhole by the horse trough and kick around in mud there until the boots were completely smothered with mud. Then he'd call another man to shine them up again."

"While we were working, or on patrol, he'd mouse through our kit-bags, read our personal letters, and poke his nose into everything. When he was sitting in his reports on cases handled, they were worried as though he had solved the crimes all alone, he got the evidence, caught the prisoners, and so on, in spite of the fact that other men had really done the job. Most of my fellow-officers were men who have served in the Boxer war, Boer war, the Afghan war and on other frontiers, men with splendid records, and for chaps like that to soldier under a madman, well, something had to happen and it did. Quite a few have happened."

"He sent me out on a case that I knew should have taken me to the north. Nevertheless, the order, written and issued by this idiot, read 'proceed south to a certain place. A few miles out I decided to return to quarters and show this fool that he had made a serious mistake. When I arrived, however, I found myself under arrest for negligence of duty, in spite of the fact that he had issued an incorrect order. I have it in my pocket. I broke jail, and I'm on my way. I'll be damned if I'll soldier under an idiot any longer."

"What's the program now?" I asked.

"I'm heading north, then west, to give myself up to a certain inspector who, I know will listen to my story. We've been on the trail on many a case. He'll start the ball rolling to get rid of the madman, and I'm so sure of that, that I'm giving myself up when I could easily forget all about it." Thirty days later the madman was ousted, and for years before he died, his playthings were paper dolls.

JOHNSON DIRECTS

HOSPITAL SURVEY

FOR VETERANS

Louisville, Ky., June 7—Under the direction of Keen Johnson, Chairman of the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board, a survey of the three State Hospitals for the Insane during the last two years by Hugh Lewis, Field Secretary of the Board, for the purpose of procuring the transfer of all veterans eligible for treatment in hospitals maintained by the Veterans' Administration to those institutions.

In pursuance of this work, the records of all the male patients in the State Institutions have been reviewed, the relatives of the men contacted, the inmates fingerprinted and identification established either through relatives or friends or by the Adjutant General's Office or Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C. All men within the World War draft age limit, or who had ever enlisted in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps at any time were thus investigated. A total of 933. A hundred and twenty-eight men have so far been transferred. It was pointed out that this work was undertaken solely as an extension of the service work for disabled veterans for which the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board was created with no thought towards a financial return to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, but, that, nevertheless, a total of $18,986.70 has already been saved to the Commonwealth in maintenance of inmates through these transfers and that a saving in maintenance on the men transferred will amount to $1,622.50 per month, or $19,470.00 per year. It was stated that the entire appropriation for the maintenance of the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board is only $18,000.00 per year.

CAR SALES GAIN, 1939 BUYERS PAY $76,000 TAXES

With new car registrations in Kentucky running well ahead of last year, the National Consumers Tax Commission today estimated buyers in the state paid out approximately $76,000 in taxes on their shiny new cars during the first three months of 1939.

An NCTC survey—which pointed to 7,668 new car registrations during the first three months this year as compared to 6,226 in the 1938 first quarter—listed 206 direct and indirect taxes involved in the production and distribution of an automobile.

"Most of these taxes are paid by the new car buyer as an unspecified part of the price," stated the report, made public through Mrs. J. E. Weyland, of Mayfield, NCTC state director. "They are the original levies against metal, rubber, leather and glass producers and manufacturers, against cotton and wool growers, cloth manufacturers, railroads, automobile manufacturers and dealers."

"Practically all these taxes, which the businesses of necessity must pass on, reach the car buyer in the form of an increase in the cost of the car. In the average-priced automobile, this pyramid of shifted taxes represents 94 percent of the selling price. The taxes total, therefore, $75.20 on the average $800 car."

The NCTC, with headquarters in Chicago, is a non-partisan organization seeking, through local study groups, to "arouse tax consciousness among women and to expose hidden taxes." Groups are reported in 4,600 communities, of which nearly 150 are in Kentucky.

HANDY POCKET-SIZE GUIDE AND ACCOUNT AVAILABLE

A new 72-page Farm Guide Book, published by the Firestone Farm Service Bureau of Akron, Ohio, is just off the press. The book, made up in handy pocket size, includes a wealth of valuable information for farmers, in addition to a 12-month account section for farm income and expense records.

The book is completely indexed and lists 100 subjects of interest to farmers. There are many short cut methods of solving farm problems. A typical example is a simple rule for determining the number of acres covered in a ten-hour day in any farm operation—just multiply the width of the implement in feet by the tractor speed in miles per hour. Thus, an 8-foot binder operated at 3 miles per hour would cover 24 acres per day.

Included in the general information are complete weight and measure tables, rules for planting fruit trees, figures on the amount of various kinds of seed required to plant an acre, the number of pounds per bushel of different farm products, a method for calculating the number of tons of hay in a mow, and a simple rule for determining the number of gallons of paint required to cover a building.

The stories and pictures of the winners of the National Plowing matches are carried, as well as photographs and information on the famous 1938 International Grand Champion Steer, Mercer. The booklet contains complete calendars for the years 1939 and 1940, and a page for personal identification and for the listing of important data on automobiles,

PEONY POINTS:

Trucks and tractors.

This booklet is free to farmers upon request to the Firestone Farm Service Bureau at Akron, O.; Firestone Auto Supply & Service Stores; Firestone Tire Dealers; and Firestone Implement Dealers.

TON-LITTER CONTEST

WON BY HARDIN MAN

Twelve purebred Chester White pigs that weighed 2,664 pounds when 185 days old won the 1938 Kentucky ton-litter contest for Jesse Shipp of Hardin county. In the following he relates how he raised the big litter.

"From breeding until about two weeks before farrowing, the sow was fed a small amount of corn ground oats, tankage and a home-made mineral, and let run on ryegrass pasture. At farrowing time she was receiving only ground oats and plenty of good water.

Four or five days before farrowing, a 8-by-10 shed was cleaned and disinfected. A rail 8 inches from the wall was put all around the pen to help keep the sow from laying on the pigs. By putting the sow in the pen several days ahead of farrowing she became accustomed to the place.

"A few hours before farrowing, the sow's udder was washed. Thirteen pigs were farrowed, 12 of which were saved. Little feed other than a small amount of ground oats, and plenty of water, were given the sow for four days. Then I gradually increased the feed until the pigs were about two weeks old. By that time the sow was getting about all she would clean up of corn, ground wheat and oats, and some milk, with ryegrass pasture.

"When the pigs were about three weeks old I fixed a creep and put shelled corn and ground wheat in it. The pigs soon learned to eat it, and their feed was increased to all they would eat of corn, ground wheat and milk. A mineral feed recommended by the county agent and tankage were kept before the pigs.

"When eight weeks old the pigs were weaned and permitted to run on pasture. They were handled three times a day, giving them corn morn and night. After they ate their corn they were given milk and sleep. At noon they received ground wheat. The feed was increased as they grew, so as to give them just what they would clean up and be ready for more at the next feeding."

PARAGRAPHS

The fellow who is spooled by success doesn't deserve to have it happen to him.

With the popular use of the word "liberal" in notice there are a few folks in Boone county who call themselves it, and are among the most narrow-minded people we know.

Who said the wolf was outside the front door? He is often riding in a financed automobile.

There is another thing odd about movie queens. None of them ever are photographed in spectacles except the dark colored kind for purposes of disguise. No stigmatism in Hollywood.

HAY CUTTING TIME

On bottom land, lespedeza should be cut for hay when it begins to lodge or fall, or when the lower leaves start dropping in great volume, says a leaflet of the Kentucky College of Agriculture dealing with cutting, curing and storing hay. On upland, the early bloom on Korean lespedeza usually coincides with the dropping of lower leaves, even though lodging does not occur. It should be cut before this stage is reached.

PAYS TO FERTILIZE

PERMANENT PASTURE
In answer to the frequent question of whether it pays to broadcast fertilizer on permanent pastures in Kentucky, Dr. E. N. Fergus of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington replies, "Definitely yes, provided the pasture has a reasonable good sod and is on a soil that needs fertilizer."

Results of pasture top-dressing experiments conducted in Kentucky in cooperation with the Tennessee Experiment Station during the past four years indicate that applications of about 140 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate per acre per year to permanent pastures outside the Bluegrass region will increase the herbage production 20 to 25 percent and protein production per acre about 25 percent.

Liming did not increase herbage yields but did increase protein production. Summarizing all results, it appears, that each dollar expended for limestone and phosphate produced an additional dollar's worth of value of protein, calculated at its market value in concentrates or else in terms of gain in weight of beef cattle.

A second question often asked is whether fertilizer would be more effective if applied under the sod, instead of broadcast. Instead of broadcast on the pasture, Dr. Fergus' answer is, "No, provided the sod is good enough to produce a satisfactory cover after treatment."

Tests of the two methods of application show that broadcasting is always as effective as subsurface treatments and generally better.

Generally speaking, says Prof. Fergus, it is best to apply fertilizer to pastures between fall and spring, but the work may be done any time it is convenient. Perhaps livestock should be kept off a pasture after top-dressing, and until the material has disappeared from the herbage.

ed for the evening of the 13th and a tour to flocks in Central Kentucky on the 14th when various types of ewes and their lambs will be observed. For years this annual meeting has attracted more attendance than any other livestock meeting held in the State. An effort is being made this year to provide a more elaborate and better demonstration than at any.

Many out-of-state delegations have indicated an intention to attend the meeting and remain over for the tour. The meeting will start at 10 a. m. in the Live Stock Pavilion, and the tour on the 14th will start from the Pavilion at 9 a. m.

NOTED BREEDERS TO SPEAK AT KENTUCKY STOCKMEN'S SCHOOL

A school for livestock breeders to be held at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture June 19-20, will be addressed by some of the country's noted stockmen. The purpose of the school is to give intensive study of the scientific basis of animal breeding.

Included as speakers are J. Rockefeller Prentice, Chicago, president of the American Dairy Cattle Club; Dr. O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry of the United States Department of Agriculture; Dr. E. E. Heizer, head of the dairy department at the University of Wisconsin; W. D. Belknap, Goshen, Kentucky breeder of cattle, sheep and horses; Dr. J. Holmes Martin, director of the U. S. regional poultry laboratory at East Lansing, Mich., and formerly head of the poultry section of the Kentucky Experiment Station, and Laurence Gardiner, southern field representative of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

Lectures will deal with such subjects as genetic rules and regulations, heredity in everyday life, selecting in breeding programs, breeding disease resistance, selective registration, and progeny testing.

DISTILLERS' GRAIN

TESTED IN FEEDING

Tests made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that distillers' corn dried grains are not so efficient as cottonseed meal, as a protein supplement in fattening cattle. Yearling heifers fed corn silage, shelled corn, wheat straw and cottonseed meal gained an average of 2.3 pounds per head daily, compared to a gain of 1.8 7 pounds for yearlings receiving the same ration, but distillers' corn dried grains instead of cottonseed meal.

Likewise, yearling steers gained faster when the protein supplement was cottonseed meal instead of distillers' grains. Calves sucking cows which received cottonseed meal gained 2 percent faster than did calves on cows fed distillers' grains. The average gain of cows in both lots, however, was almost the same.

THE GARDEN

LATE POTATOES

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

In Kentucky, "late potatoes" may mean any of several things. They may be the so-called "July potatoes," generally a selection from McCormick, sometimes Jersey Peachblow and sometimes Dakota Red, renamed Jersey Red. Or, the variety may be Green Mountain.

Properly to prepare a late potato seedbed, it should have been made in early May, the ground broken, then disked and dragged smooth. As any weeds started, disk and dragging should have been repeated, perhaps several times, depending on how many crops of weeds grew. It goes without saying that good land should have been chosen and generous amounts of well-rotted manure, or better, a heavy cover crop should have been turned under. By virtue of having destroyed the several growths of weeds, there should be practically none to fight as the crop of potatoes is being produced. The several times repeated stirring of the soil tends to save its moisture, and the potatoes benefit, in consequence.

Potato scab is quite a serious trouble, partly because of the hot, dry weather that prevails during the late season, but partly, too, because the seed potatoes may carry the causal organism on their skins or in the soil that adheres to them. Although complete freedom from scab cannot be guaranteed by seed treatment, it will help. Directions are given in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 309, a copy of which may be procured from county agents or by writing to the College of Agriculture, Lexington.

Because the soil is usually somewhat dry at planting, the seed should have been allowed to "heal over" before it is planted. This is not meant the drying out of some farmers follow, but the forming of a corky layer that forms when cut seed is put in slatted crates or in loose-mesh bags where air can pass through, but slowly. The "skin" that results is just as effective in holding sap as the natural skin of the potato. An additional precaution is to cut the seed pieces a trifle larger than in spring planting; 2 ounces, for example.

Late potatoes should be planted more deeply than the spring crop, for moisture's sake; the furrows should be laid off 5 or 6 inches deep, but before the seed is dropped, fertilizer (4-8-8, 5-10-5) should be sown, 1 pound to 25 feet, and worked in, but kept in the bottom of the furrow as much as possible. The rows may be as close as 30 inches, but if laying-off is done with a plow, the width may have to be greater to get the proper depth. One seed piece is dropped at a place, 13 to 15 inches apart, for the late varieties are all large-topped.

Covering may be complete, or just half the soil put back in the furrow, depending on how deep the moisture lies, but finally, the furrows should be filled level full, and the surface kept so. In this same connection, should come the warning not to lay off furrows so far ahead that they will dry out. Many poor stands of late potatoes are the result of seed pieces "cooking" in hot, dry ground.

Immediately after the potatoes are planted, it may be well to break up the middle tramped from passing through them during the planting, for as many as four trips are taken during the process. This "middle-busting" should be the last and only deep working of the potatoes, however. The rule, from this point on, should be to stir the soil no more than is necessary in upsetting what weeds grow, such stirrings given promptly, while the weeds are still small and require no violent workings to remove.

Planting time for the "July" potatoes ranges from June 15 to July 15, depending on latitude; that for Green Mountain, in the latter half of June, throughout the state.

Plans for the Dearborn County Fair, which will be held July 24 to the 29th are rapidly being formulated. In spite of the seemingly dull business period through which we are passing, no pains or expense is being spared and The Public is promised a Bigger and Better Fair than ever.

U. S. MARINES OFFER CAREER

The U. S. Marine Corps is accepting young men for four year enlistment it was announced today by Captain H. J. Withers, Recruiting Officer at Cincinnati.

Captain Withers explained that applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 30, at least 5 feet 4 inches in height, single, of good character, be able to meet the high physical standards of the Marine Corps, and have at least one year of High School.

To these young men the Marine Corps offers advantages in the nature of opportunity for additional education, assured income, advancement, and to those especially interested in the Marine Corps as a career, provision in old age.

As to one's physical condition and health, the Marine Corps, in addition to a progressive program of physical instruction, makes available, at its various stations, football, basketball, baseball, track and field teams for those athletically inclined.

The Marine Corps maintains at Washington, D. C., the "Marine Corps Institute," which provides for correspondence courses in Accounting, Agriculture, Architecture, Automobile, Aviation, Business Management, Chemistry and Pharmacy, Civil, Structural, Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, Languages, Radio, Civil Service and various other courses. Wherever a marine may be stationed whether in far off China, aboard a ship, or in the United States, the Institute will keep him supplied with instruction papers so that he may progress with his course in accordance with his ability.

While a marine is taking advantage of these opportunities, he has an assured income over and above all normal living expenses and free medical attention, of $21.00 to $17.00 per month, according to the rank he holds. To those who decide to make the Marine Corps their career, there is offered on completion of 30 years service, the opportunity to retire with a monthly income of $134.00 per month for the balance of their lives. This income amounts to $1,608.00 per year and is equal to 4 percent on a life savings of $40,200.00.

Complete information as to service in the U. S. Marine Corps may be obtained by writing to the Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Room 242, Post Office, Cincinnati, Ohio.

STRESSES SUMMER

CARE OF PULLETS

Good summer care of pullets is stressed in an article by C. E. Harris, a poultry field agent of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Most poultry raisers have sold the cockerels and now are engaged in maturing the pullets for fall and winter layers. How to do this well and economically is important if the flocks are to be profitable, he points out.

Economical gains come only when the flocks are kept free from parasites and disease. Diseased and parasitized pullets seldom grow into profitable egg producers. The best insurance against disease losses is to put the pullets on a clean range which has not been used by old hens or other fowls for a year or more. This can be done by providing a range shelter which is easy to move. Such a shelter saves labor, in that it requires frequent cleaning, gives cheap protection against predatory animals, and furnishes shade. It also allows pullets to be put on good pasture, which reduces feed costs.

For water, a 50-gallon barrel with an automatic valve placed on a wire or slatted platform will lessen labor and time in carrying for water.

An outdoor feeder to hold both grain and mash also should be put on the range. Feed and water must be kept before the flock constantly if cheap gains are to be made.

There is a tendency to quit feeding mash about this time, and to feed grain only. A balanced mash, in addition to grain, is required for good results. Where corn and wheat are available, the following mixture will give good results:

Ground yellow corn, 66 pounds.
Wheat middlings or mixed wheat feed, 23 pounds.
Meat and bone scrap, 10 pounds.
Salt, 1 pound.

Another satisfactory growing mash may be made of corn meal and wheat feed mixed with a commercial supplement. Several of the feed companies sell this supplement, and directions for its use which are given by the manufacturer should be followed. Either of the two mixtures can be used at little added expense over grain alone. There are many good commercial mash mixtures available to Kentucky farmers at prices that are reasonable.

Certainly with the availability of so much good feed it is poor economy to raise pullets on grain alone. A pullet that more time is required to hatch time to laying age with from 20 to 28 pounds of feed, and spasmodic feeding does not lessen this requirements; neither does grain feeding alone. Poor feeding practices and unbalanced feeds simply mean that more time is required for the pullets to mature, more pullets are stunted and fewer good ones are ready to lay when eggs are selling at their best prices.

It is hoped that those who have good pullets will feed them during the summer so that when fall comes they can put winter layers in the house. Your county agent will be glad to assist you with your feeding problems. He can also furnish plans for the range shelter and an outdoor feeder.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Arizona Legion"
Sun. and Mon.—"Beachcomber" Tue.—"Cowboy and the Lady"
Wed. and Thursday, June 14 & 15
—"Let Freedom Ring."

An unusual amount of action is packed into George O'Brien's current RKO Radio Western film, "Arizona Legion," which has La-Raine Johnson appearing opposite the popular outdoor star.

No less than four stage-coach hold-ups, half a dozen thrilling gun battles, a jail-break and a thrilling hand-to-hand combat on top of a racing coach are among the action highlights of the story, one of the most exciting of all O'Brien Westerns.

Charles Laughton, who is said to deliver the outstanding performance of his distinguished career in "The Beachcomber," which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday, has attained his position of eminence on the screen in the comparatively short space of five years. His first appearance on the screen occurred in 1933 in "If I Had a Million," and subsequently he added to his stature year by year with his finely etched characterizations in such great pictures as "Henry the VIII," "Barrels of Wine," "Street," "Les Miserables," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Mutiny on the Bounty" and Rembrandt. Laughton's role in "The Beachcomber" is that of "Ginger Tom" central character in the W. Somerset Maugham story "Vessel of Wrath," in which the new drama is based.

The Western breathes new life with every note of Nelson Eddy's songs in "Let Freedom Ring," the Gayety Theatre's offering for Wednesday and Thursday, June 14 and 15th. The picture presents a happy combination in blending the romantic action drama of pioneer days with music which fits the setting. And never has the screen's leading baritone been in better voice or offered more convincing dramatic work.

Despite the competition of such assured scene-stealers as Virginia Bruce, Victor McLaglen, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Guy Kibbee and Charles Bowers, with whom he is teamed in the leads, Eddy emerges preeminent as the young Harvard law graduate who is expected to champion the embattled farmers against the encroachments of a ruthless railroad giant. Barrymore as his father, Mrs. Bruce as Eddy's sweetheart, Arnold as the villainous railroad boss and McLaglen as his foreman, all play their roles to the hilt, but even Eddy's songs not sufficient to win audiences, his new virility would.

Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Poole and children, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Slayback, Mrs. Fannie Howard and Mrs. Moore were in Brooksville, Ind., recently, where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Levi Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corrigan and daughter, of Erlanger, visited Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Hamilton Sunday.

GRASS O. K. IF LIME AND PHOSPHATE USED

Kentucky Experiment Station tests begun three years ago to compare several species of perennial grasses outside of the Bluegrass region of the state, showed that such commonly grown grasses as orchard, redtop, timothy and Kentucky bluegrass produced good stands and covers on land well limed and fertilized with phosphate. Canada bluegrass and meadow fescue also proved satisfactory. The grasses were not pastured but were clipped frequently to represent grazing.

FRUIT TREES ON TERRACES

The increased number of peach orchards set on terraced land is attracting attention in Kentucky. Good examples of young orchards on terraces are on the farms of Dr. D. W. Doran at Mayfield and S. C. Holloway at Sedalia. A test also is being made at Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton, where trees were set one row on top of each terrace.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

In Hopkins county, it is estimated that 25,000 acres of rich bottom land would be tillable if drained.

The Breckinridge county farm bureau bought hybrid corn to make large numbers of two-row demonstrations.

Stock are being pastured on rye grass in Marshall county, where heavy seedings were made in the fall and spring.

"How to get the most from rural electrification" was the subject of three Pendleton county farmers' meetings.

Approximately a million pounds of phosphate have been ordered for use in soil improvement in Elliott county.

Lambs are being creep fed in Anderson county to get them ready for an early high market.

Wet weather has increased plant diseases, but in Lewis county they were checked by prompt attention.

In Boyd county, 4-H lessons on how to make breakfast muffins was voted one of the most popular of the year.

E. L. Ford, Larue county, sold 17 lambs at auction weighing 1,200 pounds at $12.25 per cwt.

Adair county farmers have noted that with appreciably better chicks, profits already are being increased.

R. A. Thompson, Lawrence county, has bought a carload of limestone for his own and neighbors' use.

In Bell county, the Hutch or Clear Fork 4-H club arranged an exhibition of birdhouses.

It is possible for us to get our minds off of feminine hats, we will learn that knees are to show with shorter skirts the latest in fashions notes.

The worst thing about making both ends meet, is that after they meet, they don't stay met.

PLACES TO PLAY
A good thing is the public playground, and all readers in this county are in favor of any clean sport that takes the youngster, who loafs around the corner, out on a court for a game of tennis or soft-ball. There are more cities all of the time joining in the center of maintaining recreation centers for their youth. Much money has been used to bring this about. Just recently we heard of a young man, unemployed, who erected swings and tables and so on, on a vacant lot across from his home. It was to keep the children off of the street. It doesn't take such a large amount of money to bring about swings and sand pits to make playgrounds safe from autos and other dangers.

PUTS BIG VALUE ON FARM MANURE
A ton of farm manure put on tobacco land may be worth $10, says S. C. Jones of the Kentucky College of Agriculture in a leaflet discussing the value, conservation and use of manure. At the Greenville Experiment Field manure increased the yield of dark tobacco 510 pounds to the acre, increased the value per pound by 42 percent, and more than doubled the value of the crop. Manure also increased the returns from corn, wheat, clover and other crops.

These places the annual value of the Kentucky farm manure crop at $400,000. However, he believes the $1,000,000 worth of manure is wasted annually. Manure is the farmers' cheapest and best fertilizer, he declares. Its use should be supplemented with phosphate.

MORE STOCK FOR WHITLEY COUNTY
Whitley county's improvement program has included in little more than a year the importation of 300 head of sheep, the establishment of several herds of milking Shorthorns, and the introduction of sheep on many farms.

Twenty-seven mares were recently brought in from Oklahoma, and previous purchases were made in Virginia, Tennessee and other states. The dual-purpose cattle came from Virginia and Ohio.

To assure an abundance of home-grown feed, County Agent Wilnot Carter arranged in January for other purchases of 500 mares, the establishment of several herds of milking Shorthorns, and the introduction of sheep on many farms.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS
A scrapbook and a collection pertaining to birds will be made by Fayette county club members. They are preparing to gather elaborate drawings and notes from school text books as a basis for study of each kind of bird, pictures, stories of different bird habits, etc.

A dairy fund of $1,000 has been set aside by the Pet Milk Company of Mayfield, Ky., to enable club members in Graves county to buy registered Jerseys. The Farm Bureau has also allotted $200 to this use. Members will be returned when the animals are sold.

"The handicraft project fills a long-felt need in this county among boys and girls, and has aroused more interest than anything in a long time," the president of the Clark 4-H club says. Enrollment has increased 20 percent this year.

Tobacco growing increased greatly among Owen county club members in 1938, according to figures just released by the county president. This year 27 club members sold 36,983 pounds, compared with a sale of only 12,832 pounds in 1937.

"Hull Gulls" are being used to make buttons to adorn smart society dresses in Butler county. Club members of the county have certain weeds grown thereabouts, cure and pare them into desired shapes and have bright, attractive buttons as a result.

While Kelly Johnson, of Milburn club, didn't win any state prizes on his ton-trailer project, he had 2 liters that netted him a good profit. He has registered Poland-China stock, and expects to build up a large herd within two years.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Strawberry Mold: Cream ½ lb. butter until soft. Gradually add ¼ cup sugar. Cream together until smooth. Add 1 qt. strawberries (quartered) and ½ cup pecan meats. Mix well. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Line serving dish with broken wafer crumbs. Add a layer of strawberry mixture, then a layer of wafers. Continue to fill dish ending with a layer of wafers on top. Chill 12 hours. Cut into squares and serve with whipped cream, garnishing top of each with a whole strawberry. Serves from 10 to 12.

STRESSES GOOD GARDENS
A slogan, "Every farm a good garden," is being used by County Agent Robert F. Spence in Rockcastle county, Ky. In 12 communities, garden demonstrations are being made in a program to encourage the production of a larger part of the home food supply. The growing of a large number of different vegetables is receiving special attention.

PLANNERS STUDY PROBLEMS
The Grant county planning council, following a series of conferences, announced that most farm problems are directly related to poor soils—soils that have been worn out or washed away. Especially does the council stress the need of erosion control, including filling ditches, sowing of cover crops and contour tillage. Each community has a committee to cooperate with the county planning council in studying problems of agriculture.

COWS AND CHICKENS HELP ALLEN COUNTY
Milk cows and poultry have become dependable sources of income in Allen county, says County Agent C. S. Bell.

Brown Bros., Scottsville, are building up one of the best dairy herds in the region. Recent additions include 12 purebred heifers about ready to freshen. Balanced ration, sanitation and attention to costs are helping to make the herd profitable.

An Allen county hatchery has already sold 15,000 chicks. Hatching eggs are obtained from selected farm birds, and the hatchery is a result of chick buyers have few losses. Melvin Parrish at the end of the third week had lost but four of 826 chicks purchased from the hatchery.

PERSISTENCE PERFORMS A PUBLIC SERVICE
We've all heard the jokes concerning the persistence of the life insurance salesman. And we've all been annoyed by him personally.

But, as many a man has learned eventually, that quality of persistence performs a public service. Most of us dislike to spend money for things that bring us no immediate pleasure or return. It has to be dredged out of us. Our instinctive inclination to procrastinate has to be beaten down. We admit life insurance is good and necessary—but if it weren't for "super-salesmanship" not one of us in ten would buy it. A life insurance salesman's persistence has saved many a man from a poverty stricken old age, and many a family from want when the breadwinner died.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE:

Bran Griddle Cakes: 2 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, 2¼ cups milk, 3 cups flour, 2 t. salt, baking powder, 1½ t. salt, ½ cup melted fat, ½ cup bran. Beat eggs and sugar until light and fluffy. Add milk and mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture, stirring until flour disappears. Add melted fat and bran, mixing carefully. Fold in all-bran. Bake on hot griddle, turning once. Yields 15 cakes.

PROTECT AGAINST TERMITES
Termites have moved northward from the tropics until a large part of this country is badly infested. These insects, rarely seen, eat the cellulose interior of boards and timbers, leaving only a hollow shell. The structure is so weakened that frequently timbers, joists, and sub-flooring must be entirely replaced to prevent collapse.

Termites are particularly active around homes, causing floors to sag and necessitating heavy repair bills. They so weaken timbers that they may give way under strain. Don't take a chance with rot and termites. Protect with NO-D-K.

FISHING FACTS:
Keep leaders out of sunlight when not in use. Sunlight will make them brittle. To catch grasshoppers go into field before the morning sun is shining. Hoppers will be clinging to grass or grain, to stiff with cold to try to escape. Small-mouth bass often feed in riffles of stream, but are apt to be found in warm weather in deep water under ledges—if, when trout fishing, you find a low bridge which creates a shady spot in the water, try it—Rub juice of milkweed on leader to dull it. The flash of sunlight on a shiny leader frightens fish especially if water is low and clear.

BECAUSE LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY—They Choose Firestone CHAMPION TIRES

FIRESTONE WINS 20th Consecutive Victory In Indianapolis 500-Mile Race

A merciless sun beat down upon the speedway as Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Champion Tires. The blistering heat of the main stretch and the granite-hard surface of the turns and the lack of traction made the race a breath-taking battle for gold and glory.

Never before in all the history of the motor car have tires been put to such a tortuous test. And never before has any tire so firmly established itself as a Champion in construction and performance, as well as in name. Here is dramatic proof of the extra strength which the revolutionary new Safety-Lock cord body provides in Firestone Champion Tires—the extra protection against blowouts that the new and advanced Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process—the extra mileage resulting from the tougher, wear-resisting rubber compounds in the sensational new Grab-Grip tread.

No longer can there be any question of which tire is safest. One tire—and only one—provides these exclusive safety features. One tire—and only one—has been on the winning cars at Indianapolis 20 consecutive years. Motor car manufacturers enthusiastically adopted the Firestone Champion Tire for their 1939 models. Order your new car equipped with this amazing tire. Or drive in and let us equip your present car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the one tire—and only one that is safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

See Firestone Tires made in the Firestone Plants, and Exhibition Building at New York World's Fair. Also visit the Firestone Exhibit at the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco.

CONSTRUCTION OF FOUR-LANE ROAD

TO BE URGED BY HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION - WILL VISIT HIGHWAY OFFICIALS IN NEAR FUTURE.

At a meeting of the U. S. 25 Highway Association of Northern Kentucky held on Wednesday night, June 7, at Kenton Terrace, it was decided by those present to make an application to the State Highway Department to begin operation by building six (6) miles of road beginning at the south end of the present four-lane highway and extending to a point near Richwood.

A committee consisting of A. B. Renaker, of Burlington, John West, of Walton, Boone county, Dr. H. C. Mann, of Crittenden and A. Threlkeld, of Corinth, Grant county, and Simon Billiter and R. M. Lucas, of Kenton county, as a committee to appear before the State Highway Commission at an early date to discuss the situation with the Highway Engineer.

In addition to the six above named, it was unanimously agreed that there should be added to the committee one person to be designated by the Fiscal Court of Boone county, and one person to be designated by the Fiscal Court of Grant county.

The exact date on which the committee will go to Frankfort is not yet known, but will be fixed as early in the future as is agreeable to the officials at Frankfort.

It is hoped that by this method that some action may be taken during the late summer and fall of 1939.

Hebron Lady Receives Bachelor Of Science Degree At U. of C.

Sibbia Judy Reimer received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Education at the University of Cincinnati, June 9th. There were eleven hundred graduates receiving degrees. This was the largest class to graduate from the U. of C. at one time.

Two Injured In Erlanger Accident

Cuts and bruises were suffered by Walton Henderson and Roger Eyer, both of Erlanger, when their car collided late Friday with a car driven by O. M. Rogers, advisory state highway commissioner and Covington attorney.

Mr. Rogers was driving north on Graves avenue toward his home when the mishap occurred. After the crash, the other auto driven by Henderson, crashed into a telephone pole.

SPRING LAMBS SELL AT PREMIUM

PRICES ON CINCINNATI MARKET THURSDAY—LOCAL PRODUCERS INSPECT SHIPMENTS ON MARKETING TOUR.

Two shipments of spring lambs from Western ewes sold for a premium on the Cincinnati market this past Thursday, June 8th. William Ryle of Walton sold his second shipment of 13 lambs averaging 70 lb. for $10.75 per hundred which was a fifty-cent premium above the market on that date. Joel Gray of Burlington sold 11 lambs averaging 72 lb. for $10.50 per hundred premium. Both shipments were reported good enough to bring a larger premium had they been 10 lbs. per head heavier. Mr. Gray reports his flock of 39 yearling Western ewes averaged 10 lbs. of wool per head.

Boone county livestock producers inspected these shipments on the country marketing tour of the stock yards and packing plants on last Thursday. Those taking part reported the tour profitable in the study of preparing livestock to bring a better price. Farmers on the tour included Orville Rice, Raymond Goodridge, Lee R. McNeely, W. L. Fraser, R. E. Rice, Hubert Rouse, Robert Greene, Atha Hubbard, Delbert Hubbard, Chas. Hedges, Preston Hedges, J. W. Doane, Kirtley McWethy.

Scout Camp Approved By Board Of Health

Camp George W. Hill, the official reservation of the Northern Kentucky Boy Scouts, has not only been approved by the Council Health and Safety Committee represented by Howard Gosney, chairman, but has been approved also by the Kenton County Board of Health for the summer camping season.

Camp periods are as follows: Period 1, June 25 to July 2; Period 2, July 2 to July 9; Period 3, July 9 to July 16; Period 4, July 16 to July 23; Period 5, July 23 to July 30.

All periods begin after 2:00 p. m. and before 4:00 p. m. on Sunday and end immediately after breakfast on the following Sunday. No noon meal will be served on Sunday.

All Boone County scouts are invited to attend the camp. Troop leaders should reserve a camp site for the week of your choice.

The National Health and Safety Committee requires that scouts and leaders attending camp must have their physician's approval in the form of a medical examination. Ask your scoutmaster or scout headquarters for the proper blank.

Virginia Lee Reimer left Monday to attend the summer school at the University of Kentucky. Virginia will enter the College of Agriculture and specialize in Home Economics and physical education.

PICTURE SHOW TO BE GIVEN JUNE 22

AT BURLINGTON SCHOOL—"UNDER THE 4-H FLAG" IS TITLE OF PICTURE-SHOW WILL BE FREE

One of the most complete and elaborate 4-H entertainment units ever developed will be made available to the people of this county on Thursday, June 22, assistant county agent H. B. Drake announced today.

The show consists of two hours of talking pictures, the feature of which is the dramatized all-talking version of the famous novel "Under the 4-H Flag". The program will include in addition to the features picture a 4-H news reel, and educational short called "Hidden Values", and a cartoon comedy.

The show will be held at Burlington school and will start promptly at eight o'clock central standard time.

Admission will be free and there will be no collection of any kind taken at the show. Mr. Drake declared. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in the aims and aspirations of the 4-H movement and to give its members, their families and friends and all others interested in agriculture a real treat in the way of high grade entertainment.

This county's 4-H organization will have an opportunity to participate in an attendance contest whose awards amount to $2,000, Mr. Drake said.

The award of prizes will be made on the basis of the proportion of the county's rural population that attends the showing. All counties in the country in which the picture will be shown will participate in the contest and the county winning first prize will get a check for $1,000 which is to be devoted to 4-H activities.

Burlington Girl And Petersburg Boy Married Saturday

Miss Ethelyn Ryle and Mr. William Huey were quietly married Saturday at 5 o'clock by Rev. R. H. Carter, of Ft. Mitchell.

The bride is the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle, of Burlington and is a graduate of the Burlington high school. The groom is the popular son of Howard Huey, of Petersburg and is well known throughout the county.

Attendants were Stanley Ryle, brother of the bride and Miss Ann Metcalf, of Erlanger.

The happy young couple spent the week-end in Cincinnati, returning to home of the bride Sunday where they will make their home.

We extend best wishes to this young couple for a long, happy and prosperous voyage on the sea of matrimony.

WILL TAKE PART IN REVUE AT HOLMES HIGH SCHOOL

Janice Eades, daughter of Bob and Gene Eades, a promising young dancer will take part in Faller's Revue of 1939 at Holmes High School auditorium on Monday evening, June 19th at 8:15 p. m.

Popular Couple Married Saturday Evening At Lutheran Church

On last Saturday evening, at eight o'clock in the old Hebron Lutheran Church, in the village of Hebron, was conducted one of the most impressive marriage ceremonies the writer has ever had the pleasure of witnessing. Not being a member of this church the writer does not feel that he would be egotistical by making this statement.

The marriage referred to was that of Miss Vera Goodridge, of Hebron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goodridge, and Mr. Gilbert Dolwick of Constance, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Dolwick.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white, carrying a bouquet of white roses, while her attendant, Miss Mary Louise Rouse and Miss Marjorie Dolwick were colorfully dressed in aqua blue and pink, respectively.

The groom was attired in conventional blue, while his attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Die were faultlessly groomed in keeping with the occasion.

The prelude, wedding march and accompaniment were rendered admirably by Mrs. Alice Dye. Two solos, "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" were beautifully sung by Mrs. Baurer.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. M. Hutter in his usual impressive manner, after which a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents where ice cream, cake and punch were served. The present filled one entire room. The bride and groom left Sunday morning for the Smoky Mountains on their honeymoon, and upon returning will occupy their new home overlooking the Ohio River on the new road.

The writer is of the opinion that if all marriages were entered into under the influence and direction of the church that the impression made would be lasting and the rocks upon which so many are wrecked would be avoided.

May the married life of this young couple be as beautiful as the ceremony by which it was begun is the wish of their many friends.

Ayler Residence To Be Offered At Auction Saturday, June 17th

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Ayler have contracted with the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppel Bldg., Covington, to sell at auction their six-room, two-story frame residence, Dixie Highway, just north of the town limits of Florence, Saturday, June 17, at 3 p. m.

The residence, which is nicely decorated, has a large living room, dining room, and an extra large kitchen on the first floor, and three large bedrooms on the second floor. There are a number of large closets, full-size basement, garage, and large lot with a garden and shade trees. The property may be inspected almost any time—agent will be found across the street from the property. There will be free cash present.

POOL WOOL SOLD MONDAY JUNE, 12

TO TUCKER AND MCLONEY, OF CYNTHIANA—MEMBERS TO DELIVER CLIP AT BURLINGTON, PETERSBURG, WALTON.

The Boone County Wool Pool sold Monday, June 12th, 12,692 pooled fleeces consisting of approximately 65,000 pounds of wool to Tucker and McLoney, of Cynthiana. The price was not announced until the date of delivery, was reported quite satisfactory and considerably above that received last year. The clip will be delivered this coming week.

Pool members will deliver their wool at one of the three points in the county, namely, Walton, Tuesday, June 20th; Burlington, Wednesday, June 21st and Petersburg, Thursday, June 22nd. Each grower will receive full payment for his wool as soon as it is weighed.

Revival Services To Be Held At East Bend Methodist Church

Revival services will begin Sunday June 18 and will continue through June 29, at the East Bend Methodist Church, according to an announcement by Rev. E. K. Kidwell.

Rev. Holman Cowherd, pastor of the Depot, Ky., Methodist Church will bring the messages. J. F. Moore will conduct the singing. Rev. Cowherd is a very forceful speaker and has quite a reputation as an evangelist.

Services will be conducted daily at 7:45 p. m. The public is cordially invited.

WALTON MAN NAMED CHM'N.

LEONARD COOK WILL MANAGE CAMPAIGN FOR JOHN YOUNG BROWN IN BOONE COUNTY.

Leonard Cook, Walton, Ky., has been appointed Boone County campaign manager for John Young Brown, according to an announcement from Brown headquarters in Louisville.

Mr. Cook has been a resident of Boone County for more than 17 years, is the owner and operator of the Wagon Feed Mills. He is a former member of the Kentucky State Legislature, member of the Masonic Order, member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Cook has been a Democrat all his life and has been active in politics for the past several years. Mr. Cook has a wife and seven children, who are all residents of Boone County.

He managed the campaign of Governor A. B. Chandler in this county in 1935.

MRS. J. R. EDDINS DIES WEDNESDAY

HAD BEEN RESIDENT OF COUNTY ENTIRE LIFE—SERVICES TO BE CONDUCTED FRIDAY AT 2:00 P. M.

Mrs. J. R. Eddins, 53, Burlington passed away Wednesday morning at 8:00, following an illness of only a few days. She had been in ill health for several years, but her condition was not serious until last Friday.

She was a life-long resident of Boone county, having been born in the Woolper neighborhood. She was a member of the Burlington Baptist Church for many years. She was an outstanding woman in the community, and was loved and respected by everyone.

She is survived by her husband, J. R. Eddins and one daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Olfert, and a number of other relatives.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence Friday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., with Rev. R. Lee James, officiating. Interment will be in the Burlington cemetery.

Chambers and Grubbs, Walton funeral directors are in charge of arrangements.

June 15 Final Date For Signing 1939 ACP

The state ACP office reports June 15th is the final date for farmers desiring to participate in the 1939 program to sign their 1939 Farm Plans, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent 1025 farmers have signed today. Performance checking will begin July 3rd and it is necessary that farms wishing to participate sign up their farm to be checked for performance.

The purpose of the sign up is two fold; first that the farmer at the time of the sign up receive personal explanation of this year's program and second that before the expense of checking performance begins it be definitely known those farmers who wish their farms checked for benefit payments.

FIFTH VICTORY IS REGISTERED

BY BOB & GENE NINE-COLD SPRINGS ARE OPPONENTS IN HOTLY CONTESTED GAME SUNDAY.

What baseball fans declared to be one of the best games of the season was that between Bob & Gene and Cold Springs at the Crescent Springs ball park Sunday, when the locals chalked up their fifth consecutive victory by a score of 5 to 4.

"Hooks" Ryle was on the mound for Bob & Gene, allowing 12 hits which were well scattered, and having a total of 13 strike-outs. Two outstanding catches were made in Sunday's game, one by Bill Bradburn and one by Bucky Rogers.

R. Bradburn led the attack for the local nine with a double and 2 singles.

The entire team of Bob & Gene has improved materially, and it is expected that the boys will out there Sunday trying for their sixth win when they meet Carlings who handed them a 14 to 4 defeat earlier in the season. Ryle & Staffer will be on the mound for the locals Sunday with "Rags" Ryle on the receiving end.

WESTERN EWES ARE FEATURE

OF ALL-DAY SHEEP PROGRAM TO BE HELD AT WILLIAMSTOWN—COMMITTEE FROM THIS COUNTY TO ATTEND.

Many sheep raisers in the county will attend the District Sheep Fair at Williamstown next Friday, June 16. Notice is being sent to all sheep raisers in the county, inviting them to attend. Pens showing all types of western ewes with lambs at side will be exhibited as a part of the all-day program which will include talks by sheep authorities from the Experiment Station and by successful sheep raisers of Northern Kentucky who have had experience with the Western type ewes.

It has been pointed out by the local committee in charge of arrangements for this county that all sheep raisers should attend this meeting so as to become familiar with the several types of ewes that will be available for flock replacement this year. There has been much confusion in the minds of farmers as to the kind of ewe to buy since some of the so-called Westerns are not of the type recommended for this section. R. C. Miller, Sheep Specialist of the Experiment Station will discuss the several types exhibited.

In addition to the ewes and lambs, local breeders will show rams of several breeds. It is meant to have the program an all-around educational exhibit. The Grant County Farm Bureau cooperating with the county agent and the Extension Department will have charge of the day's program. Farmers are largely dependent on the Western ewes for flock replacement since native ewes of high quality are very scarce. The Farm Bureau committee pointed out. It has been the habit of the farmers, G. C. Mullins, chairman, stated, to depend on late and parasite infested lambs to maintain their flocks. This has been an expensive habit and the flocks in general gradually go down in quality if this practice is followed.

The program starts at 9:30 a. m. with a 4-H Club Sheep Judging Contest. Besides Mr. Miller, others on the program include S. C. Jones who will discuss "Pastures for Sheep," Buford Dewey, who will give a handling demonstration, and one or more of our leading sheep men from each county.

Omer W. Cleek is program chairman for Boone county.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

A MAN NAMED CAXTON

YOU may not remember ever hearing the name of William Caxton, but it was his life which makes your life today comfortable.

He it was who introduced printing into England. This was in 1476. The introduction of printing has made all progress possible.

It wasn't until 1638 that America had a printing press, this at Harvard university, but after that printing grew, and newspapers sprang up, and modern American life began.

The printing press is the forerunner of knowledge wherever it is introduced. The printed word, even to this day, has no rival as a quick means of disseminating vital facts and ideas.

The newspaper of today is one of the modern wonders of the world. It is the broadest, quickest, most flexible and most economical way of getting a message into the minds of the people.

Early in our national history, manufacturers and merchants sensed this power of the press. They began using it to carry their advertising facts and ideas into the homes.

These early advertisers were careful business men. The fact that the question was and are not taking sides, for everyone knows of various instances where each has a strong case. But we do see the passing of many bills in the land limiting the employment of married women. The national employment situation being what it is, the fact that there are still women who work after marriage when they have a husband able to support them, is an angle that must be considered.

A new fan belt may eliminate noises in the motor. Motors can be overheated by oil and dust accumulating on surface. Many filling stations can remove this coating. A fire extinguisher is the best carried by every motorist in case of a gasoline blaze. Some believe gasoline fires spread when ordinary water is used. Springs need attention from time to time. Spring bolts and clips need tightening. Too much looseness causes a car to breakage.

WELCOME

There are many people who say that the reason the royal visitors of Great Britain favoring this country, is purely political and an indication of a diplomatic move in appealing to our sympathy in case of a European war. Whether true or not it is our belief that their majesties appreciate and realize that just such an indication would be forthcoming from the majority. However, we pay our deep respects to these crowned heads and welcome them to the U. S. We love our land and are proud of our democracy. Being a nation of admirers, we doff our hats to these two who have taken up the reins of government and stepped into a tense situation in their country which was smoothed over by their capability in accepting the honor and royal rights bestowed upon them. They are to be admired and shown the hospitality that makes America famous.

GETTING MARRIED

The marriage custom is followed during all the year, but we figure June as the month of brides. This is our opportunity to express a few personal opinions on the most sacred and important subject.

What concerns the nation regarding the increased divorce rate does not concern us at this writing. We are considering the following of the path of matrimony through life together. Few of us can say we have followed the wisest and most prudent paths, ourselves, for often we have failed. But there is a lot to starting

WEEDS AGAIN

The weed problem is one of the most serious ones facing agriculture, and it is a hard nut to crack. There is an annual loss in total destruction that runs into many millions of dollars. The truck-gardener, the farmer who tills large acres, the city dweller who tends a small patch, all face the weed problem. There are many kinds of weeds, some of them not so prevalent as other or not quite so destructive but all dangerous to land and cause a lot of hard work on the part of Boone County folks. There are various methods many recent ones, in the control of weeds, but it is up to all of us to find out the best way to battle them. Information is available from many sources and the wise fellow begins early to lick the weeds before they lick him.

CONCERNING EMPLOYMENT

There is a tightening of the laws in many states regarding the employment of married women. This is especially true in the field in State and local governments. Where they formerly raised objections if the husband was employed by the state, it is now whether the husband is employed at all. This problem has rapidly spread into education and there are many schools who do not employ married women under any circumstances. There are two sides to the newspaper would complete the educational process for their goods wasn't enough. It also had to do the job at less cost than any other medium.

And they found, after many trials in different fields, that it did. It got their message to prospective buyers in a manner which was economical as well as effective.

Today this same condition is unchanged. Advertisers, using newspapers year in and year out, find it the most profitable way in which to tell their story to buyers.

The reason is simple. The newspaper is the great common denominator of modern life. It reaches practically every family. It has the confidence of its readers. It stands for everything which is right and good and modern.

The advertisements in your newspaper are as much a part of its vital importance as the editorial and the news columns.

As a matter of fact, most readers find it hard to tell what interests them most—the commercial news, which is called advertising, and which touches their lives every day, or the general news, in news story, editorial and cartoon.

They're both valuable. This man named Caxton was one of the great benefactors of mankind. He lighted the lamp—and it is still burning bright, though centuries have fled since he lived.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 18

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected by the Western Newspaper Union Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-4; Philimon 1:7, 21, 22.

OBJECT—STUDY to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, bringing forth the word of truth.—II Timothy 2:15.

PAUL WRITES PERSONAL LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:1-4; Philimon 1:7, 21, 22.

Letters—what interest we all take in them! We go to town to get the mail, or we stop our work at the familiar signal of the postman. Too familiar thought is given to the possibility that every letter may be a bit of blessing in God's hand. Paul has given us model Christian epistles.

In considering our lesson it is difficult to indicate specific verses, but the reader can readily identify the truth taken from the lesson under each division.

I. Remembrance.

Paul did not write letters which were impersonal and distant in spirit. The warmth of a loving heart, the refreshing recollection of past fellowship, a genuine interest in the joys and sorrows of his brethren put love into every sentence of his letters.

We need to learn the art of writing letters. Even so-called business communications may often carry a touch of encouragement or inspiration. Personal letters should certainly be a constant medium of keeping bright the flame of affection between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and Christian friends separated by distance.

Observe that the remembrance of Paul had to do with both personal and spiritual matters, and note how naturally and easily the two blend. There should be no need of being offensively "preachy" in writing letters. The personal and spiritual interests of our lives should be so closely blended together that we cannot separate them without effort.

II. Inspiration.

Who has not had the unforgettable experience of receiving a letter just when his cheering word was needed. Many a man has been saved from despair and possible destruction by such a "word fitly spoken" which is "like apples of gold in pictures" (Prov. 25:11).

We enjoy receiving such letters—do we make an effort to write them? Or do we leave them to ourselves by saying, "You know I am such a poor letter-writer!" when the fact is that we are probably lazy or indifferent to the needs of our friends?

Notice that Paul's inspiration and instruction to his friends revolved around two points—his constant prayers on their behalf and his faithful presentation of the teaching of God's Word. If we would follow his example we must first really pray and then study God's Word for ourselves before we shall be ready to pass it on to others.

III. Admonition.

Scolding has no place in a letter, but kindly admonition is quite in order. Paul improved every opportunity to urge his readers to personal piety, Christian fellowship, attendance upon the means of grace, prayer, and the study of God's Word. He also urged his young brother in the Lord's service to "use the gift of God" which was in him. The influence of the world, the pressure of work, or some burden of spirit might cause a man to bog down in the slough of despond or of mediocrity. A letter from a true Christian friend at such a time might well be the means in God's hand of the smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show his loving appreciation. A considerate friend will therefore open such an opportunity, not as a command or in a spirit of expecting something in return, but as an act of Christian courtesy.

IV. Co-operation.

Friendship and fellowship are not one-sided. The very words demand the existence and interaction of two personal beings. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Paul recognized this, and when he wrote to Philimon he gave him opportunity to respond in loving obedience to a request while at the same time he showed the highest degree of Christian consideration and courtesy toward Philimon. The epistle is a "masterpiece of persuasive tact and delicacy and an enduring model of truest Christian courtesy" (Ellis).

No right thinking person is satisfied to be the constant recipient of the love and thoughtfulness of another with no opportunity to reciprocate. The smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show his loving appreciation. A considerate friend will therefore open such an opportunity, not as a command or in a spirit of expecting something in return, but as an act of Christian courtesy.

God's Own Spirit

To believe, not because we are loved, but because we can prove, that there is a something in us, even God's own spirit, which makes us feel light and truth as truth—this is the blessed faith.—F. W. Robertson.

UNEMPLOYMENT

PAYMENTS AMOUNT
To $2,500,000 MAY 31
Frankfort, Ky., June 14.—Payments of unemployment insurance benefits to Kentucky workers who come within the provisions of the Kentucky Unemployment Insurance Law totalled approximately $2,500,000 when records of the Unemployment Compensation
Commission were closed on May 31.

Payment of benefits began in Kentucky on February 1 and with the close of Commission's books on May 31 a total of $2,428,644.17 had been paid in benefits within that period. During the month of May a total of $780,444.64 was paid in benefits, the highest amount paid in any of the four months in which payments have been made.

A total of 283,188 checks have been issued to Kentucky workmen since the payments began. A total of 80,727 checks were issued during the month of May alone. During the last week in May, using a six day week as a period for computation a total of 18,484 checks were issued, representing a money value of $1,459,453.61.

LEGUMES IMPROVE
BLUEGRASS YIELD

Many pastures in Kentucky could be improved by growing a legume in combination with grass, says a statement from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Tests indicate that legumes grown with bluegrass increase the yield and feeding value of the pasture.

For the past seven years an Experiment Station mixture of bluegrass and legumes has produced almost twice as much dry matter as bluegrass grown alone. Weeds constituted a large part of the yield when bluegrass was grown without a legume. The addition of a legume to the bluegrass has more than doubled the amount of protein produced per acre, and therefore has greatly increased the feeding value. Phosphorus, an element important in the production of strong, healthy animals, was almost twice as abundant in the bluegrass-legume herbage as as in the herbage from bluegrass alone.

The increased growth and feeding value of the bluegrass-legume combination as compared with bluegrass alone is due partly to the supply of nitrogen made available by the legumes and partly to the small amount of weeds present in the bluegrass-legume mixture.
A longer and more uniform period of grazing is furnished by the mixture than by bluegrass alone.

REPORTS PROGRESS IN STATE DAIRYING

How butterfat production per cow is increasing in Kentucky is brought out in the annual report which the State College of Agriculture recently made on the progress of dairy improvement in the state.
In 1938-39, in the three oldest associations in the state, 1-617 cows averaged 263 pounds of butterfat in the year. In 1937-38, in the same associations, 1,642 cows averaged 366 pounds of fat.
In 1928-29 there were 45 cows that averaged 400 pounds or more in 1937-38, 414 cows. Nine herds averaged 300 pounds in 1928-29; in 1937-38, 53 herds went over the 300-pound mark.

The report shows that the average dairy cow on test in Kentucky in 1937-38 produced 7,026 pounds of milk and 310 pounds of butterfat, consumed $59.19 worth of feed and returned an income of $92.07 above feed cost.

GRASS MOTTO FOR COUNTY

"Grass the pocketbook of agriculture" is the motto adopted in Hardin county, Ky. In four years, 135,816 tons of limestone have been spread and 32 per cent of the crop land of the county covered, reports County Agent A. J.
Thaxton. In 1937, Hardin county held the limestone record for Kentucky and ranked third among all counties in the United States.

GAIN NOTED IN U. S.
EXPORTS TO PHILIPPINES

United States exports to the Philippine Islands in 1938 were the highest since 1929 and increased 42.5 per cent over 1937, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reported today in a specially prepared survey for Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, according to advices received in the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce.
The American share of the Philippine import trade rose to 68 per cent last year, the largest in the history of trade between the two countries. Imports of American goods were valued at $30,397,000.
The most important factor in last year's trade gain by the United States was the increased sale of American cotton piecegoods in the Philippine market. Chinese imports and retailers, who predominate in the islands' textile business, last year were ordering from American manufacturers certain types of textiles never before sold in the Philippines. United States exports of textiles to the islands in 1938 increased 178 per cent over 1937, the total value of these shipments amounting to $10,018,000.
Imports of machinery from the United States were valued at $8-157,000, an increase of 34 per cent over 1937. American sales of iron and steel goods also increased 28 per cent, being valued at $10,057-000. Total Philippine purchases of petroleum products advanced 25 per cent, with imports from the United States valued at $6,154,000, showing a corresponding gain. Imports of American canned milk and canned fish increase 30 per cent and 45 per cent, respectively, the purchases in canned sardines alone more than doubling. Popularity of American cigarettes continued, with imports valued at $6-865,000 last year, an increase of more than 100 per cent in both value and volume.

IDLEWILD

(Too late for last week)
Henry Holladay has returned to his home from school in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hogan visited Emmett Elliott and family Sunday.

Quite a number of folks enjoyed the ice cream and strawberry supper at the church here Saturday night.

Mark Holladay and family entertained a number of their kin-people at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. Albert Pfalzgraf had seven of her lady friends from Lawrenceburg as guests last Wednesday. Mrs. Mattie Shinkle, Mrs.
Mayree Holladay and Mrs. Alberta
Scotthorn joined them for a short time in the afternoon.

Mrs. Chester Davis had as her house guest the past week, her friend, Mrs. Essie Guernsey, of Erlanger.

Orville Hill and family, of Cincinnati, spent the week-end with
Wm. Hill and family.

Mrs. Mattie Shinkle accompanied by Miss Tillie Vogel, of Battle Creek, Mich., enjoyed several days last week at the International Internominal camp meeting at God's Bible School, Cincinnati.

Jobs or Matrimony
FOR JUNE GRADUATES IN HOME ECONOMICS
The Kentucky & West Virginia
Power Company has employed two home economics graduates of the University of Kentucky. The young women are Florine Hurt, Albany, Ky., who will be stationed at Pikeville, and Helen Franz, of Lexington, who will be located at Huntington, W. Va.

Four June graduates have decided upon matrimony as careers, while five others will teach. Virginia Nicholls, Paducah, will teach at Vine Grove; Mary Jane Smith, Bellevue, will teach in her hometown; Mattie Turner, Drift, will teach there; Ray Wood, Lexington, will teach at Hodgenville, and Jean Wilson, Richmond, will teach at Kingston in Madison county.

Jennie Mae Trigg, Louisville, will serve as dietitian for three months at the Davess County Hospital,
Owensboro, substituting for Miss Emily Bennett, regular dietitian and secretary of the Kentucky Dietetic Association, who is on leave.

The marriage rate of home economics graduates seemingly is exceptionally high, according to a recent survey—establishing that technical knowledge of how to run a home efficiently is regarded as an asset. The divorce rate is outstandingly low among young women who while in school acquired a sound philosophy of the home.

Never before in The History of Dearborn County Fair or any Co-unity Fair has such a high class Racing Program been offered as is being offered at this year's Dearborn County Fair, July 24th to 29th. Included in the ten race program will be the two $1,000
Stake Races, The Atholone Guy,
Trot and the Hale Dale, Pace.
These two stakes will bring the finest group of harness horses ever assembled on any County Fair—
Don't miss this super-attraction.

It doesn't seem possible to us here, that it was around fifty years ago that they didn't call them detours and safety stops.

TO THE PEOPLE OF BOONE AND GRANT COUNTIES

Realizing that this is the busy season of the year I have not yet bothered you concerning my race for representative in this district.
I am personally known to most of you, and before the race is over I hope to know every one of you.
Like the rest of you, I am trying to be a farmer and a business man and because of my experience, I understand the problem that faces every one of us. Your interests and my interests are the same. We both want to see the farmer restored to the prosperity that he is due, and we both want economy in Government, and a square deal for big and little alike.

If we don't get this we will all suffer, and this is my platform, and on it I will stand for the rest of my life. I am fortunate enough to have a family and they live in the country I help to build for them.
My three girls and one son will marry citizens of this community, and all they receive from life will depend upon the community that we leave to them.

It is my own wish that your children and my children may have a finer country and a greater opportunity than we have known.
And if you elect me your representative, I will vote I cast will express my sincere effort to help my community, my district and my country.

I deeply appreciate the importance of this office which I now seek, not because of the small salary, which averages less than $1,000 per day for the two year period, but because the man that you send to Frankfort will represent, in the eyes of the State, every citizen of Boone and Grant counties, and this is an honor anyone should covet.

I have repeatedly stated that I would not make a lot of promises, because I have been so disappointed with promises made in the past, that I know you too must tire of them. However, I will make one promise, because my desire is that I may be permitted to live out my life as your friend and neighbor, so I promise you to try to conduct myself in such way, both in private and public life, as to be worthy of your regard.

You know that I have tried my best to get the Dixie Highway reconstructed from Covington to Lexington, realizing that this great road is the life line of industrial prosperity for our communities. I have spent my time and my money trying to organize an association that would have enough influence to procure us this road. Personally
I favor following the existing route, which I consider the best available. Should anyone question this, you have my written statement shown where I stand and for what I stand.

I also stand four-square for improvement of the County roads, and if you give me the opportunity I will do my best to make it the policy of our State Government to cooperate with the Federal Government and build roads which we can travel with safety.

Assuring you that I will appreciate your support, and if I receive the honor of this office, you will always find me just the same honest, friendly, country boy that I have always been.

I am your friend,
Adv.—
JOHN S. JUETT.

MINERS REFUSED RIGHT TO DRAW PAYMENTS
DURING IDLENESS

Frankfort, Ky., June 12.—Kentucky miners who declined to work during the controversy which existed between mine operators and the United Mine Workers of America have been refused the right to draw benefit payments from the Kentucky Unemployment Insurance fund during the period of their idleness by a recent decision of A. M. Hall, Lexington attorney who acted as referee in the case for the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Referee Hall's decision was the second given in the case. Previously, Paul W. Buckholz, acting as special agent for the Commission, conducted lengthy hearing in the case which affected between 25-000 and 30,000 miners and 109 coal operating companies.
Referee Hall's decision upheld Buckholz's decision, though it was longer and discussed legal aspects of the case in detail.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Twenty-two varieties of hybrid corn are being tested in a one-acre plot in Mercer county.
Wool and lambs will pay the cost of 30 western ewes, purchased last fall by Henry Hall, Pulaski county.

It is estimated that 4,000 acres of hybrid corn were planted in Lincoln county.
Varieties, fertilization and marketing of sorghum molasses were discussed at a meeting in Hancock county.

One hundred and five acres of Hardin county strawberries were sold cooperatively.
The Bath County Farm Bureau is planning to sponsor the purchase of western ewes.

Adair county farm plans contain increased seedings of Italian rye grass, crimson clover and alfalfa.

J. D. Duke, a Metcalfe county farmer, at the end of 10 weeks had lost only six of 800 chicks.
Thirty-five rural carpenters in Taylor county attended a meeting to discuss farm building plans.

An annual spring garden tour is a feature of home demonstration work in McLean county.

A farm credit survey and business analysis are being made in communities in Grant county.

Latvia has just established a Department of Foreign Trade.

BURLINGTON HOMEMAKERS

The Burlington Club met on Thursday, June 1st. For convenience the meeting was held at Mrs. M. A. Yelton's. The final lesson of Slip Covers was given by the leaders, Mrs. Vern Pope and Mrs. Hubert White to the following members present: Mrs. L. A. Conner, Mrs. Joseph Huey, Mrs. Stanley Eddins, Mrs. Lela Kite, Mrs. Grover Jarrell, Mrs. Fannie Riley, and Mrs. M. A. Yelton.

The morning was devoted to work on slip covers and in the afternoon our president, Mrs. Riley presided at the business meeting.

A nominating committee for election of officers was appointed, consisting of the following: Mrs. Kite, Mrs. Conner and Mrs. Joe Huey.

The club will have its annual picnic on the next meeting date, Thursday July 6th. A trip to points of interest in Central Kentucky is being planned, Frankfort and Harrodsburg being possible highlights. Members will receive cards in due time and we hope all will plan to make the trip.

THE PLIGHT OF WIDOWS

Most of us have seen, in some individual instance, the tragic problem of men grown old without financial resources, and forced to subsist on the bounty or relatives or public charity.

The plight of thousands of widows is equally grave. According to the U. S. Census Bureau, 32 per cent of the widows in this country must work for a living. Many of these women once had fine homes. Their husbands earned good salaries, or owned prosperous businesses. But no bulwark was established against the future and when death came to the wage-earner, there was little or nothing left for dependents. It is an encouraging thing, going by the records of life insurance sales, that more and more men are making sure that their widows may never be in that unhappy position.

Russia has just estimated her present population at 180,000,000.

Maybe the farmer is lucky after all. If he was awfully prosperous the government would start investigating his operations.

Local Residents Visit In Greensburg, Indiana, Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Renaker, Miss Nell Martin and Miss Dorothy Nell Furnish were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jones at Greensburg, Indiana, last Sunday.

They report Mr. and Mrs. Jones as owning one of the best farms of 136 acres in that section of Indiana, located adjoining the town of Greensburg on Highway 29, with modern dwelling, buildings all in good condition and farm well fenced.

Crops of corn, wheat and clover on this farm and in this section shows this land to be highly productive, level and well cared for. Mr. Jones has set out a small tract of tobacco just to see how it will cure on this land.

Greensburg is the county seat of Decatur county, where a tree is seen growing out of the top of the cupola on the court house. At certain seasons of the year the branches are trimmed and cut into small pieces and sold as souvenirs. No one seems able to explain just how this tree started its growth on top of this building or what keeps it alive. Needless to say this sight attracts considerable attention of tourists as nothing like it is in existence in this country.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

The Petersburg Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. J. B. Berkshire last Thursday.

The last lesson on slip covers was given and two box cushions were finished. This has been a very interesting course.

In July the club plans to have a picnic. Final plans were made for the exhibit at the fair. Plans were made for the other meetings during the summer.

Don't forget to be on hand for the picnic next month.

Thanks

Mr. Ed Berkshire of near Burlington sent The Recorder a quart of strawberries last week, which were very delicious. The strawberries were of the Chesapeake variety, some of which were as large as a half-dollar.

Mr. Berkshire has been growing strawberries for several years and at one time was the largest commercial grower in the county. This year he grew only one acre, caring for himself, and picking and picking the entire lot. He is 82.

We wish to thank Mr. Berkshire for the berries, and hope that he will be growing them for many years to come.

4-H Club Junior Week Held June 5-10

Nine hundred outstanding 4-H club members from over the entire state attended Junior Week, University of Kentucky, June 5-10. The ten members from Boone county who attended reported a very interesting time, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. The program was built around the theme "Bringing the University to the Farm". The boys attended classes which dealt with interesting farm topics while the girls were occupied with home problems.

The day's program included outstanding speakers on various subjects, a class period and recreation period. In the evening group vesper services were held after which some definite entertainment was planned.

Friday the entire group visited the capital at Frankfort. A tour of the various state offices, the state museum and the Governor's mansion was conducted while there.

U. S. BUYS MORE FRENCH

United States purchases of French wines and liquors have sharply expanded during the current year compared with 1938, according to a report received in the Louisville District Office of the Department of Commerce. Declared exports to the American market of alcoholic beverages from Bordeaux, the chief wine-shipping port of France, during the first quarter of 1939, amounted to 265,211 gallons valued at $1,043,383 compared with 159,573 gallons valued at $696,967 during the corresponding period of last year. During the first twenty-four days of April of the current year, alcohol beverages shipped from Bordeaux to the United States totaled 64,703 gallons valued at $348,239, an increase of 6,585 gallons and $164,848 compared with the corresponding 1938 period. Cognac and other brands accounted for approximately 85 per cent of the April shipments.

THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to everyone who helped in any way in the production of our play on last Tuesday night. Especially do we wish to thank the business people who helped us by advertising through our program and those who took part in the cast.

NEW RADIO COURSE TO BE FEATURE OF LARGE SUMMER SCHOOL AT U. K.

A three-credit course in the "Problems of Radio Broadcasting" for teachers, professional men and women and citizens interested in the field will be an inaugural feature of the 1939 summer term at the University of Kentucky which opened Monday, June 12, and continues through the first five weeks of the two terms. The course will be supervised by E. G. Sulzer, director of radio at the University of Kentucky, who as the course progresses, will bring to the classroom members of the staff of radio station WHAS, Louisville, who will cooperate in the presentation of those fields in which they have specialized.

Paul Sullivan, nationally known news commentator with the staff of WHAS will be one of the featured lecturers at the radio course. Registration for this course, or any other course to be presented during the first five weeks of the two-term summer session at the University of Kentucky, will continue through Monday, June 19, that being the last date upon which a student may register for credit in the first term.

An athletic coaching school from August 7 to August 10, will be a feature of the second term of the University summer school, which opens July 17 and closes August 19. Bernie Bierman, head football coach at the University of Minnesota will teach at this school, as will Bert Ingwersen of Northwestern, and Adolph Rupp and Ab Kirwan of the University of Kentucky.

Approximately 50 visiting educators from all sections of the country, as well as a resident faculty of 200, will teach in the 1939 Summer Session at the University of Kentucky.

$25,000 STOCK OF FURNITURE

WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION

The Factory Liquidators, 127 Pike St., Covington, announce in this issue of The Recorder that $25,000 worth of factory close-out furniture will be sold at auction on the premises Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week. There will be two sales daily, 2:30 p. m. and 7 p. m., with R. M. Lucas, auctioneer.

Twenty-five dollars' worth of prizes will be given free at the opening of each sale. The furniture stock consists of bedroom, living room, dining room and kitchen outfits, dressers, vanities, chests, wardrobes, beds, buffets, china, servers, dining room tables and chairs and hundreds of other items.

FARMERS INSPECT CROP EXPERIMENTS

More than 1,100 farmers from 63 counties attended the spring meeting at the experiment fields which the Agricultural Experiment Station operates at Greenville, Campbellsville, Paris and Berea.

In addition to seeing how lime and phosphate improved crop production in the tests which have been conducted for 20 or more years, the farmers this year inspected tests made in cooperation with the Tennessee Valley Authority in which different forms of phosphate fertilizer were used. Wheat and clover were better where phosphate was used on both limed and unlimed land.

Good bluegrass sod where phosphate had been applied on limed land, at both Greenville and Campbellsville, attracted attention.

4-H CLUB LEADERS PLAN CONFERENCES

About 300 men and women who act as volunteer 4-H club leaders in Kentucky will attend three conferences this month to review club work and discuss programs for the year. Among subjects to be considered are music, recreation, contests, shows and fairs. The conferences will be June 19-21, at Camp Fahoma in Fayette county, for central counties; June 22-24, at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand, for Eastern Kentucky, and June 28-30, at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton, for western counties.

As yet we haven't found the mirror which would enable us to see ourselves as others see us. One of our common complaints is that we do more worrying about what the world owes us and less about what we owe the world.

THE GARDEN

A NUMBER OF THINGS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky

College of Agriculture

Mexican Bean Beetle.—To date, four complaints have been sent in about the true Mexican bean beetle, the holes in the leaves angular, instead of roundish as the Southern bean beetle has been making. By the time this column appears, the Mexican bean beetle may be present in full force, and this reminder is given gardeners to be increasingly on the alert, so that control measures may move forward with no delay.

Briefly, they are, to have at hand a duster or a sprayer with an up-turned nozzle to put the material where it must always be put; to have calcium arsenate ready, depending on whether dust is to be used or liquid spray. Arsenates may be used safely until pods begin setting, after which rotenone or pyrethrum should be substituted, which, though deadly to insects, carry no danger of poisoning human-kind. The other feature of Mexican beetle control is to maintain the proper schedule, which is to spray or dust immediately the first eggs are laid, then to repeat in ten days, and to make assurance doubly sure, in five to ten days again.

Kentucky Extension Circular No. 401 carries full details. It may be obtained free from the county agent or by writing the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

Striped Cucumber Beetle.—Calls and letters about this insect have been numerous, and although the control of this pest is simple, it is that carried out while the seedlings are breaking through, much may still be done to alleviate this pest's ravages. A dust is recommended, made of gypsum 18 parts and calcium arsenate, one part. This is sifted through a sack, always about the center of the hill. The schedule is every three days, and immediately after each shower until at least 15 days have passed. For cucumbers, the dusting may be continued, at least, up to sixty days. But Kentucky Extension Circular 262, to be obtained in the same way as the other, gives complete directions.

Bordeaux Mixture.—A few weeks ago was described a way for gardeners to make their own Bordeaux mixture to help the vines crops by saving the leaves at the center of the hills, to help fruit size, amount and quality. It would also reduce the number of "sun-burned" tomatoes, by helping the plant retain its lower leaves.

There will be more fruit, too, as a result of saving the foliage, which feeds the fruit, on any plant. Bordeaux could conceivably add a few bushels to the potato crop now making, by deterring the premature killing of vines by blight. Bordeaux is almost indispensable in keeping eggplants alive, to save them from flea-beetles and blight. It could also be used on beans, for leaf spot, soon, and "rust" later with magnesium arsenate added, the combination would stop the Mexican beetle, as well, if properly applied.

Gardeners who have not used Bordeaux should make its acquaintance, to be agreeably surprised to learn how valuable a garden aid this spray is. In Kentucky Extension Circular 309 are found complete directions for making Bordeaux and using it.

In canning fried chicken, do not roll nor pack too tight. Pre-cook in hot fat or broil until nicely browned. Season, allowing a teaspoon of salt per pound of meat, and pack while hot in hot jars. Partly seal glass jars, process and completely seal.

The farm dam should be located where the subsoil is light and nearly impervious to water. Avoid locations over gravel, sand or rock containing seams or layers. (The nature of the soil can be determined by the use of a soil auger or post-hole digger.)

Eggs or mixtures containing a good deal of egg should be cooked slowly at a low temperature, so that they will be tender when done. Children enjoy scrambled eggs, hard cooked and served with white sauce or made into omelets.

The pastor, Rev. Robert R. Rose of the M. E. Church, Florence and Walton will attend the Kentucky Conference annual school and retreat for pastors, which will be held at Kentucky Wesleyan College Winchester, this week, June 12-17.

Death has again cast its gloom over our community, taking an esteemed citizen, Mrs. Lilla Paddock from our midst. She was the beloved wife of Mr. Ben Paddock, of Hebron, whose spirit was wafted to the celestial shore on Sunday, June 4. Her death was the closing chapter of a well spent life in which time and the impression of her character was most indelibly stamped on the community in which she lived and where she was so universally loved. Being blessed with the charity that fed the hungry, comforted the sick and sorrowing and a loving disposition that endeared her to old and young. Her passing, while not altogether unexpected, for she had been ill for several years, came as a shock to everyone. She was energetic and industrious and led a busy life until about six weeks before her death. She was never too tired to meet her husband at the door, and the welcome she gave him at the threshold of their home for several score years is a beautiful remembrance which he will carry during the remaining years that are left to him. She will be greatly missed in the community and the Lutheran church of which she was a member. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her passing a number of relatives and loving friends. To her aged companion and relatives we extend our heartfelt sympathy, realizing that were words are of little consolation in this sad hour, but their loss is her eternal gain, for the beautiful ship has come in—A Friend.

Harold Aylor and wife spent a pleasant evening on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Snelling and children, of Hebron.

The many friends of Mrs. Fannie Clutterbuck regret to learn of her illness at her residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Elby Dringeburg moved to Dortha Ave., to the property Thursday which they recently purchased. We are glad to welcome them into our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Aylor and daughter Evelyn moved last week to the Stanley Lucas property on Shelby St.

Mrs. J. B. Respass of the Dixie Highway and Mrs. L. Montgomery returned home from Cleveland, O., where they have spent a week with Mr. Respass. During Mrs. Respass' absence her niece, Miss Mary Campbell, who lives with her was the guest of Miss Kuper Lee Hood, of Park Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cason had for their guest the past week, Mrs. Cason's mother from Aurora, Ind.

The many friends of Mrs. Henrietta (Coyle) Roberts regret to learn of her illness at her home in Devon. Her many friends here wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lymna Rice were called to Middletown, Ohio, on account of the death of her brother, Robert Conner.

This community extends sympathy to the Conner family in the death of their beloved husband and father, Robert Conner, who passed away last Sunday after a heart attack at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. His wife, Lottie (Riddle) Conner and three daughters survive. Services were held at the home, Middletown, O., on Friday afternoon.

First Sign Of Foot Trouble

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at
AT PEOPLES' FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison, Covington

Usually the first sign of foot trouble is the running over of the heels of shoes.

In a strong healthy human foot the 26 bones are held together to form a substantial support for the weight of the body and they are held together in place by strong ligaments, tendons, and muscles.

These bones are so arranged that they form four separate and natural arches.

The heel bone and ankle bone lean out of position more or less in almost every kind of foot trouble.

The cause is that ligaments, muscles and tendons which hold the heel bone and ankle bone in place, become weakened, and are not strong enough to hold those bones in their normal position.

Backache, headache, and many body ills may be traced to feet. Even symptoms like those of rheumatism and arthritis now are being banished with proper shoes. Also nervous indigestion, sleepless nights, etc., are sometimes traceable to foot troubles. If you suffer with foot ills of any kind, come for a free analysis of your feet. No obligation at all. We'll be glad to help you and you'll walk in Health with Happy Feet.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—Home on the Prairie Sun. and Mon.—Love Affair Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21, 22—The Ice Follies of 1939

Timeliness characterizes the current trend in Westerns. The

Gene Autry picture, which consistently win high favor for the Republic lot, usually have some absorbing topic for current headlines for their theme.

"Home on the Prairie," which is to be shown at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday, deals with the hoof-and-mouth disease which every year is the subject of grave concern among western cattlemen.

The story opens with Gene and his ubiquitous pal Smiley Burnette in charge of the State Animal and Agricultural Commission which examines cattle before being shipped to the stockyards.

A few unscrupulous ranchers, discovering the weaknesses of the herd, attempt to get them past the barrier. Thwarted by Gene and Smiley, they plot to change the brands on their cattle and then smuggle them through as healthy animals. The plot is nipped in the bud by Gene and Smiley who find themselves in many a tight spot before the climax of the picture.

Powerful in its grip upon the human emotions, "Love Affair," one of the most interesting films of the year, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Sunday and Monday with Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer.

An engrossing story, brilliant dialogue, big emotional scenes—unforgettably sympathetic—contribute to the dramatic sweep of this poignant romance of two intuitive and highly intelligent people who are able to analyze their own hearts—and brave enough to do something about it.

Miss Dunne plays the role of a woman of the world; Boyer is seen as a Continental Casanova.

Hitting a new high in entertainment "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Joan Crawford with Jas. Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21, and 22nd.

"The Ice Follies of 1939" contains the happy combination of plot, extravaganza, and some of the best tunes to come out of Hollywood this season. It features Joan Crawford in the type of role which sky-rocketed her to screen fame, and in addition introduces her to audiences as a new find in film songstresses.

The story centers about Mary McKay, a singing ice skater who, through a series of strange twists of fate, finds herself on the top rung of the ladder to film fame. Her quick ascent, however, leaves husband Jimmie Stewart behind and the manner in which the two are finally reunited supplies plenty of punch to the dramatic action of the story.

One thing to say in favor of laundries, even if they do put too much starch in your collar, they still don't wear your shirt to a dance.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

"Stagecoach," with Claire Trevor, John Ford, Andy Devine, Friday and Saturday, June 16th and 17th. Insulted and reviled, she boarded the stagecoach with eight hostile travelers who never dreamed of the strange hours ahead that would prove her the bravest of them all. Every emotion you can feel demands that you see this picture. Excitement thunders across the screen to answer your craving for adventure. Danger holds you in its tenses grip... and never lets you go.

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy," with Edw. G. Robinson, Francis Lederer, Paul Lukas, Sunday, June 18th. This is a melodramatic relation of the screen of events spread in headlines not many months ago. That story, incredible in its revelations of amateur and bungling but widespread spy activities conducted in close connection with intensive, energetic and closely controlled propaganda through the Nazi-American bonds, follows faithfully, naming names and depicting places as the newspapers told the story, the confessions and grand jury testimony of four Nazis now in federal prison for espionage and of two others who returned to Germany under sinister circumstances before the trial started in New York. The revealing nature of this picture is a plea for the defense of our principles; its theme is that Nazism and Nazi propaganda constitute a threat to these principles, and its aim is to create in audiences an awareness of this menace and to arouse them to a defense against this or similar attacks.

"The Terror of Tiny Town," with Billy Curtis, Jed Buell's mid-gets, Monday, June 19th. World's smallest people in the year's biggest novelty. First all-midget show ever filmed. They fight—sing—love. Half-pinks in ten-gallon hats... a hundred happy Tom Thumbs in a bigtime hit.

"Fiddlin' Buckaroo," with Ken Maynard, Gloria Shea, Tuesday, June 20th. A different western drama whose cowboy music will enthrall you as its blazing action excites you. It's great.

"Yes, My Darling Daughter," with Fay Bainter, Priscilla Lane, Jeffrey Lynn, Roland Young, May Robson, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter, Wednesday, June 21st. Mother was certainly no icicle on a bicycle, and grandma in those covered wagons was... And, of course, "The Copper," checked, past. (Ecotoplasma) so who was there to blame Priscilla when she fell for Jeffrey? Only father—and he was glad—glad that he didn't have four daughters just like her.

"Inside Story," with Michael Whalen, Jean Rogers, Chick Chandler, Thursday, June 22nd. Two excitement-seeking, romantic-minded reporters go looking for New York's loneliest girl... and find Broadway's most dangerous woman and the year's most sensational story.

F. F. A. NEWS
Mr. Huey, the F. F. A. advisor attended the Agriculture Teacher's Conference June 4th to the 8th. The conference was held at the P. F. A. State camp at Hardinsburg. Speakers from Oklahoma, Washington, D. C., and Kentucky spoke the following subjects: Advertising, the Department of Agriculture, Improving Physical Make-up of the Dept., and Farm Practice Supervision.

Main business of the conference was to redirect the agriculture schools. Hebron is now in the Northern Kentucky District. To show what F. F. A. boys are doing in the way of farming we will view Bobby Grant's project. Bob's project is turkeys. He has 23 hens, which laid over 1,000 eggs since March 15th. He is planning to raise about 500 turkeys this year and is raising them according to the latest agriculture bulletin recommendations.

4-H Delegation Tell Of Trip To Junior Week

We, the delegates of Boone County wish to tell our fellow 4-H Club members of the nice time we had at Junior Week. Boone county was fortunate in sending ten members.

We left Burlington Monday morning and arrived in Lexington Monday about one o'clock. After lunch we went walking and had a very nice time. We went to vesper each morning and night. The speakers were the best I have ever heard. We were very fortunate in having Mr. Campbell as our song leader.

Our meals were served to us in the Student Union Building. Both boys and girls had different classes to attend and all of them proved very interesting. The ones we girls enjoyed most was the study of birds. We were very glad that Miss Mildred King of Walton entered her bird exhibit at Lexington. Her exhibit had many own.

kinds of nests and the life of different birds.

We wish to thank Mr. Drake for showing us such a nice time. We attended a show Thursday afternoon and ten is quite a lot to take care of, but Mr. Drake handled the crowd very efficiently. We only wish there had been ten more.

Friday afternoon we went to the State Capitol at Frankfort. There were twenty-six large school busses to furnish transportation. This was one of the most beautiful things that any of us had seen. Both the old and new Capitol buildings were beautiful. Some of the members went through A. B. Chandler's home, which was very interesting. We were unable to stay as long as we desired, due to rain that delayed us on our way to Frankfort.

We, the members of Boone county wish to thank all of those who made our trip possible and also those who were so kind to us. But most of all we wish to thank Mr. Drake for his efficient handling in the manner in which we were entertained, and we only hope more can attend next year, for no one will ever know how much fun one can have until they attend Junior Week at one of the greatest universities in the world. The people there were grand. Thanks a lot for everyone making our trip such a success—we enjoyed it a lot.

WORKERS URGED TO DISPLAY SOCIAL SECURITY CARD TO EMPLOYERS

The surest way to obtain full and prompt credit for all wages covered by the old-age insurance system is to show your original Social Security card to employers at the time of taking a new job.

This advice is given by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security Board Field Office in Covington, Kentucky. In a statement covering this point, Mr. Decker said today:

"The employer should have not only the Social Security number of every worker, taken direct from the card issued by the Old-Age Insurance Bureau, but also should have the spelling of the worker's name as it appears on this card, at the time the employer reports the wages of his workers who are covered for old age insurance, delay is likely to result in posting the credits to the wage accounts of such individuals."

"Errors may easily be made where the number is copied on an old piece of paper or some other article. Our recommendation to workers is, therefore, that they show their Social Security card to their employers, and have the latter record both the number and the worker's name as it appears on the card. If there is an error in the name it may be corrected through our office. The worker should always keep the original card, however, as it is his personal property."

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR LAMBS AT LOUISVILLE LAMB DAY

The immense buying power and broad outlet for lambs at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville were again demonstrated at the Louisville June Lamb Day celebration held at this terminal market last Thursday. Despite the fact that heavy rains resulted in wet fleeces and a less favorable appearance of the lambs themselves, quality in general was considered high by the many packer buyers present who purchased freely at 11½ cents a pound. Most active among the buyers were those from the large Chicago packing houses of Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Wilson with aggressive competition from such local packers as E. L. German, the Louisville Packer Co., Vissman, Fischer, Klarer, Kroger Baking Co., and numerous smaller butchers.

Independent buyers from as far distant as Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City would also be present, purchased liberally if more lambs had been available. E. L. German, president of the Bourbon Stock Yards estimated that lamb receipts during the opening day of Louisville's June lamb market would have been triple the volume actually received if it had not been for heavy rains.

Four hundred dollars in cash prizes were awarded lamb shippers, truckmen and other contestants. P. L. Mathis received a cash prize of $30 for shipping two carloads of lambs originating at Harrodsburg, Miss. 662 miles distant. R. C. Miller, sheep specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture selected a choice lamb for shipment to President Roosevelt. A radio program was broadcast over station WHAS from the sheep house at the Bourbon Stock Yards during the celebration. Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times and one of the radio speakers, emphasized the importance of sheep to the farm as a source of income and as a means of conserving soil, stating that Louisville's terminal market would absorb several times $3,000,000 worth of lambs annually if available.

There are some folks who would rather profit by the mistakes of their acquaintances than by their own.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE
Ham With Orange Sauce—6 slices ham, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups fresh orange juice. Fry ham in hot skillet. Add flour to 2 tablespoons of fat from pan. Add orange juice, stirring well to avoid lumps. Cook 5 minutes or until sauce is thick. Pour sauce around ham on serving dish. Serve with toast and hot coffee.

WHAT ARE TERMITES?

Termites, like bees and ants, live in colonies. Their general appearance is so nearly like ants that they are commonly called "White Ants." During a short period in their life cycle, they have wings and are blackish in color and may be very often seen in the Spring and Summer. However, during their life span as workers, they are wingless and not usually observed out of their colony.

The presence of the insects in the timbers of a house or barn is frequently revealed to the owner through the appearance of the swarms of winged, black, ant-like individuals. This should serve to warn the owner that a colony is established and the infected area should be treated with NO D-K.

A quick, easy and cheap way to stop or prevent termites, dry rot and decay is to use NO D-K Solignum.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—Home on the Prairie Sun. and Mon.—Love Affair Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21, 22—The Ice Follies of 1939

Timeliness characterizes the current trend in Westerns. The

Gene Autry picture, which consistently win high favor for the Republic lot, usually have some absorbing topic for current headlines for their theme.

"Home on the Prairie," which is to be shown at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday, deals with the hoof-and-mouth disease which every year is the subject of grave concern among western cattlemen. The story opens with Gene and his ubiquitous pal Smiley Burnette in charge of the State Animal and Agricultural Commission which examines cattle before being shipped to the stockyards. A few unscrupulous ranchers, discovering the weaknesses of their herds, attempt to get them past the barrier. Thwarted by Gene and Smiley, they plot to change the brands on their cattle and then smuggle them through as healthy animals. The plot is nipped in the bud by Gene and Smiley who find themselves in a tight spot before the climax of the picture.

Powerful in its grip upon the human emotions, "Love Affair," one of the most interesting films of the year, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Sunday and Monday with Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer.

An engrossing story, brilliant dialogue, big emotional scenes—all unforgettable sympathetic—contribute to the dramatic sweep of this poignant romance of two intuitive and highly intelligent people who are able to analyze their own hearts and brave enough to do something about it. Miss Dunne plays the role of a woman of the world; Boyer is seen as a Continental Casanova.

Hitting a new high in entertainment "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Joan Crawford with Jas. Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone, will be shown at the Gayety Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21, and 22nd.

"The Ice Follies of 1939" contains the happy combination of plot, extravaganza, and some of the best tunes to come out of Hollywood this season. It features Joan Crawford in the type of role which sky-rocketed her to screen fame, and in addition introduces her to audiences as a new find in film songstresses.

The story centers about Mary McKay, a singing ice skater who, through a series of strange twists of fate, finds herself on the top rung of the ladder to film fame. Her quick ascent, however, leaves her husband Jimmie Stewart behind and the manner in which the two are finally reunited supplies plenty of punch to the dramatic action of the story.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

"Stagecoach," with Claire Trevor, John Ford, Andy Devine, Friday and Saturday, June 16th and 17th. Insulted and reviled, she boarded the stagecoach with eight hostile travelers who never dreamed of the strange hour ahead that would prove her the bravest of them all. Every emotion you can feel demands that you see this picture. Excitement thunders across the screen to answer your craving for adventure. Danger holds you in the tensest grip and never lets you go.

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy," with Edw. G. Robinson, Francis Lederer, Paul Lukas, Sunday, June 18th. This is a melodramatic relation of the action of espionage spread in headlines not many months ago. That story, incredible in its revelations of amateur and bungling but widespread spy activity conducted in close connection with intensive, energetic and closely controlled propaganda through the Nazi-American bonds, follows faithfully, naming names and depicting the story, the confessions and grand jury testimony of four Nazis now in federal prison for espionage and of two others who returned to Germany under similar circumstances before the trial started in New York. The overriding note of this picture is a plea for the defense of our principles; its theme is that Nazism and its propaganda constitute a threat to these principles, and its aim is to create in audiences an awareness of this menace and to arouse them to a defense against this or similar attacks.

"The Terror of Tiny Town," with Billy Curtis, Ted Dugan's mid-gets, Monday, June 19th. World's smallest people... year's biggest novelty. First all-midget show ever filmed. They fight—sing—love. Half-pinks in ten-gallon hats... a hunkin' happy Tom Thumbs in a lifetime hit.

"Fiddlin' Buckaroo," with Ken Maynard, Gloria Shea, Tuesday, June 20th. A different western drama whose cowboy music will enthrall you as its blazing action excites you. It's great.

"Yes, My Darling Daughter," with Fay Bainter, Priscilla Lane, Jeffrey Lynn, Roland Young, May Robson, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter, Wednesday, June 21st. Mother was certainly no icicle on a bicycle, and grandma in those covered wagons was—wow. And, of course, she was a "opper" checked, past. (Ecotoplasma) so who was there to blame Priscilla when she fell for Jeffrey's only father—and he was glad—glad that he didn't have four daughters just like her.

"Inside Story," with Michael Whalen, Jean Rogers, Chick Chandler, Thursday, June 22nd. Two excitement-seeking, romantic-minded reporters go looking for New York's loneliest girl... and find Broadway's most dangerous woman and the year's most sensational story.

Mr. Huey, the F. F. A. advisor attended the Agriculture Teacher's Conference June 4th to the 8th. The conference was held at the F. F. A. State camp at Hardinsburg. Speakers from Oklahoma, Washington, D. C., and Kentucky spoke the following subjects: Advertising, the Department of Agriculture, Improving Physical Make-up of the Dept., and Farm Practice Supervision.

Main business of the conference was to resist the agriculture schools. Hebron is now in the Northern Kentucky District. To show what F. F. A. boys are doing in the way of farming we will view Bobby Grant's project. Bob's project is turkeys. He has 25 hens, which laid over 1,000 eggs since March 15th. He is planning to raise about 500 turkeys this year and is raising them according to the latest agriculture bulletin recommendations.

4-H Delegation Tell Of Trip To Junior Week

We, the delegates of Boone county wish to tell our fellow 4-H Club members of the nice time we had at Junior Week. Boone county was fortunate in sending ten members.

We left Burlington Monday morning and arrived in Lexington Monday about one o'clock. After lunch we went walking and had a very nice time. We went to vesper each morning and night. The speakers were the best I have ever heard. We were very fortunate in having Mr. Campbell as our song leader.

Our meals were served to us in the Student Union Building. Both boys and girls had different classes to attend and all of them proved very interesting. The ones of girls enjoyed most was the study of birds. We were very glad that Miss Mildred King of Walton entered her bird exhibit at Lexington. Her exhibit had many birds of nests and the life of different birds.

We wish to thank Mr. Drake for showing us such a nice time. We attended a show Thursday afternoon and ten is quite a lot to take care of, but Mr. Drake handled the crowd very efficiently. We only wish there had been ten more.

Friday afternoon we went to the State Capitol at Frankfort. There were twenty-six large school buses to furnish transportation. This was one of the most beautiful things that any of us had seen. Both the old and new Capitol buildings were beautiful. Some of the members went through A. B. Chandler's home, which was very interesting. We were unable to stay as long as we desired, due to rain that delayed us on our way to Frankfort.

We, the members of Boone county wish to thank all of those who made our trip possible and also those who were so kind to us. But most of all we wish to thank Mr. Drake and Mr. Forkner for the fine manner in which we were entertained, and we only hope more of these things will be planned. We will never know how much fun one can have until they attend Junior Week at one of the greatest Universities in the world. The people there were grand. Thanks a lot for everyone making our trip such a success—enjoyed it a lot.

Ardele Tupman, 4-H Member.

WORKERS URGED TO DISPLAY SOCIAL SECURITY CARD TO EMPLOYERS

The surest way to obtain full and prompt credit for all wages covered under the old age insurance system is to show your original Social Security card to employers at the time of taking a new job.

This advice is given by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security Board Field Office in Covington, Kentucky. In a statement covering this point, Mr. Decker said today:

"The employer should have not only the Social Security number of every worker, taken direct from the card issued by the Old-Age Insurance Bureau, but also should have the spelling of the worker's name as it appears on this card, at the time the employer reports on the wages of his workers who are covered for old age insurance, delay is likely to result in posting the credits to the wage accounts of such individuals.

"Errors may easily be made when the number is copied on an old piece of paper or some other article. Our recommendation to workers is, therefore, that they show their Social Security card to their employers, and have the latter record both the number and the worker's name as it appears on the card. If there is an error in the name it may be corrected through our office. The worker should always keep the original card, however, as it is his personal property."

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR LAMBS AT LOUISVILLE LAMB DAY

The immense buying power and broad outlet for lambs at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville were again demonstrated at the Louisville June Lamb Day celebration held at this terminal market last Thursday. Despite the fact that heavy rains resulted in wet fleeces and a less favorable appearance of the lambs themselves, quality in general was considered high by the many packer buyers present who purchased freely at 11½ cents a pound. Most active among the buyers were those from the large Chicago packing houses of Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Wilson with aggressive competition from such local packers as Emmart, Louisville Provision Co., Vissman, Fischer, Klarer, Kroger Baking Co., and numerous smaller butchers.

Independent buyers from as far distant as Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Baltimore and the Jersey City would also have purchased liberally if more lambs had been available. E. L. German, president of the Bourbon Stock Yards estimated that lamb receipts during the opening day of Louisville's June lamb market would have been triple the volume actually received if it had not been for heavy rains.

Four hundred dollars in cash prizes were awarded lamb shippers, truckmen and other contestants. P. L. Mathis received a cash prize of $30 for shipping two carloads of lambs by rail from these yards originating at Harbison, Miss., 662 miles distant. R. C. Miller, sheep specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture selected a choice lamb for shipment to President Roosevelt. A radio address was broadcast over station WHAS from the sheep house at the Bourbon Stock Yards during the celebration. Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times and one of the radio speakers, emphasized the importance of sheep to the farmer as a source of income and as a means of conserving soil, stating that Louisville's terminal market would absorb several times $3,000,000 worth of lambs annually if available.

There are some folks who would rather profit by the mistakes of their acquaintances than by their own.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—Home on the Prairie
Sun. and Mon.—Love Affair
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday,
June 20, 21, 22—The Ice
Follies of 1939

Timeliness characterizes the current trend in Westerns. The

Gene Autry picture, which consistently win high favor for the Republic lot, usually have some absorbing topic for current headlines for their theme.

"Home on the Prairie," which is to be shown at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday, deals with the hoof-and-mouth disease which every year is the subject of grave concern among western cattlemen.

The story opens with Gene and his ubiquitous pal Smiley Burnette in charge of the State Animal and Agricultural Commission, which examines cattle before being shipped to the stockyards.

A few unscrupulous ranchers, discovering the necessity of the care of the State Animal and Agricultural Commission, attempt to get them past the barrier. Thwarted by Gene and Smiley, they plot to change the brands on their cattle and then smuggle them through as healthy animals. The plot is nipped in the bud by Gene and Smiley who find themselves in many a tight spot before the climax of the picture.

Powerful in its grip upon the human emotions, "Love Affair," one of the most interesting films of the year, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Sunday and Monday with Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer.

An engrossing story, brilliant dialogue, big emotional scenes—all unforgettably sympathetic—contribute to the dramatic sweep of this poignant romance of two intuitive and highly intelligent people who are able to analyze their own hearts—and brave enough to do something about it. Miss Dunne plays the role of a woman of the world; Boyer is seen as a Continental Casanova.

Hitting a new high in entertainment "The Ice Follies of 1939" starring Joan Crawford with Jas. Stewart, Lew Ayres and Lewis Stone, will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 20, 21, and 22nd.

"The Ice Follies of 1939" contains the happy combination of plot, extravaganzas, and some of the best times to come out of Hollywood this season. It features Joan Crawford in the type of role which sky-rocketed her to screen fame, and in addition introduces her to audiences as a new find in film songstresses.

The story centers about Mary McKay, a singing ice skater who, through a series of strange twists of fate, finds herself on the top rung of the ladder to film fame. Her quick ascent, however, leaves husband Jimmie Stewart behind and the manner in which the two are finally reunited supplies plenty of punch to the dramatic action of the story.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

"Stagecoach," with Claire Trevor, John Ford, Andy Devine, Friday and Saturday, June 16th and 17th. Insults and reviled, she boarded the stagecoach with eight hostile travelers who never dreamed of the strange hours ahead that would prove her the bravest of them all. Every emotion you can feel demands that you see this picture. Excitement thunders across the screen to answer your craving for adventure. Danger holds you in its tenses grip and never lets you go.

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy," with Edw. G. Robinson, Francis Lederer, Paul Lukas, Sunday, June 18th. This is a melodramatic relation of the screen of events spread in headlines not many months ago. That story, incredible in its revelation of amateur and bungling but widespread spy activity conducted in close connection with the Nazi-American bunds, follows faithfully, naming names and depicting places as the newspapers told the story, the confessions and grand jury testimony of four Nazis now in federal prison for espionage and of two others who returned to Germany under similar circumstances before the trial started in New York.

The overriding note of this picture is a plea for the defense of our principles; its theme is that Nazism and Nazi propaganda constitute a threat to these principles, and its aim is to create in audiences an awareness of this menace and to arouse them to a defense against this or similar attacks.

"The Terror of Tiny Town," with Billy Curtis, Ted Buell's worlds, Monday, June 19th. World's smallest town was the year's biggest novelty. First all-midget show ever filmed. They fight—sing—love. Half-pints in ten-gallon hats... a hundred happy Tom Thumbs in a bigtime hit.

"Fiddlin' Buckaroo," with Ken Maynard, Gloria Shea, Tuesday, June 20th. A different western drama whose cowboy music will enthrall you as its blazing action excites you. It's great.

"Yes, My Darling Daughter," with Fay Bainter, Priscilla Lane, Jeffrey Lynn, Roland Young, May Robson, Genevieve Tobin and Ian Hunter, Wednesday, June 21st. Mother was certainly no icicle on a bicycle, and grandma in those covered wagons was—wow. And of course, the "copper" checked, past. (Ectoplasm) so who was there to blame Priscilla when she fell for Jeffrey. Only father—and he was glad—glad that he didn't have four daughters just like her.

"Inside Story," with Michael Whalen, Jean Rogers, Chick Chandler, Thursday, June 22nd. Two excitement-seeking, romantic-minded sporters go looking for New York's loneliest girl. And find Broadway's most dangerous woman and the year's most sensational story.

F. F. A. NEWS

Mr. Hury, the F. F. A. advisor attended the Agriculture Teachers' Conference June 4th to the 8th. The conference was held at the F. F. A. State camp at Hardinsburg. Speakers from Oklahoma, Washington, D. C., and Kentucky spoke the following subjects: Advertising, the Department of Agriculture, Improving Physical Make-up of the Dept., and Farm Practice Supervision.

Main business of the conference was to redistribute the agriculture schools. Hebron is now in the Northern Kentucky District.

To show what F. F. A. boys are doing in the way of farming we will view Bobby Grant's project. Bob's project is turkeys. He has 23 hens, which laid over 1,000 eggs since March 15th. He is planning to raise about 500 turkeys this year and is raising them according to the latest agriculture bulletin recommendations.

4-H Delegation Tell Of Trip To Junior Week

We, the delegates of Boone county, wish to tell our fellow 4-H Club members of the nice time we had at Junior Week. Boone county was fortunate in sending ten members.

We left Burlington Monday morning and arrived in Lexington Monday about one o'clock. After lunch we went walking and had a very nice time. We went to resper each morning and night. The speakers were the best I have ever heard. We were very fortunate in having Mr. Campbell as our song leader.

Our meals were served to us in the Student Union Building. Both boys and girls had different classes to attend and all of them proved very interesting. The ones we girls enjoyed most was the class of singing. We were very glad that Miss Mildred King of Walton entered her bird exhibit at Lexington. Her exhibit had many own.

kind of nests and the life of different birds.

We wish to thank Mr. Drake for showing us such a nice time. We attended a show Thursday afternoon and ten is quite a lot to take care of, but Mr. Drake handled the crowd very efficiently. We only wish there had been ten more. Friday afternoon we went to the State Capitol at Frankfort. There were twenty-six large school buses to furnish transportation. This was one of the most beautiful things that any of us had seen. Both the old and new Capitol buildings were beautiful. Some of the members went through A. B. Chandler's home, which was very interesting. We were unable to stay as long as we desired, due to rain that delayed us on our way to Frankfort.

We, the members of Boone county wish to thank all of those who made our trip possible and all those who were kind to us. But most of all we wish to thank Mr. Drake and Mr. Forkner for the fine manner in which we were entertained, and we only hope more can attend next year, for no one will ever know how much fun one can have until they attend Junior Week at one of the greatest Universities in the world. The people there were grand. Thanks a lot for everyone making our trip such a success—we enjoyed it a lot. Ardelle Tupman, 4-H Member.

WORKERS URGED TO DISPLAY SOCIAL SECURITY CARD TO EMPLOYERS

The surest way to obtain full and prompt credit for all wages covered under the old age insurance system is to show your original Social Security card to employers at the time of taking a new job.

This advice is given by Frank B. Decker, Manager of the Social Security Board Field Office in Covington, Kentucky. In a statement covering this point, Mr. Decker said today:

"The employer should have not only the Social Security number of every worker, taken direct from the card issued by the Old-Age Insurance Bureau, but also should have the spelling of the worker's name as it appears on this card, at the time the employer reports the wages of his workers who are covered for old age insurance, delay is the result. It is possible to get the credits to the wage accounts of such individuals.

"Errors may easily be made where the number is copied on an old piece of paper or some other article. Our recommendation to workers, therefore, that they show their Social Security card to their employers, and have the latter record both the number and the worker's name as it appears on the card. If there is an error in the name it may be corrected through our office. The worker should always keep the original card, however, as it is his personal property."

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR LAMBS AT LOUISVILLE LAMB DAY

The immense buying power and broad outlet for lambs at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville were again demonstrated at the Louisville June Lamb Day celebration held at this terminal market last Thursday. Despite the fact that heavy rains resulted in wet fleeces and a less favorable appearance of the lambs themselves, quality in general was considered high by the many packer buyers present who purchased a total of 11½ cents a pound. Most active among the buyers were those from the large Chicago packing houses of Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Wilson with aggressive competition from such local packers as Eumart, Louisville Poultry Co., Vissman, Fischer, Klauer, Krieger, Baking Co., and numerous smaller butchers.

Independent buyers from as far distant as Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City would also have been purchasing liberally if more lambs had been available. E. L. German, president of the Bourbon Stock Yards estimated that lamb receipts during the opening day of Louisville's June lamb market would have been triple the volume actually received if it had not been for heavy rains.

Four hundred dollars in cash prizes were awarded lamb shippers, truckmen and other contestants. P. L. Mathis received a cash prize of $30 for shipping two carloads of the record distance by rail, these lambs originating in Harrison, Miss., 662 miles distant. R. C. Miller, sheep specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture selected a choice lamb for shipment to President Roosevelt. A radio program was broadcast over station WLAS from the sheep house at the Bourbon Stock Yards during the celebration. Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times and one of the radio speakers, emphasized the importance of sheep to the farmer as a source of income and as a means of conserving soil, stating that Louisville's terminal market would absorb several times $3,000,000 worth of lambs annually if available.

There are some folks who would rather profit by the mistakes of their acquaintances than by their own.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Ham With Orange Sauce—6 slices ham, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups fresh orange juice. Fry ham in hot skillet. Add flour to 2 tablespoons of fat from pan. Add orange juice, stirring well to avoid lumps; cook 5 minutes or until sauce is thick. Pour sauce around ham on serving dish. Serve with toast and hot coffee.

WHAT ARE TERMITES?

Termites, like bees and ants, live in colonies. Their general appearance is so nearly like ants that they are commonly called "White Ants." During a short period in their life cycle, they have wings and are blackish in color and may be very often seen in the Spring and Summer. However, during their life span as workers, they are wingless and not usually observed out of their colony.

The presence of the insects in the timbers of a house or barn is frequently revealed to the owner through the appearance of the swarms of winged, black, ant-like individuals. This should serve to warn the owner that a colony is established and the infected area should be treated with NO D-K.

A quick, easy and cheap way to stop or prevent termites, dry rot and decay is to use NO D-K. Send for:

FREE SHOW FOR FOUR-H MEMBERS

AT BURLINGTON SCHOOL AUDITORIUM THURSDAY NIGHT "UNDER THE 4-H FLAG" IS TITLE OF PICTURE.

Two hours of talking pictures, featuring the film dramatization of the famous 4-H novel, "Under the 4-H Flag" will be shown free to the people of Boone county Thursday night at 8 o'clock C. S. T., according to an announcement made this week by H. B. Drake, assistant county agent.

The show will be given at Burlington School Mr. Drake said. There will be no admission charge and no free-will collection of any kind. The program was produced primarily in the interest of the 4-H movement but families and friends of 4-H members and all others interested in agriculture are invited to attend.

In addition to the six-reel feature picture, a 4-H newswear showing important events in the 4-H and agricultural calendar, an educational short called "Hidden Values" and a cartoon comedy will be shown.

Of further interest to those who attend the program is a contest whose award money totals $2,000 which is being held concurrently with the showing of the picture. The twenty-four counties whose attendance at the show is greatest in proportion to the county's rural population will share $2,000 in awards. The county winning first award will receive the first prize of $1,000 which will be turned over to the county club agent for use in 4-H programs.

The feature picture is an all-talking film version of the celebrated 4-H novel, "Under the 4-H Flag" by John F. Case, editor of the Missouri Ruralist and former president of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

The story is, in effect, the production of old-fashioned farming on the principles through a colorful and fast-moving drama. It has a lot of good sound constructive thinking about agriculture in general and 4-H in particular but it also has its share of dramatic thrills which involve the sinister doings of a gang of counterfeiters who have a secret rendezvous in a cave near an old farm where the hero—a boy who is just getting interested in 4-H work—and his family live. It moves at a rapid pace through mysterious warnings, shots in the dark, summer full of hotly contested 4-H projects and competitions, and reaches a smashing climax at the International Livestock Show in Chicago where the mystery is unraveled and the rascals brought to justice.

FARMERS ATTEND SHEEP MEETINGS

AT WILLIAMSTOWN AND LEXINGTON—MANY POINTS OF INTEREST DEMONSTRATED AT BOTH MEETINGS.

Boone county farmers were represented in two important sheep improvement meetings the past week, the district meeting at Williamstown on June 16th and the State meeting at Lexington on the 13th, according to H. R. Forkner county agent.

The demonstrations of breeding ewes and their lambs at the meetings indicated the most profitable breeding ewe for highest quality market lambs were the Hampshire Ramboulet, cross bred Montana range ewes crossed with purebred Southdown and Hampshire rams. The Southdown crossed ewes, the most experienced brought around 50 cents per hundred pounds higher, but the Hampshire crossed lambs produced more weight in less time and showed they were particularly adapted to early lambing. The Hampshire crossed lambs went down in quality after June 15th. The white faced Montana range ewes were second most profitable and native and Texas Merino ewes were least profitable in lamb production.

A complete list of all local farmers attending the meeting could not be secured. Among those attending the Williamstown meeting were, Chas. Hedges, J. C. Bedinger, John Adams, S. B. Sleet, John Conley, Joel Gray, William Ryle, R. P. Hughes and O. W. Creek. Those attending the Lexington meeting included Lee R. McNeely, H. E. White, S. B. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Ryle.

Grim Reaper Calls Walton Woman 93

Mrs. Janie Chambers, 93, Walton, one of Boone county's oldest citizens passed away at her home in Walton Wednesday.

She was the widow of Robert Chambers and leaves two sons and three daughters, Robert and Charles Chambers and Mrs. Nannie Ransom.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home, with interment in the Richmond cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Home-Made Ice Cream To Be Served On Lawn Of Florence M. E. Church

A home-made ice cream supper will be served on the front lawn of the Methodist Church at Florence, Ky., on Friday of this week, June 23, beginning at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and continuing on into the evening. Sandwiches, salads, baked beans, and lemonade, ice tea and coffee will also be served.

In the event of rainy weather the servings will be in the dining room of the church from 5:00 to 9:00 p. m.

JOHNSON RALLY SCHEDULED SAT.

WILL BE OPENING OF SPEAKING CAMPAIGN — SHELBYVILLE CHOSEN AS SITE FOR FIRST ADDRESS.

Louisville, Ky., June 21—Keen Johnson, Richmond newspaperman, will formally open his speaking campaign in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor before a rally of his supporters at the Shelby County fairgrounds, on the outskirts of Shelbyville, Saturday afternoon, June 24, at 2:15 o'clock.

Announcement of arrangements for the opening, which will mark the Lieutenant-Governor's first speech since the announcement of his candidacy in a radio address several weeks ago, was made by J. Lyter Donaldson, Carrollton, state campaign chairman for Johnson.

Congressman Virgil Chapman, of the Sixth Congressional district, dean of the Kentucky membership in the national house of representatives and chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic National Congressional Campaign committee, will introduce Johnson.

Congressman Ed Creal, of Hodgenville, in whose district the opening rally will be staged, is also a supporter of the Lieutenant-Governor but will be prevented from taking an active part owing to ill health.

Johnson's speech will be carried over a state-wide radio broadcast with Station WHAS, of Louisville, acting as the key station.

The fairgrounds near Shelbyville were selected after a number of other cities had been considered. Because of its adequate parking space, the large grounds which include a grandstand and scores of shade trees, the Shelby county site was selected, according to Chairman Donaldson.

Fairgrounds are located just outside the city limits of Shelbyville.

GRANT HOMEMAKERS

The Grant Homemakers Club met at the home of Mrs. Harold Rogers Thursday, June 15. There were quite a few members present and several visitors. Everyone present had a very enjoyable day, and profitable one as well.

We had our lesson on Slip Covers, which was a very interesting project.

Plans have not been completed for the picnic which will take the place of the regular meeting in July.

DRIVERS MUST UNDERGO TEST

WHEN APPLYING FOR DRIVERS LICENSE — WINTERBURN IN BURLINGTON EACH MONDAY TO GIVE TESTS.

Nick Winterburn, safety patrolman, of Boone and Kenton counties will be in Burlington Monday of each week to give applicants for drivers license a complete test. All drivers who have not obtained a license heretofore must undergo this test before licenses are issued.

Drivers who have not obtained their license in previous years or who have recently become drivers must have a general knowledge of the Kentucky traffic laws, must be able to read signs, have good vision, and be 16 years of older.

Drivers will be tested in making quick stops, backing 50 feet, hand brake stop, turn about, parking between cars, stop on grade, start on grade, shifting going down, use of horn, right of way, being overtaken, following other cars, keeping in lane and many other tests.

Mr. Winterburn stated Monday that he would be glad to furnish information concerning the test prior to examination, and has a number of pamphlets explaining Kentucky traffic laws and regulations which will be given to any driver in obtaining his license.

Christian Church Will Sponsor Fair

The Christian Church of Florence will sponsor a fair to be held in Virginia Goodridge's yard on Saturday, June 24th from 12:00 noon until 9:00 in the evening.

Refreshments will be served all day. A fish pond, mystery room and stringtown singing group will furnish entertainment for those who attend.

The church solicits your support and will appreciate any help in making this entertainment a success. Everybody invited.

Thirty-Five Chickens Stolen From Mrs. Spears

Thieves entered the chicken house of Mrs. May Spears, of Union Monday night, taking thirty-five chickens. Deputy Sheriff Williams stated that the chickens were driving a car which was parked on the old road near New Haven school. No clues were left by the thieves.

FERTILIZERS YIELD MORE, BETTER SIRUP

In Sorghum production tests at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand, Breathitt county, Kentucky, land treated with a ton of limestone, 400 pounds of 16 percent superphosphate, 50 pounds of muriate of potash and 200 pounds of nitrate of soda to the acre, grew cane that produced 2,390 pounds of sirup per acre. Land along which, but untreated, turned off 1,260 pounds of sirup to the acre. Sirup from the treated plots was darker in color and of better flavor than that from untreated land.

Grandson Of Former Residents Awarded Scholarship At Harvard

Jack T. Shephard, 17, 1026 Jackson Road, Park Hills, was among 29 high school seniors over the nation awarded scholarships to Harvard University.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Shephard, a grandson of the late Henry Quick, of Hebron and Rose Garnett, of Limaburg, Boone County.

After attending Park Hills school he passed two years at Holmes High School, Covington, and the final two years at Dixie Heights High School, where he was graduated last May 25 as class valedictorian. Shephard maintained high honors through his high school career and recently was awarded state scholastic honors.

The award is the highest made in an incoming freshman. They grant a maximum of $1,000 the first year and $1,200 annually thereafter, varying with the student's need.

John S. Juet, of Williamstown, candidate for Representative was here last week calling on the voters of this county.

Russell Fryman

FRYMAN IS CANDIDATE

FOR STATE TREASURER — IS A RESIDENT OF DAYTON, KY. — PRESIDENT OF CAMPBELL COUNTY BANKERS ASSN.

In the Democratic primary election August 5, Northern Kentucky has a candidate for State Treasurer. He is Russell Fryman, of Dayton, Campbell county, former cashier of the Bank of Dayton and President of the Campbell County Bankers Association. Mr. Fryman has had twenty years' experience in various banks and for three years was a State bank examiner.

He is a native of Harrison county, where in his early days he was a farmer and later was interested in growing and marketing tobacco. He was in 1930 with one of the largest tobacco growing organizations in 1927 and 1928.

He married Miss Mildred Hickman, daughter of former Postmaster Everett Hickman, of Burlington and has two grown sons. He has a number of warm friends in Boone county that will rally to his support.

In soliciting support in his race he makes the following statement: "My past record, in the discharge of my official duties is ample assurance that I will conduct the office of State Treasurer in a manner satisfactory to all the people."

Cain Buys Registered Jersey From A. C. Johnson

A registered Jersey cow has been purchased by John W. Cain of Florence from A. C. Johnson, of Walton.

The animal is Rose Mary of America 1032790, according to the American Jersey Cattle Club, 324 W. 23rd Street, New York City.

PASTURES SHOULD BE MOWED THIS MONTH

Pastures, like hair, need clipping — not for the same reason, according to Ward T. Darnell. Permanent pastures should be clipped with a mowing machine this month for two good reasons, Mr. Darnell says. The first is that some of the pasture plants may have reached the heading-out stage, becoming tough and unpalatable, and clipping will stimulate a fresh nutritious growth of grass to provide grazing late in the season. The other reason for clipping in June is the control of weeds.

Because of a wet spring weeds in pastures are especially prevalent this year, Mr. Darnell points out. Systematic clipping is required to keep them from maturing seed. Not only that, but weeds in pastures by shading and crowding out valuable pasture plants. They rob the soil of moisture that is needed during the hot dry days of July and August.

Increase of permanent pastures is one of the best methods of preventing soil losses. It is one of the keystones around which a better use of the land revolves, Mr. Darnell says. Clipping, along with reseeding and the use of limestone and phosphate will work wonders in the pasture field, Mr. Darnell points out.

ACP FIELD WORK BEGINS JUNE 26

FIFTEEN SUPERVISORS WILL BE IN FIELD MONDAY TO COOPERATE WITH FARMERS IN CHECKING PERFORMANCE.

The checking of farm performance for 1939 ACP benefit payments will begin in Boone county on this coming Monday, June 26, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Approximately 15 field supervisors will take the field Monday to cooperate with approximately 1000 farmers who have signed up in this year's soil conservation program.

Twenty-one prospective field supervisors began a four-day training class on the 1939 program at Burlington Monday. They will take an evening class Thursday evening. Approximately fifteen men will be selected from the group of applicants to begin field work the first of next week.

The county ACP committee is anxious that the supervisors be of most help to the farmers. The greatest item of unnecessary expense in the past has been the failure of the supervisor to secure and the farmer to give complete field reports.

The 1939 benefit payments for the individual farm are based on the field supervisor's report. Because of the importance that this report be accurate every farmer is urged to be with and assist the field worker when he visits the farm. Both the farmer and the field worker certify to the statement that every field on the farm has been checked and that the statements are true and correct. If the farmer will carefully check this work for completeness and accuracy there will be few errors when applications for payments are made up this fall.

Large Ft. Thomas Estate Sold By Kinman At Auction

The R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., 408 Coppel Bldg., Covington, recently concluded one of the largest and most successful auctions ever held in Northern Kentucky—that of the large Hartweg Estate, Ft. Thomas, Ky.

The sale, which was well attended and brought good prices, required four days. Twenty-nine parcels of property, including two residences were sold. The City of Ft. Thomas purchased 80 acres for park purposes.

Col. R. G. Kinman's company also sold at auction, last Saturday, the Charley Aylor residence, near Florence. M. L. Sirron and Susan B. Sirron, who live on the Dixie Highway, north of Florence, purchased the property for $3,300.

Kilgour-Wilson

Miss Evelyn Kilgour, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Kilgour, near Hebron and Mr. Lawrence Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Wilson were quietly married Saturday evening at the home of the groom's parents by Rev. Leo Drake.

We extend best wishes to this happy young couple.

AGE PROOF NOT NEEDED

It is not necessary to have a school certificate showing that a boy or girl is of legal age in order to obtain a social security number, Frank B. Decker, Jr., manager of the Social Security Board field office in Covington, said Tuesday. "Any boy or girl who has an opportunity to get a job during the vacation period may obtain a social security account number by calling at or writing to our office," Decker said.

Bob & Gene Play Heidelberg Sunday

Bob and Gene will meet the strong Heidelberg nine Sunday on the Crescent Spring grounds at 3:00 p. m. fast time. The local boys will be out to add another victory that their growing string, which totals five straight.

BROWN SPEAKS TO OWEN VOTERS

AID FLEDGED FARMERS BY JOHN YOUNG BROWN IN ADDRESS AT OWENTON SATURDAY.

Speaking before Northern Kentucky farmers, John Young Brown a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Saturday the case against the post was "a fight of the farmers and laboring men against the anti-New Deal and the Liberty Leaguers."

Referring to the Barkley-Chandler senatorial contest last summer, in which Brown successfully supported Senator Alben W. Barkley, the Lexington attorney said: "If last year's fight was worth while then this year's fight is worth while and with the same forces universally with us this year we shall turn last year's 70,000 majority into a 100,000 majority."

Criticizing the stand of Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson, also a Democratic gubernatorial candidate and who supported Governor Chandler in his unsuccessful campaign against Barkley, Brown said: "The farmers of Kentucky are by environment and desire, Roosevelt Democrats and New Dealers. They desire cooperation with the Federal Government."

"They know that Roosevelt is their friend. They would not willingly do anything to injure his program. Both my opponent and myself have known at least for more than a year that we wanted to run for the Governorship in Kentucky. Neither of us is a child. We did not suddenly make up our minds this spring. I knew last year that I wanted to run, and believing that the President's program was best for the people of Kentucky, I lined up on his side, because I believed as he did."

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

Due to this busy season there were only nine members present at Mrs. Howard Acra's for the June 14th meeting of the Hebron Homemakers. There was no business meeting, but with the leader's help and kindness the study of Slip Covers was continued.

Plans for the next three months are: July, the finishing of Slip Covers and election of officers; August, a tour or picnic and September a tea.

All members are urged to attend the July meeting for election of officers and to complete slip covers. The place of meeting will be decided by the time the monthly cards are mailed.

BASEBALL GAME IS POSTPONED DUE TO RAIN

The game scheduled between Beaver Lick and Midway was postponed Sunday on account of rain, but will be played at a later date.

Next Saturday, June 25th the Florence nine will meet Midway at the Midway park.

WOOL CLIP SELLS FOR 31.80 CLEAR

SEVENTY THOUSAND POUNDS OFFERED BY POOL MEMBERS THIS YEAR—O. W. CLEEK SELLS 2500 POUNDS.

Boone County wool pool members are delivering the heaviest clip in many years, according to a report Tuesday night by H. R. Forkner, county agent. He stated that approximately 30,000 pounds of wool was delivered at Walton Tuesday and that it is expected the clip will total 25,000 in Burlington Wednesday, and 15,000 at Petersburg Thursday.

Boone county growers received $31.80 clear and $26.80 for rejections, the price being approximately eight cents higher than last year when the growers received 24 cents for a clip totaling 57,255 pounds.

The wool was sold to Tucker and McLoney, Cynthia buyers this year, and all farmers apparently were well satisfied with the prices obtained.

O. W. Cleek, of Walton sold the largest number of pounds when he delivered 2500 pounds from 337 western ewes. Last year Harvey McGlasson sold the largest number of pounds when he delivered 639 pounds to Burlington.

BELLEVUE BAPTIST W. M. S. HOLD MEETING

The monthly meeting of the W. M. S. of Bellevue was held Wednesday afternoon at the church. The subject of discussion was "The Great Commission and Youth or Young People of Today," which was instructively given by several of the ladies.

We also enjoyed a beautiful duet rendered by Mrs. Smith and Miss Tinklenberg.

Several items of business were taken care of and among them being to hold an all-day meeting and include a mission study for the July meeting.

Local Modern Woodmen Will Entertain Clubs Throughout County

The many friends of Mr. R. S. Cowen will be glad to learn that he is somewhat improved at this writing. Mr. Cowen is Burlington's oldest citizen, being 94.

ALUMNI ASS'N TO BE ORGANIZED

IN BOONE, KENTON AND CAMPBELL COUNTIES—SCOUTS OF ALL AGES TO REDEDICATE THEMSELVES.

Northern Kentucky will be the first section in the nation to launch the newest development in scouting, Scouts of all ages will rededicate themselves to the scout oath and scout law, it was announced Saturday. This reunion of men and boys who have been members of the Boy Scouts of America will include Boone, Campbell and Kenton counties, and is staged under auspices of the Northern Kentucky Council of Boy Scouts.

In the 25 years since the founding of the Boy Scouts of America more than 8,400,000 American boys and men have subscribed to the scout oath and law. It is estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 of this number reside in the 10 counties served by the Northern Kentucky Council.

A crew of workers is now busy tracing the addresses of these former scouts, many of whom will be joined the organization more than 25 years ago.

Former scouts at the rededication will be asked to: (1) Rededicate themselves to the ideals of scouting by re-affirming the scout oath and adherence to the scout law. (2) Co-operate in an annual public ceremony at which former scouts becoming 21 years of age will be fittingly inducted into American citizenship.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

WHAT IS ADVERTISING GENIUS?

IN THE early days of advertising there were men who posed in the role of genius. They studied advertising with mystery. To portray their part they let their hair grow, wore flowing bow ties, affected a far-away look and mulctured mysterious formulas.

Some persons still believe that the ability to advertise a business successfully is like the ability to write poetry—an inborn gift. It isn't at all. The closer advertising comes to answering some of the needs in the lives of common, ordinary people the more nearly it comes to success.

The only genius needed in advertising is the everyday genius of telling the truth in a simple and an understandable way. A few months ago some of the leaders in the advertising profession were bemoaning about the results of their work. One of the advertising publications published what they said about themselves.

Writers of some of the largest corporations in the country took part in the discussion. But a little druggist in Florida, spending and expensive laboratories, equipment and training. The time is indeed ripe to speak of the nation's debt and obligations of science, to these our country doctors.

LOOSE TONGUES

As you walked along the river bank you picked up a pebble and tossed it into the water to watch the ripples it made. The tiny waves seemed to spread so far and wide, a calm surface disturbed by your toss of that small pebble. Every community has their pebble tossers, their citizens who disturb the calm of the quiet life. Have you ever noticed the many ripples that are made when someone, perhaps unintentionally, speaks against the character or habits of someone else. The criticism or complaint may be constructive, but so often the whisper carries the name of gossip, and that malicious. There isn't a day but that someone speaks ill of another. Quite often it is unjust, untrue or exaggerated. How many times have you heard someone say, "I am a pebble without the gossip and how many of us are apt to catch ourselves doing the same thing if we aren't careful."

WHY CHANCE IT?

It seems that every once in a while somebody of prominence pops up with a charge of sin against their name. Not long ago familiar actors, more recently a judge's wife and a society matron. It is called smuggling but is really another form of gambling. Perhaps these folks who could well afford to pay the duty are trying to put something over on the customs inspectors for the sport in running such a risk. Maybe it isn't considered bad taste in good society. But when the culprit is caught there comes a steep fine, perhaps imprisonment and a goodly measure of public shame and humiliation. It may be worth it to some but not to us in Boone County.

NO AGE LIMIT

What of it, if he is getting up in years? Many a man is at his best after youth has been left behind. At 75 Ford still makes good automobiles. Often one will insist that age is against many a man in being competent. While youth is necessary in business, age has had its experience and the wisdom of men over 50 is an assistance in the efforts of the young man. There is not an age limit to be put on man's usefulness. The era of youth would be sad indeed without the experience of age to guide it. Business in the hands of the old would become lagard and dull, but all business in the control of the young would perish suddenly. Both the mind of the aged and the energy of the young have their uses.

just a few dollars in his local newspaper was able to top all the results of these high-salaried advertising men.

All he did was to know the desires of his customers, and sit down and tell them what he had in a simple, an understandable, a convincing, conversational way. Here is his advertisement:

PARK VIEW DRUG STORE
This is a wanted service. It offers value. It inspires confidence. It is something people in his neighborhood wanted to read.

It didn't take a genius to write it, but the whole genius of advertising is behind it. Every day advertisers are publishing similar announcements in the newspapers. These announcements are as much in what is called the public interest as the results of scientific research or study—because they bring the public something it wants to make life better or more interesting or, in the case of Park View Drug, a little more enjoyable.

PAUL REVIEWS HIS LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Philippians 1:12-14, 21-24; 3:12-14; II Timothy 4:1, 6, 7.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.—II Timothy 4:7.

Self-examination may be a most profitable experience if carried out in the right spirit and for a good purpose. It may be very humbling to look at one's experiences and accomplishments in honest appraisal, but the very humility which is thus brought about may be the first step toward better things and may prove to be a real means of blessing.

Paul, whose life we have been studying together for the last three months, made a review of his own life and experiences in various places in his epistles. We cannot study them all, but in the brief portions before us we find that the apostle had laid hold of those certainties without which life is largely meaningless and useless. He had found victory over both himself and his circumstances. He was perfectly clear about his eternal destiny. He had a goal toward which his life was directed in earnest endeavor, and he had in view the reward which was to be his when he met his God. What an excellent opportunity we have to bring out the truth as related to ourselves on this coming Lord's Day.

I. Living Above Circumstances
(Phil. 1:12-14).
Paul had been imprisoned for the gospel's sake. Did that stop him? No, for he made the very guards who were assigned to watch him at his house the object of his ministry and they, in turn, gloried in his ministrations of the cross. He sought to win each one as he took his designated period of guard service and then sent him out as a testimony to "the whole Praetorium and to all the rest" (v. 13, R. V.). What a consistent and glowing Christian life Paul must have lived by day.

Not only were some of his Christian brethren encouraged by his example to preach the gospel, but we note in verse 15 that others, taking advantage of the fact that Paul was in prison, went out to preach just to show that they were as good as he, making their very preaching an expression of their envy of his position. Paul, however, showed victory over circumstances by thanking God that the gospel was preached, even though it was done in a wrong spirit.

II. Facing Eternity With Joy
(Phil. 1:21, 24).

To Paul, departure from this life would mean his entering into perfect fellowship with Christ and union with Him. He was not afraid to die, for he had a strong desire to depart and to be with the Lord. He would not, however, turn away from his present privilege and duty. If it was God's will that he should abide in the flesh, he purposed that it should be literally true of him that to live is Christ. If that be true in a man's life, then it must necessarily follow that to die is gain. The reason men fear death is that in place of saying "to live is Christ," they say "to live is money," "position," "pleasure," or even "sin."

III. Pressing Toward the Goal
(Phil. 3:12-14).

These are the words of the man who possibly was the greatest Christian and Christian worker of all time. Was he satisfied with himself? No, the Spirit of Christ in him and the vision of the goal which he had not yet attained made him press on.

The spiritually minded Christian has no word of commendation for past success, he gives Christ the glory. He does not permit past failures to hold him back, for they have been put under the blood. He is not content merely to hold his own, for he knows that to stand still is to go back. Christian friends, let us by God's blessing and grace take a forward step today, and tomorrow, and the day after, that we may, like Paul, press on toward the goal to the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Scripture speaks frequently of the reward which shall come to the faithful Christian at the close of a life of holiness and service for Christ. It is no doubt commendable that Christians do not often speak of their reward, for it should be true of every servant of Christ that the love of Christ should constrain him. On the other hand, it is important that we keep before us the fact that at the end of the road there is recognition by "the Lord, the righteous Judge," and that we may properly look forward to the receiving of the crown of righteousness from His hand. The life of the Christian has glorious meaning from beginning to end, yes, and on through all eternity!

There Are Degrees
Of Foot Trouble

BY N. TULCH

AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison, Covington

FLATTENED FOOT or "third degree" foot trouble is extremely serious. The arch of the foot has broken down and become flattened and is now being held in the deformed position by consequent change in bone and muscles.

Weak feet or "second degree" foot trouble usually occurs when the ligaments and muscles supporting the arch structure are too weak to carry the load of the body weight. When this weakness is corrected the foot regains its normal outline.

Normal Foot. Finally there is the normal or almost normal foot. The feet are structurally correct, but corns and callouses, or fatigue from walking, or chronic aches in other parts of the body indicate that immediate steps should be taken to keep the feet normal.

A World famous doctor said: "Some day people will be wise enough to think of their shoes as preventive medicine. They will realize that a large measure of health and happiness depends on strong, shapely feet and they will invest in shoes designed to help the feet function normally and healthfully."

FOR A MILLION
BREAD WINNERS:A MILLION JOBS MADE BY BEER

From coast to coast, Beer has helped in putting men back to work... into a million new jobs in six short years. Beer also each year buys the produce of 8,000,000 acres of farmland and pays a million dollars a day in taxes.

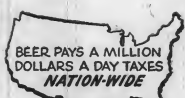

The brewers want to preserve these economic benefits. They want also to protect the public's right to enjoy beer and their own right to make and market it.

The brewing industry cannot enforce the laws. But they are cooperating with public officials to see to it that the retailing of beer gives no offense to anyone.

MANY ON WAY TO DEBT-FREE OWNERSHIP OF HOMES

With more than $6,400,000 of their principal indebtedness repaid the great majority of the Kentucky borrowers of the HOLC, the Federal Home Loan Corporation, were on their way to the debt-free ownership of their homes as the Corporation observed its sixth anniversary this week.

Nearly 1100 of its original loans in Kentucky have been fully liquidated and crossed off the books, the HOLC announced, while more than 6177 other borrowers were in satisfactory standing—their accounts current, less than three months in arrears, or liquidating, meaning that those borrowers, once seriously in arrears, were meeting all current bills and, in addition, making regular monthly payments on their arrearages. There were 743 other borrowers making adjusted payments to keep their accounts open, with a record of faithfulness in meeting their obligations which gives hope that they, too, will "come through" The Corporation's collections in April, a short month, were 95.1 percent of billings and in May, were 101.4 percent.

"This is a splendid record with the situation only a few years ago," declared Jno. P. Davis, State Manager of the HOLC. "The average HOLC borrower, when refinanced, was two years in arrears, on both principal and interest and between two and three years on taxes. The breathing spell that the HOLC was able to allow has enabled thousands of sincere home owners in Kentucky to rehabilitate themselves."

The HOLC's lending period ended June 12, 1936, and the average loan has more than 11 years to run, according to Mr. Davis. Yet the $6,400,000 repayments on principal in Kentucky mean that nearly 23 percent of the principal debts to the HOLC in this state have been repaid.

The number of loans fully liquidated in Kentucky as of June 8 was 1026 amounting to $2,222,000 and representing 10.4 percent of loans closed in the State. The State of Kentucky leads all other States in this Region in percentage of loans paid in full.

"The HOLC has been forced to acquire 135,927 homes in the United States as a whole through foreclosure or voluntary deed—20 percent of them in the State," said Mr. Davis. "It has sold over 46,000 of those homes, turned them over to people whom it is believed will be good home owners in the future. Only about 36 percent of our foreclosures were instituted because of owners' inability to pay. The rest were filed because people had abandoned their homes, because of the death of owners and the refusal of heirs to assure their obligations, or because borrowers who actually had funds refused to keep up their contracts."

"Loans of HOLC borrowers from the nation at large were reduced some $200,000,000 at the time of refinancing, through agreements the HOLC was able to make with mortgage holders. Those borrowers since have saved at least $175,000,000 on their interest payments the difference between the 5 percent HOLC rate and the higher rate they had on their original contracts."

"The HOLC advanced $229,000,000 to settle up delinquent tax accounts during its lending period. It since has advanced many millions more for the same purpose. The HOLC directed the spending of $70,000,000 to improve the homes on which it made loans; it since has spent another $50,000,000 to improve homes it has acquired. Every dollar spent in this manner has resulted in improved neighborhood values and most HOLC borrowers, shown the advantage of putting home in good condition, have properly maintained them since."

"The HOLC went to the aid of more than a million distressed home owners, then utterly without private credit. When it is realized that nearly 85 per cent of those borrowers now own their homes, are well on the way to complete ownership, or at least have kept up the struggle for several years and have a chance of coming thru—and only a comparatively small percent remain in the last category—the fact is a tribute to courage in the face of heavy odds."

CLIPPING CONTROLS WORMS IN CORN-EAR

Several years of tests at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station show that corn-ear worms can be largely controlled by clipping off the ends of the ears after the pollen has ceased falling and the silk shows signs of browning. In trials last year, clipping resulted in 85 per cent of the ears being free from worms, while in unclipped corn only 24 1/2 percent of the ears had no worms. These experiments have been of special value to truck gardeners.

In the old days Mother used to worry about where her wandering boy might be, and today she doesn't know where girl is either.

KENTUCKY RIVER YIELDS NEW TYPE OF FISH

The Kentucky river has yielded up a rare specimen recently in the "hell-bender" or (Cryptobranchus Alleganiensis). In saying that it is a rare specimen, the Division of Game and Fish wishes to say that it has not been native of the river until the great flood of 1937 brought it up from the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Since that time it seems to have stayed and a few have been caught from the river, although most fishermen mistake it for the "common water dog" and either kill it or throw it back.

Minor Clark, biologist for the Division of Game and Fish, in identifying the creature, stated: "The head is broad and flat and the snout rounded like that of the mud catfish. The tail is broad and much compressed, and with a fin along its upper edge; its length is equal to half the remainder of the animal. The skin is richly provided with mucous follicles, especially about the head while the sides are conspicuous, with a corrugated cutaneous fold, which extends from the angle of the mouth to the middle of the side. The nostrils are small, close to the edge of the lips and the eyes are small, with no evident lids. The limbs are short and stout, bordering externally by a fold of membrane, which extends down to the outer toe. The back limbs are stoutest, and bordered behind by a second fold, which near the foot passes into the external fold. The color is grayish to black and the "hell-bender" differs from the common "water-dog" in that it does not have gills but has a slit down each side from front to back legs, and it also has toe-nails which the "water-dog" does not possess. It is regarded as being poisonous but this idea is erroneous, nevertheless, its bite might be painful. It appears to be exclusively aquatic, and yet is capable of living for a long time out of the water."

The "hell-bender" caught in the Kentucky river was taken near Brooklyn Bridge and is now in the possession of George Chinn who operates the Cave House at Brooklyn bridge. The specimen is still alive and measures 18 inches in length and weighs 3 pounds.

There may be two sides to every question, but as a rule we don't care much for the other fellow's side.

ENJOY SUMMER COMFORT AT LOW COST

Electrically

Summer's heat becomes more endurable with cheap electricity on the job.

The modern electric refrigerator protects your perishables and keeps you supplied with ice, cold drinks and frozen desserts for about 1/3 or 1/4 of a cent per hour.

The electric fan brings you refreshing breezes for about 1/3 of a cent per hour.

The electric roaster permits you to cook in cool comfort for less than a penny per person per meal.

Make full use of your electrical servants and let cheap electricity take the summer out of summer.

CATTLE NUMBER UP
Beef cattle numbers have increased in Caldwell county, Kentucky, due to improved pastures and to good supplies of alfalfa and lespedeza hay and corn, reports County Agent John F. Graham. Under average conditions, Graham believes good pasture is the largest contributing factor to profits in cattle raising.

WALTON

Rain, and more rain. Farmers are hoping it will let up as many have hay cut and want it to dry out so it can be stacked. Other crops such as corn and tobacco are doing fine.

Many farmers delivered their wool here Tuesday.

J. B. Walton (nee Avalon Hudson) of Burlington was here several days last week, having some dental work done. Her many friends here are always glad to see her.

The Daily Vacation Bible School which has been in session for the past two weeks at the Baptist church, closed Sunday with their graduating exercises. All students were well trained from the primary grade to the young folks' circle. We mothers wish it had been many weeks longer, as our children learned so many useful arts, and best of all, many Bible verses, which will linger with them through life. Let all of us commit a new Bible verse daily—we'll never regret it. The Book of Books should be studied more closely by one and all.

The funeral of Mrs. Robert Chambers was attended by a large number of relatives and friends at her home on Dixie Highway, north of town, Saturday at 2 p. m. The family have the sympathy of all. It was a very rare privilege to have a mother for 93 years.

Powers Conrad is taking Vapo baths daily for rheumatism. He feels he is being benefited greatly.

Mrs. Sam Hudson is convalescing from a tonsil operation.

The many friends of Jimmie Chapman are sorry to learn he is quite ill at St. Elizabeth Hospital. We wish for him a speedy recovery. Sympathy is extended to his loving parents and sister.

Rev. R. R. Rose has returned from a week's vacation at Winchester.

Miss Lovania Edwards is able to be out on her porch, and enjoys having her many friends to stop in for a chat.

GASBURG

PAYS TO FERTILIZE PERMANENT PASTURE

In answer to the frequent question of whether it pays to broadcast fertilizer on permanent pasture in Kentucky, Dr. E. N. Fergus of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington replies, "Definitely yes, provided the pasture has a reasonably good soil and is on a soil that needs fertilizer."

Results of pasture top-dressing experiments conducted in Kentucky in cooperation with the Tennessee Valley Authority during the past four years indicate that applications of about 140 pounds of 20 percent superphosphate per acre per year to permanent pastures outside the Bluegrass region will increase the herbage production about 20 percent and protein production per acre about 25 percent. Liming did not increase herbage yields but did increase protein and animalizing all results, it appears that each dollar expended for limestone and phosphate produced an income of $5 measured in terms of value of protein, calculated at its market value in concentrates or else in terms of gain in weight of beef cattle.

A second question often asked is whether fertilizer would be more effective if applied under the sod of a permanent pasture, instead of broadcast on the pasture. Dr. Fergus' answer is "Provided the sod is good enough to produce a satisfactory cover after treatment." Tests of the two methods of application show that broadcast is always as effective as subsurface treatments and generally better.

Generally speaking, says Prof. Fergus, it is best to apply fertilizer to pastures between fall and spring, but the work may be done any time it is convenient. Perhaps livestock should be kept off a pasture after top-dressing, and until the material has disappeared from the herbage.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Nettie Eddins.

Especially do we wish to thank Dr. M. A. Yelton; Rev. James, for his consoling words; Chambers and Grubbs for the efficient manner in which the funeral was conducted; the singers and also the donors of the floral offerings.

WCKY To Increase To 50,000 Watts

A cordial invitation to residents of this vicinity to see one of the nation's most powerful radio stations in operation was extended today by L. B. Wilson, president and general manager of WCKY, Covington, Ky.

Radio listeners in this area will hear WCKY with as much clarity of signal as any station on the dial following inauguration of fifty thousand watts power about June 30. The new transmitter, incorporating the latest engineering developments, will make WCKY as powerful as any station in the entire United States and will make the many outstanding NBC programs carried by the station available to 58% of the country's night-time listeners.

Because of its favorable location on the dial, 1490 kilocycles (149 on most radio dials) WCKY is comparatively free of man-made interference. Therefore, radio listeners in this area should be able to receive programs broadcast by the station satisfactorily at all times.

Mr. Wilson said the new transmitter will be open for inspection tours shortly after dedication ceremonies to be held about June 30.

Uneven heat can ruin a good recipe

UNTIL just a few years ago, only a city woman with a modern gas range could prepare many of the modern recipes that call for exact heat control.

But that's no longer true. For today Shellane brings all the advances of city gas service to the home in the country.

With a Shellane Gas Range you can regulate the heat of your oven to get the exact temperature you wish. And you can bake as many as four cakes at one time!

But, best of all, Shellane saves three hours of needless drudgery a day. No ashes! No dirt! No scrubbing or scouring! And you can have automatic hot water and automatic refrigeration, too! Why not talk to today about modernizing your kitchen? The cost is very small.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

New farmers' leaflets issued by the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Care and Management of Purebred Stallions and Jacks; Care and Management of Purebred Bulls, Boars and Rams; Cutting, Caring and Storing Hay. A new bulletin has the title of Control of Sod Webworms in Lawns.

In tests at the Kentucky Experiment Station, ewes grazed in rotation on three fields produced 6 percent more gain and lambs 4 percent more, than did ewes and lambs grazed continuously in one field.

J. M. Hancock, the seventh Adair county farmer to enter the state ton-litter contest, is making extensive use of white clover, bluegrass and lespedeza pasture, in addition to grain, in making 10 Chester White pigs weigh a ton or more in 165 days.

County Agent R. V. Trosper is planning to have 300 Bell county 4-H club members grow improved corn. One hundred or more have started strawberry growing. Other club members are building up profitable poultry businesses, including the production of capons.

Oldham county homemakers have been giving extra attention to growing sherry and young trees, with special efforts in cultivating, fertilizing and wrapping. Undesirable growth was removed in the spring clean-up.

The Spencer county sheep growers' association completed its second year with a surplus of $200, after paying all claims. The organization is trying to reduce the number of stray dogs and increase the number of licensed dogs.

hay than it is to bale it or leave it out in stacks or ricks. Saving of shock fodder and shredded fodder is emphasized. The man labor required for cutting, shocking and husking amounts to about 10 hours more per acre than for husking from the standing stalks. The value of the fodder for feed and bedding, the greater ease of seeding grass and small grain, and the cleaner field for the hay crop provide good returns for the 10 hours of extra labor, it is declared.

Pastures Cut Beef Cost

A study which the Kentucky Experiment Station made of raising calves showed that the most successful farmers kept feed cost low by more fully utilizing pastures and low-grade roughage. In determining the cost of raising calves to weaning age, it was found that the cost of feeding the cow was 76 per cent of the total cost of the calf, in the Bluegrass region, and 71 per cent of the gross cost in Union county.

A limestone quarry in Livingston county is producing 50 tons of lime daily.

THE GARDEN

FRENCH ENDIVE
By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Gardeners who are in search of a "new" vegetable might consider French Endive, which by the way is neither French nor the endive gardeners and seedsmen know. Much of it is imported from Belgium and the Netherlands, and its seed-catalogue name is Witloof Chicory, close kin to the chicory our forebears used for coffee.

It has been given its name by restaurant men, and is the "head" the leaves-make when the roots are forced to make second growth. Served with dressing, makes a tasty salad, much prized by gourmets, but quite within the scope of any gardener to grow. Although professionals use quite elaborate forcing structures, surprisingly simple expedients can be made successfully to serve.

June is the month in which seed is sown, in drills far enough apart for a wheel hoe conveniently to work between them. One ounce of seed will sow 100 feet, the object being to sow seed sparingly enough for each plant to have enough room. Thinning may need to be done; the stand should be two inches.

A root crop, it should go without saying that the seed bed should be well-prepared and deep. Fertility should be balanced, especially, there should not be too much nitrogen as in manure, but the other plantfoods should not be lacking. In general, complete fertilizer, 3-8-6, 4-8-8 or 5-10-5, worked into the row at the rate of one pound of fertilizer to 30 feet, will be right.

The crop is remarkably free from insect damage, though occasionally the lesser "general feeder" insects attack the foliage, but they are easily controlled with arsenicals. The only other care needed is to keep down the weeds.

In the fall, when frost is expected the roots are lifted, topped to one inch, and put under forcing conditions. A good cellar will serve, for satisfactory temperature between 50 and 60 degrees. If the floor is earth, all that is needed is an enclosure for the roots, stood on end and packed lightly with soil to make complete contact with them all the way down. The "bed" is covered with sawdust 6 inches, spent tanbark or even light sand, loose material through which the growth may push without twisting and distortion. The whole is then watered thoroughly and kept so, but at all times the whole fresh manure is placed and atop it, about 6 inches of earth. Depending on outside temperature, the "endive" may be ready to harvest in about 8-10 weeks. The pit may be opened and part of the endive removed and closed again, to add to the winter menu tasteful variety.

The amount to grow depends on

"I thought I knew

all about automobiles!"

A LOT of folks have had their eyes opened wide by a ride in a 1939 Ford V-8. They just didn't realize how much more value and how many improvements we've put in this car the last few years.

Today's advanced Ford is a product of progressive engineering, fine materials and honest construction. It is backed by an experience of building far more cars than anybody else in the world.

One ride in today's Ford—with its smooth 8-cylinder engine, stabilized chassis, hydraulic brakes—will prove it's the modern car in the low-price field.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. & Sat.—"Boy Slaves."
Sun. & Mon.—"Sergeant Madden."
Tuesday—"Wife, Husband & Friend."
Wednesday and Thursday, June 28 and 29—"Broadway Serenade."

How a group of youngsters from ten to twenty years of age, brought together through loneliness, stealing to keep themselves from starvation, and pitting their wits against citizens and the law are finally trapped and unwittingly delivered into virtual slavery in a notorious turpentine camp is vividly presented in "Boy Slaves," a grim slice of film fare.

What happens when the boys discover their status as prisoners and futilely endeavor to secure aid from the outside, leads to the thrilling climax of a picture which ranks as a searching human document.

Anne Shirley heads the cast of this realistic RKO radio film, with a group of eight lads—most of them hitherto unknown to the screen—capably filling the other important parts.

Two comparative newcomers to screen ranks, Alan Curtis and Lorraine Johnson, win outstanding opportunities in "Sergeant Madden."

den," modern story of the New York police, which will be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday with Wallace Beery in the title role.

A picture that is full of thrills, and will be long remembered by those who have the pleasure of seeing Beery at his best.

Slambag comedy and rollicking romance will be the order of the day when 20th Century-Fox's "Wife, Husband and Friend," co-starring Loretta Young & Warner Baxter, comes to the Gayety Tuesday.

Reported to be a delicious romance filled with unrestrained gayety and sparkling wit, the new film finds lovely Loretta Young teamed with Warner Baxter for the second time, by Darryl F. Zanuck.

The story of "Wife, Husband and Friend," concerns itself with the hilarious misunderstanding which result when a lovely wife, who has loads of money, a beautiful home and a grand husband, decides that she wants one thing more. A career as a singer.

Taking full advantage of the versatility of its star, "Broadway Serenade," starring Jeanette MacDonald, comes to the Gayety Wednesday and Thursday, June 28th and 29th. The new musical, which traces the struggles of a young singer and her husband in their fight for stardom, offers music lovers the full scope of Miss MacDonald's voice. The melodies include everything from grand opera to semi-classical and popular selections.

Appearing opposite the singing star is Lew Ayres, whose performance in recent times has won for him the male lead in this picture. Ayres, a musician and composer in real life, plays a parallel role as Jimmy Seymour, Miss MacDonald's husband.

KITCHEN KINKS

Sun-Cooked Strawberry Preserves: Wash, cap, stem, drain and measure the berries. Allow an equal weight of sugar for fruit. For each 2 lbs. of berries measure 1/4 cup berry juice and heat with sugar. Cook and pour over whole berries in shallow trays. Stand in sun for 3 or 4 days, bring indoors each night, dampness will spoil sun-cooking. Allow fruit to remain in sun until syrup has thickened to jelly. If sun does not shine preserve in cool oven. Pack in sterilized jars and seal.

TWO TRUCKS ARE HIJACKED

IN BOONE COUNTY, ACCORDING TO STORY OF DRIVERS—LARGE AMOUNT OF WHISKY IS LOOT.

Curtis Poulter and Charles Alexander, drivers for the Kentucky Midland Truck Line, Frankfort, Sunday reported to Lexington police they had been kidnapped and held captive all Saturday night by five men who hijacked two trucks containing $6,894 worth of whisky.

Poulter and Alexander appeared at Lexington police headquarters shortly after 5 o'clock, arriving in one of the trucks, which had been emptied and returned to them at a point 10 miles north of Lexington on the Paris Pike. The trucks were hijacked between Walton and Florence, the drivers said.

Five men in a black sedan pulled in front of them and stopped them. Two men with pistols in their hands got out of the sedan, and one of them got in each of the trucks.

The hijackers directed the drivers to turn east on a side road near Florence and then had them turn south on U. S. Highway No. 27. They passed through Falmouth, traveling toward Lexington. Near Cynthiana, one of the trucks broke down and Poulter and Alexander were transferred to the sedan which had been trailing the trucks.

After Poulter and Alexander had been driven around all night, the sedan stopped Sunday morning on the Paris Pike and soon the truck which had not been disabled appeared, driven by one of the robbers. The hijackers then directed the drivers to get into the truck and drive. They drove to Lexington immediately and reported at police headquarters.

The trucks left Frankfort at noon Saturday for Cincinnati. Their cargoes were consigned to the Ziffert Bros. Lines, 3850 Corcoran Ave., Cincinnati.

Fowlers Visit Former Boone Countian At Pleasureville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fowler and daughter and Mr. C. A. Fowler, of Hebron spent the week-end with Horace Cleveland, of Pleasureville, Mr. Cleveland is a former resident of Boone county having lived at Constance for many years, and is a graduate of the Burlington High School. He is a candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday August 5, 1939.

ANNOUNCES FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

A. D. YELTON MAKES FORMAL BOW TO VOTERS OF COUNTY—HAS SERVED ONE TERM AS CIRCUIT CLERK.

A. D. Yelton, Burlington, formally announced his candidacy for the office of Circuit Court Clerk in this issue of The Recorder.

Mr. Yelton is well known in all sections of the county. He is a son of Dr. M. A. Yelton, and is a graduate of the Burlington high school, graduating in the class of '26.

For the past six years Mr. Yelton has served the citizens of Boone County as Circuit Court Clerk, a task which has been efficiently handled by him, and if reelected will be in a position to serve the county even better than in the past.

He has served as Master Commissioner of Boone County during his term of office, and has carried on the duties of this position in a very efficient manner.

We believe that if Mr. Yelton is nominated and elected to the office he seeks, he will fulfill the duties of this office to the best of his ability.

500 Attend Four-H Picture Show Thurs.

Five hundred 4-H club members, leaders and friends attended the 4-H picture show held at Burlington high school last Thursday evening, June 22, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Practically every club in the county was represented.

Several reels of educational pictures were shown previous to the main feature picture "Under the 4-H Flag." The show was free, the picture being sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and company.

The next get together of 4-H club members will be a series of community club tours beginning July 6th.

JOHNSON SCORES JOHN Y. BROWN

IN OPENING ADDRESS AT SHELBYVILLE SATURDAY—NO PROMISING CONTEST, JOHNSON DECLARES.

Shelbyville, Ky., June 24.—Kean Johnson scored a smashing political speech directed at a scornful, withering blast of denunciation against John Young Brown, both as a candidate and as an employee of John L. Lewis and the C. I. O. and other party leaders whose careers in the past have been marked by botching tactics and disloyalty to the party.

It was an aggressive, combative Richmond editor who addressed a large audience at the Shelby county fairgrounds on the outskirts of Shelbyville today as he formally opened his speaking campaign which supporters confidently believe will win for him the Democratic nomination for governor.

The tall, slim lieutenant governor did not quibble with words or pull his oratorical punches. He gave a detailed outline of the program that would guide and be the goal of his administration and scathingly denounced his opponent, John Young Brown, for campaigning on false promises and being the willing tool of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. "Czar."

Johnson was introduced by Congressman Virgil Chapman, of Lexington and Paris, chairman of the executive committee of the National Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee. Coleman Wright, Shelbyville, Johnson's campaign chairman for Shelby county presided. The speech was broadcast over a seven station hook-up with Station WHAS, Louisville, serving as the key station. J. Lyier Donaldson, Johnson's state campaign manager, also spoke briefly. He introduced Gov. A. B. Chandler who presented Congressman Chapman.

Johnson in his speech laid down with startling directness the principal issues upon which he intends to wage his campaign. Brown's "campaign of promises," his political advisers, and the threat of John L. Lewis and C. I. O. dominance in the state government brought caustic comment from the newspaperman candidate.

"I stand before this throng of militant Democrats as a candidate who does not represent any special interest and the first promise I make to you is that I will not be controlled by the C. I. O. or bossed by John L. Lewis," were Johnson's opening words.

In outlining his program for Kentucky Johnson mentioned he was "not going to get into any promising contest with so reckless a promoter as my opponent." He emphatically declared his opposition to any increase in taxes and expressed the view that the state's present income was sufficient to meet its needs if economy was practiced.

Judge Riddell Returns Home After Vacation Of Six Weeks In Texas

Judge N. E. Riddell returned to Burlington Friday, after spending six weeks' vacation in Texas. The Judge spent most of his time angling, and from all reports he was very successful.

He has a number of pictures sent us by Judge Riddell while he was on his vacation, and some of the pictures show enormous fish caught in the Texas waters. He tells us that he did not catch all the fish pictured, but that his luck was very good. He stated that he had a fish to break a 60-pound test line.

The Judge returned with a coat of tan that is second to none, and appears to be enjoying the best of health.

ACP FIELD WORK BEGINS FOR 1939

EACH FARM COOPERATING IN PROGRAM TO BE VISITED BY SUPERVISOR—WILL ASSIST IN COMPLETING REPORT.

The field work in checking performance for benefits under the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program in Boone county began Monday of this week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. This is an earlier start than in former years which is in accordance with the request of many farmers that checking be done before the crops are harvested.

Each farm cooperating in the 1939 ACP program will be visited and the field supervisor will assist the farmer in completing his report required for benefits. Approximately 1100 farms will be visited during the next 60 days. Fifteen field supervisors began work Monday and three more will probably start the latter part of this week or the first of next week. Those beginning work Monday are as follows: John E. Robinson, of Hebron; Melvin Kenyon, Ft. Pleasant; DeVere Moore, Grant; Wood Edwards, Florence; Vernon Stephens, Rabbit Hash; Wm. H. Moore, South of Hebron; Virgil S. Vice, Petersburg; Floyd S. Crigler, west of Hebron; Carvin Goodridge north of Hebron; Ivan K. Norris, south of Burlington; Therman Wolfe, north of Walton; William Cook, north of Burlington; James O. Sams, Union; Wm. H. Huey, east of Burlington; Garland Huff, Hamilton.

The supervisors will be changed from one community to another as fast as the work is completed. Every farmer is urged to take full advantage of the supervisor's help, making a complete and accurate report so that rechecking or future visits will not be required. Supervisors are expected to average from two to four farms per day.

JAS. CHAPMAN IS SUMMONED

WAS ONE OF NORTHERN KENTUCKY'S MOST OUTSTANDING ATHLETES—SERVICES HELD SATURDAY AT VERONA.

James W. Chapman, 18, Verona, died Wednesday night at St. Elizabeth Hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Peritonitis which developed following the operation, caused the youth's death.

Chapman was a graduate of the Walton-Verona High School, graduating in the class of '39. He was captain of the 1938-39 Walton basketball team, which won the Boone County Conference title. He received honorable mention on the all-state high school basketball team selected following the state tournament this past winter.

During the summer season he had acted as manager of the Verona baseball team of the Campbell County Semi-Pro League. He was a youth of sterling qualities, and was loved and respected by both old and young. The high esteem in which he was held was manifested by the large floral offering and by the large assembly of friends and relatives who gathered at the New Bethel church to pay their last respects to such a splendid youth, whose career had just begun.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman, and one sister, Miss Rose Ellen Chapman, of Verona.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. at the New Bethel Baptist Church, Verona, with Rev. R. F. Demosiey and Rev. T. C. Sleet, officiating. Burial was in Verona cemetery.

Two songs, "In The Garden," and "The Old Rugged Cross" were rendered by Mrs. Benson and Mrs. Hugh Arnold, with Mrs. Blanche Coffman, at the piano.

Pallbearers were six of the 1939 basketball players who were captained by him, as follows: Charles Randle, Ward Beasely, Clifford Ryan, Deshae McElroy, Eldon McClure and Raymond Pennington.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of J. L. Hamilton, Verona, uncle of the youth, assisted by Chambers & Grubbs and Phillip Taliaferro.

Game Wardens Have Record Month

Edwin Johnson, state conservation officer, of Walton received a report from Powell Bosworth, Sup't. of Wardens, in which he praised wardens throughout the state for their splendid work.

According to the report Mr. Johnson made one arrest during the month of May, checked 48 licenses and collected in contraband four fish baskets and six trout lines. Mr. Johnson was one of the highest wardens in checking licenses. Mr. Bosworth said in his report, "This month you've made history. Never has such work been done in Kentucky; it is outstanding. You are putting conservation on the map, and I am proud of you."

"Keep on boys, and you will have would-be violators leaving the State on the run. Courageous, cool-headed, industrious, fair-minded men, are invaluable in this work," Mr. Bosworth said.

Lennie Busby, of Florence was another warden who had a large number of licenses checked during the month of May, and collected 9 trout lines and 1 fiddler net.

Sale Of Personal Property Attended By Large Crowd Sat.

A crowd estimated at 400 people attended the sale of personal property of E. H. Clure, deceased held at Bellevue Saturday. All articles offered brought fair prices and some of the antiques offered at the sale brought fancy prices. R. E. Kirtley was the auctioneer.

Donnie Hayden

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Hayden, of Corinth were shocked to learn of the death of their small son, Donnie, 4, who drowned in a cistern at their home last week. Mrs. Hayden is a sister of Robert Eades, of Florence and a former resident of this county.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 at the Ashland Christian Church, with burial in Lexington cemetery.

NO MAIL TUESDAY

All correspondents and advertisers are asked to mail their copy early next week, on account of Tuesday being a legal holiday. No rural carriers will be on duty that day. All banks in the county will also be closed. Anyone desiring to place an advertisement or news item Tuesday will find The Recorder office open all day.

Harris-Kemper

Miss Elizabeth Harris, teacher in the Verona school and Mr. Oliver Kemper were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents on Sunday afternoon, June 25th at 4 o'clock. They left immediately following the ceremony for the groom's home.

Mrs. Kemper will return to Verona this fall where she will teach in the Verona school.

Those present to enjoy the day were: Mrs. Effie Hograffe, Mr. and Mrs. James Bristow and daughters, Ruth Mae, and Mary Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dixon, of Devon and Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Dixon and children Norma Sue, Jerry Beverly and Billy Dixon, of Alexandria.

$21,224 RECEIVED FOR WOOL CLIP

DELIVERED IN COUNTY DURING PAST WEEK—67,891 POUNDS IN BURLINGTON, WALTON AND PETERSBURG.

Boone county received $21,224 worth of wool clip during the past week, according to H. E. White, president of the pool. Last Tuesday 28,734 pounds were received at Walton; 25,543 pounds at Burlington on Wednesday and 13,614 pounds at Petersburg on last Thursday.

The wool crop this year was one of the poorest quality crops that has gone thru the pool. Practically every clip had one or more fleeces of fleece grown wool which was probably caused by the season, late shearing or one of many other factors that would cause new growth of wool to grow into the old wool. The unusual wet weather at the time of delivery caused many crops to grow in weight on date of sale. Wool from Western sheep presented a new problem with many fleeces going into the fine wool and others going into the fine wool reject in price.

The Boone county wool clip has been rated as one of the best in the country being of high quality and low shrinkage. Despite the unusual conditions 57,792 pounds or 83.38 sold as clear wool at $31.80 per hundred, 4629 pounds of 8.51 per cent at $26.30 per hundred as reject, and 5335 or 7.86 per cent pounds at a special price between rejection and clear price. Boone county growers long noted for their high quality fleeces are presented with a challenge to maintain this reputation.

Squirrel Season Opens Thursday

July 1 may be just another day to large numbers of people but to the squirrel hunter it has a definite meaning, that of being able to begin the hunting of squirrels on that date and the continuation of such sport until the first of October.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, calls attention to the bag limit of 6 squirrel daily which is now in effect and which law will be strictly enforced by the Conservation officers.

Reports that have come to the office here from both sportsmen and Conservation Officers from over the state indicate that all species of the squirrel have made up for losses in numbered suffering by the 1 during the past hunting season and should be plentiful enough to furnish good hunting this season.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie returned last week from London, England, where she attended a meeting of Homemakers leaders from all parts of the world.

THREE YOUTHS FACE CHARGES

OF HAVING STOLEN PROPERTY ARRESTED MONDAY AT HOME NEAR INDEPENDENCE—HELD UNDER $1000 BOND.

Three youths, Joe, Paul and Francis Scott were arrested Wednesday evening of last week at their home near Independence, by Sheriff Jack Williams and Patrolman Harry Nuxoll. The youths were charged with having stolen property in their possession.

Sheriff Williams stated the loot found on the Scott premises and on a car owned by the youths was allegedly removed from a truck stolen from the home of Mrs. Mattie Griffith of the Richmond road several weeks ago. All parts were recovered with the exception of a radio, according to Sheriff Williams.

At the time of their arrest the boys stated that they had purchased the articles found by Sheriff Williams from the Covington dump at 9th Street.

The youths were returned to Burlington by Sheriff Williams and placed under $1,000 bond which they were unable to give, and are being held for action of the August grand jury.

Two Cincinnati To Be Returned Here For Theft Of Coon Dog

Two Cincinnati men were arrested late Friday at Sixth and Elm Streets, as fugitives from justice, and are being held by police for Boone county authorities. The men registered as Robert Marshall, 26, 123 Shillito Place and Ernest Phillips, 28, 31 Garfield Place. They were arrested by Patrolmen Albert Hart and Thomas Parragher.

The men are charged with stealing a coon dog valued at $75 from Cliff Artterick, of Big Bone, and drove to Cincinnati in a rented car. The dog was stolen June 21st.

Sheriff F. M. Walton went to Columbus, Ohio, Monday where he will present requisition papers for the release of the men to Boone county.

Stolen Car Found On U. S. Highway 42

A new two-door Studebaker sedan owned by Dr. Walter R. Cook, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., was found on U. S. 42, three miles south of Florence Saturday night by Deputy Sheriff Harold Conner. The car apparently had been stolen Saturday afternoon and was driven until the gas supply was exhausted and then abandoned.

Dr. Cook was notified Monday that his car was being held in Boone county.

THE GARDEN

THE TURN OF THE YEAR
By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

As do business men, so gardeners begin a new year in July; rather, in July a new phase of the garden begins. In the early spring, when the first seed was sown, the aim was to produce as quickly as possible fresh, green vegetables to replace those preserved or stored for the winter and the appetite for which has become just a bit blunted. That phase is past; production is under way to keep the daily table supplied, and the opportunity has come to look to providing for next winter.

The vegetables laid by for winter use and for which arrangements must be made now are beans, tomatoes, cabbage, beets and white potatoes.

Beginning with beans, it may be that the custom has been followed to can a few quarts now and then as surpluses offered, but if it appears that not enough surplus will occur, the bean planting during July may be doubled to provide it. Stringless Greenpod is an excellent variety with which to continue but the new Stringless Refugee outyields it.

In passing, the reminder should be given that, as the summer advances, the campaign against the the Mexican bean beetle becomes more intense, and gardeners should stay alert to spray or dust when the first egg-clusters are seen on any planting of beans, and to follow the 10 day schedule developed by the Kentucky Experiment Station. It should be unnecessary to add that only the recommended control materials be used, and always, and only, on the under surfaces of the leaves.

Gardeners who have failed to provide for later tomatoes to come in when the fruits of the present planting become small and sour, still have a fair chance to make good the oversight, but they must act promptly. Early varieties, as Break O'Day, Bonny Best, Chalk's Jewel, started "in place," July 1, in a fair season should make a few ripe fruits before frost, and green tomatoes to ripen indoors or used in catsup, preserves or pickle.

Late cabbage, similarly, may still be started, but rather than use the stand, of late sorts, All-Seasons, Succession or Copenhagen Market should be the varieties. The seed of old be sown in groups, "in place," to evade the hazard that "sometimes attends transplanting" late July or early August.

Beets may be started in early July to make excellent roots to store, or at least "baby" beets to can. Keeping in mind that the season may not be particularly favorable, and because of the late start, anyhow, Crosby's Egyptian should be the variety.

Some weeks ago, late potatoes were here discussed, but this reminder is prompted by the presence in almost all parts of Kentucky, of seed of Green Mountain, the variety then recommended. Planted before July 15, and given a fair season, Green Mountain makes heavy yields, provided, of course, that the gardener has done his part in providing all the advantages proper, on potato growers have learned are essentials.

The increased activity of the Mexican beetle during this phase of the garden, has been touched upon, but the same is true of all insects, whose injury may be intensified by the slower growth of the vegetables resulting from the customary curtailment of rain in this season. Alertness to use the correct measures against them should will defeat the insects.

Again, because of moisture shortage, the endeavors of gardeners should be directed to conserve what moisture there is, by cultivating only slowly, and by refraining from shaking labor-wasting hills and ridges.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations for certain positions in the Department of Agriculture, named below. Applications must be on file in the Commission's office, Washington D. C., not later than July 17 if received from States east of Colorado, and not later than July 20 if received from Colorado and States westward.

EVENING-TIDE

When others seek a gay night club thinking me perhaps, such an awful dub;
At evening 'Tis then I love to roam within their garden of my home.

Nearby there stands an apple tree that all my life has sheltered me; In white its blossoms, pink and white, fill my heart with such delight.

Upon one bough the scars still cling, Made there by my childhood swing When I would play till dusk would fall And night's great blanket cover all.

When evening shadows round would creep, And on their wings, bring dream-land sleep, And drifting clouds, whose fleecy peak with silver moon, play hide and seek.

If there is finer, I want to know Than a great wide field where the daisies blow, Or the distance, where the woods abound And timid wildlife can be found.

While others seek a pleasure isle, To dine and dance and sing and smile, 'Tis then I turn to that lane of rest, Where flowers bloom and the robins nest.

Fun-seeking folks, I don't condemn, It's just that I can not envy them; To me, there is more beauty far, In soft moonbeams or twinkling star.

Or perhaps a walk to the stile or gate, Or on the shore of a tranquil lake; To me there is no greater treat, Than the quiet, away from a thoroughfare street.

—Joyce.

4-H CLUBBER'S PAY WITH STRAWBERRIES

Members of Kiwanis clubs at Middletown and Pineville this spring received payment for strawberry plants which they distributed among Bell county 4-H members a year ago. Their reward was in the form of gallons of big, red berries. Through the aid of the Kiwanians, hundreds of farms in Bell county this year produced strawberries for home use and also to sell.

At Hazard, Perry county 4-H club members who received plants last year from the Hazard Plain-leader and business men, made a large strawberry exhibit, and distributed 50 gallons of berries among the sponsors of the strawberry project. More than 100 farm boys and girls in the county were helped to start strawberry growing.

SUMMER BRINGS MILDEW PROBLEM

Watch for mildew during warm, muggy spells in summertime when the relative humidity is above 60. Mildew may appear in a few hours on clothing in closets, on shower curtains and other household textiles or on floors, furniture, leather bags or shoes, which are poorly ventilated. It may appear also in badly lighted locations, or if a dark house has been closed up for a while.

If fabrics must be stored, put them in a dry place. Articles in trunks in the cellar often mildew because the cellar is commonly damp or poorly ventilated.

Mildew is a fungus growth, explains home demonstration experts at the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Characteristic mildew spots are gray, green, yellow, or black. They may vary in size from a pin point to a cent. One in the fibers of a fabric, mildew stains are next to impossible to get out. Cotton is more susceptible than woolen goods.

On leather bags or shoes, a growth of mildew can be brushed off if found promptly, and the article can be washed. Cloth blinding of books contain 50 percent or more of starch and gum and are a favorable place for mildew fungi to flourish. A coat of clear lacquer on the covers and back will protect book covers from mildew and also from roach and water-bugs.

When several articles start mildew, the whole house probably needs to be thoroughly dried out and aired. Even in summertime a good remedy is to run the heating plant for a few hours, leaving the windows open for air circulation. Floor and woodwork may need wiping with a damp cloth containing a little kerosene.

Men of the Mounted

By Captain
G. Elliott-Nightingale

WHEN SITTING BULL REALLY SAT DOWN

TO VIOLATE an age-old Sioux law, and to do so in the presence of a few hundred Sioux warriors whose weapons still glistened with the white blood of the Custer massacre, to do such an unheard of thing and get away alive, such was the distinction that came, rather suddenly, to one of the smallest men ever seen in the ranks of the Mounted. The "untouchables" of India had little on the old-time Indian medicine men, when it came to disarming fellow humans at a distance, and one of the most famous of "untouchables" among American Indians was Sitting Bull, medicine man and mad magician of the hard-fighting Sioux.

After the frightful butchery at Little Bighorn, the Sioux knew that if they stayed where they were they would soon have thousands of American soldiers on their necks, men who would wreak the fullest measure of revenge for the terrific slaughter of Custer's brave troops. It was a case of fight, or fly, so after much debate and wrangling, the Sioux decided to fly to Canada, to Manitoba, and seek sanctuary under the British flag until the excitement over the Custer affair had died down. Six thousand Sioux and a few brave New Persepolis refugees on Canadian soil, and the Northwest Mounted Police began to be a bit curious about the newcomers, so an inspector and ten men were dispatched to contact the Sioux and find out what they intended to do in regards to the future, whether they intended to stay in Canada and become "wards," or if they planned raids and depredations against the white settlers in Canada.

After much peace-piping and parleying Sitting Bull, the spokesman, assured the police inspector that the Sioux were on a peaceful mission and that after a breathing spell they would probably return to the United States. Satisfied, the inspector and his men returned to quarters.

The Sioux settled down to the more or less uneven tenor of their semi-savage ways. Things went along quietly until some of the braves grew restless and staged a horse-stealing party. This was mistake number one. His mistake number two was that they had been foolish enough to steal some of the best horses from the Northwest Mounted Police, and among these was Inspector Allen's favorite mount, a bit too thick with two men, he returned to the Sioux and demanded that all ten horses be at once brought back. Sitting Bull shouted and swore, and swore some of the stolen horses were led up to the Men of the Mounted.

"Where's the rest of them?" queried the inspector, quietly.

"Find 'em yourself," said several Sioux simultaneously. At time passed peacefully. Some were found and the Men of the Mounted were feeling quite lucky, except for the fact that the stolen horse had not been found. Then came a moment when Inspector Allen saw his horse, and his rider was Sitting Bull himself. Giving the sign of friendship, Inspector Allen, head and shoulders shorter than any Sioux brave around him, and probably half the size of Sitting Bull, pointed to the black mare, and said:

"My horse. You must give it back to me."

"My horse," Pony Soldier, shouted Sitting Bull.

"That horse carries my brand, my mark," said Allen, softly as he moved close enough to have Sitting Bull's knuckles come under his clean-shaven chin.

"My horse!" screamed Sitting Bull. At this hundreds of Sioux warriors, sensing trouble, closed in on the quavering pair. Allen stood his ground, however. Again he parleyed with Sitting Bull, and again received a flood of abuse and insolence and a threat of sudden death.

It was then that Inspector Allen violated a Sioux law as old as the Sioux, the law that decreed sudden death to anyone offering or committing violence upon the sacred personage of a tribal medicine man. Bracing himself, and reaching up all but a few of the stolen horses herded for the trip back to quarters, the inspector and his two men rode quietly out of the Sioux encampment. Allen carried with him the distinction of being the only white man ever to man-handle the great and sacred Sitting Bull, and live to tell about it.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

After 250 farmers attended a fat lamb show in Madison county, 500 sheep were requested for immediate buying.

To study child welfare, an unusually large number of home-makers recently enrolled in projects in Hart county.

Many Campbell county farmers saw a 15-acre crimson clover demonstration on the farm of Leonard List.

The rural electrification program in Franklin county has been extended an additional 25 miles.

Greenup county farmers have ordered 65 tons more of phosphate than were used last year.

To learn more about flower arrangement, Hopkins county farm women demonstrated how to arrange varieties of them for different occasions.

In Graves county, 4-H club members assisted County Agent Williamson in showing how to build a safety feed lot pen.

Top prices for strawberries were received by Marshall county farmers who shipped to northern markets.

A 13-acre field in Monroe county seeded in 1936 to alfalfa this year carried 30 head of cattle.

Edmonson county farmers have ordered 100 ewes, and County agent George Kurtz expects the total to be about two loads.

A hog cholera epidemic in part of Union county handicapped producers, but was promptly checked.

After eight years as a 4-H club member, Charles Coward of Taylor county last month sold 15 registered gilts and other livestock.

O. C. Rankin, Nicholas county, plans to raise 4,000 turkeys this year.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN GRAYSON COUNTY

In a report of farm progress in Grayson county, Kentucky, County Agent R. T. Faulkner says that returns from poultry has increased from $350,000 to $800,000 annually in five years. In that time eggs produced per hen per year rose from an average of 80 to 160.

The county's conservation program in the past five years includes the building of 248,600 feet of terraces to hold the land from washing; the setting of 283,800 forest trees, the application of 41,213 tons of crushed limestone, and 2,779 tons of superphosphate and the turning of 6,882 acres of green manure crops.

WARDENS SENT TO OTHER DISTRICTS BRING RESULTS

"As much as we hate to admit it, there are still bands of chronic game law violators who disregard the tenets of true sportsmanship by swooping down on a field or a stream and taking anything that they can lay their hands on. Undersized fish, quail, rabbits, and baited doves fall victim to their vicious practices. No amount of persuasion or education can change their attitude. True, there are not as many as there were 20 years ago, but they exist in sufficient number to cause a lot of trouble," Mr. or James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish stated today.

"A favorite trick of this type of game hog is to shadow the local game warden, find out where he is going, and then go in the opposite direction to wreck havoc in wildlife. They know the game warden's automobile and in some instances they even know the sound of his outboard motor. One lone warden against bands of lawless hunters and fishermen is helpless," P. own pointed out.

"But now, the Conservation Officers are sent from time to time into other territories to work and in this manner the violators have trouble in keeping up with the law and in many instances within the past few months these violators have been caught because some strange warden came up on them while violating the game and fish laws," Brown explained. Some violations of the laws carries penitentiary sentences while other carry large fines and jail sentences, so it would be a lot the best to observe the laws and stay out of trouble than to destroy wildlife wantonly and get into trouble with the law.

Endorsement Given Judge R. L. Hardin

June 24th, 1939

TO MY FRIENDS AND RELATIVES IN BOONE COUNTY:

I am addressing you in the interest of Judge R. L. Hardin whom I have known for many years.

He served as County Judge of Carroll County for sixteen years; he served well in this capacity and during this period, his popularity, as Judge and as splendid citizen continued in great favor.

He is now serving, as City Attorney for Carrollton; he is well qualified to serve as Commonwealth Attorney, which office he is seeking and knowing him as I do, I do not hesitate to endorse him; as Judge and as splendid citizen continued in great favor.

Many of you remember that I was born and reared in Boone, I will personally appreciate it if you will support him in the coming election.

Kind regards and best wishes for all of you.

Respectfully,

W. L. GAINES.

Six Boone Counties Registered At U. K. For Summer Session

Surpassing all records for the first term enrollment in the history of the University of Kentucky Summer Session, a total of 1,921 students registered for the current five-weeks term at the state University. Included in the registration are two students from Venezuela, S. A., one from Egypt, one from the Canal Zone and one from Canada.

A statistical analysis of registration at the University of Kentucky for the first five-weeks term of the ten weeks session shows that 118 of the 120 Kentucky counties are represented, 32 of the 48 states border Kentucky, and that the total of 1,921 students in attendance surpasses by 65 the total number enrolled during the first summer term last year.

Among those students registered from Boone county are: Marvin Souther, Moonlight, Alton, Stewart, Kenyon, Constance, Alma, Elizabeth Rouse, Walton; John Casper Acree, Florence; Ben F. Stansifer, Walton; and Virginia Lee Reimer, Burlington.

PICNIC GROUND IS

SCENE OF COUNTRY EDITORS' PROGRAM
A lapse of memory on the part of Clair Shadwell, who does the "Editor Writes" program over WSAI, coupled with the enthusiasm over a picnic he and his family were enjoying with Dewey H. Long, WSAI general manager, and his family, almost kept that program off the air Wednesday, June 21.

As the two families sat down to eat their picnic supper on the terrace, Moonlight Gardens, Coney Island, Cincinnati, Shadwell suddenly remembered it was Wednesday and time for "The Editor Writes." In no mood to leave his pleasant surroundings, he thought it would be a good idea to utilize WSAI's remote control, booth established the year-round at Coney Island. He dispatched a messenger to the WSAI studios to get the script while manager Long called in for a remote engineer to man the control booth at Moonlight Gardens.

At 7:30 p. m., EST, the regular time for the program, "The Editor Writes" went on the air, with Shadwell sitting out under the trees with his family, the microphone sitting on the picnic table before him.

Listeners to the program heard the voice of an announcer with whom they were not familiar. Nor was he familiar with the announcer. He was WSAI general manager Long.

CHECK-UP IN STATE MINIMUM WAGE DIVISION BY CLAY A. COPELAND

W. C. Burrow, Commissioner of Industrial Relations, announced that the State Minimum Wage Division was beginning an immediate checkup on alleged violations throughout the State. He has directed Clay A. Copeland, Supervisor of the State Minimum Wage Law to immediately investigate some 350 complaints, Mr. Burrow explained, were filed during the period when the Law was Directory and stated that it is probable that the great majority of employers have been observing the provisions of the Law since it became mandatory on June 1st.

The provisions, rules and regulations under the Minimum Wage Law are in full force and effect regardless of suits filed against same, Burrow explained. No injunction has been granted suspending operations of the law. Complaints against employers operating under either the Federal or State Minimum Wage Laws should be forwarded to the Department of Industrial Relations, Frankfort, Ky.

Commissioner Burrow assures employees and all other individuals who report violations of the Minimum Wage Law that their identity will not be disclosed.

SLEEPING SICKNESS FOUND IN KENTUCKY

The first case this year of sleeping sickness of horses in Kentucky has been reported by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. The brain of a horse that died in the central part of the state was examined in the Station's department of animal pathology and the cause of death pronounced sleeping sickness. This diagnosis later was confirmed in the Bureau of Animal Industry in the United States Department of Agriculture.

Brain of several horses have been received at the Experiment Station, but only in this one instance was evidence of the sleeping disease found. A large number of Kentucky horses have been vaccinated against sleeping sickness, the disease which killed large numbers of horses in other states last year.

FLORENCE TOWNSEND
CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS
All members of the Florence Townsend Club are requested to attend a called meeting, June 29th at 8 p. m. for the purpose of electing officers; it was announced this week by D. I. Tanner, Secretary.

THINGS FARMERS DO

WHEN THEY SUCCEED
What makes for success on the farm? The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture interviewed farmers to find out.

Since control of expenses is easier than control of prices, successful farmers reduce costs. They produce the most at the smallest cost.

Some other things good farmers do: Use limestone and phosphate; grow winter cover crops on plowed land; seed mixed clovers and grasses; grow enough vegetable, meat, milk and eggs for home use; keep 40 percent of tillable land, other than bottom land in pasture; purchase only concentrated feed that can't be produced on the farm; keep enough cattle and sheep to use all hay and pasture, and enough hogs to eat all the corn not needed for other stock; do or supervise all labor themselves; do work on time; have fence and stock water adequate for all fields to be pastured at the right time.

Other factors observed: Successful tobacco growers give attention to curing; dairy farmers who succeed, cull, select and feed for high production; those who raise sheep provide small grain pasture house and care for their flocks; hog raisers follow sanitary methods in feeding and farrowing, save most pigs, and push them through to early market condition.

GIVES CONTROL OF TOBACCO DISEASES

Kentucky tobacco growers have more to fear from wildfire and angular leafspot in plant beds and fields than from blue mold, says a statement from the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Belief is expressed that the 1938 outbreak of blue mold was the most severe that Kentucky growers are likely to experience for years.

Losses from blue mold are considered minor when compared to the destruction of wildfire and angular leafspot, especially in Western Kentucky. Tests made over a series of years in Todd and neighboring counties indicate that wildfire and leafspot can be controlled in the plant bed by two applications of bluestone-lime, if applied when the plants are small.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

An electric bull pen has been built by Edgar Adams, of the Bullitt-Jefferson Dairy Association. An ordinary woven wire fence was used, with one or two electric wires used as lining.

At the age of 8 weeks, a litter of 10 pigs belonging to Job T. Claybrook, Mason county, weighed 410 pounds. They had been self-fed corn, tankage, mill-run feed and soybean meal and kept on bluegrass having much clover. At the same age, other pigs fed corn alone weighed only 25 pounds each.

In Carroll county, where corn of the hybrid variety increased yields 10 to 30 percent, 200 bushels were planted this year. County Agent Clyde Watts says this is at least four times the amount used any previous year.

It's a good bargain to trade 14 acres for 3 1/2 acres under certain circumstances, thinks B. C. Rose, Madison county farmer. He heavily phosphate a field seeded to alfalfa. A 3 1/2 acre field that gave him more hay than a 14-acre tract untreated.

Ohio county's strawberry crop rated high in quality according to standard grading procedure. By careful handling of berries, expert packing, etc., growers were able to command high prices. Approximately 14 carloads were shipped. Garrard county homemakers recently went in for wholesale repapering, painting and refurnishing of kitchens. Before they started work, they obtained many samples of wallpaper and learned to match colors and work out color schemes.

Demonstrations Of Phosphate Show Results

Twenty of the twenty-nine superphosphate demonstrations conducted by the Boone County extension service in connection with the Tennessee Valley Authority have been checked, according to Dr. J. C. Drake, county agent. These demonstrations are to show the value of lime and superphosphate on pasture lands. The phosphate was applied at the rate of 200 pound per acre while two tons of lime were used in most cases. Greatest results from lime are shown on red clover and alfalfa while phosphate shows up well on all grasses. Many of the demonstrators state that phosphate not only increases the stand of the grasses but also increases the feeding value.

Tests were run on five new grasses in connection with these phosphate demonstrations. Meadow Fescue, Fall Oat grass, Bromegrass, Canada bluegrass and Italian Ryegrass were shown. Ryegrass shows promise as a winter cover crop. It furnishes some winter pasture and also prevents the soil from washing. The other nine demonstrations will probably yield some additional information on these grasses.

MORE KENTUCKY FARMERS TAKE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS

Washington D. C.—That Kentucky farmers are on their toes and more than keeping pace with the news of a swiftly moving world in their own communities as well as in national and world affairs, is disclosed today by a survey made by The National Fertilizer Association of the reading habits of more than 32,000 farmers. The survey reports that 54 percent or more than 5 out of 10 of the State's farmers take a weekly newspaper.

The State is above the national results of The National Fertilizer Association's poll, which revealed that in 35 States 53 percent of the farmers take a weekly paper.

The National Fertilizer Association survey is conducted to determine farming practices in the use of fertilizer and to learn the sources of information which farmers use and rely upon. Six hundred and fifty men asked 32,000 farmers in 35 States 25 questions of vital importance to agriculture.

However, according to a recent study of contents of papers farmers read, general news although demanded, does not take the place of neighborhood and personal news which is of prime interest to farmers. Weekly newspapers, with their facilities for gathering and printing intimate local news, fill this requirement and therefore hold an increasing popularity among rural readers.

ERLANGER CLUB TO PLAY AT MIDWAY PARK SUNDAY

The North Erlanger nine will meet the Midway team Sunday on the latter's round. The Midway boys will be for another victory Sunday.

The Midway boys took the game from the Florence nine last Sunday by a score of 10 to 2.

GOOD RESULTS FROM NORTHWESTERN EWES

A survey made by County Agent Floyd McDaniel showed that Montgomery county farmers got exceptional results from using northwestern ewes this season. Almost without exception, he found that farmers who obtained good western stock produced good lambs and fleeces. Kellar Hall, for instance, had more than 11 pounds of wool per ewe, and sold 104 good lambs from 75 ewes. McDaniel believes many farmers will be in the market for western ewes this year.

RUPTURE

SHEILD EXPERT HERE AGAIN

E. J. Meinhardt, widely known Expert of Chicago, will personally be in Cincinnati, Ohio, at the Gibson Hotel, Friday and Saturday, July 7th and 8th, from 1 P. M. to 5 P. M. and 7 P. M. to 9 P. M. daily. Please note dates and hours carefully.

MR. MEINHARDT says: The new Shield, which he recently invented, is a tremendous improvement, usually effecting immediate results. It strengthens the weakened muscles of the Opening—retaining the Rupture in 10 days on the average case, regardless of the size or location and no matter how hard you work or strain. It is waterproof, quickly removable and has no leg straps. (Positively no surgery or caustic burning injections treatments used.) Mr. Meinhardt has been coming here for 15 years.

Rupture (Hernia) can cause backache, constipation, nervousness, weakness, stomach pains—sometimes resulting in serious conditions.

Men having large Ruptures which have returned after surgical operations are also invited. When all others fail—see MEINHARDT. He will be pleased to demonstrate to you privately without charge. (Only men invited.) White only.

People and Spots in the Late News

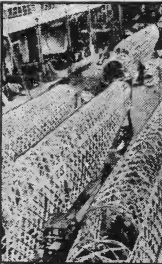

FAST FARMING . . . Symbolic of the labor-saving speed of modern rubber-shod farm mobile equipment is the way this "self rubber-track-laying" Marmon-Herrington tractor takes a high-banked turn at 45 miles an hour in a "farmyard derby" on the same World's Fair track where Jimmie Lynch's auto-bouncing death dodgers hold forth.

ARMED TO THE TOOTH . . . Caught by the camera in appropriate "fighting" pose is 18-day-old Raymond Dean Kimbrell of Chattanooga, Tenn., who came into the world equipped with a fully-emerged lower front incisor. "And don't say I didn't," he seems to be warning skeptics here.

TAXES ON FUN . . . A survey of summer vacation costs made by the National Consumers Tax Commission shows that hidden taxes even follow play-minded Americans on their annual outings, accounting, for example, for 55 cents—about 11 percent—of the consumer price on even such a simple plaything as that worn here by pretty Lois Fox of Chicago.

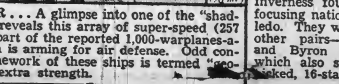

COAL RUNS AUTO . . . "Liquid coal" was tried out as an auto fuel in experiments by Dr. Francis Godwin of Armour Institute, shown here filling temporary tank under hood of a stock car whose only adjustment was removal of fine screen from carburetor. It is a cold fuel, 40 percent coal and 60 percent range fuel oil.

STARS OVER TOLEDO . . . The golfing team of Johnny Revolta (left) and Henry Picard captured top honors in the Inverness four-ball tourney which is focusing national golf attention on Toledo. They won in a play-off with two other pairs—Sam Snead-Vic Ghezzi and Byron Nelson-Jug McSpaden—which also survived from the hand-picked, 16-star field.

BRITAIN ARMS THE AIR . . . A glimpse into one of the "shadow factories" of England reveals this array of super-speed (357 miles an hour) bombers, part of the reported 1,000-warplanes-a-month with which Britain is arming for air defense. Odd construction of fuselage framework of these ships is termed "radio-detic," designed to give extra strength.

The second annual Kentucky Bankers' Conference will be held at the University of Kentucky July 18, 19, 20, under the joint sponsorship of the Kentucky Bankers Association, the University of Kentucky, and the State Division of Banking, and the meetings are open to bankers and all other interested persons upon the payment of a registration fee.

All conference sessions will be held in the Student Union building at the University and a limited number of rooms will be available in the University residence halls to those writing in advance for reservations.

A feature of the three-day session will be a banquet which will be held Wednesday evening, July 19, at seven p. m. in the Student Union, with David W. Faleigh, Louisville, vice president and secretary of the Lincoln Bank and Trust Company as toastmaster.

Other plans of investment will leave your family what you have saved, if you are lucky in investing.

INSURANCE will leave them what you hoped to have.

SAFETY IS ALWAYS THE FIRST CONSIDERATION! NOTHING ELSE IS SO IMPORTANT.

IN MEMORY

of my dear little granddaughter's third birthday, June 26th, Patzy Ann Brown.

Five months and 4 days ago dear Patzy

You were laid to rest; Sadly missed in your little home Gone from grandmother's clasp. But darling you will never be Forgotten by the family tree; Our hearts ache when we think of thee

Not in your little place as you used to be.

Your little grace with grass is velvet green.

Washed by the rain and dew The little birds sing in the trees near you.

Grandmother hopes to walk hand in hand,

In your rainbow garden with you Your heavenly grandmother, Elizabeth Pepper Brown.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Strawberry Bavarian Cream: 1/2 envelope gelatin, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup strawberry juice and pulp, 1 1/2 cups heavy cream, beaten until stiff. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Dissolve by standing cup of mixture in hot water. Strain into strawberry juice mixed with lemon juice. Add sugar, and when sugar is dissolved set bowl containing mixture in pan of ice water and stir until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in cream. Turn into well lined with strawberries cut in halves, and chill. Garnish with fruit, selected strawberries and leaves.

How Foot Troubles Affect The Whole Body

BY N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist at
AT PEOPLES' FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison, Covington

Unless one is, or has been, a sufferer from foot troubles, it is rather hard for him to understand the far reaching effects which such conditions produce. In our school days, we received at last a superficial education in physiology which included the nervous system.

It may be compared with an intricate and comprehensive electric system. Messages are instantly transmitted from one part of the system to every other part. So it is with the human nervous network that reaches every part of the body.

It is a demonstrated fact that the pains produced by foot troubles can and do travel to and seriously affect other parts of the body far removed from the feet. Sometime ago a Chicago School had occasion to serve a man who had both OARCH and EYE trouble. While no one suspected that there was any connection between the two it developed that when his foot troubles were relieved his eyes showed a marked improvement.

Headaches are almost invariably traced to the stomach, eyes, liver or some other part of the body. The feet can and do produce the same condition. No one suffering from intense foot pain can conceal it in his or her facial expression.—Adv.

VERONA

Rev. Brown preached his farewell sermon Sunday night. The community extends sympathy to the family of Jimmie Chapman, who passed away Wednesday evening. The community feels the loss of a young life well prepared to take up life's work.

The funeral of Ollie Waller, 74, was held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at New Bethel Church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Waller, of Cleveland, spent the week-end with relatives here and attended the funeral of his uncle Ollie Waller.

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitson and Mr. Harvey Whitson spent the week-end with their mother and attended the funeral of their nephew, Jimmie Chapman.

Several from this community delivered wood at Walton last week.

Another wedding in our community. Miss Elizabeth Harris and Mr. Oliver Kemper were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents Sunday afternoon June 25th at 4 o'clock. They left immediately for the groom's home. Mrs. Kemper will return this fall to fill her place on the faculty of the Verona school.

HOW ARE YOUR EYES?
Many persons suffer from eye-strain and do not know the cause of their distress—headaches, dizziness, nervousness, mental dullness, etc.

Our expert examination will reveal the true condition of your eyes and may save you much trouble in the days to come.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. & Sat.—"Persons in Hiding"
Sun. and Mon.—"Trade Winds."
Tuesday—"Algers"
Wed., Thursday, July 5 and 6th—"Thoroughbreds Don't Cry."

Handsome Charles Boyer has his most romantic role as a lovable fugitive in Walter Wanger's "Algers," the colorful adventurous romance that stars him opposite Hollywood's two most glamorous newcomers, Sigrid Gurie and Hedy Lamarr, at the Gayety Theatre, Tuesday.

"Algers" casts the dark-eyed screen lover as Pepe le Moko, devil may-care international jewel thief who takes refuge from the French police by living in the Casbah, the mysterious native quarter of Algiers where the law dare not intrude.

Here Pepe le Moko rules as king, idol of the strange, exotic women of the quarter, commander of the men, and beloved by everyone for his handsome, smiling face and high adventurous heart.

Sigrid Gurie, who made a triumphant film debut in "The Adventures of Marco Polo," is seen as Ines, his beautiful and wildly jealous native sweet-heart.

Then one day there strolls into the Casbah, a beautiful Parisian tourist, named Gaby—played by the alluring Viennese actress, Hedy Lamarr.

Pepe and Gaby fall madly in love and after a series of exciting and romantic adventures, in the course of which the jealous native sweetheart betrays Pepe to the police, the story ends on a breath-taking surprise climax.

Ronald Sinclair, Hollywood's new discovery in British boy actors, is teamed with Judy Garland and Sophie Tucker of "Broadway Melody" fame, Mickey Rooney, and other notable players in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," new attraction coming to the Gayety Wednesday and Thursday, July 5th, and 6th.

Childhood friendships and loyalties in an intensely human story mingle with the thunder of racing hoofs, the excitement of the racetrack, and hidden intrigue of turfdom. Alfred E. Green directed the picture, in which major thrills include the American Cup race, a boy riding to victory with a badly injured leg, and the dramatic exposure of a ring of crooks by a young jockey who realizes that the exposure means his own ruin but hopes to save his friend.

Sophie Tucker plays her second role on the screen as the kindly race track boarding housekeeper, and Judy Garland has a new song, "Gotta Pair of New Shoes," by Brown and Freed of "Broadway Melody" fame.

Constance Drops Game To Bromley

The Constance baseball team lost to Bromley by the score of 10 to 6 Sunday. The game was much more interesting than the score indicates, and with a little closer defense the home team might have been victorious.

The next five games Constance plays will be at home. The schedule is as follows: July 2, Petersburg; July 9, Burlington; July 16, Florence; July 23, Elmore Merchants; and July 30, Bromley.

Any team that would like to schedule a game with Constance for August, get in touch with R. V. Lents, Ludlow, Ky., R. 2.

AT THE JAMES WALTON, KY.

"Lucky Night," with Myrna Loy and Robert Taylor, Friday and Saturday, June 30th and July 1st. They're more thrilling together than you've ever dreamed. Lucky Myrna... Lucky Bob... and lucky you... Because their night of dizzy fortune... dizzier romance... will make your heart leap with joy. They started at dusk as Mr. and Miss... they ended at dawn as Mr. and Mrs. Hilarity and heart throbs galore.

"Never Say Die," with Martha Raye, Bob Hope and Andy Devine, Sunday, July 2nd. Those two goofy people... Martha and Bob are at it again. This time in a m. scramble over the Alps with Andy Devine adding to the excitement. A spring tonic of pure undiluted fun-making, that'll laugh away those old winter blues.

"Blonde Meets the Boss," with Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Snyman, Monday, July 3rd. In the second of this grand series of family life comedies... based on Chic Young's famous comic strip. There's no place like home... when the Bumsteads cut loose. You never can be sure what this family will do next... So come prepared for anything... In their second laughing free-for-all.

"I'm from Missouri," with Bob Burns, Gladys George and Gene Lockhart, Tuesday, July 4th. Folks like mules... and an ounce of kindness is worth a pound of spite... and Bob with the aid of his four-footed pal, Samson, sure proves his point as he cures everything from a lover's quarrel to a depression in the Missouri mule market with those twin remedies... humor and common sense.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles," with Richard Green, Basil Rathbone, Wendy Barrie and Nigel Bruce, Wednesday, July 5th. Hiding house of unholy beat... living horror prowling ghostly moor... Sherlock Holmes against a shadowy evil. The master of a thousand mysteries pits his cunning against the giant, unearthly beast from hell that roams the ghostly night... striking terror into the hearts of two young lovers.

"Winner Take All," with Tony Martin, Gloria Stuart, Slim Summerville, Henry Armetta, Thursday, July 6th. A battling cowboy... Montana's gift to Manhattan's fight game... learns that the heart punches from his gorgeous girl manager are the hardest to take.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

MAKES REPORT FOR MAY

All types of employment have increased about 10 per cent over April, according to a report of the State Employment Service, 18 Pike St., Covington. If June continues as the first 10 days indicate, there will be a still greater increase.

Some difficulty has been experienced in filling jobs on file for domestic workers who are willing to live in the home of the employer. Many of these jobs will compare favorably in pay with that of factory or office. Machinists, bricklayers and some other highly skilled trades are becoming scarce. This is due partly to fewer apprentices being trained in the past few years.

Any workers interested in these jobs are requested to report at 18 Pike Street, Covington.

The Service makes the following report for the month of May: Placed in jobs—Sales persons 9; clerical workers 14; personal service workers 76; skilled factory workers 20; unskilled factory workers 12; building tradesmen 92; total persons placed 223.

New applications for work 498; persons waiting at the office 5854; claimants for Unemployment Compensation 1066; compensation paid to claimants in this district about $25,000.00.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Wet pumice stone and rub against fingers to remove ink and cigarette stains... Sponge foliage of house plants with soap solution... Use scissors in cutting meat, fish and fowl for salads or creamed mixtures. Pores are uniform then. If metal pots come off shoe laces dip them in glue at the ends. This will stiffen them... To sprinkle clothes easily, use whisk brush, kept for this purpose.

POSTED

ROAD PROJECT IS APPROVED

BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT—BIDS WILL BE LET FOR GRADE AND DRAIN JULY 28 ON PETERSBURG-BELLEVIEW ROAD.

The Federal government placed their approval on plans and specifications of the proposed new highway from Petersburg to Belleview, last week. The plans were submitted to that department several weeks ago by the state Highway Commission.

According to O. M. Rogers, Advisory Commissioner of the State Highway Department, from this district, bids will be received by the State for grade and drain construction work on Friday, July 28. It is believed that construction work will be started in the near future.

The federal government will furnish $60,000 toward the building of this strip of road. The new highway will be of high type construction, and will connect the Petersburg and Burlington-Belleview road, at a point near Belleview.

A new bridge will be constructed to span Woolper Creek, and the new road will be built above the highwater mark.

Popular Burlington Couple Are Married

Miss Zelma Lee Stephens and Mr. Roscoe Akin, both of Burlington, surprised their many friends Saturday night, when they were quietly married by Rev. Walker, of Latonia, former pastor of the Burlington Baptist Church. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stephens.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mrs. Susie Stephens, and at the present time holds a nice position with the Y. M. C. A. of Cincinnati. She is a graduate of the Burlington high school and is also a graduate of the Y. M. C. A. Business School, in Cincinnati.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Akin, and is one of the community's most industrious young men. He is a graduate of the Burlington high school, and for the past few years has been active in farm work.

The young couple will make their home with the bride's mother near Burlington.

Hempflings To Return Home First Of August

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hempfling, who have been spending several weeks in the East, are not expected to return to their home in Boone County until about the first of August.

TEN 4-H TOURS TO BE HELD

IN COUNTY DURING MONTH OF JULY—WILL AID MEMBERS IN DIFFERENT PROJECTS, ACCORDING TO H. B. DRAKE.

The 4-H club tours will be held during July, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. These tours are to help acquaint the club members with what the other members are doing as well as helping individuals with any problems they may have.

Nine of the ten clubs have all the members going on the tour and visit the separate projects. The Florence K-L Club is large enough that only the officers visit the projects, the other members holding a picnic later in the month.

By following this procedure, each club member's project will be visited within the next few weeks. The schedule of tours is as follows:

Verona, July 7th.
Florence, July 10th.
Taylorsport, July 11th.
Grant, July 12th.
Burlington, July 14th.
Hebron, July 18th.
Hamilton, July 19th.
Walton, July 20th.
Petersburg, July 21st.
New Haven, July 25th.
All members will meet at the schoolhouse at 9:00 a. m. the day of the tour.
Florence K-L Club will hold their picnic July 29th.

Patrolman To Instruct Youths In Bicycle Safety Drive

Monday night Patrolman Winterberg, with the aid of a group of Boy Scouts, met at the Locust Street School, Elsmere to organize a movement for bicycle safety.

The plans is to enlist, by cities or districts, all bicycle riders in an organization pledged to know and observe all traffic regulations. Members also must keep their bikes tires, brakes, etc., in good condition in order to promote safety.

Safety Clubs will be formed in all sections of northern Kentucky, if plans develop, according to Patrolman Winterberg. Following the instruction, each member will be tested. When a club has passed its tests, the members will take over administrative duties such as holding court for those who violate the regulations, and promoting affairs of mutual interest to the riders.

Southgate Man Cited On Reckless Driving Charge

John Grebner, 242 Ridgeway, Southgate was cited to appear in Judge Riddell's court on a charge of reckless driving. The citation was served by Sheriff F. M. Walton Sunday night, when Grebner crashed into a car driven by Melvin Waltering, near Zimmer's Gardens, on U. S. 25, south of Florence.

Arizona Man Arrested On Drunken Driving Charge Saturday

Dan Bowers, of Buckeye, Arizona was arrested last Saturday on U. S. Highway 25, by Patrolman Conrad of the State Highway Police. He was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Bowers was tried Monday in Judge Riddell's court, and was released upon condition that he leave the county.

State patrolmen have been very active in this section of the state and have waged war on all drunken drivers. Since the State patrolmen have been placed on the highways, accidents have been materially reduced.

Board Of Education Receive Bids Wednesday

At the regular meeting of the Boone County Board of Education, bids were received for school buses and approximately 337 tons of coal. We are unable to publish the name of the successful bidder, as the board is in session at we go to press.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to deliver coal to the eleven different schools of the county. The board is also considering quotations on installing stokers of 150 to 200 pounds capacity in the Hebron and New Haven schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Huey, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Easton, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Rouse, and Mr. and Mrs. George Porter and son were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huey Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huey, of Petersburg called on Mr. and Mrs. George Porter Sunday afternoon.

STATE LICENSES EXPIRED JUNE 30

NEW LICENSES MUST BE OBTAINED—HEAVY FINE IS PROVIDED FOR VIOLATORS OF LAW.

July 1st was the day upon which all dealers should have renewed their licenses for the sale of beer, liquors, ice cream and other things requiring a license. A heavy penalty is provided for any one who operates a business in which a license is required, if that license has not been obtained before he operates a business.

No one knows just when an inspector may come into one's place of business to check his license, and if it is found that licenses have not been obtained a penalty for failure to secure the license may be enforced, together with 20 per cent additional to the amount of the license.

DRIVER'S LICENSE READY JULY 10TH

NO CHANGE IN LICENSE—APPLICANTS MUST PRESENT OLD LICENSE WHEN APPLYING FOR 1939-40 CARDS.

Drivers may obtain their operator's license for 1939 on and after July 10th, according to A. D. Yelton, Circuit Clerk. There is no change in the license this year for persons who have a 1938-39 operator's license.

Applicants must bring their old license to the clerk's office when applying for their new cards. Persons who have never had an operator's license or those who have had one in the past in this or another state, but do not have that license will be required to take an examination before they may obtain a license. This examination is only given on Monday of each week by the State Highway Patrol, between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 4 p. m. Persons who are required to take the examination should call at the Clerk's office on Monday.

According to Mr. Yelton, a plan is being worked out by him, whereby he will visit most of the places in the county for the purpose of issuing operator's license. However, this will only apply to those persons who have a license, and have it to turn in for a renewal. Announcements of the time and place where Mr. Yelton will be in each place will be made in a later issue of this paper.

The license will be $1.00 this year, as usual.

Burlington Boy Going Good In Florida State Baseball League

Les Voshell, former Burlington high school athlete star, is going at a fast clip in the Florida State League, according to recent dispatches from the Leesburg Union-Times.

Voshell is playing left field for the Leesburg Tars and at present possesses a batting average of well over .500. In a recent double header with Orlando, he was responsible for all the runs knocked in by the Tars, getting one for two in the top of the third and four in the nightcap, one of the smashes being a game-winning triple and another a long double for two tallies.

Voshell was graduated from Eastern Teachers College in June.

Rev. R. A. Johnson was a business visitor at this office Wednesday afternoon, of last week. Rev. Johnson has just finished a revival meeting at Stewardsville, Grant county. He will conduct a revival at Verona New Bethel Church from July 23 to August 4.

LIQUOR STORE RULE CHANGED

BY ALCOHOL BEVERAGE CONTROL BOARD—BOARD DECIDES TO RENEW EXPORTERS' LICENSES.

Frankfort, Ky., July 3—The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board today had revised its rule dealing with liquor and beer licenses within 200 feet of a church, school or hospital, to conform with a recent Court of Appeals ruling.

The board had adopted a regulation requiring that the liquor or beer establishment could be within 200 feet of a church, school or hospital provided it did not face the same street. These institutions may give their consent for a liquor or beer establishment to be within 200 feet of their property line.

The board also declined to renew exporters' license for four border operators whose main trade had been with Tennessee bootleggers. Tennessee now has a state law regulating alcoholic beverages. It did not have when the exporters' licenses were issued.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

COST: 3 CENTS

SOME of the critics of advertising—and in this world there are those who criticize every good thing—level their lances at what they think is a weak spot: its cost.

They read of the million-dollar advertising appropriations, they brood on the cost of a full page of advertising in a metropolitan newspaper or a national magazine—and then they lose their sharpest barbs against the waste which they say is involved in this costly process.

Their only trouble is that they judge without having all the facts. For the truth is that advertising is the least expensive cost of doing business. Everything else costs a good deal more in proportion than the advertising.

The wise and capable business man bases the amount of money he spends for advertising upon the volume of business he either is doing or expects to do. This money set aside to advertise is called the appropriation.

It seldom runs, take the country over, more than 3 per cent, which means that for every dollar of sales made the advertising cost will be just three pennies. That is all—three pennies.

The large advertising appropriations come when a business, through the help of intelligent advertising, becomes so great that its annual volume runs into many millions of dollars a year. But whether an advertiser spends $10,000 a year or $10,000,000, his percentage remains the same—an average of 3 per cent.

The amount of money spent in advertising well-known products is so small as to be ridiculous, when you really know the facts.

Take oranges. How much do you suppose the growers spend to advertise their product? A third of a cent per dozen is all.

A national cracker baker reveals that he sets aside only one-tenth of a cent to advertise a package of crackers, while the manufacturer of a soft drink spends 1578/100,000 of a cent in advertising a five-cent glass of soda.

The manufacturer of a medium-priced automobile spends less than 3 per cent for advertising—he spends only $12 in making a $1,000 sale.

And even this small amount, this three cents on the dollar, isn't an expense, an added premium on the business. By spending three cents out of every dollar for advertising, the manufacturer or merchant can sell for less and give you more for your money.

It is to revise our antiquated banking structure and to adhere to sound banking practices; not the adoption of visionary schemes of credit.

Few industries have given more careful attention to the changing needs of the nation during recent years than has banking. Every phase of the intricate banking machine has been examined and re-examined; changes have been made and are being made after exhaustive analysis has found them to be needed and sound. There is nothing static about American banking—like the America it serves so well, it is dynamic and progressive.

Every keeping in mind its obligations to its depositors, banking seeks always to better and extend its services to industries and individuals. Unsound, "experimental" legislation will impair, not improve banking—and weaken, not strengthen, the many safeguards which have been created to protect the interests of depositor and borrower alike.

It was just this summer that I wrote about the work they were doing on the watermelon to make it the right size to fit in a family ice-box. Some fellows were experimenting and had developed a fruit that was about the size of a cantaloupe and could be stored easily. Things are moving mighty fast and you have to keep on your toes.

In the old days this was a country of big farms and larger appetites. Turkey had to be big to secure a place on a self-respecting dining table then. Fifty-pounders were commonplace. But today the Department of Agriculture is working hard to produce a turkey that will be small enough to fit the small place in the small ovens of the small families with the small incomes. Come Thanksgiving we may be surprised.

JEROBOAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 11:26-31, 37-40. GOLDEN TEXT—In all the ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy path.—Proverbs 3:6.

Strength of personality apart from good character will not assure success but will, on the other hand, cause only intensified failure and disaster. We may even add divine promises of blessing which are given on condition of right living, and the man of courage and strength without good moral or spiritual character will only dissipate both promise and power and will become what is even worse than a failure—a bad example and a leader of wickedness.

1. Opportunity and Treachery (vv. 26-29). Opportunity misused may become a curse, but that is the result when a man takes what might be a blessing and turns it into a blight. The man who is a blessing to the world against such sinfulness and at the same time it offers us an occasion to encourage young people to make the most of their opportunities for the glory of God.

That which commended Jeroboam to Solomon was that he was a man of courage and industry (v. 28). That combination will carry a man or woman to unlimited heights. The world is so full of timid and lazy folk, that the one who has a heart of valor and a willingness to work hard stands out in bold relief. Every sensible employer knows that fact and is quick to lay hold of and advance such an individual. Times are hard and work is scarce, but opportunity still knocks at the door of the boy or girl, man or woman who is brave and diligent.

The sad thing was that there was treachery in the heart of Jeroboam. Had he been willing to wait God's time he would have received the blessing he so richly deserved and more, but his selfish personality did not include good character, and he at once began to plot against the king who had given him the chance to develop and advance. Let us teach our young people to be loyal and true, as well as to be brave and ambitious.

II. Promise and Condition (vv. 31, 37-39). God reached the end of His patience with Solomon. He who had begun on his knees in the house of God, seeking wisdom that he might rule his people aright, had come to wicked indulgence of the wives of his heathen wives. Through His prophet Ahijah, God made known the purpose to divide the kingdom into ten tribes and two-way separation which knew no reunion while Israel was in the land.

Jeroboam was promised the ten tribes with the assurance of a great blessing which had been given to David, but this was definitely on the condition that he would "hearken—walk—do—keep" (v. 38) God's statutes. The fact that he failed only emphasizes the folly and wickedness of the man, for he went on his way to destruction in spite of opportunity and blessing. Men are doing the same thing today. Oh, that we teach this lesson might be enabled to stop some such prodigal on this coming Lord's Day.

III. Danger and Exile (v. 40). Although Jeroboam in accordance with God's promise did ultimately come to his throne it was by way of danger and a flight into Egypt. Solomon determined to destroy him and Jeroboam had to flee into exile. If he had gone God's way to the throne and had kept his heart from him he might have spared himself both danger and exile in a heathen land.

Perchance some one who reads these lines is just now languishing in the exile of an Egypt of despair because he has failed to obey God. To such a one we say, do not follow Jeroboam who went from exile on into greater sin and sorrow. Turn back now, seek God in confession and contrition, and if need be, in salvation. Get back to God's way and enjoy His blessing.

In making application of the lessons learned from the life of Jeroboam, let us not fail to point out that all down through the historical records he is referred to repeatedly as the man "who made Israel to sin." "Jeroboam's sins were not the sins of a common man. It is only kings, and kings' counselors, and popes, and bishops, and ministers, and elders, and such like, who can sin and make nations and churches and congregations to sin. But they can do it. And they are doing it every day." The commonest and meanest man among us has more than enough of the terrible power of both sinning himself and making other men to sin" (Alexander Whyte).

To Be Saved
When a man is saved he is saved from something that does him harm. But that isn't all. He is saved to something that is good for him and everybody he comes in contact with.FLORENCE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

TO THE VOTERS OF GRANT AND BOONE COUNTIES:

Because of the many inquiries that have come to me from all over this District, concerning the probable market value of the fine tobacco crop now growing in our Counties, and because I realize from personal experience the heavy investment that every tobacco raiser puts into his crop, in time, money, labor and worry, I feel that I should state to the citizens of this District my attitude regarding the solution of our common problem.

As tobacco growers, we have all experienced the inequality of delivering the same quality of tobacco to different markets and see one crop sell four or five cents higher per pound than the other crop. This practice has discredited the tobacco production industry so that, instead of being a legitimate business, it has become to a certain extent a speculation and a gamble.

As a tobacco grower, we all know that the manufacturers of our product have throughout the period, we have taken what were offered and received in exchange—first, that there was too much of the common grade, and next, that there was too much of the better grade, so that the tobacco of which we had the fewer pounds brought relatively the best prices.

We all realize that the grower has not received just pay for his investment and the risk he assumed. Some of the outstanding citizens of Grant and Boone Counties have been advocating for years a program that should be incorporated in the laws of the State of Kentucky, to require the Loose Leaf markets to have qualified graders, approved by a State and Federal Board, and under no obligation to the manufacturer or warehouse men, who would receive our tobacco in the market, grade it, and receipt us for the number of pounds of each grade delivered. Then to require the tobacco to be sold in quantity lots of each grade, and pay each farmer the average price per pound for each particular grade sold.

We believe, as do our friends and neighbors, that this is a just, fair and reasonable plan for guaranteeing to each grower an honest and fair price for his tobacco crop, according to its quality and we favor it wholeheartedly, and shall make every effort to have it enacted into the laws of the State of Kentucky.

As we all know, the Federal Government is now furnishing qualified graders who determine the quality of tobacco delivered, but in the absence of a State law requiring the tobacco to be sold in bulk grades the growers must stand by and see crops of the same quality bid in with a price differential that is almost sickening in themselves.

With industry highly mechanized, and with the mutual dependence necessary in all branches of business, I firmly believe that cooperation among the farmers is vital and necessary in order to bring to them a fair share of the good things of life, and so long as I am permitted to act, either in private or public affairs, it is my desire to work to that end. When I ask you for your vote you have a right to require of me to know where I stand and in what I believe, and I am trying to express to you, in my own poor way, my attitude of the problems that are so vital to us all.

I am, your friend,
JOHN S. JUETT.

SHEEP INDUSTRY RANKS SECOND AS SOURCE OF FARM INCOME

Kentucky's sheep industry, looming large in the minds of the people as a source of farm income in a number of the State's best farming counties, made its bid for home and national recognition June 24, when a committee representing sheep producers of the state requested and received from Gov. A. B. Chandler a proclamation designating July 2-8 as "Kentucky Lamb Week."

The governor's proclamation stated, in effect, that the sheep industry represents an investment of approximately $10,000,000 and brings an annual income of approximately $7,000,000 to the state's farmers. It called attention to the wholesome effect of the industry on the prosperity of the state and country, and cited the fact that Kentucky Spring Lamb is actually better advertised and more extensively consumed in the large metropolitan centers than in the country where it is produced.

Receiving the proclamation from Governor Chandler were Virgil Stued, president of the Fayette County Farm Bureau; S. Headley Shouse, Fayette County farmer and lamb producer; Ollie Price, district Farm Bureau representative, and Dan Goodman, editor The Sheepman magazine.

Signing of the proclamation was an outgrowth of effort started two months ago to organize the state's lamb producers, stockyards and wholesale and retail distributors to better publicize the sheep industry for the benefit of both producer and consumer. Judge F. L. Duffy, of Cynthiana, was elected chairman of a Kentucky Sheep Growers' Committee, consisting of representatives of each important sheep-producing county, with Ollie Price serving as secretary.

For nearly 50 years Kentucky has ranked near the top of the states producing the highest quality lamb. The abundant pastures and favorable climatic conditions have been important factors in this leadership. Like the widely-published California citrus fruit producers, as well as the orchard men who grow the famous Georgia peach, Kentucky sheep producers believe they have a product worthy of the attention of the rest of the world, but they are inviting more of the home-folks to try serving Kentucky lamb as a meat product highly recommended for consumption during the hot summer months.

Cooperating with Kentucky shepherds in Kentucky Lamb Week are the Associated Chain Stores of the State, consisting not only of food chains but of other stores. Joe T. Lovett, Murray, has represented the chain stores in working out plans for the lamb promotion campaign. In addition to the chains, the independent grocery and meat dealers of the state also are expected to cooperate, as well as hotels and restaurants.

VERONA

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White and two daughters Nancy Sue and Mary Edna of East Alton, Ill., arrived at Verona Saturday for an extended visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Vest and family entertained Sunday with a family gathering in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White and daughters of East Alton, Ill. Those present were Hiram English, Mr. and Mrs. James Watson and grandson, Charles Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arch Noel, Mr. and Mrs. Will Waller and sons Billie Mac and Marion Arch and Imogene White, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vest, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pennington and daughter Wanda Lee, Mr. and Mrs. James Vest and son James Thornton, Wendell McCubbin, Dora Lykins and son Harold Gene, the guests of honor and the host and hostess and their daughters Peggy May and Rose Marie.

Mr. Joe Fisher, who has been ill much improved again.

Having been asked by the deacons to take charge of the arrangements for Home Coming Day, Bro. A. K. Johnson called a meeting after Sunday School and appointed the necessary committees. The Home Coming is to be the 5th Sunday in July, and all members, pastmembers and friends are urged to come, bring dinner and enjoy a day with old friends.

Sunday, July 9, the Verona ball team defeated the Fort Thomas soldiers, defeating them by a score of 4 to 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter entertained Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Salmon and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Montgomery.

The Happy Twelve Club met on Tuesday of last week for their July meeting at the home of Ruth Vest. A lovely day was enjoyed by all and plans were made for a picnic to be held at Coney Island in the near future.

A special meeting is to be held on Thursday night, July 6th, to discuss plans for a Daily Vacation Bible School. All interested please come to the worthy cause. Bro. [redacted] of the Walton B. [redacted] will have charge of the meeting.

ALL DAY MEETING TO BE HELD AT SALEM BAPTIST CHURCH SUN.

There will be an all day meeting on Sunday, July 16, 1939 at the old historic Salem Baptist church, located one and one-half miles south of Walton, Ky., near Highway 16. Mrs. Juliet F. McClure whose membership remains there, has had the grounds and church beautified.

We invite you to come and worship the Lord with us on this day. Preaching service at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. (C. S. T.). Bring your lunch and spend the day.

Elder Chas. Mangold.

TRUE SOIL CONSERVATION INVOLVES MANY PRACTICES

Farmers of Kentucky are treating large acreages with superphosphate and lime. This is as it should be, notes Prof. George Roberts of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, for in most parts of the state this treatment is necessary to good growth of legumes, without which the soils cannot be economically brought to a high state of production and kept there.

However, the higher yields of legumes, and consequently of other crops following the legumes, make a much heavier draft upon the other plant nutrients in the soil, particularly potash. A four-year rotation of crops yielding 50 bus. of corn, 25 bushels of wheat and 3 tons of hay per acre removes from the soil about 150 pounds of potash.

Alfalfa hay contains about 40 pounds of potash per ton; hence, if 3 tons of hay are removed annually for five years, about 600 pounds of potash are removed. No soil can stand this drain very long, says Prof. Roberts. It is not economically for a longer period it should be fertilized with a potash fertilizer along with other needed fertilizers.

No soil can continue productive unless provision is made for the return of what is removed. A farmer can easily test the need for potash by applying a quart of sulfate of potash at the rate of 100 pounds per acre on a small plot that has been treated with phosphate and comparing it with a small plot that has been treated with phosphate only.

A farmer can easily test the need for potash by applying a quart of sulfate of potash at the rate of 100 pounds per acre on a small plot that has been treated with phosphate and comparing it with a small plot that has been treated with phosphate only.

Alfalfa hay contains about 40 pounds of potash per ton; hence, if 3 tons of hay are removed annually for five years, about 600 pounds of potash are removed. No soil can stand this drain very long, says Prof. Roberts. It is not economically for a longer period it should be fertilized with a potash fertilizer along with other needed fertilizers.

grass they will need no mineral supplement. In Kentucky, practically all the mineral supplements ever needed are calcium and phosphorus. When needed or when the feeder is not sure his feeds contain as much of these two minerals as his livestock require, ground limestone can be kept before in a self-feeder or steamed bone meal or both. If the animals need the supplements they will eat it.

Grains are rich in phosphorus and legume hay is rich in calcium. If both are fed no supplement is needed. Grain and grass hay require a calcium supplement. Grain alone requires a calcium and phosphorus supplement.

Distillery slop is low in carbohydrates and calcium and rich in phosphorus and protein. Alfalfa or legume hay will supply the deficiency of calcium but there is danger of the animals getting too much protein as the legumes are rich in protein as well as in calcium and phosphorus. Feeding trials have shown that the best results are obtained in feeding distillery slop to cattle, by giving the animals access to finely ground limestone and by feeding a grain to supplement the carbohydrates of the mash. Thousand-pound steers will eat two to three ounces of ground limestone per day.

When buying a new refrigerator be sure of plenty of space. Crowded boxes mean poor refrigeration.

Packed from top to bottom there will not be enough room for circulation of cold air around food. See how much space for a reserve supply of butter, eggs and cream. Buy from dealer who stands back of his refrigerator and allows you to try it for serving. Two inches of good insulation is necessary, without stopping, long legs on box in order to clean easily under it, shelves that are strong, rust-proof and removable. Keep dishes covered and use oil-soaked bags for cheese, fish or vegetables.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Vegetable Ring with Noodles: Combine 1/2 cup diced celery, 1 cup shredded raw carrot, 1 cup minced onion, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 2 eggs, slightly beaten. Salt and pepper. Bake in moderate oven in buttered ring mold. Cook 6 ounces egg noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and serve in middle of vegetable ring. Use cheese or tomato sauce with this dish.

JOB SEEKERS SHOULD BE DISCOURAGED FROM GOING TO ALASKA

Frankfort, Ky., June 28—Job seekers should be discouraged from going to Alaska in search of work unless they have sufficient money to meet their needs until work may be found, or to pay return transportation if work cannot be found, according to information received from the Territorial Employment Service by W. H. Frasure, State Employment Service Director.

As a result of recent publicity given to proposed construction of Army and Navy Air Bases at Fairbanks, Sitka and Kodiak, the Alaska Territorial Employment Service is receiving numerous inquiries regarding work opportunities. According to the Alaskan Territorial Employment Service Director, the Territory itself is experiencing a serious unemployment problem, causing suffering to many who have been misled as to labor conditions within the Territory.

Mrs. Frasure pointed out that Kentuckians contemplating seeking work in the Territory should investigate thoroughly both labor conditions and living conditions in Alaska before going there.

CHARITY RACING DAY AT LATONIA TRACK MONDAY

Some of America's finest horses will race for charity at the Latonia Ky., Race Track on Monday, July 10th. The occasion has been designated Charity Racing Day, and a tri-county civic committee has been organized to make it a day of joint racing officials in promising that it will be "the greatest racing event of the year." The best racing card and largest purse of the Latonia race meeting are assured. The purse in the feature event will be $3,000-$500 better than any other purse to be offered at the meet.

The Latonia Jockey Club is turning over its entire racing plant for the day to the civic committee. The entire proceeds will be divided among the Community Chest of Cincinnati and the charities of Campbell and Kenton counties, Kentucky. The entire staff of Latonia, including executives and track employees, have volunteered to donate their services, and the concessionaires have agreed to turn over 15 per cent of their gross revenues. The charities will receive not only the gate receipts, but also the entire returns from the pari-mutuels.

Charity Racing Day will not only be a great civic and sporting event, but also participate in a measure of a great social occasion. Governor and Mrs. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, and Governor and Mrs. "Happy" Chandler, of Kentucky, are among the distinguished men and women who have already arranged to be present.

The daily newspaper of Cincinnati have undertaken the sponsorship of the event. William F. Wiley, publisher of the Enquirer, is general chairman; and Hubert Taft, editor and publisher of The Times-Star; Carl D. Groat, editor of The Post; and the sports editors of the three papers, Robert W. Saxton, Enquirer; Joseph Aston, Post; and Nixon Denton, Times-Star, are serving actively on the Executive Committee.

Other members of the Executive Committee are Mayor James G. Stewart, of Cincinnati; Mayor H. A. Knudman, of Covington, Ky.; Mayor Joseph Herman and City Manager J. B. Morledge, of Newport; Judge Otis R. Hess, Timothy S. Goodman, and Donald McDonald, the latter serving as associate chairman.

Under the leadership of Judge Hess, chairman of the ticket committee, civic, social, service, veterans, fraternal and labor organizations are cooperating in the sale of tickets.

There will be a 25 per cent reduction on tickets bought in advance. The first 50,000 tickets will be sold at 75 cents, and the 50,000 tickets at $1.50. Orders may be sent to the committee headquarters, 617-A Vine St., Cincinnati. Checks or money orders should be made out to Charity Racing Day Committee.

Charity Racing Day at Latonia is the outcome of a pledge made by the Latonia Jockey Club during the 1939 Community Chest campaign, in April. Instead of contributing a stated sum, the Club agreed to give the gross receipts from one day of racing to be divided among the Cincinnati Community Chest and the charities of Northern Kentucky. The more that is taken in at Latonia on Monday, July 10, therefore, the more will be available to meet the needs of needy children of Hamilton County, Ohio, and Kenton and Campbell Counties, Kentucky.

What Every Driver Should Know

A series of articles taken from the Motor Vehicle Operator's Manual will be carried in this column each week until the complete issue has been completed:

Learning to Drive

The examination for new drivers is easy if you have learned what you should but do not expect to do this without some hard work. A few pointers on learning to drive are:

1. Learn the rules thoroughly from the Motor Vehicle Operator's Manual or from the articles to follow in this column and follow them carefully in practicing driving. Do not pick up the rules by watching other drivers, because many of them have bad driving habits.

2. Secure someone to teach you to drive who carries a valid operator's license who has had accidents and will stick by you until you can pass any required examination. Besides the driver who is teaching you, there should be no one else in the car while you are learning to drive. It makes it harder for you to think about what you are doing and there is somebody else to be hurt in the case of an accident.

3. Practice each step in learning to drive until you get it perfectly. Begin with starting and shifting; then learn to make the car stop smoothly exactly where you want it to; steering and turning corners come next. Do not quit until you can easily steer a car going backwards, park between two cars at the curb, start on a hill without rolling back, and turn around by backing. Practice first where there are few other cars, but do not let your teacher leave you until you have had experience in heavy traffic. Spend most of your time making smooth stops and starts and perfect right and left turns, rather than the practice first on the straight open highway.

4. Do not be content with just half-way learning to drive. Stick to it until you are better than average—until you are one of those persons who just naturally set an example of good driving on the streets and highways.

Next week we will carry the examination for an operator's license.

THE GARDEN

"SECOND CROP" POTATOES
By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Originally, the name "second crop" was made to mean a late crop of potatoes grown where an early one was produced in the same year. Because of increasing shortage of stable manure with which to keep the land in condition and because of the encroachment of disease, the practice was abandoned, but the term persists, applied to late summer planted Irish Cobblers and Bliss Triumphs, and frequently of other varieties. The seed used is kept in planting condition by keeping it on cold storage.

For the most part, "second crop" potatoes are grown for seed. In fact, it is doubtful whether such potatoes can economically be used as table stock. The seed is necessarily expensive, and the yields are generally far below those from spring crops. However, it is good economy on the part of Kentuckians so to produce their seed potatoes for spring planting, for the bushel cost is less than the price of almost any kind of seed, and if certified seed has been used, the quality of the seed that results is better than much of that offered for sale; in effect, it is certified seed.

In Kentucky, planting time lies between July 15 and August 1, depending on the latitude. As this is usually a dry time, the land-fitting procedure must be such as to conserve moisture.

The seed should be cut 15 to 20 percent larger than for spring planting, and the cut surfaces should be healed over, to seal in the moisture needed to drive the sprouts to the soil surface. The way to effect this healing is to plant the cut seed in fairly tight containers in a cool place, and change it to others each 24 hours, for three days, after which a moisture-proof "skin" will be found to have formed. When the first sign of sprouting is seen, usually within a week the seed should be planted. To guard against scab and scurf, all seed should be treated, either whole, or just after healing-over has been accomplished.

Planting should be deep, for summer seed lies low. Five inches is about right. Previous to planting, fertilizer should be sown in the furrow and worked into the soil, but in such a way that it stays in the furrow bottom; thus the potatoes' roots are drawn down to the moisture and relatively cool depths.

Cultivating should be so done as to conserve moisture. That is, only shallow stirring should be done, and the surface should be left level; there should be no moisture-wasting (and labor-wasting) hills or ridges. The frequency of cultivating should be determined by the presence of weeds; excellent potatoes have grown, with no cultivation, beyond drawing soil to the rows to close cracks the growing tubers made.

The main pest is the leaf-hopper, a sucking insect. Sometimes the blight comes, but its control is to spray with Bordeaux mixture, which is added tobacco extract, when and if leaf-hoppers are present. In normal seasons, and if precaution is taken to control pests, "second crop" vines stay green until the first "black" frost bites them down. The potatoes are dug from 10 days to two weeks after, when the skins have become tough enough not to "feather."

There aren't as many women changing the color of their hair as they used to do. But this doesn't hold good when referring to the changing of husbands.

MEETINGS REVEAL

A series of meetings dealing with sheep raising, held over the state by the Kentucky College of Agriculture in June, attracted more than 3500 farmers, according to Richard C. Miller of the College. Western ewes and the best types of rams to use for the production of high-quality rams were exhibited, and management, feeding and breeding problems discussed.

Interest at the meetings indicated that a normal number of ewes will be brought into the state this season if the price is not out of line, Miller said. Hampshire-cross ewes from the Northwest seem to be the favorite with the largest percentage of farmers, with second choice being good types of rams to use for the production of high-quality rams were exhibited, and management, feeding and breeding problems discussed.

Interest at the meetings indicated that a normal number of ewes will be brought into the state this season if the price is not out of line, Miller said. Hampshire-cross ewes from the Northwest seem to be the favorite with the largest percentage of farmers, with second choice being good types of rams to use for the production of high-quality rams were exhibited, and management, feeding and breeding problems discussed.

Hampshire-cross ewes purchased in the west last fall were exhibited at the meetings. About 19,000 of these ewes were brought into the state last year, and in most instances they developed into good yearling ewes. This is a plan that appeals to many farmers when the supply of Hampshire-cross yearling ewes from the Northwest is limited or the price out of line, it is explained.

Miller considers lack of good rams a serious factor in the production of strictly quality lambs. He suggests that farmers who plan to purchase ewes this year first make sure that they will be able to obtain good rams.

The majority of the better lamb producers of Kentucky have for the past several years been buying their rams at farms, so that they can see the condition of the flocks before purchase is made and thus avoid the introduction of disease into their healthy sheep thru purchased rams. This practice of enabling farmers to select rams in good breeding condition rather than have them been highly fitted for sale and show which often prove disappointing as breeders.

The week of July 17, known as

"Ram Week" in the sheep improvement programs of the College, has been set aside for the purpose of encouraging the purchase of rams, at farms and in assisting farmers in getting the right kind of rams. Tours are being arranged to flocks throughout the State where rams are available for any farmers who may be interested. The schedule of these tours now are being arranged by the College of Agriculture.

BANKS FURNISH 4-H SEED CORN

In Bell county, Kentucky, 132 4-H club boys are growing an acre of corn each from seed furnished by banks in the county. County Agent R. V. Trooper reports 300 club members growing corn; 200 growing strawberries; 250 growing vegetables, including head lettuce for the first time, and 100 are enrolled in woodcraft, poultry, swine and potato projects.

GARDEN HINT

Turnips must be thinned before beginning to form. Early turnips are round and flat. Do not grow well if crowded. If not thinned soon enough the roots begin to form the growth is checked and worms start to feed on turnips. If young plants are pulled up so they stand 4 inches apart in the row, in a quick time they will be large enough to use.

Bobby Breen's latest photoplay, "Fisherman's Wharf," is enhanced with a picturesque background, a thorough story and a supporting cast of seven of Hollywood's most capable performers. Added to this is the music of Victor Young and Franch Churchill.

The locale of the story is colorful Fisherman's Wharf of San Francisco.

also and the storybook city itself—that part of the metropolis that isn't on the map; the things of the city that guide books only hint at! The San Francisco of cable cars that whisk you up sunny terraced streets on a bell-ringing excursion over the hills. The pale blue boats of Fisherman's Wharf and the nets that are mended on Sundays and the owl-eyed sea bass that come from the nets. It is a locale that has never before been touched in celluloid. "Dodge City" in technicolor, with Errol Flynn, Olivia De Havilland, Ann Sheridan, Friday and Saturday, July 7th and 8th. From the four corners of the earth, men came to this wide-open Babylon of the West... to build, to ravage, to fight. See—in glorious technicolor, the true, epic story of America's most glamorous, most dangerous city and the man who tamed it. He rides the roaring mile that God forgot.

Capturing in vivid fashion a slice of the American scene from 1911 to 1918, "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," which will be shown at the Gayety Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, July 11 and 12th, stars Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in their most distinguished vehicle to date.

As its title indicates, the film deals with the dazzling career of the noted pre-war dancing couple and it was a happy thought to team the wing-footed Fred and Ginger in the respective roles of the Castles, for they are perfectly cast as that famous duo, and their interpretation of the Castle routines are delightful to behold.

They had danced for the supper at this same gay Cafe De Paris where they now returned famous and triumphant. The whole world had fallen in step with their Maxie, Tango, Castle Walk, Texas Tommy. They had brought beauty to the dance.

Thursday, July 13, "Gang Busters" will be shown, instead of "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle" as shown on our monthly calendar. This is an authentic feature picture showing actual scenes of G-men's war on kidnapper, holdup men, bank robbers and hoodlums. See the true lives of the following gangsters of the screen for the first time: John Dillinger, Machine Gun Kelly, Pretty Boy Floyd, Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker, Raymond Hamilton and other notorious gangsters.

PICKED UP HERE AND THERE There is one woman who carries her age well. That is Mother Earth and she is totting around a billion or more years without looking it! Twenty-four 4-H club members in Shelby county own 35 head of high-producing dairy animals.

"The Law Comes to Texas" with Bill Elliott, Veda Ann Borg, Bud Osbourne, Charles King. Tuesday, July 11th. Bill's 6-guns speak the only language bandits understand. Yankin' an outlaw off the bench in a killers' court of law.

"Return of the Cisco Kid" with Warner Baxter, Lynn Bari, Cesar Romero, Wednesday, July 12th. For the oldtimers, this show is a chip off the old block. For the newcomers to whom the "Cisco Kid" character is strange, it's something refreshingly different in the line of western romances. Has plenty of depth, romance, swing, natural comedy, surprises and sensations.

"My Son Is a Criminal," with Alan Baxter, Jacqueline Wells, Gordon Oliver, Thursday, July 13. No more terrible duty did a man ever face... than to shoot down his only son... to uphold the law. A cop who preferred to say "my son is dead" than confess "my son is a criminal."

LICE, MITES CUT EGG PRODUCTION

This is the season when lice and mites reduce egg production, unless control measures are applied.

The first thing to do, says C. E. Harris of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, is to thoroughly clean the laying house, removing all litter from the floor and all nesting materials from the nests. The nests should be soaked and new nesting material put into them after they have dried. The dropping board or pit is then cleaned and sprayed with used engine crankcase oil and kerosene mixed half and half. By mixing kerosene with the oil it will go through a sprayer and the mixture penetrates cracks and crevices where mites harbor. Mites are blood-sucking insects which get on the birds at night and hide in dark cracks and crevices in the house. The mites make it necessary that a complete job of cleaning and treating the house be done; otherwise the few mites that are left will soon reinfest the premises.

Lice, unlike mites, are biting insects and spend their entire time on the birds. They lay eggs or nits which hatch on the feathers. During warm weather these nits hatch in 7 to 10 days. Unless controlled at this season the lice become so numerous as to cause a lowering of egg production and a general unhealthy condition of the flock. Death often occurs as a result of heavy infestation of lice.

Several methods of control may be used, any one of which is satisfactory. The dust bath which is made of common road dust, or sifted coal ash, will in most cases keep the flock free of lice. If, however, there is a heavy infestation it will be necessary to treat the flock by dusting or dipping with sodium fluoride, applying an ointment to the birds or using nicotinic sulfate on the roost poles. Dusting may be done by applying as dry powder sodium fluoride, which can be secured at drug stores, to the regions at the base of the neck, under each wing, under the vent and among the fluff feathers.

Dipping should be done on a warm still day early in the morning. Each bird is dipped in a tub of luke-warm water to which one pound of sodium fluoride has been added to each ten gallons of water. A solution containing one pound of the powder is used for treating 100 to 150 birds. If nicotinic sulfate is used it should be applied to the roost poles just before roosting time. It will be necessary to repeat this treatment at 10-day intervals until it has been used three times, in order that the mites which are between the treatments will be killed. It is necessary that all birds go on the roost poles if this treatment is to be effective.

ANNUAL 4-H CLUB MEETING ATTRACTS RECORD ATTENDANCE

The 19th annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky attracted 744 4-H club boys and girls from 110 counties, and was rated as one of the most successful events of its kind ever held in the state.

The best farm practice team was furnished by Warren county, and the best home practice team was from Scott county. Other counties training blue-ribbon teams were Breathitt, Campbell, Garrard, Hickman, Hopkins and Mason. Grayson county had the champion smearing team, with McCracken second, Callaway third and Graves fourth.

In the style revue of 67 girls from as many counties, Mary L. Klein of Oldham county proved the best-dressed 4-H girl. Her club at Crestwood, Mo., furnished the winner in 1938. Best judge of clothing was Lydia Sutherland, Graves county; of foods, Charlene Burris, Bourbon county, and of room furnishings, Dorothy Parker, Franklin county.

New officers of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs, elected at Junior Week, are Gerald Schaffer, Union county, president; Dorothy Angle, Warren county, vice president, and Ollie Frances Wilson, Madison county, secretary. Brownie Bolton, Grayson county, and Francis Morgerson, Fayette county, received medals for outstanding 4-H club work.

STATE SCHOOL FOR BLIND OFFERS EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES TO CHILDREN

In Louisville, Kentucky there is located the Kentucky School for Blind where full educational opportunities are offered to visually handicapped children. The eligible for admission are boys and girls between the ages of six and eighteen who are residents of Kentucky, and who are blind or whose sight is so defective that they cannot attend public school. It is further required that they be of sound mind and good health. There is no charge for tuition, books, board or laundry.

The regular school program includes kindergarten, grade school and a full four year accredited high school course. Special instruction is given in vocal and instrumental music, industrial work, vocational occupations and physical training.

There are separate schools for white and colored children with a staff of teachers for each. The regular school term starts the second Wednesday in September and closes the second Wednesday in June, the children returning to their homes for the summer vacation.

It is the ardent wish of the Board and the Superintendent that every visually handicapped child in Kentucky take advantage of the highly specialized training. If you know of such a child kindly report the case to: Miss Catherine T. Moriarty, Superintendent, Kentucky School for Blind, Louisville, Kentucky.

MONEY AND TIME

"The most useless things Robinson Crusoe salvaged were golden coins," said an economist recently. "Money has a time utility. When it buys the things we need when we need them most, as life insurance money does, its value to us is greatest."

There, in different words, is the old, sad, familiar story to the effect that dollars are needed most when they are hardest to earn, and that the money wasted by the young man, secure at the height of his earning power, is usually beyond the frail reach of the old. No one knows how many people life insurance has saved from a dependent old age, but their name is legion. They are happy ones of this earth, who thought ahead.

People are somewhat like pins—no use to anybody when they lose their heads.

ROAD SURVEY TO BE MADE SOON

FOR ROAD FROM BURLINGTON TO UNION—CONTRACT FOR PETERSBURG-BELLEVUE ROAD DELAYED.

An order was approved by the State Highway Commissioner last Saturday, July 8th for a survey to be made on the Burlington-Union Road in Boone County. The order reads as follows:

It is hereby directed that a survey be made on the Burlington-Union Road in Boone County, beginning at Burlington and extending in a southeasterly direction to the junction with U. S. 42 near Union, a distance of approximately 5 1/2 miles.

This is a very important project and one that will be of great benefit to all sections of the county. It is believed that traffic will be materially increased through Burlington and Union, due to the fact that many miles will be saved by motorists traveling from and to Indiana. Property owners in the southern part of the county would also be greatly benefited by this route, saving them many miles when visiting the county seat.

Letting of bids for grade and drain construction of Petersburg-Bellevue Road, was delayed on account of the failure of the Bridge Department to have plans and specifications ready for the Woolper bridge which will be a rather elaborate and expensive structure, according to O. M. Rogers, Advisory Commissioner of the Fifth District.

This project was included in the tentative list for letting on the 28th, but when it was found that the Bridge Department was behind with its plans for this bridge, it had to be eliminated, Mr. Rogers said. "I have the assurance, however, that these plans will be completed in a few days and that we will be given a special letting for this project or it will be included in the next regular letting," Mr. Rogers said.

Those interested in the Petersburg-Bellevue project may rest assured that this road will be let and completed this year.

Constance Defeats Burlington Nine

The Constance Hill Toppers defeated the Burlington baseball team Sunday on the Constance grounds by the count of 3 to 2. Atkins was on the mound for the Burlington boys allowing seven hits and striking out three. Porter received his slants. Bud Goodridge was on the mound for Constance and Johnny Moore and Norris Riddle was behind the plate. Goodridge struck out eleven and gave up but five hits.

The game was well played and interesting from start to finish. Both teams failed to score several times in the pinches.

Next Sunday Constance plays Florence at the Constance park. This promises to be a good game. The Florence team is composed of good ball players, and the Constance team is improving.

Mrs. Sammie Ryle and son, of Burlington spent Sunday with Mrs. Maggie Easton and daughter.

FAIR SCHEDULED FOR AUGUST 26

SPECIAL MUSIC, GAMES, CONTESTS AND EXHIBITS WILL BE FEATURES OF FAIR THIS YEAR.

The Boone County 4-H and Utopia Club Council is exerting every effort to make the 1939 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair the best on record, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Four hundred and eighty-five 4-H club members, forty-nine adult leaders, 60 Utopia club members, parents and friends are rendering full support in the preparation for the event.

August 26th has been set as the date for the fair and County picnic. Special music, games, contests and exhibits of interest to all will be conducted throughout the day.

Everybody interested in a big round-up of Boone County people from far and wide is invited to attend.

Bob And Gene Nine Trounce Pepsi-Colas Sunday 2-1

Bob and Gene scored another victory Sunday when they defeated the Pepsi-Cola nine by a score of 2 to 1. This was a very interesting game from start to finish, the game being tied one-all until the eighth inning, when Bob Williams connected for a double, scoring Rags Ryle with the winning run.

Mutt Rogers saved the day for Bob and Gene when he made a sensational catch on third base, holding the visitors to one run.

Williams, R. Bradburn and R. Ryle, collected 2 hits each.

The batteries were Elmo Steffen on the mound and Rags Ryle behind the plate for Bob and Gene, with Roy James on the mound and Blitzer on the receiving end for the visitors.

Elmo Steffen hurled a very nice game, retiring nine men by the strike-out route and allowing only 7 scattered hits. Eleven hits were collected off Roy James.

Next Sunday the elimination series will start. Manager Bob Eades informs us that the drawing will be held Wednesday night to determine which team they will play. However, the game will be played at Crescent Springs.

Idlewild Man Seriously Ill

Chester Davis, of Idlewild, is reported to be in a very critical condition at his home. Mr. Davis is a retired bank president, having formerly been president of the Citizens Bank, Erlanger.

406 BOONE FARMS CHECKED FOR ACP

BENEFITS DURING PAST TWO WEEKS—JOB EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED WITHIN NEXT THREE WEEKS

Two hundred and forty farms were checked by Agricultural Conservation Program field supervisors for 1939 benefits the past week, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. One hundred and sixty-six farms were checked the previous week, bringing the total to 406 farms to date.

The field checking is progressing rapidly with splendid cooperation being shown by farmers. The entire job of field checking is expected to be completed in about three weeks.

The largest benefits farmers will derive from the 1939 program are for the seedlings of grass and legume crops, turning under of green manure crops and the use of limestone and phosphate.

Orders are now being taken by the County Office and field supervisors for the delivery of 47 per cent TVA phosphate supplied by the Agricultural Conservation Program in lieu of cash payments for use on soil-conserving crops. Orders received during the next three weeks according to present information can be filled in the near future. Farmers anticipating use of phosphate this fall should order now.

Former Boone Resident Succumbs In California

The remains of Clara Grant Curry were brought from California to Petersburg, arriving at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday for burial in the family cemetery. She was the oldest child of J. Frank and Linnie Grant, being born in Petersburg and resided there for a number of years. She had a large number of relatives in Boone County.

John Y. Brown To Address Voters Of Covington July 14

John Y. Brown candidate for governor will address the voters of Covington Friday evening, July 14, at 8:45 p. m. (E. S. T.) His address will be delivered at Seventh St., between Madison and Washington, according to Leonard Cook, Boone County Chairman "for Brown." The speech will be broadcast over WCKY.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McBee and son and Mr. and Mrs. George Porter spent one evening last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cotton, of Owenton.

FIRE DEPT. TO GIVE PICNIC

AT FLORENCE FAIR GROUNDS JULY 24TH—NEW PUMPER WILL BE ON GROUNDS DAY OF PICNIC.

The Florence Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor a picnic on Saturday, July 29th at the old Florence Fair Ground, according to Chief Al Hue.

A new pumper has been ordered by the department and will be ready for delivery on July 22nd. Mr. Hue said. The new pumper will be on display at the ground on day of the picnic.

Various churches in the community will take part in the afternoon and evening entertainment. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this picnic.

The Florence Volunteer Fire Department has made much progress during the past year, and has been very beneficial to Florence and surrounding territory. The department has made many runs to various fires during the past year and given very assistance possible in the prevention of fires.

Ralph Gilbert Is Visitor Here Thurs.

Ralph Gilbert, democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor was calling on the voters of Burlington Thursday of last week.

Mr. Gilbert is a resident of Shelbyville. For the past several years he has been active in state politics.

Mr. Gilbert has served as County Judge of Shelby County served in Congress 10 years, 2 terms in the State Legislature, was floor leader of the Senate until March of 1938.

In previous campaigns for the various offices held by Mr. Gilbert he has carried every county with the exception of the county in which his opponent resides. He devoted much time to farm legislation, and led a fight in the legislature to lower taxes on real estate.

Gallatin Man Tried Here Monday Afternoon

Wm. Hensley, of Gallatin County was tried before Judge Riddle Monday. Hensley was charged with using insulting, abusive and vulgar language to Mrs. Allen Morris. The jury after hearing the evidence, and deliberating failed to find a verdict and the case was continued.

REA ALLOTMENT EXPECTED SOON

PROJECT READY FOR APPROVAL, ACCORDING TO REA REPRESENTATIVE—376 BOONE COUNTIANS SIGNED UP.

The Boone, and Campbell County REA allotment for the construction of approximately 220 miles of line will be made in the next two weeks, according to the Washington representative in a conference of the County Agents and the manager of the Owen County Association at Independence on last Thursday, July 6th.

The REA representative advised the project was ready for approval and plans for construction of lines could be made a short time after receiving the allotment. He further advised that the funds of the new fiscal year would allow for considerable extensions of the proposed lines, and recommended that these additional lines be worked up as soon as possible after construction of the proposed lines is under way.

There are 376 Boone County farmers signed up for electricity on the proposed 119 miles of line. Membership applications have been signed on approximately 50 more miles of line but sufficient number of applications to average 3 per mile were not available when the present project was submitted.

SERIOUS BUSINESS
With the many fish stories flooding local markets and waters giving too much advice on how to catch them, we pause to give more serious thought to the subject. There are lots of inhabitants of Boone county who fish merely for the sport of the thing. Others because a catch means cutting down on the grocery bill.

The reason the first humans made this fishing of streams and lakes was not for the sport but because it was an important item of food. Pounds of fish mean a satisfied appetite and not an enterprising story. It was a serious business with primitive man and it seems he did not have the difficulty in getting them. He used various methods of fishing, with hook and line, spears, fancy fishing was to come later on. But as we remember the necessity of getting food provided in early days, so today we find families where it is a serious business. In many instances the streams afford the family without a job, a dinner of mighty good eating. In homes like these the fish on the table comes higher than the stories of how the big ones got away.

ROAMING FARMERS
In California there are too many wandering folks from dispossessed farms and from dust bowls, who go from farm to farm helping in the harvesting of crops. It is estimated that about 250,000 of these folks are spending a few days at each job trying to make a living as they go from each place. It is a grave problem and one not easily solved. There are bands of these wanderers living in miserable conditions. It is interesting to learn that a former circus employee now working for the government, has planned a series of moving camps which follow the farmer worker as he follows the crops. Eight trucks carry tents, floors, laundry and shower rooms. There have been 14 permanent camps established with wooden floors set up in rows to be used for

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

OF WHAT CAN A MAN BE PROUD?

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON, a gentle and a good man, asked, in dedicating one of his books to a friend, a question which has but one answer. He asked: "Of what can a man be proud if not of his friends?" Friendship is the finest thing in human experience, but it is not confined to the narrow limits of one person to another person.

There are friendships of different kinds. For example, there are the friendships of business, and they are surely the finest part of business. Just as a man values his personal friends above almost everything else in life, so does a business value its business friendships.

The way a business wins friends is the way that an individual wins them: by deserving them. First the business must give its friends value for their money. Second it must keep its word. Third it must not neglect them, else they will leave.

"Friendship," said wise and candid old Doctor Samuel Johnson, "must be kept in repair."

Merchants and manufacturers, realizing this, keep their friendships in repair by going out of the way to give value and service and also by protecting them for their regard for their friends on frequent occasions.

The form of these proclamations is advertising, which appears in the newspaper and tells of the values being offered, of the service available and of reasons why you can become and remain their customers to your profit and satisfaction.

Businessmen who advertise realize that friendship is a pleasure and that it is also a responsibility. Whenever a business man advertises it is a sign that he is seeking the friendship of persons and that he is willing to assume the responsibility of being a good friend.

His advertising is a warranty that he will do his best to be worthy of his friend's confidence by providing the best and the most economical goods. You can't keep friends if you cheat or overcharge.

His advertising is a proof that he values their friendship and intends to be worthy of it. You can't keep friends unless you are willing to live up to your highest ideals, not only for the present, but also for the future.

The advertising in the newspaper is much more than so many commercial announcements. It is an overture toward friendship. It is a man or a product which means to be worthy of your friendship.

Charles B. Roth.

There have been about fifty families who have established homes here, each with a plot of ground on which to build a home. It is a sad situation and the man in Boone county who befriends his lot, disregards his plot, sighs over conditions and ignores his own advantages and takes his place in the sun for granted, that man should consider the wandering family who live day to day with a prayer for existence.

GETTING IT SOFT
These methods for relieving man's work! Look at these rubber tires on lawn mowers and wheelbarrows, for instance. There is many a home where papa or sonny isn't doing a good job and keeping busy if Mother can't hear the machine going. It is hard to convince her if she doesn't get the idea. It was a serious business with primitive man and it seems he did not have the difficulty in getting them. He used various methods of fishing, with hook and line, spears, fancy fishing was to come later on. But as we remember the necessity of getting food provided in early days, so today we find families where it is a serious business. LOTS OF PAPER
We always seem to be alluding to the King and Queen of England, these days. There is usually news about them popping up. No we learn that the King George subscribes to $1,700 worth of newspapers a year. What a lot of paper that would be! In anybody's home, but when you consider that there are a lot of shelves and cupboards, dresser and kitchen drawers to be lined in places where their Majesties call home, it might not be too much paper. Queen Elizabeth wouldn't have to tell papers from her neighbors when she stored the wollens away, (they say moths don't like newspaper). Think of the funnies in $1,700 worth of newspaper. Almost too many laughs to be appreciated. And housework would suffer in order to give way to the continued stories. You would really be a well-read citizen if you subscribed to these papers, and read them. There are some folks in Boone County who scarcely find time to read this note.

NOT UNUSUAL
We read the other day about twins who finished school this year with identical grades in various subjects. Seems this shows they not only look alike, they think alike. It recalls to mind the days when the fellow who sat back of us in school wasn't our twin but he usually got the same grades. There are a number of oldsters here in Boone county who can tell you of like cases where minds worked identically in algebra and history topics. Of course with the popular use of the honor system today there isn't so much of this "thinking alike." But whether you were the fellow in back that needed the assistance of the one in front who gave it, you were carrying out a "good neighbor" policy that was to come into vogue later on.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

REHOBAM: A MAN WHO MADE A FOOLISH CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 12:14, 12:17, 20. GOLDEN TEXT—A man's pride shall bring him low.—Proverbs 29:23.

"He did evil because he prepared not his heart to seek the Lord"—this is the divine epitome of the life of Rehoboam as given in II Chronicles 12:12.

Life is full of choices, and the decisions we make determine our destiny both in this life and in the life to come. Since the great issues of our life may hinge on the simplest of choices, it is obvious that we need guidance at every point and in every moment of life. The counsel of men, the right impulses which are born of good breeding, the light of knowledge—all these may help us to make right choices. But since there is only one who has all the knowledge, who can see the end from the beginning, who has all the power to make His decisions effective, it is obviously folly of the highest degree to do without His holy guidance, especially since God is willing to give it without money and without price even to the humblest believer.

Men and women, let us not follow the foolishness of Rehoboam. Let us seek first God's kingdom and His righteousness, and then we are assured that everything else shall be added unto us (Matt. 6:33).

The picture before us is astonishingly up-to-date. People were crying for relief from tax burdens. One group of leaders counseled moderation; another group, said in effect, tax them all you can and keep on spending. Taking him in a monarchy had the final decision in his power, replied to the plea of the people with the 900 B. C. equivalent of our modern slang expression, "Oh, yes! God! Let the ten tribes promptly revolt."

I. A Reasonable Request (vv. 1-5).
Governments exist for the people, not the people for the government. Political leaders seem to forget this axiom, and begin rule as though they need not listen to the reasonable pleas of the people. Tax burdens rise, regimentation of the life of the nation takes place, and soon or later the people rise to overthrow the government. It happened in Rome, it has happened in the French Revolution, it is happening in the case of Russia, it can and will happen anywhere if men who rule do not listen to reason.

Rehoboam made at least one wise decision—to wait three days before speaking and to seek counsel. He needed advice, for he had been brought up in the palace of Solomon, without proper training for his place as king, he was quite unable to make immediate answer to their request. Incidentally, we note that much of the folly of Rehoboam is chargeable to the neglect of his father to rear him properly. May that terrible thing never be said about you and me regarding our children.

II. An Unreasonable Refusal (vv. 12-15).
The picture of the two groups of advisers is a most graphic one and should afford the teacher an excellent opportunity to show young people especially, how important it is to heed the counsel of their elders. Even so youth stands today at the fork of the road. Let us in all kindness, love, and tact seek to help them choose the right way.

III. The Inevitable Revolt (vv. 16, 17, 20).
The people, long submissive and apparently servile, ultimately come to the point where they rebel. When they do, dictatorial rulers tumble from their self-made thrones. Would that the people of the earth realized the power which they have and that they use it for the glory of God. Rehoboam felt the power of the people who revolted, others have followed him. For it is still true in the world that the rulers "do evil" because "they prepare not their hearts to seek the Lord."

Rehoboam, who had awaited the arrival of this crucial hour in anticipation of taking his place as the king of the ten tribes, was ready, and was at once chosen as the leader of those who withdrew from the rule of the house of David. Rehoboam's sin brought this about, but it was also in the councils of God (v. 15). As Alexander Maclaren expresses it, "... the historian draws back the curtain. On earth stand the insolent king and mutinous people, each driving at their ends, and neither free of sin and selfishness. A stormy sea of people, without thought of God, surges below, and above sits the Lord, working His great purpose by men's sin. That divine control does not in the least affect the freedom or the responsibility of the actors. Rehoboam's disregard of the people's terms was 'a thing brought about of the Lord,' but it was Rehoboam's sin none the less."

SWINE ERYSIPELAS

FOUND IN KENTUCKY

The identification of two cases of swine erysipelas is announced by the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. This is believed to be the first time that the organism of this comparatively rare disease of hogs has been isolated and identified in Kentucky.

Swine erysipelas was found in the United States as early as 1882, and cases have been reported in Kentucky before, but never positively identified.

Three forms of swine erysipelas occur, the acute, the sub-acute and the chronic. The most common of these are the sub-acute and the chronic, with the sub-acute usually producing an endocarditis and heart valve lesions. The chronic form of the disease is manifested by skin lesions (diamond skin disease) and by joint swellings.

If the sick pigs are treated in the early stages of the disease with immune serum they can be saved. Vaccination is also effective in some cases.

The fact that man is subject to wound infections caused by this organism makes the disease doubly dangerous. Erysipeld is the name applied to the infection in man and differs from true erysipelas which is caused by another form of bacteria.

Other animals, such as sheep, turkeys and mice, are subject to the same infection with this group of bacteria.

John Holt has a good growth of rye on his Ballard county farm, seeded in old lespezea sod.

HOMEMAKERS CAMPS
RULE AGAINST MEN

Kentucky's 12,000 homemakers' club members will have the opportunity of attending any one of five district camps to be held during July and August. Music, recreation, swimming, weaving and plenty of opportunity for rest and fun will be given the homemakers.

The Mountain camp will be held the week of July 10 at the Experimental Substation at Quicksand. The North-Central camp is scheduled to be at Camp Kavanaugh at Crestwood, the week of July 17. The Purchase camp comes at Columbus State Park the week of July 24 and the South-Central camp will be the week of August 1 at the Sulphur Well Hotel. The week of August 7 the Pennyroyal camp will be held at the Daviess county high school at Owensboro.

With a strict "No admittance for men" rule, homemakers are assured of a week during which they can forget the cares and duties of home. This is said to serve the same purpose a business man's annual fishing trip does for him, and to make for a happier home life the remainder of the year.

Several county camps will be held in addition to the district camps.

Men of the Mounted

"SOAPY SMITH" CHANGES HIS MIND

A MORE notorious political racketeer never lived than "Soapy" Smith. For years he and his gangsters did just as they pleased up and down the west coast, and when "Soapy" decided to quit the Yukon during the historically famous gold rush, he took most of his gang of ruffians, cut-throats and robbers with him. Almost overnight "Soapy" gained complete control of Skagway, and soon the town was wide open multiplied by ten.

Skagway's streets became battlefields where provoked and unprovoked gunfights occurred daily. Some of "Soapy's" ruffians robbed and plundered outgoing, well-heeled goldrushers and incoming goldseekers alike. At night, raucous voices singing lewd and filthy songs were augmented by cries of "murder" from the street. Might was right in every sense of the word, meanwhile all sorts of gyp-artists, card sharps, confidence men, and shell-game crooks robbed and plundered right and left, keeping out of trouble because "Soapy," the Big Boss, had arranged the police and judiciary to suit himself.

"Soapy" and his lieutenants planned and executed hundreds of robberies and swindling schemes, growing richer and more powerful while the while. Then came news the Northwest Mounted Police were about to escort about $200,000 in notes and gold from Lake Bennett post, to Victoria, British Columbia, via the port at Skagway. Surely this was too juicy a plum for "Soapy" and his gang to miss. Moreover, up to this time, both "Soapy" and his henchmen had balked at any "job" that might make them step into Canadian territory. Even the reputedly daring "Soapy" entertained a healthy respect for the Men of the Mounted.

Here was a job they could pull right on American soil where, by rights, the Men of the Mounted had no business. And so "Soapy" and his brain-trust sat down and schemed, planned and arranged for every emergency. This was to be the job of the decade. "Soapy" organized an army of 100 well-armed men, engaged boats, and planned some of the most daring robberies of the decade. The Men of the Mounted, in and two constables.

personnel, and the $200,000.

After many anxious miles during which the three Men of the Mounted followed the Skagway trail, and nodded the fine day with furtive, eyed glances who were evidently "Soapy's" scouts, Inspector Wood and his men arrived at Dyea where they immediately boarded a waiting rowboat and were soon rowing up the Skeena bay. Halfway across several well-armed men in a rather large rowboat manned by half a dozen stout-muscled oarsmen, did their best to intimidate the Northwest Mounted and made several attempts to bring the two boats into a collision. Inspector Wood, handling the steering oar, warned the ruffians to keep their distance or he would fire upon them, and, thus arguing back and forth, the two boats finally crossed the bay without any shootings or drownings. Upon arrival at the wharf, however, Inspector Wood and his men received a rough and tumble reception from almost a hundred ruffians lined up and ready for the big robbery. As the Men of the Mounted stepped to the wharf, carrying their $200,000 they were tripped and jostled and pushed about hither and yon as they tried to make their way toward a small steamer that lay alongside awaiting their coming. Kicked and pushed and tripped and otherwise held up and delayed, things began to look really serious. The great robbery was imminent. And then, just when it seemed that the Men of the Mounted were about to be smothered by the mob, the captain aboard the steamer tooted the vessel's horn, and instantly a score of armed members of the Royal naval reserve were over the side and down among "Soapy's" gang. In no time the Men of the Mounted and their $200,000 were snatched from the mob and were aboard the steamer.

"Soapy" Smith, surrounded by at least a score of his most trusted gunmen had witnessed the whole show from the deck of a tug that was "treading water" nearby. Although he had seen his best plans go haywire, he was still smiling and sneering, when he opened up conversation with Inspector Wood.

"Like ter have yer stay 'round Skagway a day or two, 'Spector," said "Soapy," "it's a mighty nice 'pin have any'ting yer want? Name it, an' it's yores. How 'bout it, 'Spector?" "Thank you, Mr. Smith," the inspector replied, coolly, "but I must be about my business. I'd advise you to keep off Canadian territory in the future, as you have done, so very well, in the past. Good afternoon, sir."

Knights might have been bold in days of old, but look at how much armour they wore to give them this feeling of security! "Everything may stop on your auto," remarked a young man recently, "but the payments seem to go on forever."

WESTERN FARMERS TO MEET AT PRINCETON

Special sessions for women; for farmers interested in crops and livestock, and for fruit growers, will feature the annual meeting at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton July 28. Homemakers will discuss their problems during the morning, while the men are considering soils and crops and inspecting peach and apple orchards and berry plantings.

The afternoon program will include a discussion of pastures, visits to the poultry and dairy plants, and inspection of soils, crops and pasture experiments. Fruit growers will hear about orchard management, strawberry growing, and State Fair exhibits.

URGES MOWING

PASTURE WEEDS

An appeal for the mowing of weeds in pastures is made by Dr. E. N. Fergus of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. If not mowed, weeds may damage grass, and even crowd it out, he says, leaving bare spots to wash. If there are many weeds and a big growth, it may be necessary to rake them after they are mowed, in order that the young grass may grow properly. Also, in some parts of the state, bushes must be cut every year, or they will materially injure the grass. Dr. Fergus also cautions against over-grazing of pastures, especially when there is insufficient rainfall.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Owen county farmers are making plentiful use of phosphate this year, increasing by one-third last year's amount.

Conway Bros., Carroll county, sold 15 lambs for $12.25 per cwt., and with an average weight of 78 pounds at an early age.

Three demonstrations of contour rows of cotton and corn were staged in Hickman county last month, for J. L. Craig, E. C. Wayne Sr., and William Shaw.

Compelled by poor plant beds to set tobacco late, Johnson county farmers used nitrate of soda to boost growth.

Eight to 10 varieties of corn are being tried in tests by Utopia club members in Marion county.

With 500 homes to be served by the rural electrification program, many labor-saving devices have been installed in Jackson county. Thirty Green county farmers are using small amounts of hybrid seed corn this year.

George B. Day, Spencer county, sold 25 110-pound spring lambs for top market prices.

W. V. Tarter and C. J. Tarter, Russell county, picked 200 crates per acre of strawberries, by applying phosphate heavily to the land.
